WRITER'S GROUP

The Writer's Group will meet at noon on Aug. 1 at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 Clinton St.

AUG. 2
EARL YOUNG PROGRAM

"The Life and Works of Earl Young, Charlevoix's Builder in Stone, Parts 1 and 2"

The Charlevoix Historical Society and the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library are co-sponsoring a two-part illustrated program on the life and works of Charlevoix's master builder Earl Young.

Young arrived in town as a boy in the late 1890s. Beginning in 1921, he erected around 30 unique buildings, almost all in stone, that have served as a signature image of Charlevoix around the world.

The programs will be narrated by Harsha House Museum co-director David L. Miles. Part 1 will focus on his early life and the 22 residential structures found in Boulder Park and on Park Avenue and Grant Streets, with particular attention to Boulder Manor and the Mushroom House. The program will be presented at 7 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 2 in the community room at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 Clinton St.

Part 2 will focus on the Weathervane Inn restaurant, The Lodge and Weathervane Terrace motels, his final three houses on Round Lake, his design philosophy, unorthodox design methods and legacy. Particular attention will be paid to the near loss of the Weathervane Inn in the early 1970s when it came close to sliding into the channel. This program will be presented at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 9 also at the library.

For more information, call (231) 547-0373. There is no admission charge. Light refreshments will be served.

AUG. 2

Local artists work magic en plein air

Plein air painter Gary Eisenberg works on his landscape of boulders, water and the Charlevoix lighthouse in the medium of pastel. Eisenberg has been an amateur artist for more than 20 years.

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The birds chirped, the sun shone and Lake Michigan sent gentle waves shoreward near the Boulder Park subdivision as a small group of amateur artists began the first of what they hope will be many outdoor work sessions.

Plein air (pronounced plen air) means literally "open air" and is a style that Barbara Eisenberg, a local artist and founder of the new plein air group in Charlevoix, said can be experienced with any medium, from charcoal and pen drawings to water color or acrylics.

"It was a movement of many French painters, particularly at the end of the 19th century, who were breaking with many conventions," she said. "Impressionism is probably the first style of painting these painters did outdoors, use of light and color were their main themes in their interpretation of the landscape."

She added, "Up until this time, painters conventionally painted in their studios. Even if they made a sketch of their subject outdoors, they would then take it into the studio and paint there. This (plein air) was a whole new way of painting."

Well known plein air artists include Claude Monet, Vincent Van Gogh and Camille Pissarro who painted everything from simple landscapes to people laboring at everyday tasks like hanging laundry.,

Barbara's husband, Gary Eisenberg, said, while he loves to paint, he isn't trying to make any important social commentary like some of the greats before him.

"I'm just a lawyer who loves to paint as much as I love to practice law," said the 20-plus-years painter as he worked to brighten the sky

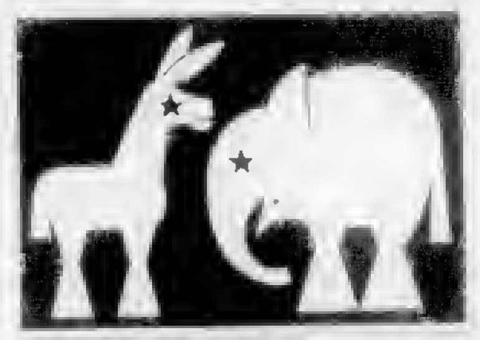
Kusina, Eveleigh move on to general election Nov. 6



ELECTION 2007

Mary Eveleigh

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix City Council First Ward candidates Dennis Kusina and Mary Eveleigh will be on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

Dennis Kusina

"I want to thank the people that voted for me," Kusina said. "I want to wish Mary well and I want to tell John that he did a good job trying. On to the finals."

Eveleigh did not return phone calls by press time.

Of approximately 832 registered voters in the First Ward, 88 voted in the Aug. 7 primary election. The two candidates with the highest votes will continue, in this case they are Kusina and Eveleigh. Kusina received 42 votes, Eveleigh, 33 and McNabb, 13.

McNabb, who will not be continuing on to the general election, said he would absolutely run again if given the chance.

"I'm going to participate one way or another," he said.

Depending on who voters pick at the Nov. 6 election, on Nov. 19 either Kusina or Eveleigh will take the seat of outgoing First Ward councilman Bob Timms.

The Nov. 6 election will also decide Second and Third Ward seats as well as that of the city clerk.

Competing for the Second Ward seat being vacated by Eugene Beer are Kim Vanmeter and Douglas (DJ) Way Jr. Vying for outgoing council member Shirley Gibson's Third Ward seat are Jill Picha and John Elzinga. City clerk Carol Ochs is currently running unopposed.

The names on the November ballot won't necessarily reflect who will be clerk, or first, second and third ward council members. Write-in candidates can file their intention to run with Ochs, until 4 p.m. on Oct. 26.

The city clerk and city council members are elected to two-year terms and there are no council term limits.

For more information, contact Ochs at (231) 547-3250 or stop by Charlevoix City Hall where write-in candidates can file, 210 State St.

ART

over his pastel painting of the shore, lighthouse and boulders. "My favorite style is impressionist style with sort of a realistic edge. It's another way to view the world."

Mike Coltman of Charlevoix was one of five people to attend the first gathering with the Eisenbergs. He also worked in pastel, but chose a view through trees from the Eisenberg's deck.

"Plein air is tough and since the sun moves 15 degrees every hour, the shadows really change," he said. "It's creative but it can be very frustrating. So many things need to work to get a painting to come together, so there is a lot of problem solving involved."

While some work to be the next Monet, folks like Gary paint to relax and ruminate.

"I have a pretty intense law practice. In trial work you are working with people in distress, so it is a nice relief from work," he said. "It gives me an opportunity to really think a lot of things through."

He added, "And, it's something you take with you your entire life. Even when you're 80 you can still view the world and take out the best things in it."

Barbara, who has a degree in art from the University of Michigan and has been painting for more than 50 years, said though there are challenges to the plein air style, anyone can do it.

"There are no fees. Supplies you'll need are according to what your painting medium is," she said. "Someone who has never painted before should probably come and meet with us and explore some of the possibilities with the participants before investing in anything or bring a sketch pad and pencil and draw."

Barbara said the plein air gatherings will likely run from spring to fall depending on the weather.

Plein air works of art can be produced in pencil, pen, marker, watercolor, oil, charcoal, acrylic, collage or colored pencil in styles ranging from impressionism to realism. And, whether you plan to stay for one hour or five hours, Barbara said, people of all artistic backgrounds are welcome.

A good starter set of pastels will run you about $50, said Coltman, but Barbara added that a dollar store has colored pencils, pens and other supplies for much less money.

"I retired and always liked to draw as a kid, so I started on a lark and actually did some nice enough to frame," Coltman said. "Last year, with the encouragement of the Southwest Pastel Society, I entered some shows, placed in some shows and sold some paintings."

He added, "And who knows, a hundred years from now a relative of mine may still own a painting I did, so it's a form of immortality."

Coltman and Barbara emphasized not to get hung up on pricey materials or your level of talent.

"Keep it simple and we'll help make recommendations on what to get and where to go and you will develop your own style," she said.

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Plein Air Painters is from 9 a.m. to noon on Thursday, Aug. 16 at Northpoint beach at the end of Mt. McSauba Road.

For more information on future meeting times, locations or supplies, interested parties are encouraged to call the Eisenbergs at (231) 547-9344.

The times and locations for the Aug. 23 and 30 gatherings will be announced at the Aug. 16 meeting.

What? Outdoor "plein air" work sessions.

When? The next meeting of the Charlevoix Plein Air Painters is from 9 a.m. to noon on Thursday, Aug. 16 at Northpoint beach at the end of Mt. McSauba Road.

Islanders approve school millage

BY BENJAMIN GOHS

JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The request for a 25-year, 2.3 mill millage for the Beaver Island Community School District passed at the Aug. 7 election by a vote of 204 to 138.

The millage request brought out about 59 percent of the island's 580 registered voters.

St. James Township clerk, Jean Palmer, who worked the election said voter turnout was high.

"It did bring out the voters. There were a lot of voters voicing concerns both ways," she said.

Beaver Island Community School superintendent Kitty McNamara, said, "It says a lot. It's a big margin compared to other bond proposals. I think it reaffirms that the community is committed to education. We are going strong and moving forward."

The 25-year millage will raise approximately $3,950,000 for improvements to the school which was originally built in the 1950s.

> "I think it reaffirms that the community is committed to education. We are going strong and moving forward."

> BEAVER ISLAND COMMUNITY SCHOOL DISTRICT

Planned improvements include adding space for art, music and science classes and fixing air circulation, wasted energy and safety issues. McNamara said construction is expected to begin in spring 2008.

Proponents of the measure have said taxpayers will see a decrease in what they pay if they compare the new millage to the Beaver Island Schools' 15-year 1.46 mills debt millage and five-year (originally 1 mill) .89 mill sinking fund millage which expired in December 2006. While those opposed argue enrollment is steadily declining.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Where's the limit for groups against freedom?

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

In my last column I blamed the FCC for censorship woes, but after a little research and reflection, known by dimwits as "flip-flopping," I realized it is the people, not the government, who warrant ire.

The kings of citizen censorship, AKA the Parents Television Council, formed in 1995 by rabid right-winger L. Brent Bozell III, "To ensure that children are not constantly assaulted by sex, violence and profanity on television and in other media."

The group, which constitutes less than one-third of one percent of the U.S. population, is responsible for 98 or 99 percent of all complaints to the FCC.

The council's slogan is, "Because our children are watching," but my question is, "Why expose your kids to material of which you disapprove?"

A clever aggressor, the council feigns advocacy of freedom saying people may seek "edgier" programming but plays the victim by stating, "Merely changing the channel is essentially to accept what is on that channel, and admit powerlessness to change what is on one's own television. To be forced to change the channel is to accept the loss of additional stations to unhealthy content and to expect similar material to one day appear on the next channel."

In a rage and baffled by such incoherence, I called Bozell, but made it only as far as his media minion, Colleen O'Boyle, who told me their group is not the moral arbiter of decency, but said, "Obviously we do feel that a great deal of what's coming out of Hollywood is inappropriate."

Citing the 1934 Federal Communications Act, a law passed when there was no cable, Internet or satellite, marijuana was thought to cause insanity, mixed marriage was illegal in 30 states and racial equality meant separate drinking fountains, O'Boyle reminded me broadcasters do not own the airwaves — excuse me if I don't have much faith in legislation passed by humanoids paranoid of Negroes, pot and communism.

When asked, O'Boyle told me TV is not a necessity and parents are primarily responsible for their kids, but their Web site states, "(that) does not free the entertainment industry from taking responsibility for their product. The assertion that the sole responsibility lies with parents is a self-justifying claim usually made by people who wish to evade accountability. It is much like pumping sewage into a town's river, while maintaining that parents are responsible for protecting the health of their own children."

It shouldn't come as much surprise to hear the same people equating TV with clean water also think the First Amendment is way too expansive.

In his June 7 column, Bozell wrote, "Pardon me if I can't imagine Thomas Jefferson & Co. pledging their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor for the valiant 'cause of transmitting the potty mouths of washed-up pop singers and spoiled-rotten mall princesses into millions of American households."

Pardon me if I didn't see television in Maslow's hierarchy of needs—TV is an avoidable phenomenon. You can live without Seinfeld reruns.

It's not bad enough the prunes on the supreme court devised a three-prong test for what constitutes protected expression, we've got high-paid charlatans—Bozell made $1,685,575 from 1997 to 2004—misinterpreting the U.S. Constitution to further his goals of censorship and extortion.

Bozell's brainsick babbling did cost the PTC $3.5 million in an out-of-court settlement in 2002 when they tried to push their agenda of hysteria by proclaiming World Wrestling Entertainment, among other erroneous charges, was responsible for the deaths of children after a 12-year-old beat a 6-year-old to death and defense attorneys tried to blame his actions on wrestling.

However, even million-dollar snaps back to reality aren't enough to end the council's vile ventures, and therein lies the grotesque beauty of Bozell's war without end; this is a topic which easily elicits outrage, after all, even a devil-worshipping libertarian like me doesn't want my kids to see sex and gore.

In Bozell's July 20 column, he stated that HBO is the leading, "grenade-launcher in TV's culture wars," because they began a new series which includes graphic sex scenes and ended his rant by positing, "How many years will it be until masturbation with full-frontal nudity airs on CBS?"

Should we expect statements any less bizarre by a group who said, "The Columbine killers Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold, for instance, were apparently motivated, at least in part, by the prospect of being the subjects of a television movie."

I'm not going to defend The Sopranos or MTV because we're talking about voluntarily purchasing TVs and tuning them in—there is nothing to defend.

Sure, the socialists will gasp at the thought of doing the right thing because bad things happen in this world and the lazy need easy targets for their misery.

The truth is, it takes a lot of time and energy, not an oppressive village, to raise your kids, but how do you reason with someone who wrote, "Where is the limit for groups against censorship?"

Indeed Mr. Bozell, where is the limit?

VENETIAN PARKING FIASCO

Editor:

I have been coming up to Venetian Festival for four years now and this has been the hardest to get around even though I personally thought that the population was down this year.

I parked at Olsen's around 5:30 p.m. when the small shops were closing and asked one shop owner if I could park there for the entertainment portion of the festival and the fireworks. The young man in the lot said I had a half hour then I would be towed away. There were two flatbed trucks in the lot just waiting for the work. I left the park twice to see if I was towed away. I couldn't enjoy shopping for fear I would be gone too long and my car would be gone.

You would think that committee could work something out with the store owners for parking before the festival began. I will probably go somewhere else next year and spend my time and money and not have to worry about whether or not I have a car when I was finished shopping.

IN MEMORY OF DOUGLAS MILLER

Editor:

In memory of Douglas W. Miller who drowned in Lake Michigan on July 16, my wife and I would like to express our sincere appreciation to all of our friends and neighbors who have provided support to us and our family following the tragic death of our son. The outpouring of sympathy and prayers that we have received has been most welcome and a great help in easing the pain of losing Douglas.

We owe a very special thank you to Gerry Lauwers and Matt Goldsmith for the gallant effort that they made to rescue our son. We will never forget what they did for us. We also appreciate the prompt and professional response of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, and the emergency teams from Charlevoix and East Jordan.

IT'S RELAY TIME

Editor:

Relay time is just around the corner. Relay For Life, the signature fundraising event of the American Cancer Society, is a non-competitive event in which teams of runners and walkers pace the track all night long to raise funds and increase awareness for the American Cancer Society and the fight against cancer.

This year's Relay For Life of Charlevoix County will take place on Aug. 11 at Castle Farms in Charlevoix. We would like to extend a special invitation to all cancer survivors including those who are currently battling the disease. Cancer survivors are our guests of honor, along with their caregivers, and they are treated to special activities just for them.

In addition to raising money and celebrating life, every Relay For Life also has a wealth of information available about cancer prevention, early detection and patient services available in your community for cancer patients and their families. Relay For Life is the way our community comes together to fight cancer on all fronts.

Come and show your support for the American Cancer Society, celebrate our many victories over cancer and get the encouragement from a community that is behind you as you continue down your path of survivorship.

Summer doesn't get any better than this

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

My summer schedule sounds like a seventh-grade class assignment or the sequel to a low budget film.

Here's what I did. I cleaned out the refrigerator, combining three jars of salsa into one. Yes, this qualifies as cleaning. It became a project as I delved farther into the crevices of this daunting appliance, surprised at what I would discover as I opened each drawer. It brought back childhood memories "And what's behind door number three Jack. Let's show our guests." Finding numerous opened containers with similar contents, I feverishly began to combine all of them making room for future unused items. I picked up the philosophy of combining things from my Polish grandfather. He used to mix his peas, mashed potatoes, and meat together at the dinner table, retorting to my mother in his heavy accent "iz all goin' to the zame place zooner or later."

Next on my summer "fun things to do list" was adding chemicals to the hot tub. I came to that decision after carefully peeking under the lid after a month or so had past. The water appeared pond-like rather than crystal blue green like the photo in the ad. Sensing this wasn't a good thing I checked the filter and much to my surprise I saw the tiny zebra mussels clinging to the intake valve. I'm not positive but I think this has something to do with baby-sitting a six-year-old grandson. I vaguely remember telling him to toss those cute little shells he picked up on the beach because grandma was not going to cook them.

Weeding the garden is next on my list. It returned to me the feeling that I could control something in my life. It's quite therapeutic tackling and tossing them, similar to throwing clear glass into the recycle bin.

I took in a few of the Venetian Festival festivities and loved every minute of the fantastic fireworks. When asked by others if I had planned to wheel my ninety plus dad down to the water to see this display, I replied, "No, it might bring on post traumatic stress from World War II." In reality, I felt maneuvering a wheel chair in the dark qualified for an activity in a reality show. Truth be told, it's difficult for him to look skyward with a neck fracture. Though he has great disdain for wearing a neck brace, I keep telling him he's up for the role of Darth Vader.

Yes, summer is here but fading fast. My reflections don't include a trip to the mountains or even the Upper Peninsula. I didn't "summer" on my boat or in my cottage because we don't posses either. I can tell you that the weather in Charlevoix has been wonderful and for someone who is not venturing too far due to her caretaker, role this town has offered wonderful things to do from the Harry Potter evening at Charlevoix Public Library, the Farmer's Market every Thursday morning, and just watching the changes both planned and unexpected take place in East Park.

As I look at my Franklin Planner which I keep telling dad is my "cruise director" book, I have accomplished some things this summer and I'm glad I made note of them. Time flies so fast that at the end of the day I sometimes get the uneasy feeling that I didn't do anything worth noting. Not true at all as I look in my book. I've taken care of dad with all his appointments, baby-sat grandkids, had family and friends stay or give respite and kept my date night with my husband all summer long. Summer doesn't get better than this.

On Friday and Saturday, Aug. 10 and 11, Charlevoix Lions will be around town collecting donations for their annual White Cane Safety Days Fund Drive.

All but one of the Lions collecting donations will be carrying a symbolic official red-tipped white cane. Lion Mark Rybicki, whose vision is severely limited, uses his cane full-time. He will also be actively on the street seeking contributions.

Donations to the Lions help support the Michigan Eye Bank and Transplant Center, The Michigan Leader Dog Training Center and its Puppy Search and Development Program, the Lions' own Welcome Homes for the Blind.

Locally, the club helps support the low-vision reading center at the Charlevoix Public Library and pays for glasses for the needy with special eye problems. Recently the club also helped those who need assistance with special hearing problems.

Year-round, the Lions collect used eyeglasses for distribution in third world countries. Any Lion will take used glasses. Currently used glasses can be dropped off at Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix State Bank, optometrist Steve Voci's office at 103 Clinton St. and Dr. Reed Freidinger's office at 14730 Park Ave.

Esperance pairs wine with art

Event to benefit school art programs

Esperance Wine, Cheese and Specialty Foods Market in partnership with the Charlevoix Council for the Arts is hosting the 3rd Annual Enduring Arts wine tasting, gourmet picnic and auction event from 6 to 8 p.m. on Aug. 17. All proceeds from the event benefit the Charlevoix Public Schools visual arts program. Tickets for the event are available in advance at Esperance, 12853 U.S. 31 North, Charlevoix.

This year's event will feature a broad spectrum of wines from famed Napa Valley wine maker and consultant, Robert Pepi as well as local vintners, Larry Mawby of L. Mawby and Lee Lutes of Black Start Farms Winery both in Suttons Bay. Enduring Arts will feature gourmet picnic fare and both live and silent auctions.

Charlevoix Public Schools have a long tradition of providing an excellent art experience for their students with many going on to study and excel in the visual arts beyond high school. As school budgets continue to tighten, money raised at this event goes directly into the art classrooms at Charlevoix Public Schools via the Arts Council to help pay for equipment, materials, resources and art experiences that would otherwise not be available through the school program.

Space is limited for the event. Tickets are available for a suggested donation of $30 per guest and should be reserved in advance by contacting Esperance at (231) 237-9300 or stopping by the shop on U.S. 31 North, Charlevoix. Attendees must be 21 or older.

Who? Esperance Wine, Cheese and Specialty Foods Market in partnership with the Charlevoix Council for the Arts

What? 3rd Annual Enduring Arts wine tasting, gourmet picnic and auction event. All proceeds from the event benefit the Charlevoix Public Schools visual arts program.

OBITUARIES

Margaret Ware-Allen

Margaret Elizabeth "Peg" Ware-Allen, 86, long-time Mill Creek area and Paradise Valley resident, died peacefully at Bozeman Deaconess Hospital early Thursday morning, July 19. She was blessed to have had family and friends with her in her final hours. Cremation has taken place at Franzen-Davis Crematory in Livingston. A celebration of Peg's life will take place at 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 9 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Emigrant with Rev. David Gunderson officiating.

Born Margaret Elizabeth Ware on Feb. 1, 1921 in Oak Park, Ill., the daughter of Walter and Ruth (Scott) Ware, she spent her early life and attended schools in Oak Park and New York City. During World War II, Peg worked in the offices and on the manufacturing floor of the family business, Chicago Roller Skate Company.

Peg was a grandchild of Elisha C. Ware, one of the early members of the Belvedere Club in Charlevoix and spent her early summers in Charlevoix sailing and later surf boarding behind the MTR boat of the late Jimmy Reece. She also became a proficient marksman, a skill she carried with her into later life. She developed superb insight in the trend of individual cattle performance testing and meticulously kept detailed records. She was a member of the Montana Beef Performance Association, Montana Stock Growers Association and the Park County and Montana Cattle Women's Association. Many will remember her political views and strong adherence to Republican party principles. Peg strongly supported the things she believed in and many will miss her colorful sense of humor, love of jokes and her famous fudge.

She was preceded in death by her parents; a brother, Gordon Ware; and husband, Arch Allen.

Eileen Wyszynski: Nov. 30, 1920 - July 30, 2007

Eileen Wyszynski

Eileen (Coy) Wyszynski, beloved mother of Janette (Bob) Stender, Tallmadge, Ohio, Sandra (Robert Jay) Laucher Button, of Charlevoix, Michael (Andrea) Wyszynski, of Sierra Madre, Calif., and John R. Wyszynski (Ramsey Ferro) of Denver, Colo., passed away on July 30 in Charlevoix, where she lived near her daughter, Sandi, for the past four years.

Eileen was born Nov. 30,1920, in Rotherham, England. She served in World War II for the British Army and met her husband, Tomasz Wyszynski, who also served in the British army. In 1949, Eileen, Tomasz and Janette moved to the United States. Sandi, Mike and John were born and raised in the Akron and Stow area of Ohio.

Eileen worked as an assistant bank manager for First National Bank of Akron, Cuyahoga Falls branch, and was very active and supportive in her children's lives. She loved gardening, baking, hiking and her neighbors. She readily shared her love of plants with friends and family. Many of these plants still grow in gardens in Colorado, Michigan, Ohio, North Carolina and many other places. All are reminders of a woman who lovingly shared of her greatest gift — herself.

Eileen, will long be remembered and sorely missed by her children. Her grandchildren are Andrew (Suzannah) Laucher and Adam (Christine) Laucher of North Carolina, Matthew Stavana of Ohio and Julia and Christopher Wyszynski of California.

A memorial service and tea was held on Thursday, Aug. 2 at the home of RJ and Sandi Button in Charlevoix. Memorial contributions can be made to Charlevoix County Community Foundation Jack Laucher Educational Fund, P.O. Box 718 East Jordan, MI 49727 or Boulder Park Terrace 14676 West Upright St. Charlevoix, Michigan 49720.

Helen spent the winters at the Atlanta home of her son Carl and daughter-in law Nancy. Following a bout with pneumonia in February she was unable to return this spring to the Sneathen Farm on Maple Grove Road in Hayes Township.

Helen was born on July 2, 1920 and moved from Royal Oak to Petoskey in 1931 and graduated from Petoskey High School in 1936. She married Bud in 1939 and in 1945 they moved to the Sneathen farm on Maple Grove Road. She worked as a bookkeeper for The First State Bank of Petoskey, Charlevoix Area Hospital and as church secretary for the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

A memorial service will take place at noon on Aug. 19 at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church where memorial contributions may be directed.

Karen M. Bowman, 68, of Charlevoix passed away on Aug. 1 in Charlevoix.

Karen McAleer was born Oct. 21, 1938 in Haverhill, Md., the only child of Ernest and Ersilia McAleer. She married Jimmy Bowman in Los Angeles, Calif. on Nov. 28, 1958. Jimmy was in the U.S. Coast Guard, and following many moves the Bowmans settled in Charlevoix in 1969 to raise their six children.

Karen loved outdoor activities and spent many hours tending her gardens, shoveling snow and taking walks. Karen was active in the community and was honored for her volunteer work at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Karen's life revolved around her family and she was happiest when surrounded by her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She found special joy in the Christmas season and always did her best to make the holidays joyous for everyone she loved.

Karen is survived by her husband; one son, David (Ann) Bowman; daughters Michelle, Nancy, Deborah, Jenny Bowman and Donna (Marty) Ruhling; 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Karen was preceded in death by her parents.

QUASHING RUMORS

Editor:

In any small town, rumors fly. They add to the fun or in some cases, the anxiety of living in a small town. Many of us have been the subject of rumors, and we have learned to be careful of what we say in public.

There is a nasty rumor going around, that the Elk Rapids Township Planning Commission has been considering a change to the property setbacks along U.S. 31 from the Elk Rapids Village limit south to Townline Road. This rumor has been closely guarded, as most people along this highway don't realize that their planning commission is thinking about expanding the setback to 150 feet from the center of the highway. If true, that would create a swath of land equal in size to a football field, and would make most homes and businesses along this route non-compliant in terms of our zoning ordinances.

What might happen if this rumored zoning change takes effect? Well, if your property or structures do not comply with zoning ordinances, your values will fall and you will need to get the township's permission to make changes to your structures. In our case, since the Twisted Fish Gallery building would fall entirely within a 150-foot setback, no change could be made to the building for any reason.

Other owners whose buildings which are now within 150 feet of the road would suffer the same fate.

Now, we hope this rumor about the proposed change is only a rumor and that it dies, is forgotten, and that things are left alone. But, just to be sure, we are going to the Elk Rapids Township Planning Commission meeting at 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 9 in the Government Center, and we hope you will join us. Let's stop rumors and get the facts about what our planning commission is up to. And, let's tell them what we think about these rumored changes to our community.

SOCCER SUCCESS

Editor:

As you reported in the Courier last week, the Venetian 3-on-3 soccer tournament proved to have the most successful turnout ever. The success of the tournament has a great deal to do with all the people who worked and supported it. One of the great things about a small town is the way people step up to help the youth who live there. The girls soccer team would not have been able to do this alone and we want to thank everyone who helped us out.

First of all, we owe a lot to Randy Holecheck and the work crew at the Charlevoix Township for mowing and setting up the nets. The fields were in great shape.

Roger Nesburg, Angie Behling and their crew were a huge help with the T-shirts. They even ran a few extras Wednesday morning as we ran out Tuesday night.

And thanks to the sponsors who helped keep the cost for T-shirts down so every participant would get one.

This year we added a concession stand which proved to be a good idea. A big thanks goes to Lori Foster and her mom Oma as well as Shannon Smith for working it. We also want to recognize Charlevoix 4-H Soccer, Roger Nesburg, and the Charlevoix Sports Boosters for help with the products sold.

Last, but not least, we want to thank Dan Barron, Amy Kurtz, Dean Davenport and the Venetian Board for another amazing week of fun and entertainment.

Imaginations sail to benefit Red Cross

Two sailboats being auctioned at the Odawa Casino Resort in Petoskey on Aug. 10, to benefit the Northern Lower Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross were painted by Charlevoix High School students, both in acrylics. (Above) Ellise Smolenyak, a Charlevoix High School junior this year, is responsible for the image painted on this sailboat displayed in front of Charlevoix State Bank in downtown Charlevoix.

Sailboat sculptures displaying Charlevoix images are being sent to auction at the Odawa Casino Resort in Petoskey on Aug. 10, to benefit the Northern Lower Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross.

"We were thrilled by the participation of Charlevoix artists," said Bess Bleyaert, director of marketing and fund development for the local Red Cross chapter. "All of the funds raised do stay local and do support local efforts."

It is the third year the Red Cross has hosted an event of this kind, starting first with fish sculptures in 2003, then bear sculptures in 2005. Proceeds from the auction, this year called "The Art of Sailing," support local Red Cross chapters for two years.

Two Charlevoix-themed sailboats being auctioned were painted by Charlevoix High School students, both in acrylics.

Ellise Smolenyak, a high school junior this year, was responsible for the image painted on the sailboat displayed in front of Charlevoix State Bank in downtown Charlevoix, where it will remain until Friday's auction.

A photograph at the Charlevoix Yacht Club inspired Smolenyak to create "Downtown Downwind," a painting of clouds and big, colorful sailboats above a downtown skyline.

"I race sailboats," Smolenyak said. "There's a photograph that was taken one year, above the fireplace of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, of boats going downwind, that's where I got the idea."

Ashley Grosberg, who graduated from Charlevoix High School this year, was responsible for "Sail La Vie," featuring a daytime/nighttime view of Charlevoix's harbor, displayed in Bridge Park. In addition to painting her image, Grosberg attached Petoskey stones to the base of the sculpture.

"Whenever I think about Charlevoix, I think about all the Petoskey stones you see on the beach," she said.

Grosberg plans to attend North Central Michigan College this year, saving funds, she said, to transfer to an art college next year.

The Art of Sailing auction event begins with cocktails and hors d'oeurves at 5:30 p.m., followed by a live auction at 7 p.m. Cost of admission is $65 for a single person, $1,000 for a table of eight.

For more information on attending The Art of Sailing, please contact the American Red Cross at (231) 348-7666 or visit www.arcnlm.org.

Drummunity, a renowned drumming program, will be at the Charlevoix Public Library, celebrating the last event of the Summer Reading Clubs, at 6:45 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 14.

Lori Fithian, drum circle facilitator, will bring her collection of hand drums and percussion toys to the library and transform the community into a Drummunity — a word Fithian invented for the community-building that happens when people come together around a circle of drums.

"Lori will get our hands drumming and our hearts thumping," said Christine Hauke, youth services librarian. "We're going to shake, rattle and roll to celebrate the end of summer."

Drummunity is the closing program for the Charlevoix Public Library's elementary and 'tween Summer Reading Clubs. Record numbers of young readers have attended the library's "Get a Clue!" programs, learning about animal scat, touring a tugboat, getting fit and even painting the sidewalks.

This final program is also the night to draw the winners of prizes donated by area businesses. Elementary and 'tweens have earned drawing entries for every two hours they read this summer. Club members must be present at the final party to win.

Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St. For more information, call the youth department at (231) 237-7350.

Roadway repairs will start within the next week on U.S. 31, from south of Norwood Road to west of Barnard Road. Work will include intermittent transverse and longitudinal concrete joint repairs. Work will be completed by Labor Day.

One lane of traffic will be maintained, alternating in each direction, using flag control.

Due to the nature of these repairs, closures will be permitted 24 hours a day.

Access to all properties will be provided during the project. Updates will be available on the Michigan Department of Transportation's Web site at www.michigan.gov/mdot.

For more information, contact the Michigan Department of Transportation's Traverse City Transportation Service Center at (231) 941-1986.

Project details

What? Repair work on U.S. 31

When did it start? Monday, Aug. 6

Where? South of Charlevoix

Estimated completion date? End of August

Project? The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will repair nearly seven miles of U.S. 31 from Norwood to Barnard roads, south of Charlevoix.

Traffic restrictions? One lane of alternating traffic will be maintained with flag control for the duration of the project. Both lanes will be open to traffic on weekends and holidays. Some overnight closures may be necessary, in order to allow the concrete ample time to dry/harden.

Customer benefit? This project will improve the ride quality of the highway in this area and extend the life of the pavement.

Cost? This $1.2 million project continues a commitment by the Michigan Department of Transportation and the Granholm administration to create jobs, improve quality of life and provide the highest quality integrated transportation services for Michigan residents and businesses.

Water rescue leads to discovery of sink holes

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater will be awarding Johnathan Dixon, 10, a Sheriff's Life Saving Award for rescuing Chasyn Vondran, 5 from a sink hole at the Washington Street public access site and beach area in Eveline Township.

Following the heroic rescue which took place on Aug. 3, Sheriff Lasater issued the following update on the hazardous conditions there.

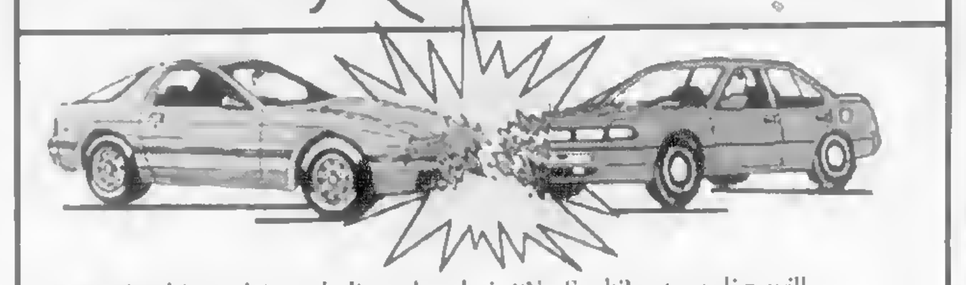
The Sheriff's Office Marine Patrol placed buoys at the sink hole locations to warn swimmers of the danger. There are two large sink holes and twelve smaller sink holes in the area possibly caused by springs.

Sheriff's Marine Patrol and rescue swimmers from the Charlevoix Fire Department advised the two holes were so deep that if a child walking in the shallow water was to step into one of these holes, they would be in water over their head and the clay at the bottom of the sink hole would make it difficult to escape.

Sheriff Lasater advises that John Vrondran, Eveline Township supervisor and Pat Harmon, manager of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, have been responsive to his request to post signs to alert the public of the hazard.

Sheriff's Marine Patrol and divers from the City of Charlevoix Fire Department Rescue Squad pulled two large metal stakes from the lake in the area of the sink holes that were protruding a few inches above the water line. These metal stakes were in the area where children use water skis and go tubing behind boats.

MICHIGAN DRIVER ALERT!
Insure Against the Uninsured



Many Michigan drivers believe that their "No Fault" auto policy will cover everything—no matter who is at fault. This is not entirely true.

Some losses are intended to be covered by the at-fault driver. But, what if their policy coverage limits are too low, or they drive with no insurance at all?

Not all companies offer protection in these situations, but Auto-Owners does. Let us show you how to protect yourself and your family with Uninsured and Underinsured Motorist Coverages from Auto-Owners Insurance.

Book details Charlevoix's early economic development

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

In 1967, 15 stories written by the late Don Campbell were serialized in the Charlevoix Courier, depicting downtown's economic growth and development on Bridge Street.

Recently, the series has been compiled into a book published by Campbell's daughter, Anne Bandfield.

"A History of Bridge Street," includes 92 historical photographs, many from the author's personal collection, and a detailed account of the people and businesses that have come and gone on Bridge Street — downtown Charlevoix's main thoroughfare.

"I'm very proud of the book, it's my father's work," Bandfield said. "This is dedicated to the Campbell family."

Among many things, Campbell was a business owner, opening Campbell Boot Shop on Bridge Street in 1919. After he died, the business was passed to his daughter, Jeanne Campbell Carey, and her husband, Charles Carey. The current owner Randolph (Randy) Campbell Carey bought it from his parents, now known as Carey's Shoes.

"I love local history, I want to know what makes a town click," Trudeau said. She said it's great to be working at a business with such a long history in Charlevoix.

"A History of Bridge Street" also includes stories about Charlevoix's lighthouse and bridges, and improvements to the harbor.

The book is now on sale at Pine River Books on Park Avenue and at the Harsha House Museum, headquarters of the Charlevoix Historical Society.

"I've had wonderful help from Dave Miles in publishing it," said Bandfield.

As part of a fundraising effort, all proceeds from the book's sales will be donated to the Historical Society.

For more information, call (231) 547-0373.

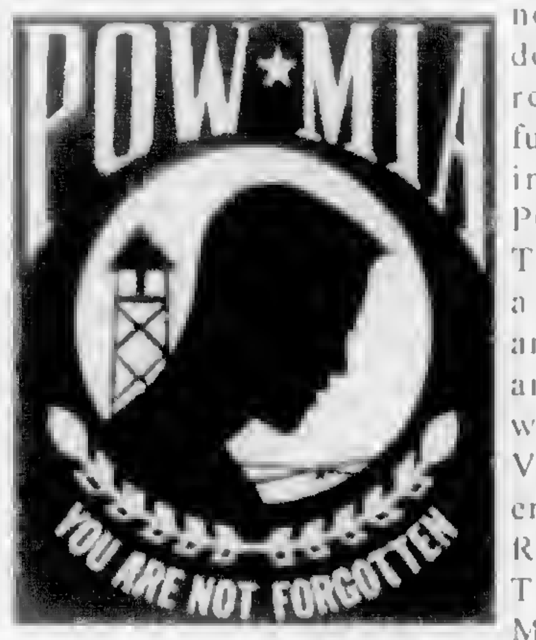
Forgotten Eagles ride to remember

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER



Courtesy graphic

Despite the release of nearly 600 American prisoners of war from Vietnamese captors in 1973, the Department of Defense's Defense Prisoner of War/Missing Personnel Office states that 1,801 American soldiers are still unaccounted for in Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam and China.

To keep the memory of those missing in action alive, the Forgotten Eagles rolled through Charlevoix, Friday, Aug. 3 on motorcycles.

"We raise money for the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund and we raise awareness about POW/MIA veterans," said Forgotten Eagles member, Don Schoof. "Last year we gave them (trust fund) in excess of $15,000."

He added, "The Michigan Veterans Trust Fund helps veterans pay their utility bills so the gas doesn't get shut off and if an Iraqi veteran needs to get medical care (for lost or damaged limbs) he goes to Texas or Indianapolis, Ind. and we give money to mom and dad to get to the hospital to see their son or daughter. Would you believe the government will not pay for parents to go visit their kids in the hospital?"

Members of Forgotten Eagles Chapter One, which encompasses the eastern Upper Peninsula and the upper Lower Peninsula, also do volunteer work at the D.J. Jacobetti Home for Veterans in Marquette.

"We gave them (Jacobetti Home) $5,000 not too long ago and we've donated quilts," Schoof said. "The Jacobetti Home is strictly for veterans who have no place to go."

The Forgotten Eagles, founded by former members of the similar national organization Rolling Thunder, has five chapters in the state.

"They (Rolling Thunder) were doing the same thing we are, but the money was going out to the East Coast and none of it was coming back," Schoof said.

According to the Forgotten Eagles Web site, www.forgotteneagles.org, "With all the other service organizations in Michigan, There was none solely dedicated to receiving a full accounting for our POW-MIAs. Tom Wall, a visionary, a biker and combat wounded Vietnam veteran brought Rolling Thunder to Michigan to fill this void. With Tom at the helm in Michigan we grew into a strong, statewide branch of a national organization consisting of veterans and like minded individuals who wanted to correct the mistakes made in Vietnam and make sure that no American soldier was ever left behind again."

"So far we're just a Michigan group, but we've had some interest from out-of-state and we're open to vets and non-vets alike, and you don't have to be a motorcycle rider to join," he said. "We have a lot of support from local Charlevoix businesses who came aboard and we give out POW/MIA flags to commercial businesses that will fly them."

He added, "There's room for cars, pickups, vans, whatever on our rides. What most chapters have is a chase vehicle in case someone breaks down. If you don't ride a bike, jump in your pickup."

For those who never served in the military, Schoof said not to worry

"I'm no veteran. I'm at the age where I should have been over there (Vietnam) and wasn't accepted by Uncle Sam," he said. "I was tired of riding around for other charities only once a year and wanted to help more with Vietnam veterans."

Charlevoix County currently has three members, but Schoof said there is room for many more.

"We're running between 70 and 80 active members and statewide we're in the neighborhood of 250 to 300 members," he said. "The more people that join, the more awareness we can create."

He added, "MIA in our state is not missing in action, it's missing in America. There are guys that come back and are living in cardboard boxes that haven't gotten over the war. If you know someone who came home from Vietnam, tell them, 'Welcome home.'"

Charlevoix alumni celebrate change

BY STEFANIE CARANO

Members of the CHS 2005 class, who organized the all class reunion and the Charlevoix alumni association, pose with members from the 1930's classes at the Charlevoix Library, Saturday during the Venetian Festival reunion. Front (left to right) Michael Wojan class of 2005, Fran (Meggison) Wilson, Ruth Yemmens Swanson Cook 1930, Evelyn (Sneathen) Bare 1936, Esther (West) Ballard 1936. Back row Chris Golski 2005, Nate Dube 2005 and Ken Wilson 1940.

"I don't condemn changes at all," Cook said. "A lot of people can't accept change. I'm not like that."

Attending the Charlevoix Alumni Association All Class Reunion on Venetian Saturday, July 28 has allowed her, and others, to reflect on the changes in their lives and in the Charlevoix community, since they graduated high school.

Cook, a graduate of the class of 1930, and alumni Virginia Lahde, Fran Wilson and Esther Ballard have each observed the changes made in education since they attended school.

Lahde of the class of 1945 and Wilson of the class of 1940, are both former Charlevoix teachers as well as Charlevoix students.

Lahde has noticed the effect of technology in the classroom.

"I think the computer has done marvelous things for elementary education," Lahde said. "I think it's the greatest learning tool to help their skills."

Individualized instruction is a trend that Wilson has seen, as well as an increase in learning pace.

"They've speeded up the curriculum," Wilson said. "They're teaching more to the individual."

"When I was in high school they only offered chemistry or physics every other year and you had to have a science to graduate," Ballard said.

As the world has changed, Cook said, so has education.

"I think there's a lot more that they teach, they have to do what the world is doing," Cook said. "The world has expanded so much."

Each alumnus was a different student and as such, had different feelings about school at the time they attended.

Lahde said she has very fond memories of going through Charlevoix schools. "I was a cheerleader and in all the school plays," she said.

"I loved to learn, I loved to read," Wilson said. "I always had to work hard."

She said she wasn't the best student but she was a student that held a good average.

Cook said she was glad she went to school, even though she didn't care for it.

"I was just average," she said.

All four women are impressed with the changes made to the building where they had once attended school which is now Charlevoix Public Library.

Lahde and Ballard said the building is a wonderful thing and a real asset to Charlevoix.

"The reading room is where I went to kindergarten," Lahde said. "Special events being planned at the current building are so nice."

Wilson concurs. "I went to the building in first-grade," she said. "I'm very thankful that library's there, it's a wonderful building and a wonderful space."

Cook said the building, which has gone through significant change, is a great thing for Charlevoix.

Artist Daniel Roache brings metal to life

Waterfront Art Fair
Artist Profile

Residential and commercial settings are the market for metal sculpture artist Daniel Roache of Petoskey. His work will be featured at the Waterfront Art Fair this Saturday.

Roache has taught stained glass construction at Henry Ford Museum and painting classes at North Central Michigan College, but currently his focus is on creating commissioned work in his home studio.

He shows his metal relief wall sculptures in art fairs, where he enjoys meeting people, some of whom become his clients. In addition, he employs the services of corporate art representatives who promote his sculptures around the state and around the country. He has shown at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair for over 20 years.

"It's a good show for both corporate and residential commissions," Roache said.

Roache's commissioned sculpture projects have been installed in interior and exterior sites in many private homes and at the Cleveland Clinic Hospitals, University of Michigan Hospitals and a litany of corporate and university libraries. Most recently, he has completed a sculpture for the Tampa Children's Medical Center.

"While there is a place for art that confronts and challenges the viewer, my philosophy of site-specific public art is that it needs to say something of its intended audience and show a relation to a building's working space as created by the architects and designers," he said

Beyond formal art schooling, Roache came to this craft, with the experience of working as a machinist and toolmaker, a sign painter and printmaker, a carpenter, a teacher and an art museum librarian at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Abstract design elements mixed with realistic subject matter are fashioned into large low maintenance artwork, especially appropriate in public spaces.

Roache's metal sculptures are spray finished with bright colored automobile paints which provide a durable, low maintenance finish. His work is a symphony of geometrical fusion, one which combines the abstract and the realistic elements of his subject matter into a complex piece of art.

To see Roache's work, visit www.danielroache.com or see it in person at Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair on Aug. 11.

Hurlin brings northern Michigan landscapes to life

Waterfront Art Fair
Artist Profile

BY ANNE KELLY
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Her home and gallery, Paradisio, are located in downtown Glen Arbor, where she lives with husband and furniture maker, Paul May.

"I don't sell my original art at other galleries because they are so labor intensive. Each drawing averages between 150-300 hours. They are detailed pen and ink drawings, colored in with watercolor, of northwestern Lower Michigan's botanical landscapes. I just began doing art fairs two years ago because I have accumulated so many pieces. I wanted to get them out there."

Hurlin has been drawing since she was a child. She uses an old-fashioned crow quill pen and colored inks to depict typical habitats in the area. She has worked as a freelance illustrator for 35 years. One of her clients was American Spoon Foods, for whom she did catalogue covers and product illustration for 14 years. Her impressive list of freelance clients also includes Bantam Doubleday Dell, Harvard Common Press, Organic Gardening Magazine, Highlights For Children, Farmer's Almanac, Chef Pierre, Cherry Republic, Bel' Lago, and The Ann-Arbor Observer. Hurlin was contracted to do large murals at two museums: The Springfield, Missouri Nature Preserve and Turtle Bay Exploration Park in Redding, Calif. Most recently, she illustrated the cover of Priscilla Cogan's new book, "Double Time."

"I've studied wild, medicinal and edible plants and have a large organic garden where I grow numerous heirloom varieties of garlic, onions, leeks, potatoes, peas, beans, peppers, tomatoes, melon and carrots. Recently, I've been working more on depicting the crystal clear water we are blessed with up here."

Hurlin presents her work in handmade cherry or walnut frames. A signature of her artwork is the detailed painted frame within the frame of each piece.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The 49th Annual Waterfront Art Fair Aug. 11 in Charlevoix will once again attract thousands of connoisseurs of fine arts.

Northern Michigan artists, who venture south and west during the winter months, or use that time to replenish their supply of salable work, are delighted to be back again. Their inspiration is usually drawn from northern Michigan's rich, natural beauty and their livelihood depends on the support of their local communities. James Blanchard, who has shown his work at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair for six years, is one of these artists.

"Being an art fair artist is a life like no other," he said.

A jewelry artisan, Blanchard makes his home in Traverse City, but Michigan gems from all around the state fire his passion. He discovers and collects unusual gemstones from the Upper Peninsula to the Lower and throws in a recycled material that resembles agate, from the spray booths of the Ford River Rouge Automotive Plant, just to make things interesting.

Blanchard earned a degree in anthropology with an emphasis in archaeology from Michigan State University. His interest in stones and bones soon led to another interest. Manipulating silver and gold to make settings for the rocks and gems he discovered. Blanchard's rings and pendants are sold in Gallery 50 in Traverse City, and Livingston Studio on Beaver Island. He primarily makes a living by traveling the Midwest and Florida, showing and selling at art fairs from Ann Arbor and Sault Ste. Marie, to Cherry Creek, Colo., and St. Petersburg, Fla.

He, along with his wife, Andrea, and young son, travel to shows together, making it work as a family.

Blanchard works with fine agates and jaspers, Petoskey stones, Mowhawkite and the rarer Greenstone, Michigan's gemstone. Another stone, Leland Blue, is a favorite this year. It is a material that is a by-product of the short-lived attempt to smelt iron ore in Leland. Today, a rock hunter might

Perhaps the most intriguing raw material Blanchard uses for his jewelry is "Fordite" or "Detroit Agate." This is a recycled substance that looks like multi-colored agate. It was harvested in the 1950s, 60s and 70s from the paint buildup on the spray booths of the Ford River Rouge Automotive Plant.

"What could be more Michigan than automotive history?" Blanchard said of his uniquely derived gemstone.

He explained the cars were hand sprayed and the paint from the process built up in layers on the tooling and conveyers. The residual paint was baked in a kiln along with the cars. This created multi-layered chunks of paint that could be cut and polished like any gem.

"I enjoy being an artist because of the freedom and happiness it brings people," he said. "The Waterfront Art Fair has been the best art fair for me for about six years now. I enjoy the quaint, up north town feel and the beautiful surroundings. The patrons are educated, focused and ready to buy."

Filmmaker to discuss experience in Iran

Dr. Margot Smith

Dr. Margot Smith, producer of the film "Listen to Iran's people: A call for peace" will present a program at 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 13 at Charlevoix Public Library.

Smith filmed the movie in March 2007 during a visit to Iran. It was a volatile political time. She said President Bush was rattling his saber, and Iran's President Ahmadinajad was posturing in response.

At the time of filming, 23 Peace Delegates from the United States representing the Fellowship of Reconciliation visited Tehran, Esfahan, Shiraz and Qom. The video tells about the trip, and of the warm welcome by Iran's vice-president, as well as the thoughts of people on the street, students, professors and imams. The group of delegates also visited the Society for the Support of Victims of Chemical Warfare. The United States supplied chemical weapons to Saddam Hussein in Iraq at the time of the Iraq-Iran war. The long lasting effects of chemical weapons are shown.

At 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 13 Smith will share pictures and stories from her recent interviews with the people of Iran in the Community Meeting Room at Charlevoix Public Library. The event is free and open to the public.

For more information, call (231) 237-7340.

Historical society publishes 2008 photo calendar

Proceeds from the sale of the calendars goes toward support of the society and its two structures, the Harsha House Museum and the Depot at Depot Beach.

The photos used are selected from 15,000 images in the society's Bob Miles photo collection. The majority of these 13 classic images have never been published before, some having come to the society only three years ago. They include an aerial photo of the old railroad trestle and bridge, the viewing tower atop Mt. McSauba, horse-drawn taxi wagons at the Depot, old downtown stores, the channel and Argo Milling Company.

The calendars are on sale from 1 to 4 p.m. from Monday through Saturday at the Harsha House Museum, located at 103 State St. They retail for $12.95.

For more information, call (231) 547-0373.

Charlevoix celebrates 15th anniversary as Tree City USA

Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. has issued a proclamation to commemorate Charlevoix's fifteenth year as a Tree City USA community. At the council meeting Aug. 6, Carlson recognized the Shade Tree Commission and the Street Department for their work to preserve and enhance the tree canopy in Charlevoix. He also recognized the adopt-a-tree and memorial tree programs that were started this year. Carlson's proclamation and details of these programs are included as inserts to this week's Courier.

Tree canopy is the progressive way of viewing the urban forest. Tree canopy is the coverage effect of all the trees in a given area. No longer is the concept of planting one sapling as replacement for a mature shade tree viable.

Imagine Michigan or Dixon Avenue with all the mature trees simultaneously replaced with new planting. The missing element on the old concept is the factor of time. In order to maintain a tree canopy, under-planting near declining older trees (trees expected to be removed within five years) must occur. In addition, several trees need to be planted for every mature tree removed.

This year, city council authorized an increase in the tree planting budget. One hundred trees are budgeted this year. This effort will need to be continued for many years to restore the canopy in Charlevoix to its former glory.

An independently funded study provided a comprehensive review of the tree canopy on the approaches to and within the City of Charlevoix. The study estimated 1,200 plantable spaces in the city's right-of-way. These spaces represent a decline in canopy.

Charlevoix is not alone in this decline of tree canopy. In a July 2 TIME Magazine article, "Loss of trees compounds pollution in cities" canopy loss is noted as occurring nationwide. Citing Washington, DC, Philadelphia, and Chicago, which have lost one half of their peak tree cover, Ed Masie of the U.S. Forest Service in Atlanta, Ga. said, "Urban deforestation compares with what's going on in the world's rain forests." The article notes, "Without trees, cities suffer. Trees provide many positive effects in mitigating pollution."

Quilting for a cause

Katherine Boss of Charlevoix recently won this quilt, worth $15,000, made by Margaret Sitterson and Judy Ettema at the Alden High Tea for Breast Cancer event. The quilt raffle, tea and silent auction raised $37,000 to provide access to breast cancer screening to women of Antrim County.

PUBLIC NOTICE

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. It is government's responsibility to publish and deliver public notice information as it becomes available. So take notice. Your right to know is being served... right here in your newspaper.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful does more than petunias

They are concerned about storm water runoff, and want to educate the public by reinforcing that whatever goes into the storm sewer drains ends up in our beautiful lakes.

By marking the drains with decals to discourage any pollutants entering our area lakes, the local civic group continued with a project that was initiated by the Charlevoix Conservation District and Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council in fall 2005. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful marked approximately 80 drains in July, and will annually monitor the condition of the decals to ensure they retain their durability and effectiveness.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
SPECIAL JOINT CITY COUNCIL/
DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY
BOARD MEETING SYNOPIS
July 23, 2007
Council Chambers, City Hall
210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI

The Charlevoix City Council and the Downtown Authority met on the above date.

City Council Members Present: Bob Timms, Lyle Gennett, Gene Beer, Greg Stevens, Shirley Gibson and Sherm Chamberlain

City Council Members Absent: None

DDA Board Members Present: Dan Barron, John Taylor, Hugh Mason, Fred DiMartino, Jeannine Wallace, Kirby Dipert and Mayor Carlson

DDA Board Members Absent: John Yaroch

The meeting was called to order at 5:43 p.m. by Mayor Norman L. Carlson, Jr.

The City Council and DDA reviewed a proposed change order for the trout pond in the Downtown Park Renovation project and agreed in concept to the change order and that a feasibility study be completed.

The City Council and DDA also reviewed a proposed amendment to the DDA Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan. The proposed Amendment #6 would permit an interactive water fountain to be added to the DDA Plan. Council set a public hearing on August 20th at 7:00 p.m. to consider the proposed amendment.

Meeting adjourned at 6:25 p.m.

Local student wins big with Homer

BY RYAN BENTLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

When faced with international competition, Homer the underwater robot served its northern Michigan builders well.

Constructed by five area homeschoolers, Homer tied for first place in the engineering category this summer at the Marine Advanced Technology Education Center's 2007 remotely operated vehicle (ROV) competition in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Students were challenged to use their robots to complete a series of underwater missions. Homer's builders, the Great Lakes Homeschool Group, took sixth place overall out of 22 teams in the Ranger competition category, which was made up of high-school contestants as well as college-level teams competing for the first time.

Local homeschool students involved in the project included John and Benjamin Ford of Wolverine, Hannah and Nathan Zowada of Petoskey and Scott Rhudy of Charlevoix. They qualified for the international match-up in St. John's by winning a regional ROV competition last April in Alpena.

Homer was named for the mascot of The Home Depot, which supplied the team with many of the materials needed to build the ROV.

Cary Ford, John's and Benjamin's father and the team's adviser, noted that the homeschoolers' competitors included many teams from North America as well as entrants from places such as Hong Kong, Scotland, Pakistan and Iraq.

"For being their first year, their first time out, it was really spectacular," Cary said.

Benjamin agreed.

"We gave it our best shot and tried as hard as we could and the outcome proves that," he said.

As part of the engineering evaluation, judges looked over ROVs to see how much skill went into their designs. Students also were required to answer questions testing their knowledge of the project.

A ballast system with two air tanks allows the homeschoolers' robot to ascend and descend. The camera-equipped ROV is linked with support equipment on the surface, allowing students to view its actions via monitor and to control vertical movements by varying the air content in the tanks.

Homer features battery-powered thrusters which provide horizontal movements. The robot is equipped with a remote-controlled manipulating arm.

"We were one of the only teams that used pneumatics to operate our ballast system and arm," John Ford said. "That worked very well."

Cary Ford said he expects at least two members of the homeschool team will return to ROV competition next year.

Ryan Bentley can be contacted at (231) 439-9342, or rbentley@petoskeynews.com

The missions

As part of a remotely operated vehicle (ROV) competition in Newfoundland, students were asked to use their ROVs to complete the following three missions:

— carrying a line to a buoy anchor at the bottom of a pool with a slow-moving current, threading the line through a ring on the buoy and returning the line to the surface;

— collecting an algae sample and jellyfish at the bottom of an ice-covered pool and returning the items to the surface; and,

— transporting a gasket to an underwater wellhead, uncapping the wellhead, installing the gasket on it and putting the cap back in place. This mission also involved taking a testing tool underwater, inserting it into a port on the wellhead, removing the tool and returning it to the surface.

A Polka of a Party
You're invited to the Boulder Park Terrace 15th Anniversary Celebration
Thursday August 9, 2007

Deb Saur-MacKenzie and Danielle Clark do last-minute planning for the Aug. 9 Boulder Park Polka Party.

The community is invited to attend the Boulder Park Terrace 15th Anniversary Celebration Polka of a Party from 4 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 9. The cost is $10 per adult and $5 per child (kids under 3 free).

Boulder Park Terrace is at 14676 W. Upright St. The event will feature authentic Polish food. There will also be a beer tent with a cash bar. Entertainment will be provided by the Suchey Brothers. There will be door prizes and children's activities.

For more information, call Boulder Park Terrace at (231) 547-1005.

Charlevoix County Master Gardeners on Mackinac Island

Early this summer the Michigan State University Extension Office transported 48 Charlevoix County students and chaperones to Mackinac Island for the Lilac Festival as part of their Master Gardener Program.

The group toured the Mackinac Island Butterfly House, the new Insect World, as well as the Stuart Museum.

The Junior Master Gardener Program is geared towards third through fifth-grade students who wish to be instructed on topics involving soil, flowers, vegetables, fruits and food preservation. The classes run for eight to 12 weeks, and following the completion of 10 hours of community service there is a graduation ceremony where students receive official Junior Master Gardener diplomas.

For more information on the 4-H Junior Master Gardener program, call the Charlevoix County Extension Office at (231) 582-6232.

Pretty planters

Each year, the Charlevoix Area Garden Club hosts a juried competition among downtown businesses for the most beautiful outdoor planting in window boxes or planters. This year's winner was Maison & Jardin on Bridge Street. (Above) Brenda Teague, owner of Maison & Jardin, accepted the award from Garden Club members Susan Flanders, Carolyn MacKenzie and Mary Watson-Chavez. Teague used Mandevilla vines and sweet potato vines mixed with interesting art for a pleasing and unique design in her window boxes. Other winners included a tie for second place between the Alcove Restaurant and Village Inn Pizza. Third place was awarded to The Clothing Company. Honorable mention awards were given to Color Wear, GaGa for Kids, Shop of the Gulls and Charlevoix Wear.

Laura Roberts from Springfield, Ill. admires silverware windchimes on Aug. 3 at the Craft Show hosted by Friske Orchards in Atwood. Friske's will host the classic car club, Street Legends of Charlevoix on Saturday, Aug. 11. The cars will be riding in around 11 a.m. for lunch and keeping their cars on display until 3 p.m. All antique show cars are welcome to join.

"Saving the family Cottage," by Stuart Hollander

Attorney-author Stuart J. Hollander will be on hand to sign copies of his book, "Saving the family cottage: A guide to succession planning for your cottage, cabin, camp or vacation home" at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 11 at the Bridge Street Book Shop, located at 153 North M-66, in the Captain's Corner (Glen's) Plaza.

Hollander's book explains the problems that can arise when a cottage is passed on to the next generation and tells the reader how to keep their cottage in the family. Written for the vacation homeowner, the book engages the reader with stories of cottage "wars" and planning gone awry. Narrative examples and easy-to-follow graphics illustrate the more technical aspects of succession planning for a vacation home.

Castle to host county-wide Relay for Life event

Who? American Cancer Society
What? Charlevoix County Relay for Life
When? Aug. 11 and 12
Where? Castle Farms off M-66 in Charlevoix

Charlevoix is ready to Relay.

Teams are forming for this year's American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Charlevoix County.

This year's event will take place Aug. 11 and 12 at Castle Farms on M-66 in Charlevoix.

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is the society's signature fund-raising event, where teams of people camp out overnight, walking laps on a track, socializing and participating in planned activities. Teams can be made up of family, friends, co-workers or community groups.

"Relay is such a unique event. There are moments when you will be inspired and moments when you will cry," said Diane Jorgensen, community representative, American Cancer Society. "Most of all it's a fun and empowering way to make a difference in the fight against cancer."

Event activities include an inspiring victory lap by cancer survivors and a moving luminaria ceremony at dusk which pays tribute to those who have faced cancer.

The public is invited to attend.

Donations can be made to this local Relay For Life event and participants can start or join a team by visiting www.acsevents.org/relay/mi/charlevoix.

History

As the American Cancer Society's signature event, Relay for Life has been bringing cancer survivors and anyone touched by the disease together since 1985. The first Relay For Life was held in Tacoma, Wash. when its founder, Dr. Gordy Klatt, decided to run for 24 hours at his local high school's track with the idea that cancer never sleeps. That year, Dr. Klatt raised about $27,000 for the American Cancer Society and invited teams of friends and families to join him in the future. Today, more than 4,200 communities across America host their own Relay for Life and the event has raised more than one billion dollars for the fight against cancer. As the most successful not-for-profit event in America, Relay for Life provides a platform for raising cancer awareness and connecting communities to the programs and services of the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society is dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by saving lives, diminishing suffering and preventing cancer through research, education, advocacy and service. Founded in 1913 and with national headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. the society has 13 regional divisions and local offices in 3,400 communities, involving millions of volunteers across the United States.

Golf event to benefit Rayder football program

A Rayder Football Golf Outing will take place on Friday, Aug. 17 at Antrim Dells Golf Club, located at 12352 Antrim Drive in Atwood.

Registration begins at 1 p.m. The shotgun start is at 2 p.m. The cost is $75 per player and includes boxed lunch, golf, dinner and auction admission.

Special events include chances to win a set of Callaway Big Bertha irons, a Sharp LCD flat-screen TV, two round-trip domestic airline tickets and $10,000 cash. Proceeds from this annual event fund the Charlevoix High School varsity and junior varsity football team's training camp on Beaver Island and miscellaneous equipment needs.

To participate or request more information, call (231) 622-2667 or e-mail rayderfootball@gmail.com.

Carey Cup results

A total of 29 golfers participated in three categories this year. This year's winners and runners-up are listed below.

Chris Wyniawskyj defended his title from last year and defeated Scott Blechel to win the men's championship division. Don Hardy, who lost to Jack Niswander last year, defeated Niswander this year for the men's senior division title. And finally, Fran Marschner defeated Joyce Herbert to win the women's division title.

Yacht Club opens racing series to non-members

Charlevoix Yacht Club has opened its Wednesday racing series to non-members.

The club will allow anyone with an interest in racing to race on a Wednesday nights up to three times, without being official club members.

Those interested are asked to contact Mike Miller at (231) 547-6167 with the request before the race so the race committee is aware that they will be there. They will be timed and scored.

After three times racers will be asked to join the club and pay the usual fees.

Living Room grant to benefit county residents

Courtesy photo

Diane Lagerstrom, manager of The Living Room Adult Day Services, Tom Mroczkowski, president of Northern Michigan Regional Health System, and Maureen Radke, program officer of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation gathered for this picture following the announcement of a grant that will offer Living Room program services to residents county-wide.

Charlevoix County Community Foundation presented a grant to The Living Room Adult Day Services, an affiliate of Northern Michigan Regional Health System.

The grant will be used for residents of Charlevoix County who qualify for adult day services at The Living Room and need financial assistance.

Maureen Radke, program officer of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, recently presented the award to Diane Lagerstrom, program manager of The Living Room Adult Day Services and Tom Mroczkowski, president of Northern Michigan Regional Health System at Northern Michigan Hospital.

"We're very grateful to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for this grant," said Lagerstrom. "The population of elderly continues to grow in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. This grant will help those who are in need of our services, but have no or little insurance for long-term care and can't financially afford it."

The Living Room Adult Day Services was established in 1988 to serve the elderly and/or disabled to prevent premature placement into nursing homes, decrease isolation and loneliness and assist caregivers in the care of their loved ones. Currently, it cares for over 45 people, an average of 10-12 people daily, providing transportation, meals, activities and personal care.

Northern Michigan Regional Health System is made up of Northern Michigan Hospital and six affiliates; Benjamin B. Blum Hospitality House, Boulder Park Terrace, Community Free Clinic, Hospice of Little Traverse Bay, The Living Room Adult Day Services and VitalCare.

Tickets available for Aug. 12 pool auction

Increased capacity at the Charlevoix Country Club is allowing the Charlevoix Area Pool Auction committee to continue to accept dinner reservations for the Sunday, Aug. 12 event.

A week's stay at a six-bedroom home on 12 acres in Charlottsville, Va. has been added to the live auction. Other vacation packages include a stay at La Mer in Key West, Fla., a weekend at The Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island and a stay at a summer cottage on Lake Michigan.

Those unable to attend may submit sealed bids by 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 12 prior to the dinner-auction at 5:30 p.m. at the country club. The public may preview auction items from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 11 at the club and take advantage of a fish fry special for $18.95, including tax and tip.

Auction reservations may be made by calling (231) 547-0982.

Library offers new map and chart collection

The featured resource is a set of over 50 National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Nautical Charts for the Great Lakes Region. Located in the Michigan Room, these charts help boaters navigate, show dangerous areas and help find safe passages. Other available information on nautical charts includes, but is not limited to, depth of water, bottom type, magnetic variations affecting the compass, chart scales, and water level information. The charts were donated by the U.S. Coast Guard Station Charlevoix.

NOAA Nautical Charts for the Great Lakes Region

"Above the North," by Marge Beavers, aerial photography of northern Michigan

Trail Atlas of Michigan. Nature, mountain biking, hiking and cross-country skiing, by Dennis Hanson

Canoeing Michigan Rivers, a Comprehensive Guide to 45 Rivers, by Jerry Dennis

2007 Charlevoix County Plat book, available July 2007

Previous editions of the Charlevoix County Plat Book are available in the Michigan Room.

Charlevoix Cemetery Atlas, 1991

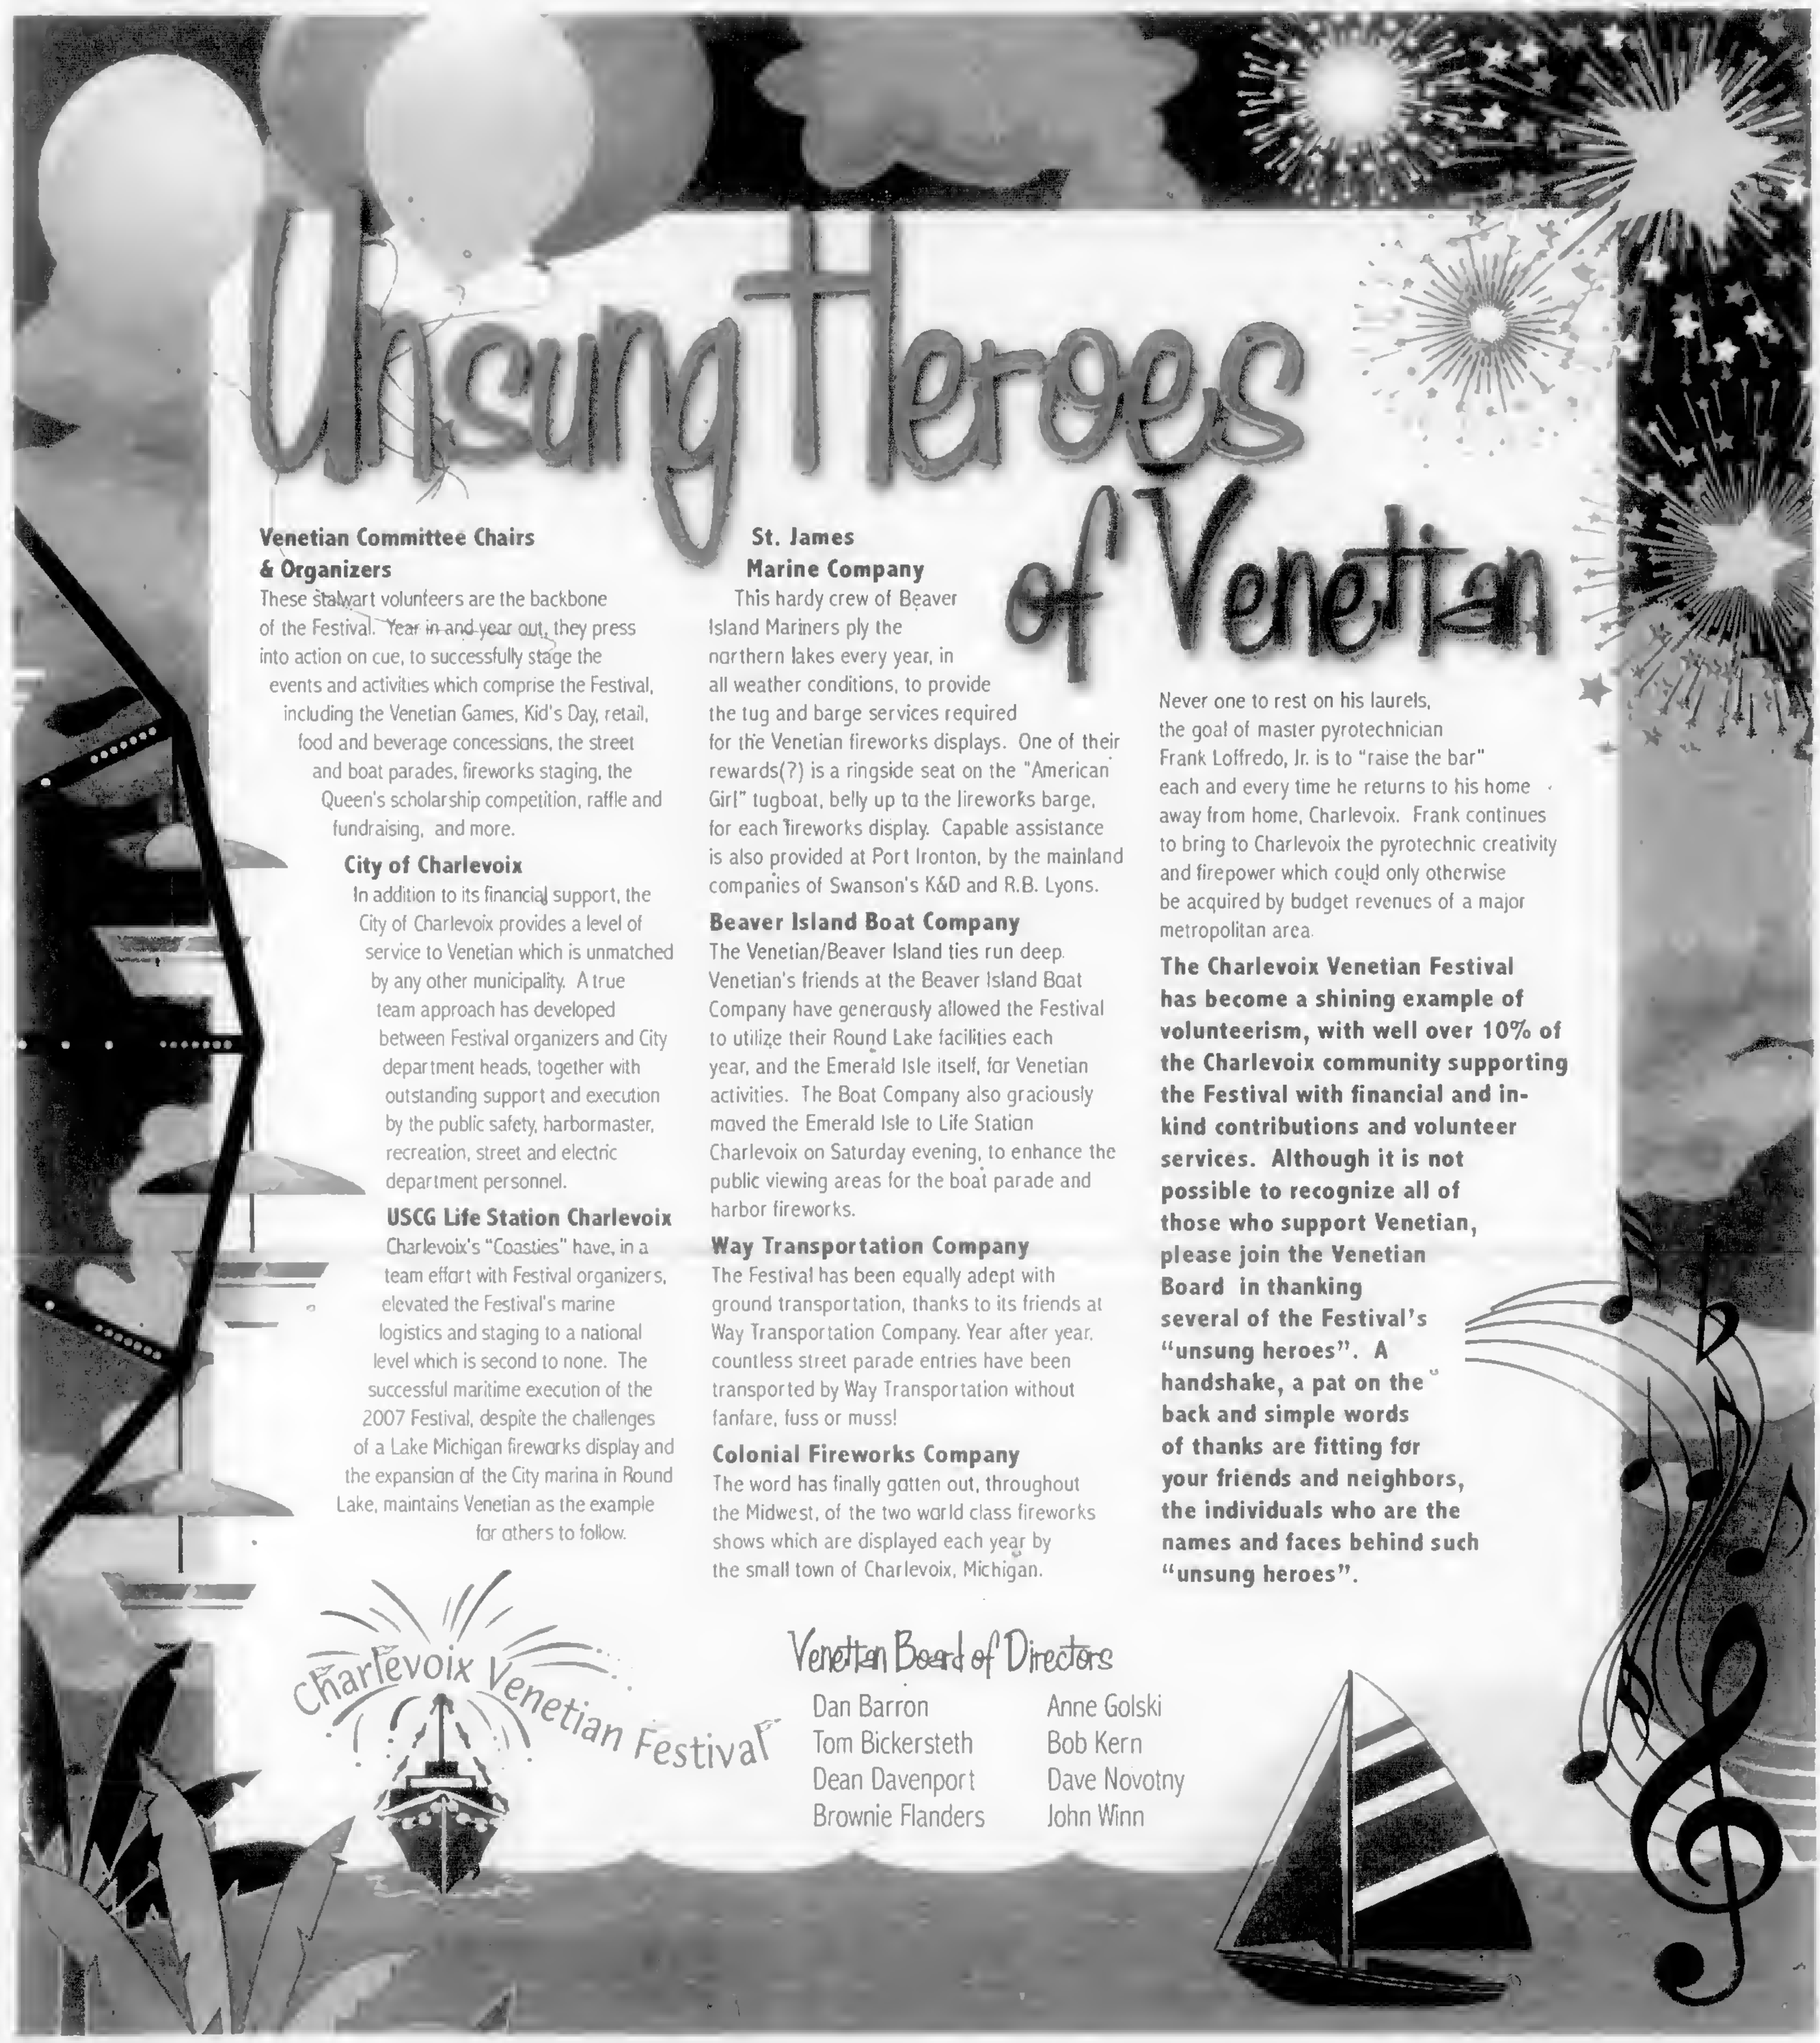
Archeological Atlas of Michigan, University of Michigan Press, 1931

Michigan County Atlas

Numerous atlas and maps available in the reference areas of the library including the National Geographic Atlas of the World

The EBSCO Student Research Center online database has access to many more reference works that include maps and geographical information. This can be accessed at the library or from your home.

Resources are available in adult non-fiction, reference and in the Michigan Room. For help in finding the above resources, please ask a librarian at the information services desk at the library or call (231) 237-7340.



Venetian Committee Chairs & Organizers

These stalwart volunteers are the backbone of the Festival. Year in and year out, they press into action on cue, to successfully stage the events and activities which comprise the Festival, including the Venetian Games, Kid's Day, retail, food and beverage concessions, the street and boat parades, fireworks staging, the Queen's scholarship competition, raffle and fundraising, and more.

City of Charlevoix

In addition to its financial support, the City of Charlevoix provides a level of service to Venetian which is unmatched by any other municipality. A true team approach has developed between Festival organizers and City department heads, together with outstanding support and execution by the public safety, harbormaster, recreation, street and electric department personnel.

USCG Life Station Charlevoix

Charlevoix's "Coasties" have, in a team effort with Festival organizers, elevated the Festival's marine logistics and staging to a national level which is second to none. The successful maritime execution of the 2007 Festival, despite the challenges of a Lake Michigan fireworks display and the expansion of the City marina in Round Lake, maintains Venetian as the example for others to follow.

St. James Marine Company

This hardy crew of Beaver Island Mariners ply the northern lakes every year, in all weather conditions, to provide the tug and barge services required for the Venetian fireworks displays. One of their rewards(?) is a ringside seat on the "American Girl" tugboat, belly up to the fireworks barge, for each fireworks display. Capable assistance is also provided at Port Ironton, by the mainland companies of Swanson's K&D and R.B. Lyons.

Beaver Island Boat Company

The Venetian/Beaver Island ties run deep. Venetian's friends at the Beaver Island Boat Company have generously allowed the Festival to utilize their Round Lake facilities each year, and the Emerald Isle itself, for Venetian activities. The Boat Company also graciously moved the Emerald Isle to Life Station Charlevoix on Saturday evening, to enhance the public viewing areas for the boat parade and harbor fireworks.

Way Transportation Company

The Festival has been equally adept with ground transportation, thanks to its friends at Way Transportation Company. Year after year, countless street parade entries have been transported by Way Transportation without fanfare, fuss or muss!

Colonial Fireworks Company

The word has finally gotten out, throughout the Midwest, of the two world class fireworks shows which are displayed each year by the small town of Charlevoix, Michigan.

Never one to rest on his laurels, the goal of master pyrotechnician Frank Loffredo, Jr. is to "raise the bar" each and every time he returns to his home away from home, Charlevoix. Frank continues to bring to Charlevoix the pyrotechnic creativity and firepower which could only otherwise be acquired by budget revenues of a major metropolitan area.

The Charlevoix Venetian Festival has become a shining example of volunteerism, with well over 10% of the Charlevoix community supporting the Festival with financial and in-kind contributions and volunteer services. Although it is not possible to recognize all of those who support Venetian, please join the Venetian Board in thanking several of the Festival's "unsung heroes". A handshake, a pat on the back and simple words of thanks are fitting for your friends and neighbors, the individuals who are the names and faces behind such "unsung heroes".

EARL YOUNG PROGRAM

The Charlevoix Historical Society and the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library are co-sponsoring "The Life and Works of Earl Young, Charlevoix's Builder in Stone, Part 2," an illustrated program on the life and works of Charlevoix's master builder Earl Young.

Young arrived in town as a boy in the late 1890s. Beginning in 1921, he erected around 30 unique buildings, almost all in stone, that have served as a signature image of Charlevoix around the world.

The program will be narrated by Harsha House Museum co-director David L. Miles. Part 2 will focus on the Weathervane Inn restaurant, The Lodge and Weathervane Terrace motels, his final three houses on Round Lake, his design philosophy, unorthodox design methods and legacy. Particular attention will be paid to the near loss of the Weathervane Inn in the early 1970s when it came close to sliding into the channel. This program will be presented at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 9 also at the library.

For more information, call (231) 547-0373. There is no admission charge. Light refreshments will be served.

City Council turns down the volume

Draft Noise Control Ordinance considered

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Loud stereos, construction or shouting could soon result in an immediate ticket in the City of Charlevoix.

City council is considering a revision to its noise ordinance that gives the council the option to prohibit specific decibel levels of sound at all times in the city, or specify decibel levels allowed in a 24-hour period.

"I think there are residential areas of the town that are too noisy," said Council member Gene Beer. "People shouldn't have to listen to noisy motorcycles, noisy vehicles, boom boxes coming from vehicles."

Gerard Doan

Police chief Gerard Doan has reviewed the 'Noise Control Ordinance' draft to make recommendations.

The current ordinance allows construction noises between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. Loud shouts, yelling, hooting, whistling or singing are not allowed between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Noise from radios, televisions and musical instruments are not allowed between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Under this ordinance, a citation is given for disturbing or excessive noise when a call is made to the police. The police then interview witnesses before giving the noisy person a citation.

If enacted, the Noise Control Ordinance would prohibit

"What we learn in Minneapolis we'll be sure to apply to our bridges here."

Bill Shreck
MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION COMMUNICATIONS DIRECTOR

Michigan Department of Transportation director Kirk T. Steudle held a press conference about the safety of Michigan's highway bridges after the recent bridge collapse in Minneapolis.

"It is important to note that bridge collapses such as the one that happened in Minneapolis are extremely rare," Steudle said.

Michigan Department of Transportation communications director Bill Shreck said Charlevoix's Memorial Bridge is in good condition.

Shreck said bridges in Michigan, including Memorial Bridge, are inspected every two years per National Bridge Inspection Standards. Memo-

CORRECTION

Due to an editing error a date in a letter to the editor entitled "Lights out" authored by John Runberg of Beaver Island that was published on page five of the July 25 edition of the Charlevoix Courier was incorrect. It should have read the power outage occurred on June 18.

In the July 11 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, it was reported by Stefanie Carano that Nynke Bierma, Unne Kallmeyer and Pertti Salmela were Charlevoix's first foreign exchange students. Charlevoix's first foreign exchange student was Ruby Saunders from Northern Ireland in 1959, who was sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches.

any general noise disturbance and specifically prohibit heavy equipment work, general construction noise and exhaust at all times with the exception of work on essential services. It could also allow police to immediately cite noise violators with the use of a decibel reader. Doan said he has borrowed a sound decibel reader should the city decide to adopt a maximum noise level. If council approves the use of a decibel reader, excessive sound could be detected immediately and violators could be cited on the spot. Doan also said he wanted a distance assigned to sound-producing devices, such as a 100 foot rule.

Regarding noise, he said the strongest complaint will be motorcycles.

Council has scheduled to make a decision on the draft by Sept. 4. No fines have been discussed at this time.

Doan said the biggest noise problem in the city is at the intersection of State and Garfield streets.

What? A new city noise ordinance is proposed for the City of Charlevoix.

Who? The Charlevoix City Council, city attorney and City Police Department are examining the Noise Control Ordinance draft.

When? According to City Clerk Carol Ochs, the council will act on the noise ordinance issue by Sept. 4.

Why? Council member Gene Beer asked for a revision. He said the residential areas of the city are too noisy and people shouldn't have to listen to motorcycles, noisy vehicles and loud car stereos at night.

Local bridge inspected every two years for safety

BRIDGE

rial Bridge's last inspection was in October of last year. Its superstructure received rating of 8 and substructure received a rating of 6. A rating of 0-4 would require that it be inspected more often.

"In Charlevoix, we inspect it at least every two years," Shreck said. "If it would start to show wear, we would inspect it more often."

He said there are four bridges in Michigan like the one in Minneapolis, the closest one being on M-55 in Manistee.

"We inspected that as of two days ago," Shreck said. "As we learn what we learn from Minneapolis, we'll do whatever we need to do."

Steudle said that the state has significantly increased funding to rehabilitate and replace bridge structures over the past 10 years and will invest $180 million in state bridges over the next five years.

"What we learn in Minneapolis we'll be sure to apply to our bridges here," Shreck said.

Construction mess no match for events planners

EDITORIAL

It's time to stop, catch our breath and say, "Great work."

As the hectic summer events schedule winds down the Courier staff has reflected on the past three months.

Fears that Charlevoix would be a ghost town this summer in lieu of heavy duty construction in our crown jewels, East Park and the municipal marina, were met with crowds that attended our events and vacationed here just like in years past.

While Charlevoix's natural resources like beautiful beaches and awesome recreation opportunities can be thanked in part for attracting tourists, it's the residents we want to recognize.

The staff at the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce has pulled off what we experienced as being flawless events. The chamber team was displaced from its home in the spring and moved to Mason Street while simultaneously being faced with the loss of their events venue. With the traditional event home, East Park, looking like a wrecking ball ran through it, the chamber team relocated art and craft fairs, the Taste of Charlevoix and band concerts without a hitch.

Venetian Festival according to many was one of the best ever thanks to the hard work of a huge volunteer corps and careful planning by Dan Barron and the Venetian Festival Inc. board. In fact, an on-line Courier poll showed 55 percent of voters preferred this year's Venetian home, Lake Michigan Beach, to its traditional domicile, East Park.

The classic car loving folks at Street Legends roared through town with a shining show and the Charlevoix Council for the Arts crew pulled off another first-class Waterfront Art Fair.

All of this event success was supported by the flexible, competent city staff who according to many went beyond the call of duty when it came to being helpful and responsive.

Wow, storefronts are dripping in beautiful, healthy flowers and colorful displays. And the myriad new businesses have given Bridge Street the thriving look it needs.

Now it's time to say, "Thank you" to those merchants by shopping their sales this weekend as we usher out the summer events season with the final hurrah, end of summer sidewalk sales Aug. 16-18.

If this is what Charlevoix can pull off without its crown jewels, we can't wait to see what next summer brings.

Society's real heroes are those who maintain

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

I have heard and read the word "infrastructure" more times in the past two weeks than in the five years previous. We are suddenly interested in and concerned about infrastructure because a bridge on an interstate highway in Minneapolis, Minn. collapsed with some loss of life.

A few revelations emerge from our societal response to the tragedy. The almost total failure of the television news programs to cover anything from the rest of the world, for example, provides a serious indictment of their informative efforts. That news and perspective from the rest of the world should take a back seat, while we are provided an interview with the second cousin of someone who heard the sound of the bridge collapsing, suggest only an effort to fill air time. It cannot be called news by any imaginable standard. The collapse of one bridge is not a reason that every news story for the following 48 hours must have some connection, however tenuous, to bridges. If the (particularly television media) goal is to inform listeners and watchers about world events, such single story reporting makes very little sense.

Another major revelation from the story of our failing infrastructure is the necessity of maintenance to our continued survival as a civilization. To quote Eric Hoffer, a literate longshoreman famous for his 15 minutes of fame a couple of decades ago, "If you want to know the status of a culture, do not look at the new buildings, look for the broom hanging on the wall behind the door."

What Hoffer had in mind was the long-term importance of maintaining what has been built. Money for new bridges, even bridges to an Alaskan island with a few dozen people on it, is readily available from tax dollars, but money for maintenance is the most easily refused. When money is short, maintenance is the simplest thing to delay or defer. No one will notice the problem for years, and by then a legislator can be out of office and on to a new career as a lobbyist. No one gets prizes or awards for maintaining what has been built. I have never seen a plaque that says, "This is to honor the people who maintained this structure for 50 years." The plaques are all for the builders

Maintenance is hard, unrewarding and generally not very glamorous. The only thing important about it is its absolute necessity. I imagine that most of the citizens of Charlevoix, and of Michigan generally, understand better than most the importance, the absolute necessity, of bridge maintenance. We should then be able to understand the general importance of infrastructure maintenance better than most other citizens.

Maybe we could lead a movement. Maybe we could make maintenance sexy enough to corral interest and funds. Maybe we could put up the first plaque for maintainers. At least a part of the reason we should be willing to pay taxes is to assure that our bridges, waterworks, highways, schools and public structures of all kinds are not only built, but maintained. If we were to reward politicians with our votes when they support maintenance projects, maybe they would get the message. Surely we don't need a series of disasters to remind us that maintenance is at least as important as building. We should be certain that sufficient funds are and will be available for the maintenance of our new portside park. Honor the maintainers and their work. Our civilization will collapse if we do not work and pay to maintain it.

LETTERS to the editor

RENAME EAST PARK EARL A. YOUNG PARK

Editor:

I want to thank city council, for their part in Charlevoix, now having such a wonderful library, marina and soon new East Park. Towns 10 times our size will be envious.

It is the new park that this letter will address. As Dave Miles, chairman of the Historical Society, so beautifully told us last Thursday, East Park was born on June 7, 1935. That was the day the Charlevoix Hotel burned down. When the debris from the fire was removed, Round Lake could then be seen from Bridge Street. A city park was envisioned from this opening between the buildings, and our "post card view" of Round Lake, into Lake Charlevoix, was begun. Seventy-two years later we enjoy a sight, daily, that is the pride of Charlevoix.

An accomplishment like this doesn't just happen. Especially beginning in the depth of the Great Depression, when spending money to buy land, for a city park, was not a priority. Someone had to lead the vision, and an opportunity, like this. The leader had businesses, citizens, and the city, purchase this, and future openings to Round Lake. He was the same man who was creating the homes and buildings, which help give Charlevoix a uniqueness and charm. These creations are found nowhere else.

This man's dream of a park, the breadth of our harbor, which was first seen between two buildings, will finally be accomplished next spring 2008. I think it is time we honor this man, who gave Charlevoix uniqueness, charm, houses that make us smile, and envisioned a view that now makes us sigh.

I ask that the Charlevoix City Council consider naming our completely new park "Earl A. Young Park."

RESPECT CROSSWALKS

Editor:

We have been full-time residents of Charlevoix until recently. We are now summer residents. We have noticed the increase in traffic in Charlevoix. The crosswalks seem to be ignored by the majority of drivers.

When we visited California, if you even looked like you wanted to use the crosswalk, cars stopped. In Florida, our winter drivers stop for pedestrians in the crosswalks. In both states there are warning signs with hefty fines listed.

In Petoskey, there are warning signs at crosswalks, and people are not bothered by cars ignoring them.

In Charlevoix, we heard of a person being hit by a car in the crosswalk. A policeman saw it and arrested the driver. Fortunately, the car was moving slowly and the person was only shaken up.

I was almost hit by a driver leaving the Weathervane turning left. I had to run to avoid being hit. Charlevoix is not pedestrian friendly to summer visitors.

If something isn't done, sooner or later, someone will be hurt or killed. The city could face a lawsuit.

Our suggestion would be, post signs with fines for not stopping for pedestrians in a crosswalk. This is an important matter that could be taken up with city council.

SEE-NORTH BENEFIT A SUCCESS

Editor:

SEE-North would like to thank everyone who made the fourth annual benefit a great success. The effort of the volunteers, the generosity of the donors and participation of our guests is greatly appreciated. They all made it a fun and successful event.

The evening also provided an opportunity for people to see the Center for Outdoor Studies, which officially opened in July. The center offers day camps, education programs and is the home of Northwings, SEE-North's live raptor program.

SEE-North is moving into its twenty-second year of providing the highest quality math, science and environmental education to children, schools and the community. SEE-North continues to lead the way and be an example and inspiration to other environmental organizations. Thank you for supporting this valuable work.

Visitors are welcome to visit the Exploration Center, located in Petoskey, to enjoy the interactive science exhibits and the Center for Outdoor Studies, just north of Harbor Springs, for live raptor programs. Contact SEE-North at (231) 348-9700 for information or to make a contribution.

SUPPORT DIPLOMACY

Editor:

Recently Senators Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton publicly disagreed over whether the United States should use presidential level diplomatic resources to communicate with the leaders of such adversary nations as North Korea, Syria, Cuba, Venezuela and Iran.

Senator Obama argued for using the highest diplomatic means to communicate with the leaders of these states to forestall hostilities and attempt to resolve our differences. Senator Clinton disagreed.

Senator Obama's courage and determination to use the power of the presidency to engage other world leaders reflects the kind of positive change his election would bring to our country.

We are living with the consequences of an administration that brushed off diplomacy, brushed off people who know and understand such troubled areas as the Middle East.

The result of our go-it-alone policy that got us into Iraq, before all diplomatic avenues were exhausted, has been the exponential expansion of terrorist networks around the world. Now the sabers are rattling against Iran and North Korea.

Senator Obama's position was supported on July 24 in statements made by a distinguished bipartisan group of former presidential advisers, Congressional, foreign policy and military leaders, including former Secretaries of State Madeleine Albright and James Baker, former Secretaries of Defense Frank Carlucci and William Perry, former Secretary of Homeland Security Tom Ridge and former Secretary of the Treasury Robert Rubin.

This group of prominent Republicans and Democrats released a statement urging the 2008 presidential candidates to define new visions for U.S. foreign policy and national security that will prioritize greater investments in international development and diplomacy.

"America must focus more of its resources for global engagement on political and diplomatic solutions, rather than military — as we have learned in Iraq," said former Representative Lee Hamilton, vice-chair of the 9/11 Commission. "We know that foreign assistance and diplomacy keep America safer by combating terrorism, engendering goodwill toward the United States, and alleviating conditions that leave fragile countries such as Afghanistan, Iraq and Sudan vulnerable to the influence of extremist groups."

To engage in diplomacy at the highest level does not to offer a seal of approval to an adversary. To engage in diplomacy would demonstrate the real courage of this country. To discuss differences and seek peaceful solutions is the most brave and sane path.

Senator Obama got it right.

Unsung Heroes of Venetian... Part 2

As a result of the warm response to last week's "Unsung Heroes" acknowledgments, the Venetian Festival is pleased to recognize and commend more of its "Unsung Heroes". Like the Festival itself, the "Unsung Heroes" are a rich and colorful weave of the fabric of Charlevoix. Should any additional "Unsung Heroes" come to mind, please let us know by writing to the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, P.O. Box 120, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720, or by corresponding to info@venetianfestival.com.

Charlevoix Screenmasters

Like clockwork, Roger Nesburg and his crew at Charlevoix Screenmasters keep the "Venetian" name out front and center. From Festival signs, banners and burgees, to the sharp array of Festival clothing, Charlevoix Screenmasters never fails to graciously stop on a dime, to deliver the Venetian goods to their hometown.

The Boy Scouts, Kiwanis, Rod and Gun Club and Lions Club

These community organizations have, year in and year out and with true local color, served up food and beverages to Festival goers. Although they knew their 2007 revenues would be down due to the relocation of the Festival to Lake Michigan Beach, they still willingly and faithfully chose to serve their community. Thank you, thank you, thank you, thank you!

Amy Kurtz

Just as the Venetian Festival has realized a 21st century renaissance, so has Amy Kurtz realized remarkable growth and maturity as an event coordinator. Amy joined the Festival in 2003 as an energetic freshman at the University of Michigan. Amy has risen from her original position as administrative assistant to assistant director, serving as a "Rock of Gibraltar" for Venetian Festival staging. Among many other things, Amy has overseen numerous volunteer groups, including her inner volunteer circle comprised of her mom and dad, Elaine and John, and her close friend, Andrea Tuck. Amy will soon be leaving us for the beautiful beaches of Hawaii. Best wishes Amy, we'll miss you dearly!

Bill "Supie" Supernaw

"Supie" became the voice of the Venetian Street Parade in the 1969 era, as the very first announcer of the parade. Bill joined the Venetian volunteer ranks with such other notable and colorful figures as the late Tom Merta and "Topper" Carey. Supie has since continued to entertain with his wit and humor from the parade grandstand, sharing well and little known facts and trivia, with capable assistance from Dick Stangis and Jeanne Seymour.

Frank Ochs

Frank may be the only local with actual "hands on" knowledge of the first Venetian boat parades. In fact, Frank personally lit the candles of the Japanese lanterns aboard his small sailboat, in his very first Venetian boat parade back in 1939! Frank also spins great stories, such as the advent of electrical lighting for the boat parade entrants, which did not occur until well after World War II. Frank has continued to participate in Venetian boat parades, most recently in 2007 aboard the "Apothecary".

Al Shindorf

It was wonderfully ironic that Al Shindorf recently won the 2007 Venetian 50/50 fireworks raffle. As many know by word of mouth, Al has enlivened the street parade for the past 36 years as Venetian's large and nameless clown, sporting the multicolored hairdo. Al kicked off his clown "schtick" back in his original hometown of Belding, but as a result of Al's community spirit, this is one clown which has become a heart warming Charlevoix tradition.

Dale Boss

Charlevoix's "Mr. Petunia" is unquestionably a premier ambassador of our community. Despite his rigorous and daily petunia watering schedule, Dale still summons up the energy and enthusiasm of a school boy, in transporting the Venetian Queen's Court to countless parades throughout the State each and every year. Dale first ventured to other parades, via convertible, back in 1967. The Venetian Queen's Court, aboard their beautiful nautical-themed float, always in tow behind Dale and Charlevoix's unique petunia watering truck, are a crowd favorite and have won numerous awards.

Library opens Early Literacy Stations

Courtesy photo

Sara LaRussa, 4, works at one of four new Early Literacy Stations at Charlevoix Public Library.

"They did it right," said Christine Hauke, youth services librarian. "The AWE Early Literacy Stations put all the best preschool and elementary computer programs together in a fun, easy-to-access format for kids."

These new computers have familiar favorites like Reader Rabbit, Microsoft Paint, and Between the Lions and come complete with colored keyboards and headphones. Art, science and audio/video books are programs available for preschoolers and early elementary students. For older students, science, geography games and the Encarta encyclopedia will engage their attention.

These computers are self-contained and not connected to the Internet accessible, making them a safe alternative for younger users.

For more information about this or other youth activities at the library, contact the youth services desk at (231) 237-7350.

Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 West Clinton St.

OBITUARIES

Helen spent the winters at the Atlanta home of her son Carl and daughter-in law Nancy. Following a bout with pneumonia in February she was unable to return this spring to the Sneathen Farm on Maple Grove Road in Hayes Township.

She was preceded in death by her husband Bud, brothers, Kenneth and Donald Bare, brothers-in-law George and Frank Sneathen and sisters-in-law Eileen Bare and Mary Sneathen.

Helen was born on July 2, 1920 and moved from Royal Oak to Petoskey in 1931 and graduated from Petoskey High School in 1936. She married Bud in 1939 and in 1945 they moved to the Sneathen farm on Maple Grove Road. She worked as a bookkeeper for The First State Bank of Petoskey, Charlevoix Area Hospital and as church secretary for the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

A memorial service will take place at noon on Aug. 19 at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church where memorial contributions may be directed.

Bonnie L. Lewis, 67, of Charlevoix, died Wednesday, Aug. 1 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

She was born on March 24, 1940 in Alha to Keith and Nina (Hulbert) Strickland. Bonnie was known as a great cook.

She is survived by her daughters, Lori J. Bumstead of Grand Rapids, Connie K. Hammock of Crescent City, Fla.; sons, Lawrence "Bub" Lewis Hartle and Thomas Keith Dixon of Charlevoix; six grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; sisters, Sandra and Crystal; and brother, Keith.

Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is serving the family.

Charlene Ann Atkins, 73, of Charlevoix, and Sarasota, Fla., died Saturday, Aug. 4 at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

She was born Aug. 11, 1933 in Spring Lake, to Charles and Ann Dusterwinkle. Ann graduated from Western Michigan University with a bachelor of arts degree in 1954. On Dec. 21, 1953 she married Robert H. Atkins in Kalamazoo, and they made their home in Toledo, Ohio. After their children were raised, she worked at the Sylvania Savings Bank and for the Toledo Hospital. Charlene and Robert were active in many antique automobile clubs.

She is survived by her husband, Robert H. of Charlevoix; daughters, Connie (Pete) Smith of Cadillac, Susie (Cliff) Stockman of Lambertville; sons, David (Sara) Atkins, and Douglas (Linda) Atkins all of Texas; seven grandchildren; brother, Dr. Sherwood (Kathy) Dusterwinkle.

A private service will be held. Memorial contributions may be made to the Straits Area Hospice, 261 Lafayette, Cheboygan, MI, 49721. The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling the arrangements.

Dr. Leonard Siudara

Dr. Leonard J. "Doc" Siudara, born June 26, 1913 in Detroit, age 94, of Berkley and Beaver Island, died peacefully Saturday, Aug. 4 at William Beaumont Hospital having lived a remarkably full and healthy life.

Until a few months ago, he was independent, driving, shopping, going to Mass, gardening and caring for himself at his longtime home in Berkley. He was thought to be the most senior of Berkley's senior citizens.

Husband of Alexandrine Siudara for 67 years, who died in 2005, brother of Helene Zaremha of Sterling Heights, and brother of the late Joseph and Arthur Siudara. Father of Dr. Jerome "Jerry" (Elizabeth) of Cheboygan, Leonard, "Bud" (Susan) of Troy, Timothy (Elizabeth) of Metamora, Thomas (Patricia) of Sterling Heights, James (Cynthia) of Metamora, and Maribeth Suidara Giliam of Holly, grandfather of Missy, Patrick, Michael, Andy, Chris, Peter, Jaime Beth Priest, Mark, Andrea, Tyler and Tiffany. Great-grandfather of two.

Dr. Suidara personified in every way the storied determination and success of the "greatest generation." He was the eldest son of immigrant parents and was raised on the family farm in Rochester. He was an achiever early on, skipping eighth-grade, entering Rochester High School and earning 14 athletic letters. He was a self-made man whose will to succeed was tempered by the pain of the Great Depression. He was dedicated to his wife, Alex and his six children to whom he passed his personal work ethic.

Dr. Siudara was honored as the Michigan 4-H Health Champion in 1932, which was a coveted award in the agricultural economy of the time. He earned a degree in pharmacy while working on the production line of an auto plant. He met Alex on an ice skating blind date on Belle Isle. They married in 1937. He then went on to the Andrew Still College of Osteopathic Medicine in Des Moines, Iowa, the father of two, going to class in the day and reading medical books while tending bar in the evenings. His work ethic then and throughout his life was nothing less than incredible, yet he was quiet, humble and unassuming. His bright blue eyes and his ever present boy tie were personal trademarks.

Dr. Siudara did his internship at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital and then came to Berkley in 1948, building a home and opening a family medical practice. There were few doctors in the suburbs of Detroit in the post World War II era. His practice included obstetrics and he delivered hundreds of "baby boomers." His record was 12 deliveries in a single week. He made "house calls" for patients who were too ill to come to his office. He often would accept a homemade apple pie for his service. He was loved by his patients. He was active in the Shrine of the Little Flower parish caring for the nuns and priests, and for many years was the side-line "doc" for the Shrine High football team. He served as president of the Oakland County Osteopathic Physicians Society and was among the group that founded Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital in the 1950s. His credits to the community were many.

Dr. Siudara was a man for all seasons. He was at home in a duck blind, chugging for walleyes in the St. Clair River, or hunting pheasants in a farmer's field. He taught his kids to be adventuresome and he led by example. He was a quietly pious man. Rather than listening to the radio while driving to the hospital to make early morning rounds, he would pray the rosary. His instructive euphemisms were many, favorite being, "Can't never did anything."

Doc and Alex were among the early yachting explorers to the northern waters of Lake Huron in the 1950s and 1960s. Wherever the "Alexandra" went on the lakes each summer, there was always a boatload of kids with them. They were early members of the Clinton River Boat Club and did much to develop "Club Island" where the "Alexandra" was regularly moored for many a summer.

Dr. Siudara retired from his 30 years of medical practice in 1977. But sitting still proved not to be his cup of tea. He and Alex moved to Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan two years later and "Doc" became the resident island physician for the next seven years. Doc and Alex were troopers to live on Beaver Island year-round, braving the winter gales and heating their north shore home with a wood burner. It was not uncommon to see Doc making winter "house calls" on his snowmobile. Doc hung up his stethoscope for good in 1986. He and Alex returned to Berkley but continued to summer on Beaver Island from May through October for the next 18 years. He took up golf at 80 and regularly played the Beaver Island Golf course until four years ago.

A funeral Mass took place on Aug. 8 at the National Shrine of the Little Flower. Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery on Beaver Island. In lieu of flowers donations may be made to the Shrine of the Little Flower Church, Royal Oak, MI.

Leola Marie King, 88, of Plymouth and formerly of Charlevoix born on Nov. 22, 1918 died Aug. 5 at her family home.

She was the youngest child of Charles and Anna Freeman and, like her siblings, attended Frains Lake School and graduated from Ypsilanti High School. Leola attended Ypsilanti Normal College (Eastern Michigan University), leaving after three years as a home economics major, to marry Clarence H. King, the love of her life, in 1939. They farmed in Superior and Salem Townships for several years before Clarence began a career with Michigan Farm Bureau. He died in 1979.

Leola was predeceased by her parents and siblings, Emily Reed, Glen Freeman, Gladys Billock, Joscelyn Freeman, Ida Freeman, Laverne Downs and Eleanor Wescott; her husband, Clarence; a nephew; grand-nephew; and two great-grandchildren.

Leola was a dedicated homemaker, devoted to raising and enjoying her children. She attended the high school graduations of all her grandchildren and was an honored guest at most of their weddings. She traveled extensively including camping trips with the family when her children were at home. As a widow, she visited her widespread family in the U.S. She spent her last 10 winters in Florida with her daughter, Bonnie and made a trip to Europe with her daughter, Frances. She was also an avid reader, Scrabble player and pie-baker extraordinaire.

Clarence and Leola moved to Charlevoix in 1975, where she was an active member of the Charlevoix Community Church of God and the Charlevoix Gideons Auxiliary. For many years, she was a faithful volunteer at the Rainbow Shop and gift shop of Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A memorial service for Leola will take place at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 18 at the Dixboro United Methodist Church. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations in her memory be given to the Gideons International Charlevoix Camp, P.O. Box 252, Boyne City, MI 49712.

Improvements needed at Charlevoix Depot

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix Depot Museum, located off Coast Guard Drive, needs multiple repairs in order to continue to be a community resource.

Needed work at the former train station include replacing the hardwood over the foundation, improving drainage and leveling the ground beneath the brick that surrounds the structure. Costs are estimated at $80,000.

"We use the building for special exhibits," said Steve Goslee, co-director of the Charlevoix Historical Society. "We also have our monthly programs there."

The society has already received a grant from an anonymous individual to help improve the Depot. The "challenge grant" consists of $40,000 and is a matching grant. So far the society has been able to match $8,870, with $4,000 from a community foundation grant and $4,870 from the general public.

Goslee said he is confident that the Historical Society will be able to match the remaining funds. He said due to the expense, the Historical Society will be focusing on one job at a time.

"We're working on it in sections," Goslee said. "It's urgent to get the building straightened before anything happens to it."

The cost to straighten the Depot building is about $22,000. Goslee said the back corner is out of line by a couple of inches due to rotting floorboards.

"The hardwood floor needs to be repaired," he said. "We had flooring we salvaged from the old middle school gymnasium that matches, we just need to raise the money to have the work done."

Another urgent project, Goslee said, are the bricks surrounding the structure.

"The bricks are a safety concern because they're a trip hazard," he said. "We'd like to do that as soon as possible."

Work would include having the ground leveled, gravel put in and replacing the brick.

The Charlevoix Depot Museum, also referred to as "The Depot," was built in 1892 and connected Charlevoix to other communities by railroad. In 1992, the property was donated to the Charlevoix Historical Society by Mary and Robert Pew.

Charlevoix women honored with peace awards

On August 5, two Charlevoix women were recognized for their peace activities by the Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom at its annual Hiroshima Remembrance and Reflection event.

Mary C. "Molly" Tate and Barbara MacArthur were named recipients of the Beatrice and Hugh Henshaw Peace Builders Award and presented with framed Peace Angel prints by local artist Susan Bolt.

Five members of the Greensky Indian Church, Tate, Debby Slocum, Carol Tunison, Alice Harvey and Judy Johnson, drummed and sang Native American music while local musicians Ellis Boal and Steve Little performed songs accompanied by guitars. JoAnne Beemon used BB pellets to demonstrate the explosive power of nuclear weapons while Phillip Crooks read Henri Nouwen's "Prayer for a Nuclear Age." David Wassenaar served as master of ceremonies.

Tate was honored for her efforts to build healthy communities in Kent County through her involvement in health care programs for low-income families, prison ministries/restorative justice, and parenting programs for high-risk mothers. Through these programs she aimed to reduce violence and substance abuse. Currently, she is active in a national campaign to establish a Department of Peace. Recently, she obtained support for the department from Charlevoix City Council.

League chairman Bruce Sanderson cited MacArthur, a 26-year League member, for editing the quarterly Peace Digest since 2000, a publication with a circulation of over 400. She has organized the annual Hiroshima remembrance since 2002 and served as the organization's co-chair for the past year.

Introduction of past Henshaw Award recipients included Bruce and Charlotte Sanderson, Dr. Gerald and Martha Drake, and JoAnne Beemon. Ellen Addington, also a recipient, could not attend.

August 8, 2007

Dear Friends,

I am excited to share some good news with you! We will be moving our dental office to a new location in Charlevoix during the last week of September, 2007.

I have enjoyed caring for your dental needs from the Charlevoix Hospital Medical Center these past 10 years, and am pleased to see the many areas of growth and development there. However, this growth brings challenges with it. The hospital staff and patient base is expanding faster than existing office space. Parking at the hospital complex is a challenge, as many of you have experienced. And to complicate matters further, our present building is no longer as structurally sound as it once was and is scheduled for demolition. Consequently, despite our wonderful working relationship with the hospital over the years, we have decided to move our office to a more central location in town.

My family and I enjoy Charlevoix and the small town atmosphere, but we also realize that in a small town, news can travel fast. So I wanted to take this opportunity to let you know first-hand about our new location.

Our new office location will be at 109 West Hurlbut, which is on the corner of Bridge Street (US 31) and West Hurlbut, on the hill, across from the 7/11 convenience store.

Look for our announcement about a grand re-opening once we know exactly when the move will take place.

Eagerly awaiting our move,

Harry M. Suckert DDS

Rescues, accidents and beefed up patrols

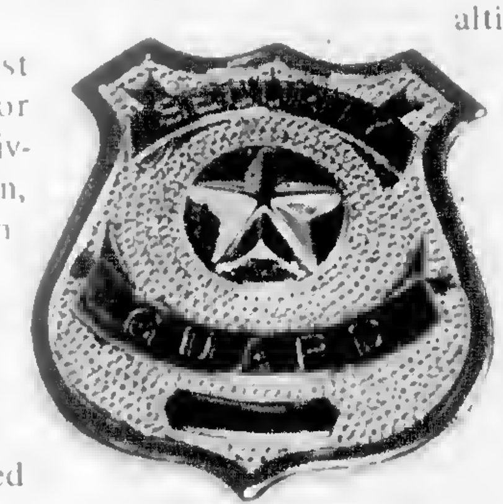
Crackdown on drunk driving starts Friday

Law enforcement officers in northern Michigan are putting motorists on notice that if they drive with a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of .08 or above, they'll be arrested.

More than 500 Michigan law enforcement agencies will participate in the Over the Limit, Under Arrest crackdown from Aug. 17 through Sept. 3 to keep holiday motorists safe. The effort runs through Labor Day, the traditional end of the busy summer travel season.

The Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning (OHSP) is coordinating the enforcement effort by administering federal traffic safety funds to more than 230 agencies in 55 counties and by funding paid advertising to ensure widespread awareness of the crackdown. Charlevoix County is one of those funded by the grant.

"Officers will arrest anyone they find driving drunk, with no exceptions," Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning director Michael L. Prince said. "Additional patrols over the next few weeks will ensure that drunk drivers won't go undetected."



During last year's Labor Day drunk driving crackdown, more than 3,400 motorists were arrested for drunk driving and other alcohol-related offenses.

Statistics from 2006 show that drunk driving laws still need to be strictly enforced. About 40 percent of all traffic fatalities in Michigan involved alcohol and/or drugs, and 440 people died in alcohol and/or drug-related crashes. Over the 2006 Labor Day holiday weekend, eight people died in Michigan crashes. Two of those fatalities involved alcohol, according to the Michigan Department of State Police, Criminal Justice Information Center.

Motorists face severe penalties for driving drunk. Those convicted of a first drunk driving offense face up to 93 days in jail, up to $500 fine, up to 360 hours of community service, 6 points on a driver's license and up to 180 days' license suspension.

In addition, convicted drunk drivers will be subject to a $1,000 fee for two consecutive years, for a total of $2,000 in additional costs. Anyone who refuses a breath test the first time is given an automatic one-year driver's license suspension.

Woman impaled in Aug. 7 bike accident

At around 1:20 p.m. on Aug. 7, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to assist Allied EMS with a bicycle personal injury accident on the bike path in Bay Shore.

The victim, Laurie Kaufman, 60 of West Bloomfield, was impaled by the handlebars of the bike. Ambulance and fire emergency crews from the City of Charlevoix used the Jaws of Life to cut the bicycle free of the victim prior to transporting her to Northern Michigan Hospital.

The victim was wearing a helmet at the time of the accident. The cause of the accident is unknown at this time and remains under investigation.

Beware of illegal drugs sold online

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater advises that a company using the name of mypharmausa.net is attempting to solicit citizens to purchase prescriptions online without a prescription from a doctor.

Lasater warns citizens that it's illegal to obtain prescription drugs without a prescription from a doctor. Mypharmausa.net is an overseas company that is operating illegally.

Lasater would like to remind citizens that any offer online that seems too good to be true probably is.

Heart attack victim airlifted from Garden Island to Charlevoix

At approximately 3:15 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 6, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Beaver Island Substation was contacted to respond to Garden Island for a 70-year-old female who was experiencing low blood pressure and was in and out of consciousness.

The Beaver Island Water Rescue Team comprised of Charlevoix County Sheriff's Deputies, Beaver Island Fire Rescue and Beaver Island EMS responded to Garden Island Summer Enchantment. The sheriff's Water Rescue Boat was in route to Garden Island with deputy Nate Kaminski, paramedic Lisa Rose, master fire rescuer Gerald LaFerniere, master fire rescuer Jim Stambaugh and fire rescue Garrette Cole.

The rescue boat was notified by central dispatch that there was a doctor on scene and believed the female had a heart attack and was in bad shape. At that time the rescue boat had the United States Coast Guard helicopter launched to assist at 3:39 p.m. The rescue boat arrived on Garden Island at 3:45 p.m.

The Coast Guard helicopter landed moments later to assist. The woman was stabilized, loaded onto the helicopter and air lifted to Charlevoix with Rose on board.

Battle of the sexes waged in local businesses

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

No matter what anyone tells you, women are not equal to men, at least when it comes to their salaries.

THE STUDY

According to two new nationwide studies of gender equity in the workplace, women are less likely to receive equal treatment or equal pay as a man performing identical work.

"Just one year after college graduation, women earn only 80 percent of what their male counterparts earn. Ten years after graduation, women fall further behind, earning only 69 percent of what men earn," stated Rebecca Leaf in a press release from the American Association of University Women. "Even after controlling for hours, occupation, parenthood and other factors known to affect earnings, the research indicates that one-quarter of the pay gap remains unexplained and is likely due to sex discrimination. Over time, the unexplained portion of the pay gap grows."

And, according to an Aug. 3 Reuters story, angry men are more apt for promotion while angry women are seen as "out of control."

Founded in 1963 to fight discrimination based on national origin, age, arrest record, weight, color, religion, race, sex, marital status, height, physical or mental disabilities, the Michigan Department of Civil Rights received 1,522 complaints alleging discrimination based on gender in 2005 (the 2006 figure has yet to be published).

"Any concerns people have concerning gender discrimination in employment and in pay should contact the Michigan Department of Civil Rights to file a complaint," said the department's public information officer, Harold Core.

Gender discrimination complaints were the second most filed with the state, just behind 2,753 for racial discrimination and ahead of disability discrimination at 1,282.

THE WOMEN ON THE FRONT LINES

In light of these recent studies, the Charlevoix Courier sat down with some local working women to get their perspective on the issue.

"I've heard other women talk about it (sex discrimination). It's always a subject among women," said Elaine West, publisher of the Northern Islander newspaper on Beaver Island. "I've never really experienced it myself."

She added, "I grew up with three brothers, and my father was kind of a hustling, domineering, loud guy so I learned to hold my own early on in my life."

While West said she learned to stand up to her male counterparts, she has heard of women who were not taken seriously in the workplace.

"I've read the (statistics) on it so obviously some things are going on in perhaps some of the larger corporations," she said. "But, I'm seeing more and more women in positions of authority and now there is a woman running for president — years ago they didn't think she could stand a chance, but now she is a real contender."

She added, "Not too many years ago we didn't have the right to vote, but things have changed. I think that stands for something."

Patricia Dillon, owner of My Sister's Closet in Charlevoix, said she has witnessed unequal treatment.

"I've been there where the guys were promoted with raises and I wasn't, and I was doing better than they were," Dillon said. "Most of the male bosses I worked for were nice, I got along with them fine, but a couple were pretty bigoted and not very easy to get along with."

She added, "I come from an old-fashioned family where women didn't say much and let the husband do most of the talking."

Dillon's advice for up and coming working women is, "Just hold your own and hang in there. That's all I did and don't let them get in the way."

Mary H. Faculak, owner of Mary's of Boyne, The EJ Shop and part owner of Halfway To The Top of Charlevoix said her experience in business for the past 20 years has been nothing but positive.

"I've never seen any discrimination. I've always been treated as an equal and if it did happen, I would be the first one to speak up," she said. "Maybe a part of it is this area. We're so fortunate to live in an area known for friendliness and openness and we really treat others as we would want to be treated."

Faculak said her upbringing also has much to do with her confidence.

"My parents instilled in me that I could be and do anything in life I put my mind to," she said. "I've never, ever stopped and thought because I am female I can't do

Mixed reviews on workplace gender bias

Faculak's advice, "If you have the passion and you have the drive and you really want to do what you want to do, there is nothing that can stop you."

Faculak said she is concerned the negative aspects between the sexes are too often promoted while the positives are ignored.

"I hope that people, as they are reading, seek other sources of information or guidance because there are so many more success stories than failures," she said.

Jan Mancinelli, the executive director of the Women's Resource Center, said she has received a few complaints from women who felt they have been discriminated against, but has never personally experienced gender bias in the workplace.

"Statistically women do earn less than men, and historically that has not changed," she said. "I have been in my job for 29 years and when I came in, the statistics were 67 cents on the dollar, so that statistics remain relatively unchanged, why? Because we don't value women's work."

Mancinelli said young girls must be exposed to more career ideas and have the idea reinforced that there are not male or female professions.

Margie VanAlstine, assistant manager of the Charlevoix Auto Value store, has worked in the male dominated field of auto parts since 1984.

"I remember one woman who needed spark plugs and she would not let me wait on her," she said. "And, I have men who will not allow me to wait on them and it used to bother me, but it's more of a personality thing on them. If they don't want me to wait on them, I don't take it personally."

Though people are sometimes shocked to see a woman directing people to the correct radiator, starter or alternator, VanAlstine said she never missed a promotion or raise due to her sex.

"I don't feel I've been slighted because I'm a woman, this job is about time and experience," she said.

VanAlstine's advice to young women considering a career dealing with autos, "You've got to enjoy cars and know how to deal with people, but don't be afraid."

TAKE ACTION

According to the Michigan Civil Rights Commission, (800) 482-3604, here is a list of information you will need to file a complaint:

- Employer's name and address, company name, total number of employees and type of work performed.
- Timeline of incidents which occurred in the last 180 days.
- Names of those who you feel discriminated against you.
- Contact information for anyone who witnessed the discrimination.
- Copies of memos, disciplinary action or employer policies pertinent to your case.
- Description of actions you took in response to discrimination.
- Names and descriptions of any fellow employees involved in similar incidents who did not receive similar treatment.
- Contact information for your union representative.
- Status of your grievance if one has been filed.

Meet the creators behind the rotating sculptures

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

A Goliath butterfly, a lifelike stag and the men who created them will be the subject of an upcoming discussion at Charlevoix Public Library.

Two artists and the wife of a third deceased artist will be on-hand to discuss the seven sculptures which rotate from place to place across northern Michigan.

"The project was started by a group of people in 1998 that created something called the Charlevoix and Emmet County Community Cultural Plan and Crooked Tree Art Center took on this project of rotating these pieces of art," said Sandy Marquardt, volunteer coordinator with the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library. "The talk should take about an hour and then the artists will be available to talk with people and answer some questions."

One of the artists scheduled to speak does not even consider himself an artist.

"I've never taken an art class and know nothing about art," said renowned metal sculptor and owner of Moran Iron Works, Tom Moran. "I always say my pieces are good from afar, but far from good."

In spite of Moran's modesty, he has been creating metal sculptures from the head of an eagle and George Washington to a 54-foot, 550 caliber muzzleloader which fires confetti, for nearly 18 years.

"I built the world's largest pickax, which is in the Guinness Book (of World Records) and the world's largest working chainsaw," he said. "It's just a lot of fun. I try to do patriotic pieces as much as I could, but it's hard to come up with something patriotic every year."

The second artist scheduled to speak is a bit of a hero of Moran's.

"Glen McCune's art really flows and to have somebody like me and somebody like him speaking to the same crowd shouldn't even be legal," Moran said. "It's an honor to be there, especially with guys like Glen McCune."

Although Moran doesn't think of himself as one of the great northern Michigan artists, he hopes people get a moment of enjoyment from seeing his work.

"I hope it brings a smile to peoples faces," he said.

And, according to Marquardt, Moran's work does the trick.

"It's just the feeling you get from seeing them," she said. "Plus, it's fascinating, the creative process, how they do it."

She added, "They're beautiful and once you see it you're glad you did because it enriches you somehow."

Moran intends to show a brief slide show and then engage the audience in a discussion.

"I want to talk about what they want to talk about," he said. "I will let the audience decide how it will go."

Marquardt encourages anyone interested or curious about art to attend the program.

"I was probably about 20 or 21 years old when I first began to enjoy art," she said. "I remember the Detroit Institute of Art and the National Gallery in Washington, D.C. It was just an amazing experience to stand in front of a painting by Rembrandt or Renoir."

The work of Midener (deceased) will be discussed by his widow, Peggy.

The discussion will begin at 7 p.m. on Aug. 21 in the large group rooms A and B at the Charlevoix Public Library, while the rotating exhibit will continue through November 2008.

Search for the Griffon in legal limbo

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

What? Steve Libert, president of Great Lakes Exploration Group, LLC, who thinks he found the Griffon in Lake Michigan in 2001, has battled with the state over a salvage claim since 2004 The 328-year-old ship was built by Rene-Robert, Sieur de La Salle, the man instrumental in claiming what later became the Louisiana Purchase.

Court issue? Now awaiting a decision from the U.S Appellate Court in Cincinnati, Ohio, Libert, hopes the matter will be sent back to the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Michigan which, back in November 2006, denied his motions for a temporary restraining order and to enlarge the time for filing and service of the precise location of the (alleged Griffon site) artifacts.

What's next? Briefs on the matter are due by October with the court expected to reach a ruling by early December.

The fate of the Griffon identification project is once again in the hands of a court.

Now awaiting a decision from the U.S. Appellate Court in Cincinnati, Ohio, Steve Libert, the 28-year veteran of searching for the "Holy Grail" of the Great Lakes, hopes the matter will be sent back to the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Michigan which, back in November 2006, denied Libert's motions for a temporary restraining order and to enlarge the time for filing and service of the precise location of the (alleged Griffon site) artifacts.

"The judge dismissed the case on the grounds we would not give the state the precise location (of the Griffon) and that's not true. We actually gave them the location of the debris field, but they wanted us to spoon feed the exact location to them," Libert said. "The state does not even have the expertise to know what they're looking at. They don't believe it's the Griffon, but they're putting up a good fight."

He added, "They're spending a hell of a lot of taxpayer money on something they think is a barn beam."

The aforementioned "barn beam" is what Libert believes is the bowsprit off the 328-year-old ship built by Rene-Robert, Sieur de La Salle, the man instrumental in claiming what later became the Louisiana Purchase — a chunk of earth which consisted of nearly two-thirds of the United States.

The state has two main arguments. The first claim is that Libert's team, Great Lakes Exploration LLC, has not found the wreckage of the Griffon. And the second is even if Libert's team has found the Griffon, they do not have the right to dive on the site because all objects on Great Lakes bottomlands belong to the State of Michigan.

"Federal law supersedes state law when it comes to salvage. Michigan may claim the Abandoned Shipwreck Act of 1987 supersedes (federal law) but that's only certain ships," Libert said. "Michigan is the only state in the union that is claiming a right to everything on the bottomlands. Lots of people have gone to other states like Florida and such because they work with you, Virginia they work with you, but up here it comes down to two or three bureaucrats who say they own everything."

He added, "We're trying to promote this area, but (Michigan) is being such a restrictive state they're actually running some organizations out. Do you really have to explain what Michigan has to offer? If you can't sell that, you can't sell anything."

Libert is afraid the state would take physical possession of the ship if he disclosed the exact whereabouts.

"We don't want to give the location away to interlopers who will do anything to loot the vessel," Libert said. "We're still trying to identify this as the Griffon. However, with all the documentation, especially with fact of support of three top archeologists, all indicators evidence and scientific analysis point to the fact that it is possibly the Griffon."

Yet-to-be-released evidence could disprove some fallacies that haunted the legend of La Salle and may help prove the whereabouts of the ship.

"Just about two weeks ago, some people from Chicago, Ill. approached me with old documents written by La Salle himself and they translated it and there were certain things LaSalle was talking about that I did (understand) because I know northern Lake Michigan pretty well — it's sort of like a road map to where the ship is," Libert said. "Some people thought he (LaSalle) was schizophrenic, but the report shows the Jesuits were after LaSalle to destroy his credibility. They tried to get the Indians to (rise up) against LaSalle, and, this paperwork definitely supports the fact that LaSalle was on a mission for the King (of France)."

Libert added that the documents will likely come out in court at some later date, if Libert must go through an evidentiary hearing, though he would much rather cooperate with the state.

Despite ongoing legal sparring over the Griffon issue, Libert remains focused.

"I'm not going to let two or three bureaucrats deter me," he said. "The only thing that would deter me is if the City of Charlevoix asked me not to be here."

Charlevoix Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said the Griffon project is exciting and educational for all and in no danger of getting run out of the area.

Does Pachelot know the story of the Griffon's demise at sea?

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

For kids interested in the legend and lore of the Griffon, Michigan-born author Wendy Caszatt-Allen has written a high adventure.

What is the story?

"Adventures of Pachelot: Last Voyage of the Griffon," is the story of the Griffon's last voyage as seen through the eyes of an adventurous dog named Pachelot (pronounced Pash-uh-low).

Who is your audience?

"It's probably for about 11 to 14 year olds. The kids that have been buying are kids that like dogs, kids that like wilderness adventure, native American stories and then I've got a huge readership of adults too," Caszatt-Allen said.

Why should kids read about Pachelot?

"It's a fast-paced high adventure so kids are pretty engaged by that sort of thing like cliff hanger endings and humor. Kids that like Gary Paulson books would like this book," Caszatt-Allen said.

What was your inspiration?

"Just the ship itself," she said. "I grew up in the northern Michigan area — I'm from Bellaire and my parents live near Alden — so growing up around the Great Lakes and knowing those stories, and the story of the Griffon is quintessential to the Great Lakes."

How much history do you include in your story?

"It's a fictionalized account of the Griffon story. I would say the setting is historical and I utilize historical figures like LaSalle and his Lt. Tonti — they called him iron hand Tonti because he had his hand blown off and replaced with an iron hand. And then what I did was weave together various theories about what might have happened to the Griffon and I kind of put them all together in a chain of events that's obviously fictionalized."

Adventures of Pachelot: Last Voyage of the Griffon, by Wendy Caszatt-Allen

From the rear jacket of Caszatt-Allen's book: "In 1679 La Salle's famous ship the Griffon mysteriously disappeared on Lake Michigan. There is only one who knows the true story of events surrounding this tragedy: Pachelot, the ship's dog."

Search for the Griffon hinges on ownership of the lake bottom

ert) 100 percent," Carlson said.

Thought to be the first European ship on the Great Lakes and last seen on Sept. 18, 1679, the potential discovery of the Griffon could be huge for Charlevoix since production companies interested in making everything from documentaries to feature-length movies have approached Libert.

And, he said, if the debris turns out to be the Griffon, Libert would like to see a maritime museum built in Charlevoix to house some of the artifacts.

Briefs on the matter are due by October with the court expected to reach a ruling by early December.

"I'm willing to wait. The ship has been there more than 300 years, I can wait a few more years," Libert said. "Meanwhile, Michigan's economy is in dire straits economically. I'm sure this money (tax funds used to fight Libert) could go somewhere else."

He added, "All they need to do is sign a nondisclosure agreement and we could stop the court proceedings and have the attorneys figure out the contracts and proceed from there to have a positive initiative of us working together to find out, not just for ourselves, but for everyone if this is the Griffon."

Cement plant contemplates wind power

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Discussions have been taking place at St. Marys Cement Plant in Charlevoix Township of producing wind-generated electricity at the facility.

"We have a desire, it's a good thing to do," said Courtney Schmidt, St. Marys environmental director.

Wind-generated electricity requires the use of windmills or "wind turbines." Wind turbines use wind forces to spin the rotor of the turbine and drive the shaft of an electric generator.

Schmidt said moving forward with the project would require using an anemometer to study the velocity of wind on the property. Preliminary plans are in the works for a wind study.

"We're pursuing the next logical step in the process," Schmidt said. "We'd like to do one, we have not solicited quotes to do one."

Schmidt said he is acknowledging community concerns of noise and light flicker that can be generated from wind turbines that are improperly designed.

"We're cognizant of the fact that there are some issues associated with it," Schmidt said. "We have to talk to the community to make sure what we're doing is consistent with what they want to do."

Bill Henne, President of Water and Air Team Charlevoix (WATCH) said distance needs to be considered when placing the turbines. But he said if the plant can work it out, it would be a pretty great thing.

"They may have place on the property that would be suitable for that purpose," Henne said.

Last year, Schmidt was approached by a Charlevoix resident who mentioned that the plant, which shoulders Lake Michigan could be the perfect location to generate wind power. Since then, Schmidt and others at the plant have discussed the feasibility of generating wind power on plant property.

Charlevoix City Council

Item: Presentation of Tree City USA Certification by the Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission

In brief: The city's Shade Tree Commissioners, Ken Polakoswki, Dave Robinson and Peggy Brennan, requested that council approve the week of Aug. 6 through Aug. 11 as "Plant-a-Tree Week." That week was also Charlevoix's annual observance of National Arbor Day. They also requested that Mayor Norman Carlson Jr., declare a proclamation calling for civic and private celebrations during that week.

Council action: Approved, unanimous

In brief: City council was presented with a list of companies that could construct an interactive water fountain in East Park on July 23 at a special meeting of the city council and the Downtown Development Authority. The list includes new cost estimates, setting costs between $155,000 to $600,000. Original cost estimates were $85,000 to $105,000. With this new cost estimate, the city needed to reconsider the Aug. 20 public hearing.

Council action: Approved to reconsider the public hearing, unanimous

Item: Set Sept. 17 public hearing to consider amendment of the Downtown Development Authority's development and tax increment financing plan.

In brief: The Downtown Development Authority would like an interactive water fountain to be part of the new features at East Park. This was not in their original development plans and costs for the project have not been financed. Moving forward with the plans requires an amendment to the DDA development plan and tax increment financing plan. Costs of the fountain and plans to develop the fountain would be part of the amendment. As required, city council must set a public hearing to discuss the possibility of this added cost. (See related poll results on page four of this week's Courier.)

Council action: As required, a public hearing has been set for 7 p.m., Sept. 17 at City Hall, 210 State St.

Item: Discussion on proposed noise ordinance

In brief: Police chief Gerard Doan has reviewed a noise ordinance that was drafted by city attorney Jim Young, as requested by city council. Current noise ordinances allow construction noises between the hours of 7 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Loud shouts, yelling, hooting, whistling or singing are not allowed during the hours between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Noise from radios, televisions and musical instruments are not allowed between the hours of 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. The Noise Control Ordinance draft, if placed into action, would prohibit any heavy equipment work, general construction noise and exhaust in the city at all times with the exception of work on essential services. Exemptions from this ordinance would include emergencies, municipal or governmental services (the siren at city hall, for instance), waivers, parade and celebrations and religious purposes. The draft also gives council the option to set a bracket of time for when certain decibels of noise can be permitted in the city, with the option to specify levels during day and evening hours or to prohibit any noise that produces sound over a certain decibel level.

Item: Chicago Club agreement.

In brief: An agreement was negotiated between the Chicago Club, city attorney Jim Young and city manager Mike Wiesner, which enables the relocation of the lift station by easement, provides and clarifies the Chicago Club use of Round Lake riparian areas under their boathouse in the area of Prospect Street, provides for an easement for a 12 inch water main loop through the club for the city and water main improvements in the area of the Chicago Club. The design work for the project is 95 percent complete and the project should be ready to bid this fall or early spring 2008, in order to complete the water main improvements in a timely manner.

Council action: Approved, unanimous

Item: Request for clarification of amendment of July 2 city council minutes.

In brief: Council member Shirley Gibson requested that city clerk Carol Ochs add Gibson's comments to the council minutes of the July 2 city council meeting where Gibson asked if the ordinance (regarding heights of building structures) is being changed for a specific development and was told by mayor Norman Carlson Jr. that it was not. Further requested added statements were those by mayor Carlson that the ordinance change was because of complaints on a pervious project. However, this change will not affect that project which has already been approved. Gibson also wanted to add her question to the council if the ordinance is being changed for a specific development, and was told by city planner Gary Harsch that it was not. Harsch said that there are two projects under consideration in the C-1 district now that could be affected by this ordinance. Mayor Carlson said that the change was brought before the council because of a project currently under consideration, and that there is currently no provision for clustered housing in the code.

Council action: Approved, unanimous

Item: Election of Michigan Municipal League Workers' Compensation Fund Board.

In brief: The Michigan Municipal League Worker's Compensation Board has sent a ballot to city council with the names of three incumbent trustees to the Worker's Compensation Board that have agreed to seek re-election. Gretchen Driskell, Ralph L. Maccarone III and Larry Nielsen are seeking re-election to the board. Council Michigan Municipal League members may re-elect all three candidates or write-in one or more candidates if they wish.

Council action: Approved to re-elect the three candidates to the Michigan Municipal League Workers' Compensation Board, unanimous

In brief: Charlevoix resident Lawrence Freedman presented the council a brief history of how East Park came into being (including the burning down of the Charlevoix Hotel) and said the resulting park was the dream of local famous architect, Earl Young. Freedman requested that the city council re-name East Park, Earl A. Young Park. (See page five of this week's Courier)

Council action: Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said that the council would consider the re-naming of East Park in the coming months.

AUG 2007

Bike benefit raises $10,400 for Circle of Strength

June 16 marked the fifth anniversary for the local Bike4BreastCancer, Pink Ribbon Ride coordinated by Sue Morris, and supported by several dedicated volunteers.

This year 200 riders, which included several families, groups of friends and co-workers, gathered at Veteran's Park in Boyne City in the early morning hours to start their route of choice. They chose to ride seven miles, 20 miles, 42 miles or the rigorous 65-mile route.

This year, 100 percent of the funds were distributed locally to the Charlevoix Area Hospital Circle of Strength program, and Northern Michigan Hospital's Foundation. On July 18, Sue Morris presented checks to each program in the amount of $10,400 each.

Circle of Strength will use the funds to assist in purchasing a new digital mammography machine for Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Circle of Strength program is an outreach effort designed to guide and support families who have been affected by a cancer diagnosis. Last year, the Pink Ribbon Ride funds were directed to "It's My Turn," mammogram screening day. These funds have also helped to promote awareness and early detection education. Also new to the program, is the Circle of Strength Resource Room, located in room 102 on the main floor of Charlevoix Area Hospital. This room is available 24 hours a day, and has a variety of information regarding many types of cancer, diets and treatments.

The 6th Annual Pink Ribbon Ride will take place on June 21. For more information, visit www.bike4breastcancer.org.

For information on services of the Circle of Strength program, e-mail circlestrength@cah.org or call (231) 547-8950.

Hospital offers CPR, First Aid classes

From 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 29, Adult/Child Heartsaver CPR. This Heartsaver CPR course teaches CPR and relief of choking in adults and children and the use of barrier devices. Cost is $30.

From 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 5, Heartsaver First Aid. The Heartsaver First Aid Course teaches how to manage illness and injuries in the first few minutes until professional help arrives. Course content includes general principles, medical emergencies, injury emergencies and environmental emergencies. Cost is $30.

From 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8, Heartsaver Pediatric First Aid. This is a new course being offered at Charlevoix Area Hospital. The target audience for this course includes those involved in child care such as child care workers, teachers, foster care workers, camp counselors, youth organizations and coaches for children's sports organization. The Heartsaver Pediatric First Aid Course teaches how to manage illness and injuries in a child in the first few minutes until professional help arrives. Topics include First Aid basics, medical emergencies, injury emergencies and environmental emergencies. Modules included are Pediatric First Aid, asthma care training for childcare providers, adult/child and infant CPR and adult/child AED. Cost is $55.

Pre-registration is required. All classes are taught by certified instructors through Charlevoix Area Hospital, which is an American Heart Association Community Training Center.

Openings available in matched savings program

Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency is accepting applications for its matched savings program in Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

The program, called Michigan Saves, offers people the opportunity to save towards the purchase of their first home, for starting or expanding a small business, or to pay for college or vocational school.

Enrollees make a minimum monthly deposit of $20 per month for at least six months into a savings account set up jointly between the participant and the local program office. Each dollar the participant saves is matched at a 3-to-1 ratio for home ownership or at a 2-to-1 ratio for small business or higher education. The maximum that can be matched is $1,000.

Michigan Saves is an Individual Development Account (IDA) program. The program has been very successful according to Keith Greenwald, who is a budget/housing counselor for the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency.

"Currently, we have 11 families in the program. Each enrollee has made a commitment to attend financial management classes, participate in individual budget/credit counseling, as well as make monthly deposits into their savings account to reach their desired goal," Greenwald said.

The funding source determines the eligibility requirements for the program. To be eligible, an applicant must have income within 200 percent of poverty or below. For example, the income limit for a family of four is $40,000 per year. Participants must have a source of earned income.

To obtain an application for the Michigan Saves program, contact Keith Greenwald at (231) 347-9070 or 1-800-443-5518.

Zonta announces scholarship winner

Caitlin Taylor, a recent graduate of Charlevoix High School, was named the winner of this year's Mary Feindt Memorial Scholarship.

The Mary Feindt Memorial Scholarship is awarded to a female high school senior who plans to pursue a math or science-related major in college. The scholarship recipient is chosen based on financial need and their involvement and interest in the math and/or science fields, excluding the medical field.

Taylor was chosen as the Charlevoix Area Zonta winner because she best exemplified the spirit of and requisites for the scholarship. She will be attending Michigan State University in the fall and was ranked first out of 108 students in her class. She has also taken college level courses and won the "Chemistry Award" at her school.

Zonta is a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women. The Mary Feindt Award is one of the many programs for young women sponsored by Charlevoix Area Zonta.

Applications for next year's award will be available from Charlevoix Area Zonta in early spring 2008.

Crystal clear quality at Charlevoix Glass

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Who? Charlevoix Glass Inc.
What? Charlevoix Glass does auto, residential and commercial glass work.
When? The business is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.
Where? New location at 06837 U.S. 31 South in Charlevoix Township.

Charlevoix Glass Inc. on U.S. 31 in Charlevoix Township, takes a creative approach to the development of its product.

"Every circumstance is different," said Bill Laway, owner of Charlevoix Glass. "Is it in a frame? Does it have a bevel? The variables predict how you're going to go about repairing it."

The company handles residential, commercial and auto glass work but also does a great deal of custom work.

"We do a lot of custom shower doors, mirror work, glass railings," Laway said. "Quality and customer satisfaction is what we've been trying to do."

"She wanted to have a master shower unlike anybody else's," Laway said of the owner.

The result was a 12 foot wide, six-and-a-half feet deep, eight-and-a-half feet tall glass enclosure inserted in tiled pillars. He said the shower could contain approximately 14 people.

"No frames whatsoever," Laway said. "One piece of glass was over 1,000 pounds."

He said a willingness to do what others haven't and a great deal of modern tools help keep the company ahead of the competition. He said he is also blessed with a great crew.

"We've expanded our number of employees recently," Laway said. "There are eight here now, five years ago there was only three or four of us."

After spending 11 years on the corner of M-66 and Loeb Road, the company was able to buy out Twin Bay Glass and run both facilities for seven months. In June of this year, they consolidated at the previous Twin Bay location on U.S. 31.

"We're certainly growing, I imagine we'll be adding on before too many years," Laway said. "There was a time when two vehicles did the work, now four have a hard time keeping up with the amount of mobile work we have to do."

Charlevoix Glass Inc. is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, the company is located at 06837 U.S. 31 South, Charlevoix Township.

The sixth race of the Charlevoix Yacht Club's summer series was sailed on Aug. 8 in light and variable winds.

Twenty-two boats finished the race, which consisted of a shortened course of six windward-leeward legs. Affinity was the fastest boat overall, and only 26 seconds corrected time separated the first three boats of the Spinnaker A fleet this week. Two more races and one more drop will determine the summer series totals.

Jib and Main fleet: 1 – Sonnett (Lepmann); 2 – Exitus (Pung).

P-26 fleet: 1 – Original Sin (Miller); 2 – Cygnus (Stewart); 3 – Lost Vermonter (Tinney); 4 – Tireless (Carland); 5 – Apothecary (Ochs).

Spinnaker A fleet: 1 – Gotcha! (Dow/Mueller); 2 – Hoi Polloi (Attee); 3 – Paleface Lite (Grove); 4 – Suzie Q (Kelly); 5 – Fairret (Seymour); 6 – Booma (Gosling/Tyra); 7 – Sail La Vie (Williamson); 8 – M3 (Carey); 9 – Incognito (Fisher).

Spinnaker B fleet: 1 – Affinity (Strawbridge); 2 – Itch (Thomas); 3 – Northern Light (Orlow); 4 – Moxie (Jensen); 5 – Windrunner (Pirie); 6 – Padawan 3 (Lamb).

Summer series results after six races with one drop:

Jib and Main fleet: 1 – Sonnett (6); 2 – Exitus (9); 3 – Opus (17).

P-26 fleet: 1 – Tireless (7); 2 – Original Sin (11); 3 – Cygnus (12); 4 – Lost Vermonter (14); 5 – Apothecary (24).

Spinnaker A fleet: 1 – Paleface Lite (10); 2 – Suzie Q (12); 3 – Hoi Polloi (13); 4 – Gotcha! (15); 5 – Booma (19); 6 – Fairrett (26.5); 7 – Sail La Vie (30.5); 8 – M3 (35); 9 – Incognito (41).

Spinnaker B fleet: 1 – Northern Light (9); 2 – Moxie (10); 3 – Affinity (12); 4 – Itch (20); 5 – Windrunner (23); 6 – Padawan 3 (29).

Golf pro leads 100-hole benefit for Junior Golf

A local athletic event that has become a summer tradition is about to be repeated.

Belvedere Golf Club golf professional, Steve Braun, will again play 100 holes in a single day. While some local golfers might talk a good game, wishing they could play golf all day, not many could play 100 holes in 12 hours. Braun does and averages scores in the mid-70s for each round.

Many have asked why he puts himself through the physical and emotional agony. The simple answer is he is a dedicated believer in Charlevoix's Junior Golf Program and the potential it has to impact young people who learn life skills. His passion is seeing youngsters play the game he loves.

As in the past, pledges made per hole or outright donations, go into the program's scholarship fund, which allows deserving junior golfers to attend Ferris State University's week-long golf camp. The program has sent over 85 youngsters on scholarship through the years. The week away from home and the educational setting has proven to have a positive impact on each camper that has attended.

Braun tees off at 6:30 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 20. Those interested in pledging support for the Junior Golf Scholarship Fund or in monitoring Braun's progress can do so by calling the Belvedere Golf Club at (231) 547-2611 or Dean Davenport at (231) 547-6433. Spectators are welcome to view the event.

This year's program had 140 area youth registered. Instructional and open play was scheduled at the Charlevoix Country Club, Antrim Dells, Charlevoix Golf Club and Belvedere Golf Club.

Game, set, match

It was a record setting year for participation in the Venetian Festival tennis tournament with 100 entrants playing. There were many winners and tournament coordinators said the greatest achievement was the 25 plus children under 16 who participated. There were also new categories for the over 60 and 70 events. (Above) Senior mixed doubles winners in the Venetian Festival tennis tournament are (from left) Frank and Connie Hagelshaw, Nick Kling and Mike Coltman. (Below) Women's doubles winners are (from left) Mary VanWieren, Julie Morrison, Karen Peters and Dree Lo. Those with ideas for added events are asked to contact Karen Peters at (231) 547-4368.

Hey Jane!

M.J. Cargill

Charlevoix Courier's own senior advice columnist M.J. Cargill polled local married women and asked them, "What sustains long-term relationships?" A total of 41 women married or in a relationship for more than 15 years participated. Anonymous respondents nuggets of relationship knowledge are listed below.

1. "Don't give up. Work on it."

2. (Married 41 years) "He lives down state and I live up here, only get together when the kids come. This works for us."

3. "We are careful as there is way too much to lose."

4. "My wife and I use communication, caring and consideration."

5. "Don't get stagnate. We use travel to keep things interesting."

6. "You gotta have a sense of humor."

7. "As soon as you retire get another job that requires traveling."

8. "Patience and understanding, especially in the beginning and remembering those two words when things get difficult. I remember those two letters "PU" and it sort of covers everything."

9. "Little white lies to avoid hurting your significant other is far less evil. However, never in issues of morality."

10. "When things are really going downhill and I want to throw in the towel, I turn on the radio and listen to oldies and inevitably a song will come up that stirs up some memories and I try to remember why I fell in love with him in the first place. I think about the really romantic times we had, when we couldn't keep our hands off each other. It really works."

11. "I say, 'I love you,' about 20 times a day. Every time I sign off on the phone, especially."

12. "When I have really crossed the line and I know it, I try to be really playful with my spouse in apologizing and soon we are in each other's arms."

13. "My husband soothes my temper with flowers when I am really mad at him. It's amazing how quickly I fall for that trick."

14. "Sometimes when I am upset about several things and I can't seem to find the time (or the right time) to bring them up, I write my husband a letter about everything and for the most part it seems to work. We find time to talk about the issues I have and vice versa."

15. "Humor, laughing stops the anger."

16. "A good drink every night never hurt anyone."

17. "Recognizing that your spouse has had a bad day or isn't feeling good and is taking it out on you. Instead of being angry with why he/she is treating you, understand and ask what is wrong?"

18. "Establish a date night and keep it. It keeps the embers burning."

19. "Switch roles every once in a while."

20. "Communication. Don't let things build up inside you — talk about it."

21. "Find time to be alone, even if you have to schedule the time."

22. "Tell each other jokes. Laugh, laugh and laugh some more."

23. "Be a good listener. Don't give advice unless asked for it."

24. "Give each other some space. A man's night out without checking up on him will do wonders when it's your night out with the girls."

25. "Flirt with each other, hold hands when walking together, pull over off the beaten path for a make-out session like you used to in your dating days."

Hey Jane!

I feel my daughter is being a hypocrite. When her daughter wanted to live with a boyfriend during the last year of college everybody had a conniption! She and her husband are very committed in their church values and their position is that living together is sinful and that there should be no sexual relations unless the couple is married. I agree with those values particularly when it comes to me! I've been living in a retirement community and have met another love of my life and we want to get married. My daughter doesn't feel this is a good decision. She suggests that we should just live together because marriage at our age is too complicated. Why is marriage good for the young and not a good idea for seniors? I think she just wants to make sure he doesn't get my money.

Waterways tours marina

The Michigan Waterways Commission met with members of the Charlevoix City Council and Downtown Development Authority on Friday, Aug. 10 to tour downtown's new marina and the East Park construction site. Waterways is funding 75 percent of the marina construction project as well as 75 percent of all East Park renovations that are related to the marina

Northwest Academy kindergarten teacher Phoebe Gohs, chief administrative officer Gary Stutzman, playground designer Dave Bean of Jumping Bean Recreation and elementary student, Olivia Paul look over the plans for Northwest Academy's new playground to be installed on the northeast portion of their property at 115 West Hurlbut St.

With a recent elementary expansion, Northwest Academy is proud to now offer students and the community a new playground.

After years of planning and coordination, the playground will open on Tuesday, Sept. 4. The playground will be in the northeast section of the lot adjacent to Northwest Academy. Area children and Northwest students are welcome to play on the teeter totter, Geo Dome, tire swing and more in a safe environment. The playground adheres to the Playground Equipment Safety Act, and will provide a safe environment for area children to exercise and have fun.

Thanks to Oleson's the school is leasing the west corner lot adjacent to our building. Funding for the project came from fundraising efforts of Michelle Utley, middle elementary teacher, Mel Morrison, chairperson of the Friends of Northwest Academy, and a grant from the 2 percent Funds from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians.

OBITUARIES

Sharon Coleman:
Feb. 10, 1953 - Aug. 7, 2007

Sharon D. Coleman, 54, of Charlevoix, died Tuesday, Aug. 7 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A funeral took place on Saturday, Aug. 11, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Rev. Jerry Hunko of Saint Mary Catholic Church officiated. Burial will be in Saint Mary Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Sharon was born on Feb. 10, 1953, in Detroit, the daughter of Norman W. and Phyllis L. (Mousseau) Loucks. She was a lifetime resident of Charlevoix, and was a member of Saint Mary Catholic Church.

Sharon was a beloved mother and sister. She is survived by her daughter, Stephanie (Steven) White of Missouri; son, Jeffrey Coleman of Florida; granddaughter, Ayla White; brother, Paul (Marjorie) Loucks of Petoskey; nephew, Paul Loucks Jr.; niece, Danielle (Michael) Gareau; many aunts, uncles, and cousins.

Memorial contributions may be made to Saint Mary Church Building Fund.

Grant Furgeson Jr.:
Oct. 28, 1928 - Aug. 7, 2007

Grant Furgeson Jr. of Charlevoix died Tuesday, Aug. 7 at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

A funeral took place on Friday, Aug. 10 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Rev. James Mort officiated and burial followed at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Grant was born Oct. 28, 1928, in Petoskey, the son of Grant and Leah (Plante) Furgeson Sr. He spent his life on the farm, and attended the Murray School in Hayes Township. As a young man, Grant worked in the Upper Peninsula as a sawyer. He was employed locally by Tri-City Blacktop, and Burnett Brother's Farm Implements. More recently, Grant built pole barns. He raised Percheron horses and enjoyed giving sleigh rides.

Grant married Genevieve J. Crandell on June 30, 1956, in Boyne City, and she survives him. He is also survived by his sisters, Dorothy Finney of Oregon, and Marie Burkle of Petoskey; many nieces and nephews.

Grant was preceded in death by his parents: brothers, Leonard and LeRoy; sister, Viora Baker; niece, Shirley Burkle; nephews, Earl Green and Lester and Scott Crandell.

Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of choice.

Genevieve Roginski:
Jan. 10, 1915 - Aug. 8, 2007

Genevieve B. Roginski, 92, of Charlevoix, and formerly of Farmington Hills, died Wednesday, Aug. 8 at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix. Rite of Christian Burial took place on Saturday, Aug. 11 at St. Robert Bellarmine Catholic Church in Redford. Rev. Richard Leliaert officiated and burial followed at St. Hedwig Cemetery in Dearborn Heights.

Genevieve was born Jan. 10, 1915, in Detroit, to John and Rose (Litwinski) Piwowar. She married John J. Roginski on Jan. 18, 1941, in Detroit. Genevieve was a member of Saint Robert Bellarmine Catholic Church in Redford, and the Daughters of Isabella. She loved gardening and flowers. She was a very giving person, and her children and grandchildren were the most important part of her life. Genevieve will be sadly missed by her children, Dolores (Gordon) Tramper of Charlevoix, and Sandra (Nick) Panetta of Highlands Ranch, Colo.; grandchildren, Nancy, William, and Elizabeth Joure, Toni, Keith, and Jennifer Panetta; sister, Elizabeth Matuszak of Naples, Fla.; many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband John J. on Dec. 25, 1989, and was also preceded in death by her brothers, Edward and Joseph Piwowar; sisters, Mary Laskowski and Eleanor Depowski.

A funeral took place on Aug. 11 at St. Robert Bellarmine Catholic Church. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association.

SEPT. 15
PIT FIRING

Pit firing is the practice of subjecting low-fired bisque pots to a vigorous bonfire. During an upcoming hands-on workshop, participants will fire their own bisque pieces in a ventilated metal can with copper, salt, organic matter, sawdust and hardwood kindling.

Local potter, Bonnie Staffel will host this Trash Can and Smoke Firing Workshop from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15 in Charlevoix. Come learn a new technique to simulate pit firing in a controlled manner. Beginning to advanced potters are welcome. The cost is $65 and attendees are asked to bring a sack lunch and several soft bisque fired pots (Cone 010) no larger than the size of a melon.

To see Staffel's work, visit http://vasefinder.com/bstaffelgallery1.html.

For more information or to register for the class, call (231) 547-2333 or (231) 547-7319.

Park fountain plan goes to public hearing

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority would like to provide for an interactive water fountain in the new East Park.

But because the authority hasn't designated funds for that specific project, they must go through a process of getting city and citizen approval to designate funds toward the cost of an interactive water fountain. That process began but has been stalled after the Charlevoix City Council was notified that estimated costs were significantly higher than what was initially presented by East Park architect Mark Buday.

"Even though time is of the essence, I have to recommend that some of the initial information regarding the Interactive Water Fountain be further investigated, per the outlines of the feasibility study," Buday wrote to city treasurer and acting city manager Rick Brandi.

This came after a joint meeting of the city council and the Downtown Development Authority on July 23, when the authority presented plans for an interactive water fountain at East Park's Harbormaster Plaza. Plans described jets of water that would leap out of the plaza and disappear back into the surface with the idea that children would be able to splash and play there. At that time, Buday presented an estimated cost range between $85,000 and $105,000. With the intent of funding the project, the authority needed approval from council to go forward with adding it to their development plan and tax increment financing plan (TIFP).

Burger battle runs Dairy Queen out of Charlevoix

Barring a last minute change in policy by the American Dairy Queen Corporation, or a change in menu by local franchise operator Patrick Hayden, Dairy Queen in Charlevoix will cease to exist as you know it.

An Aug. 1 letter from Dairy Queen headquarters to Hayden warns he must comply with the corporate regulations on menu items.

"ADQ (American Dairy Queen) will give Mr. Hayden one final opportunity to purchase and use burgers obtained only from one of the (DQ) approved suppliers," stated vice-president of, and general counsel for, International Dairy Queen Inc., Bill Zucco in the letter. "If he is not in compliance with using one of these approved burger suppliers by Aug. 15, ADQ will take immediate legal action to ... withdraw his ability to sell not only hamburgers but all food from this store."

Dairy Queen owners to rename business and continue operating

In a phone interview, Zucco said there are fewer than 10 Dairy Queen franchisees across the country who refuse to ahide by Dairy Queen's burger testing requirements.

"The attorney says fight it," said Hayden. "I'm 62. I'm going to retire in three years. They want to go to federal court, between $125,000 to $150,000, how am I going to recoup that in working three years?"

He added, "All of a sudden it became important to them after 35 years. Why didn't they come in between 1972 and 2004?"

Zucco said Dairy Queen Corporate isn't in the habit of discussing internal issues with newspapers, but did say the outbreak of E. Coli at Jack In The Box restaurants in the early 1990s, which made more than 500 people sick and killed four children, forced fast food restaurants nationwide to set new standards in meat testing.

"This is an issue of safety," Zucco said. "We are a franchise system, and while he (Hayden) wants to be left alone to do what he wants to do, he's on a team with 5,000 other operators."

He added, "And, to the extent that a little hoy or little girl (could) die in his store affects the value of the Dairy Queen brand, that's why we're concerned."

Hayden maintains his meat, sold commercially by the Cargill Meat Solutions company, undergoes one of the strictest testing standards in the country and cited concerns over the palatability of the Dairy Queen burgers.

"Two weeks ago, we ordered this meat and once you eat it, you're not going to eat it again," Hayden said. "We got a case and I told the kids the burgers were free and to tell me what you think of them. After they had one, they'd rather pay for a fresh one and we threw the rest of the case away."

Hayden said Dairy Queen is constantly reformulating their burger recipe and he fears using the product would drive customers away due to inconsistency.

"Council members had expressed concerns over the quality of GrillBurgers (Dairy Queen's hamburgers) in the past, but couldn't pinpoint the exact problem. The objective for the research was to develop a flavor that will be more acceptable to the consumers and franchisees when prepared," excerpt from the Franchisee Advisory Council meeting minutes of July 2006.

Zucco said, regardless of Hayden's opinion on how the meat tastes, he is selling non-system food items which have not been approved.

"We would love to see him remain as part of the system and see him follow the standards we feel are great to protect consumers," Zucco said. "But, we're a family concept and we can't take chances and we can't keep track of 500 different ways of testing burgers."

Hayden said he isn't about to stop selling the foods his customers love.

"We're going to have a contest and let Charlevoix rename Dairy Queen. It'll be the Charlevoix-something, something other than Dairy Queen," he said. "This is Charlevoix's Dairy Queen, it's still going to he Charlevoix's ice-cream store, the only thing that's going to be different is the name."

"Instead of Royal treats they'll be classic treats, brownie supreme instead of Brownie Earthquake and I'll still have banana splits, they'll just have to have generic names."

Hayden said Country Fresh, the company which supplies him with his Dairy Queen products sells identical items without the Dairy Queen name, so customers will notice no difference in taste, just a difference in the sign out front.

"I want to change the name to 'Better Than Dairy Queen,' hut I don't think they'll let me," he said.

Zucco said he will continue discussing the matter with Hayden's attorney.

"If we can't have an agreed settlement, we'll have to view our next steps at that point," he said.

tain is not part of the plan, so if you're going to use TIFP funds you have to amend the development plan," city attorney Bryan Graham told city council and the Downtown Development Authority.

The council gave approval to the authority to go forward with the amendment process and scheduled a hearing for puhlic comment on the interactive fountain for the following month.

Then on Aug. 6, city council was presented with new information from Buday on companies who could conduct the fountain project with costs ranging from $155,000 to $600,000.

This new information prompted city council to reschedule the public hearing in order for the public to receive proper advanced notice, and for the authority to reconsider whether it was something they still wished to pursue.

Downtown Development Authority executive director Keith Carey said the authority remains strongly in favor of the project even though plans are unknown.

"We have not determined how the DDA will fund the project," Carey said. "Everybody is learning more about these fountains as we go."

A puhlic hearing on the fountain project has been scheduled for 7 p.m., Sept. 17 at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St. Citizens will be able to give their input on the project after being informed of the interested companies, their designs and estimated costs.

"We're not expecting costs to be that great," Brandi said.

In the interactive fountain feasihility study and analysis, Buday outlined the determining cost factors that included the source of fountain water, the number of jets, the total volume and flow of water used, using simple or sophisticated valves and controllers, and lighting.

"City water will significantly reduce the equipment and installation cost but may cost more to operate," Buday said. "A recirculation/filtering system will be more expensive to build but most likely cost less to operate unless the city water is free."

For now, plans for the fountain and an update on estimated costs will be discussed at the Downtown Development Authority meeting on Aug. 24.

Brandi said the city not only wants to know the projected cost of construction hut also the cost to operate the fountain and how funding will be provided for maintaining the fountain.

"It's important to know what the long-term cost is," Brandi said. "Where's that funding going to come from?"

Who? The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and Charlevoix City Council

What? A public hearing will be held to consider an interactive water fountain.

Why? The Downtown Development Authority wants an interactive water fountain with costs ranging from $155,000 to $600,000 in the new East Park and wants to provide the funding for its design and construction, with council approval.

In order for that to happen, the authority must make an amendment to its development plan and tax increment financing plan. The Downtown Development Authority is in the process of doing this while examining the short and long-term costs of the project.

When? 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 17

Where? 210 State St., Charlevoix City Hall, second floor.

The car vs. pedestrian saga continues

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

A war rages in Michigan's picturesque northern towns.

What began the battle of rolling murder machines and ice-cream cone-wielding foot soldiers is known only to criminal psychologists. But one thing is certain: Drivers forget they've ever walked and pedestrians cannot remember ever having driven a car.

Tensions peaked this summer when a local policeman directing traffic was hit by a car and a few weeks later a rather large walker unleashed his angst on me.

I'm not sure whether he was angry because his mustache went out of style with the Bee Gees or if his human growth hormone supply was dwindling, but he sprinted across several lanes of lunch hour traffic while indiscriminately screaming, "This is a crosswalk! This is a crosswalk!"

I'll interrupt this story long enough to say I've always had a problem with keeping my mouth shut. Whether cracking wise at my irate mother or squeaking out a girlish "ooh" when being frisked by the meanest cop in mid-Michigan, vocal control has always been an issue.

No sooner had I mouthed the words, "Yeah buddy, this is a crosswalk," than the Incredible Bulk spotted me out of the corner of his red bulging eye, strutted back across the street and stood in front of my, up 'til then, moving car to remind me in a demon shriek that this was indeed a crosswalk.

Not about to argue the finer points of easement etiquette with a perturbed pedestrian locked in 'roid rage and certain I was about to be bench pressed, Buick and all, I took evasive maneuvers and, once safely out of earshot, shouted detailed directions on where he could put the nearest park bench.

Determined to take my revenge in this column, I began intense research, by which I mean watching YouTube, eating turkey subs and sassing my editor.

While waiting for an episode of SpongeBob to load, I ran across the Michigan Pedestrian and Bicycle Safety Action Plan and their action team who intend to, "Provide recognition to jurisdictions and/or officials who have brought about a significant decrease in pedestrian and/or bicycle crashes; clarification of state pedestrian and bicycle laws (and) review local, state and federal laws and evaluate if/where disparities exist."

Review? Clarify? Recognize? This ragtag bunch sport nickel-plated pedometers and orange kevlar vests emblazoned with reflective skull and cross bones, so look for their six-week course, "Pedestrians in a Persistent Vegetative State," how to negotiate that 16-foot swath of white paint on pavement.

The action team will offer "safety training," while dumping tax funds on "high-crash jurisdictions," and, "Develop a reference manual ... 'What Every Pedestrian Must Know,'" in addition to working on safety features including, "sidewalk construction, pedestrian countdown signals, median and crosswalk refuge islands."

For those of you concerned the state is working to end the hilarity of slow-speed collisions between, say, a 1989 Ford Festiva and a fat kid on a banana bike — actually I was on a BMX — don't fret, because the action team only plans to reduce the overall fatality rate 10.4 percent by 2008.

There is a toll-free number, but if you need more info than "look both ways" and "don't roll under speeding bread trucks" you shouldn't leave your Lucite rectangle.

But enough cynicism and sarcasm, it's time to broker peace between walkers and drivers with the following pledges:

The motorist: Though I'm encased in two tons of lease payment, I am not superior. I will keep all offensive hand signals to myself. I will not treat the crosswalk like a bait pile assigning point values to pregnant women, punks or little old ladies and, though my expression resembles the scowl of one trying to pass what began as an extra large bowl of shredded wheat, it has nothing to do with your sluggish procession.

The pedestrian: Though I walk four blocks instead of using 10 drops of gas, I am not superior. I promise not to wave cars, already stopped to let me cross, to go first. And, since my home's A/C units cause more pollution via coal-generated electricity than do some cars, I promise to stop saying "carbon footprint" and the word "green" unless describing a color!

New book profiles local interior designers

DR DÉCOR

Barbara Kopitz

Michigan is the home of so many talented designers. The thirteenth and latest edition of "Spectacular Homes of Michigan" is a showcase book of beautifully photographed and decorated homes by 40 accomplished Michigan designers.

No matter what your personal taste is, you can't help but enjoy and appreciate the professionalism and talent of the designers. Between them they cover a wide gamut of beautifully executed design styles.

The book displays selected photos of each designer's work. The part I like best is that we get to know a bit about them through the written presentation. Let me tell you a bit about designers, Brian Clay Collins, Linda Mason and Renee Guthrie.

Linda Chaffee Mason, Allied member of the American Society of Interior Designers is the owner of Mason Interiors in Charlevoix. She can be contacted at (231) 547-9953. You can view her work at www.masoninteriors.com.

On the personal side, Linda relates that she likes classically styled clothes and the exquisite fabrics of Ralph Lauren and Armani. Her favorite color is navy blue. Her taste in clothes is reflective of her design work. Ralph Lauren himself would approve of the navy and white themed living room, published in the book, overlooking Lake Michigan, photographed by wonderful photographer Beth Singer.

Linda conveys, "If I have done my job successfully, it will be reflected in the smiles on clients' faces and in their joy of living in the spaces we've created."

Brian Clay Collins FASID, who has a summer home at Bay View in Petoskey, after many busy and successful years at Hudson's Interior Design Studio has finally opened his own studio in Grosse Pointe. Brian gave a terrific answer when asked what is his favorite design era.

"While appreciating classic 18th century English and French design, my favorite era is now. Today, we have such broad freedom in creating pleasing, successful interiors drawing on the best of the near and distant past as well as the present. What could be more stimulating?" he said.

Collins also volunteers time toward the historic preservation efforts for the campus building of the Bay View Association of the United Methodist Church, a national historic landmark community on Little Traverse Bay near Petoskey. Founded in

NOISE ORDINANCE DRIVES AWAY BUSINESS

Editor:

Does the possible amendment to the noise law mean I will not be able to ride my Harley Davidson through town anymore without getting a citation? Let's see, I will become a "violator" because I choose to ride my motorcycle with louder exhaust so people can hear me coming, because half of them surely are not paying attention to my being on the road. Mark me down for disagreement with this.

They say construction noise and such? Come on people, after all, it is a town we live in. People build things, kids make noise with their cars, so on and so forth. Let the thing alone — ticket the person going by your house at 2:30 in the morning with his stereo blaring, but noise during the day? Let's ticket every plane that lands at the airport. I mean, come on. Put your decibel reader next to my bike, then next to one of the jets that land at the airport, I'll bet the plane is way louder.

I guess if this passes, give me more reason to point my bike south or east or any other place around Charlevoix, and spend my money elsewhere.

PROUD TO BE FROM CHARLEVOIX

Editor:

In regards to the Venetian Festival, it was my first time back for the festival in 30 years and a first time for my family to experience the uniqueness and beauty of the Venetian Festival from the parade, the elephant ears, the Lions Club lemon chicken, the incredible fireworks on both nights, to seeing old friends that made everything absolutely perfect. For the town being tore up, the set up of activities, the organization and the shuttle was absolutely perfect. The fireworks at Michigan Beach was nothing short of being spectacular. All that was missing was the greased pole that everyone used to struggle to climb to get that five dollar bill.

I tell you that having Charlevoix be my hometown makes me extremely proud, almost a little superior to all those people in Los Angeles who have no idea what they are missing.

Thank you to everyone who made this such an incredible event.

CELEBRATING HEROISM

Editor:

I am writing this in regard to an advertisement in the Aug. 8 edition of the Charlevoix Courier celebrating some of Charlevoix's heroes.

After seeing this, I sought to define for myself what a hero really is. Is a hero defined by how many times his/her name appears in the news, or how happy he/she is, or by the amount of money he/she contributes to any certain cause? This was a question I had to answer.

Of course the first examples, when I thought about heroes that came to mind were the classic Superman, Spiderman, Batman, Hercules, etc. Needless to say, these heroes are fictional — they don't exist. I still had no good answer, so I turned to Webster's Dictionary and found that a hero could be defined as, "A mythological figure endowed with strength and ability, an illustrious warrior, one who is admired for achievements and noble qualities, or, simply, one with great courage." These are all great definitions, but I was still not satisfied.

Upon looking further into the first "classic" examples and at the attributes of the heroes in my own personal life, I decided that Webster's Dictionary was missing something. The best way I could define, for myself, what a hero really is would be someone who gives of him or herself freely to help better the life of another without consideration of what he/she may get in return. Clark Kent didn't care how much the people admired him, he worked as a reporter to keep his identity a secret. He could have had all the glory and fame if he let people know his real identity, but glory and fame was not the driving force behind his actions. This is much the same as my parents. They didn't pour so much of themselves into raising my brothers and I so they could get a parent of the year award. They did it to help better our lives, all the while expecting nothing in return.

I think that it is important to also celebrate this type of hero in Charlevoix and everywhere. I don't in any way mean to discredit those listed in the Aug. 8 edition of the Charlevoix Courier. I just feel that we need to not lose sight of what truly makes a hero and celebrate those characteristics.

FIREFIGHTERS DESERVE KUDOS

Editor:

This past Friday, I had the opportunity to visit with local and Department of Natural Resources firefighters in the Upper Peninsula who are fighting the Sleeper Lake Fire, just north of Newberry. Let me just say how extremely proud I am of these fine men and women for their bravery and work, and I thank them for allowing me to see firsthand how they meet the demands of this crucial, dangerous service with such professionalism.

While my thoughts and prayers are that the wildfire will be extinguished safely and quickly so fire crews can return home to their families, the experience has provided a perfect end note for some possible misconceptions regarding my recent interest in the state's fire management program.

During the past few weeks, articles and letters to the editor have been written suggesting I am working on legislation to privatize or consolidate state and local fire fighting service units.

This could not be further from the truth.

It is true that I have been studying the state's fire management program, which began after I received a local complaint concerning the DNR's fire services. This complaint included a suggestion to evaluate whether or not certain aspects of the DNR's fire management services could be localized.

I immediately contacted some of the local community fire chiefs for their thoughts and ideas. I was then invited to a meeting of more than a dozen local fire chiefs from throughout northern Michigan to discuss the matter further. At this meeting, many of the local fire chiefs expressed that the DNR is doing a very good job for the state and our local residents.

In completing the due diligence to review the complaint and explore the suggestions which were recommended to me, my level of support and appreciation for DNR firefighters has only been heightened. Again, I thank everyone who has been involved in these discussions and provided answers and insight. It is that kind of communication and understanding that ensure area residents are provided the best service from all.

DESIGN

1875, it includes some 450 summer homes built between 1875 and the 1920s. It's a pretty significant community and one of just 13 remaining Chautauqua communities in the nation," Collins said.

Another area designer represented in the book is Petoskey designer Renee Guthrie, who likes to create warm and inviting spaces based on classic design principles. Renee is constantly expanding her vision through travel and study and her designs often reflect French and European influences.

"If you stick with the classics, you'll never go wrong," she said.

Through her studies at Michigan State University, Renee discovered early on that the inspiring and artistic world of interior design provided an avenue for her to express herself.

"I feel blessed and excited to have work I absolutely love," Renee said.

The interior design book can be ordered through your local bookstore or at Amazon.com and is priced at $39.95. I hope you will enjoy the book and be inspired by seeing the well thought-out spaces and reading the words of the designers.

10 things you never knew about Tim Bruce

Bringing you closer to your neighbors ...

A father of two, owner of both Northern Michigan Benefits and Northern Martial Arts, Charlevoix High School graduate Tim Bruce has been studying martial arts for more than 20 years and now teaches Tae Kwon Do and Hapkido. Bruce's sons also got in on the act as one is a black belt and the other is a junior black belt.

Northern Martial Arts is located at 5998 U.S. 31 South. For more information, call (231) 675-4414 or visit www.northernmartialarts.com.

1. Why this line of work?

I got into martial arts down in Flint training with a master instructor and when I moved back to northern Michigan 12 years ago, one of my friends asked me to teach him and it took off from there. It's basically a hobby that turned into a part-time business.

2. Any misconceptions about marital arts?

That we train people to go out and beat people up and the truth of the matter is we teach people how to defend themselves. I would encourage every parent to sign their kids up at least for a short self-defense class because, with kids nowadays, it's so easy to be an innocent victim — it happens in big towns and it happens in small towns.

3. If you had a time machine, what would be the first thing you would do?

I would go back to the early 1900s to meet Andrew Carnegie. He's been one of my biggest heroes forever because he inspired so many people to do good things. He was the richest man in the world and he gave it all away before he died.

4. If you could change one thing about yourself or your world what would it be?

Work less and play more.

5. What was your best year and why?

My best year probably would have been 1989 because that was the year my first son was born, plus I had a phenomenal year in business that year too.

6. If you could meet anyone, living or dead, for an hour lunch, who would it be?

It would be my mom. She died when I was 1. So I never got a chance to meet her.

7. What is your favorite food to eat or prepare?

I have two favorites. For breakfast, banana pancakes and for dinner, lasagna.

8. What is the best thing about living Charlevoix?

It is undoubtedly the caring community. The reason I moved back is because I have a lot of relatives here and I'm pretty involved in the community.

9. What is something people do not know about you?

That I'm an early riser. I get up real early in the morning and that's my time to read and reflect and plan my day (and) I drink tons of coffee in the morning — that's why my energy level is so high.

10. What is your biggest fear?

Definitely snakes.

Historical society publishes 9th annual photo calendar

Proceeds from the sale of the calendars goes toward support of the society and its two structures, the Harsha House Museum and the Depot at Depot Beach.

The photos used are selected from 15,000 images in the society's Bob Miles photo collection. The majority of these 13 classic images have never been published before, some having come to the society only three years ago. They include an aerial photo of the old railroad trestle and bridge, the viewing tower atop Mt. McSauba, horse-drawn taxi wagons at the Depot, old downtown stores, the channel and Argo Milling Company.

The calendars are on sale from 1 to 4 p.m. from Monday through Saturday at the Harsha House Museum, located at 103 State St. They retail for $12.95.

For more information, call (231) 547-0373.

This program is free and open to the public.

Send-off planned for local nurse

Barb Dobulis

Barb Dobulis, a longtime home visiting nurse, will be honored on her retirement from the Health Department of Northwest Michigan at an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 23 at the Charlevoix Senior Center.

Dobulis' patients, their families and other members of the community are invited to wish Barb, and her husband John, well before they leave the area for retirement in Florida.

"We had to do something special for Barb and John," said Lynda Bockstahler, director of the Home Care and Aging division of the health department. "They have both been so committed to our programs, including serving on the Board of Directors for Hospice of Northwest Michigan, our hospice program."

Dobulis, a registered nurse, has worked for the health department since 1984, providing thousands of visits to hundreds of patients, mostly in Boyne City and Charlevoix.

"If I were to design the perfect home health and hospice nurse, Barb would be the model," said Bockstahler. "She does whatever it takes to ensure care and comfort for all of her home health and hospice clients. Plus, her professional clinical skills are excellent, she's a team player and she's always willing to mentor less experienced nurses."

After receiving several nominations from her colleagues, Dobulis received the employee of the year award at the health department's 75th anniversary celebration two years ago.

"Barb has all the attributes that make a great nurse," said Lori Malfroid, home care supervisor, who presented the award. "She is thoughtful and dedicated and she has a great sense of humor. She's also a terrific mentor for nurses who get their clinical educational experience for community health nursing here at the health department. We are going to miss her."

Dobulis was drawn to nursing as a child.

"I thank God because he blessed me with the nursing profession," she said. "I've met so many beautiful people throughout my career and my co-workers are the very best."

"I've really enjoyed my work at the health department. I am going to miss it," she said.

For more information about the Dobulis open house, contact Joan Duckworth at (231) 547-6092.

New guidebook aims to protect local wetlands

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) recently published "Protecting Michigan's Wetlands: A Guide for Local Governments," a handbook to aid communities in protecting their wetland resources.

The guidebook is offered by both organizations to local governments and citizens to encourage their understanding of the importance of wetlands and interest in wetland protection. It not only explains the benefits of wetlands, but also how to establish tools to protect these valuable resources. So far, the response has been overwhelmingly positive with many local governments already requesting additional copies.

"The preservation of wetlands is a worthwhile investment for communities and individuals in Michigan. Local protection of wetlands is crucial to maintaining healthy ecosystems in communities, not to mention providing flood control, water quality protection and shoreline stabilization. Without the preservation of wetlands, communities and private property owners alike suffer not only ecological losses but also economic costs," said Dr. Grenetta Thomassey, policy director at Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council in Petoskey.

Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) recently published "Protecting Michigan's Wetlands: A Guide for Local Governments," a handbook to aid communities in protecting their wetland resources.

Thomassey added that despite federal and state regulations established to protect wetlands, some gaps exist in this legal framework. As a result, some of the most locally significant wetlands can still be vulnerable to destruction.

"Filling these gaps at the local level will ensure the stability of these ecosystems that are so valuable to the character of communities while addressing local issues and needs. This guidebook is an excellent resource, offering insight about local ordinances and tips on how to get started," Thomassey said.

The guidebook also includes other tools that can be used to achieve wetlands protection, such as site planning and voluntary protection, all of which are key components to establishing the protections necessary at the local government level.

THE ROCKING HORSE

Local Scout joins eagle ranks at 14

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Three flagpoles that stand at the First Baptist Church on M-66 are the result of Charlevoix resident Trevor Currier, 14, as part of his project to earn the Eagle Scout rank.

Currier achieved Eagle Scout status, the highest advancement rank in scouting, on Aug. 5.

He said the First Baptist Church was one of the only churches in the area without flagpoles and he wanted to make it more patriotic.

"I went and got donations for the flagpoles and a couple of other add-ons," Currier said. "I got kids from my church to do the project and I got my family to help me."

Currier ordered supplies for the flagpoles from Bay Supply in Petoskey, which came with supplies and instructions on how to erect the poles.

"After some assembly, we placed the flagpoles and put sticking sand in it to keep it straight, put black tar on it and buried it in dirt," Currier said.

He said they also made a path to the flagpoles and planted flowers.

After joining the Scouts three years ago, Currier discovered it was more fun than he thought.

"I wasn't sure I wanted to continue because I didn't know how fun it was going to be," Currier said. "But I stayed in and then I got my eagle."

The typical Eagle Scout is 18 years old. Currier said doing all the requirements as fast and as best as he could is how he was able to make Eagle Scout four years earlier.

To achieve Eagle Rank a Scout must fulfill six requirements in the areas of leadership, service and outdoor skills and earn 21 merit badges. The final step to becoming an Eagle Scout is completing an "Eagle Service Project."

The award is a performance-based achievement whose standards have been well-maintained over the years. Only about 4 percent of all Boy Scouts earn the Eagle Scout rank.

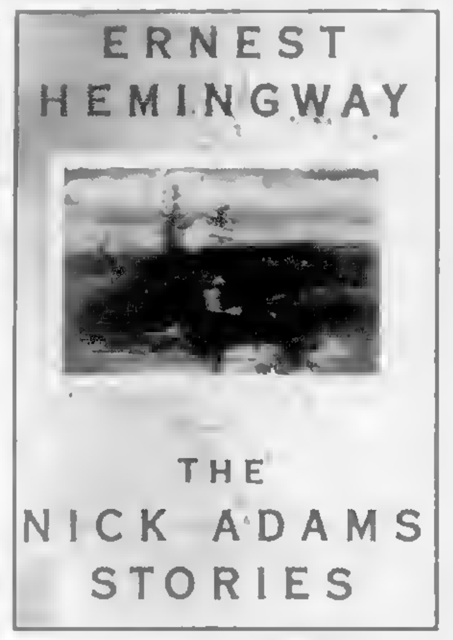
Charlevoix library joins Great Michigan Read



ERNEST HEMINGWAY THE NICK ADAMS STORIES

The Michigan Humanities Council (MHC) recently announced its selection of Ernest Hemingway's "The Nick Adams Stories" for its new statewide literature and literacy initiative, The Great Michigan Read.

For the next year, as hundreds of thousands of Michiganians open their copies of "The Nick Adams Stories" and attend hundreds of programs and events across the state, readers will be introduced or reacquainted with a classic piece of American literature. "The Nick Adams Stories" chronicles a young man's coming of age in a series of linked short stories, most of which are set in Michigan. And, it's authored by one of the foremost writers of the 20th century, Ernest Hemingway, who spent most of his first 22 summers in northern Michigan.

"The Michigan Humanities Council is pleased to kickoff its statewide program, The Great Michigan Read, by presenting Ernest Hemingway and 'The Nick Adams Stories' to Michigan citizens," said Janice Fedewa, executive director of the Michigan Humanities Council. "It is an outstanding opportunity for people to become engaged in reading and community programs through a classic piece of literature, made in Michigan, from an American icon."

The Michigan Humanities Council is the first organization to implement a program for an entire state to read one of Hemingway's works. To date, more than 100 communities across the state will participate in The Great Michigan Read. Reader's guides, bookmarks, posters and other opportunities are available to participating cultural organizations. Additional activities include traveling exhibits, radio and television features, a Web site resource (www.greatmichiganread.org), and grant programs to help engage communities in literature.

The Charlevoix Public Library will participate through discussion groups, speakers, film series, and other programs that focus on "The Nick Adams Stories," author Ernest Hemingway, and the people and places of Michigan.

Public Notice?

Without it in your newspaper, you're left guessing what the government's doing in your community.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. What you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. Public notices have been posted here since the days of colonial America. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? That is why you have, and read, your newspaper... where your right to know is already being served.

Back to school: Everyone have their shots?

Representatives of the Health Department of Northwest Michigan remind parents that late summer is a good time to review immunization records for everyone in the family.

Certain vaccines are encouraged from infancy through adulthood to prevent serious, and sometimes life-threatening, diseases.

"In addition to the routine immunizations given at birth, we urge parents to protect preteens by having them vaccinated against diseases such as meningitis, tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough and cervical cancer. Research shows that preteens generally do not get preventative health care," said Joshua Meyerson, MD, medical director for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "Many parents do not realize that some childhood vaccines, such as those for tetanus and whooping cough, wear off over time and, as they get older, young people are at risk of exposure to different diseases at school, camp or in other new situations."

Adults and the elderly, especially those with underlying health concerns, should receive an annual flu shot as well as age-appropriate shots to guard against tetanus, diphtheria, pertussis, measles, mumps, rubella, meningococcal, and Hepatitis A and B, Meyerson said.

Through a centralized statewide immunization registry, health department staff can help identify the shots everyone in the family needs. Immunization appointments are available at health department offices in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. For more information, call 800-432-4121 or visit www.cdc.gov/vaccines.

Pitch in at the 4th Annual Day of Caring Sept. 18

Who? Harbor Industries and Char-Em United Way
What? 4th Annual Day of Caring, matches teams of volunteers from businesses, schools, faith communities and community groups with non-profit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties who are in need of hands-on help.
When? Sept. 18

Harbor Industries and Char-Em United Way are leading the effort to plan the 4th Annual Day of Caring, scheduled for Sept. 18.

The Day of Caring matches teams of volunteers from businesses, schools, faith communities and community groups with non-profit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties who are in need of hands-on help. Other members of the core Day of Caring/Get Involved team are Bay Winds Federal Credit Union, Huntington National Bank, Way Transportation, Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix Manufacturing and Charlevoix High School.

"We're very excited about Day of Caring 2007," said Jennifer Archambault of Harbor Industries. "In our first year we had 70 volunteers working on seven projects, and last year that grew to 550 helping out on 35 projects throughout the two-county area. Volunteers did tasks ranging from washing senior citizens' cars, to building shelves for the Red Cross, to washing windows at the Safe Home. This year, we hope to engage even more volunteers and help more agencies."

"This event is a logical tie-in with United Way," said Martha Lancaster, United Way executive director. "Not only do the non-profit agencies in our community need financial support, they need volunteers as well. We are happy to help connect agencies with all available resources to help them meet the community needs."

For more information, including volunteer or project sign up forms, contact the Day of Caring Committee at (231) 237-6242 or e-mail the committee at getinvolved@harborind.com.

Love streams? Tip of the Mitt needs your help

Volunteers are needed to explore and protect the streams of northern Michigan.

The tip of the northern Lower Peninsula contains more than 2,500 miles of streams, including a number of amazing blue ribbon trout streams such as the Pigeon and Boyne rivers.

Volunteer stream monitors collect aquatic insects, snails, crustaceans and other small invertebrates, which are used as bio-indicators to gauge the health of a stream.

To volunteer or learn more, contact Kevin Cronk at (231) 347-1181, ext. 109 or by e-mail at kevin@watershedcouncil.org.

Up North Kids brings Author's Benefit to library

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Up North Kids, at 220 Bridge St. in downtown Charlevoix, will host an Author's Benefit from 4 to 7 p.m. on Aug. 25 at the Charlevoix Public Library.

There is an entry cost of $15 at the door.

"All proceeds will fund Up North Kids camps," said Events Coordinator Brandi Okerblom. "We're trying to make the benefit an annual thing."

The camp is offered for children enrolled in kindergarten through third grade and is held at Up North Kids stores in both Charlevoix and Alden. Profits from the benefit will be shared among both locations.

In addition to its summer reading reinforcement camp, the business hopes to hold camp in the winter and also offer tutoring.

Six authors and two illustrators have confirmed they will be featured at the benefit, including author Jeffrey Acs of "Orrenas Arctic Adventure," Joanne Froh of "Imagine This," Karen Brege of "The Mick Morris Series," Darren Brege of the "Chill Art" sketchbook and "Rascal Makes Mischief on Mackinac Island," Paleo Joe of the "Dinosaur Detective Club" series and "Hidden Dinosaurs," Sonja Richards of "The Comet Kid" and Robbyn and Nick van Frankenhuyzen of "Saving Samantha," "Kelly of Hazel Ridge" and "Saving Samantha."

Scholarships awarded to local grads

This fall, college tuition will be a little easier on the pockets of area families, thanks to scholarships totaling over $151,000 recently awarded through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

There were 119 Charlevoix County graduates chosen to receive scholarships from special funds held by the community foundation. All funds were established by local citizens to honor family members, civic leaders and educators. The list below highlights the students from Charlevoix receiving scholarships.

Zita Anderson received the $500 Charlevoix Lions Club Coleman Scholarship. She will attend the University of Notre Dame and study mathematics education.

Lauren Dupuis received the $500 Charlevoix Lions Club Don Meggison Scholarship and the $750 Kristen Cleary Memorial Scholarship. She will study business at Georgetown University.

Spencer Hankins received the $250 Eary Family Memorial Scholarship, the $500 Michigan Association of Retired School Personnel Scholarship and the $1,000 Earl Miller Opportunity Scholarship. He will attend Northwestern Michigan College to study automotive service.

Raymond Jones received the $1,400 Ray Kipke Athletic Scholarship. He will study dentistry at Albion College.

Mia Matchett was awarded the $1,500 Charlevoix Development Corporation Scholarship and the $500 Max Novak Memorial Scholarship to major in education.

Trevor Mays received the $500 Charlevoix Lions Club Coleman Scholarship. He will attend the University of Michigan to study business.

Scott Plude received the $200 Arnold Loper Memorial Scholarship. He will attend Aquinas College and study engineering.

Meagan Sell was awarded the $500 Charlevoix Lions Club Don Meggison Scholarship. She will attend the University of the Nations to study ministry.

Caitlin Taylor received the $1,500 Charlevoix Development Corporation Scholarship and the $800 Elizabeth Griffin Herman Scholarship. She will study landscape architecture at Michigan State University.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation now holds 196 different funds, 59 of which are designated for scholarships. Established by local citizens in 1992, the community foundation serves as a charitable resource for the entire county. With net assets nearing $21 million, the foundation has distributed grants and scholarships totaling over $7.5 million to benefit residents of this area.

For more information about the community foundation or any of its funds, call the foundation office at (231) 536-2440.

Relay for a cure

About 300 participants in American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Charlevoix County which took place Aug. 11 and 12 at Castle Farms in Charlevoix surpassed the group's $16,000 fund-raising goal, bringing in $26,000. In 2006 the event raised just under $8,000. The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is the society's signature fund-raising event, where teams of people camp out overnight, walking laps on a track, socializing and participating in planned activities.

Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...
DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.
Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding you life.

A Seminar with Experts
DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life.
During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus
Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support group that meet on Thursday evenings, from 7-9p.m. at the "Servants Quarters." 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.)
231-675-1925
After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

Ellsworth man named director of Department of Agriculture

Donald Koivisto

"I've had a working relationship with Michigan Farm Bureau for 20 years, and it's been a productive and trusting relationship," Koivisto said on Aug. 13 after he was chosen for the state's highest agricultural staff position by the Michigan Commission of Agriculture. "I look forward 100 percent to working with Farm Bureau."

Koivisto has a long and distinguished record of service to agriculture, starting in 1980, when he was elected to the Michigan House of Representatives for the 110th district. From 1982 to 1984, he was chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and was instrumental in passing the Right-to-Farm legislation that set standards for agriculture practices and gave farmers protection against nuisance lawsuits if they followed a list of generally accepted agricultural management practices.

In 1984, Koivisto was presented with the Michigan Agricultural Conference Recognition Award for his leadership in promoting state agriculture.

After four years (1987-1990) as a legislative staffer for the Joint Administrative Rules Committee, Koivisto ran for state Senate, and earned Michigan Farm Bureau's AgriPac endorsement as a "friend of agriculture" for the first time as a candidate for the Senate after gaining one such endorsement as a Representative. Subsequently, he earned two more "friend of agriculture" endorsements. He also was on the Senate Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee for eight of the 12 years he was in office.

During his time in the Senate, Koivisto voted in favor of agriculture issues endorsed by Michigan Farm Bureau policy 90 percent of the time.

Since leaving the Senate in 2002, Koivisto has been a lobbyist for the iron mining industry, but said he's retained his interest in agriculture issues, and looks forward to getting to work as director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture which will likely be some time around Labor Day, after he fulfills pending contractual obligations.

Koivisto said his experience will enable him to jump right into a difficult job, but he knows it will be a challenging position.

"Just because I was in the House and Senate doesn't mean I know everything," he said. "The good thing is that with the people at the department of agriculture, it will be a smooth transition. They are dedicated, knowledgeable, hard-working people."

Koivisto's goals include three basic points, he said within hours of being selected.

"First, my duty is to work with the executive office in the legislature, and second is to work with the various diverse groups associated with agriculture," he said. "Thirdly, my mission is to work with individual farmers through the various divisions we have at MDA. I have a strong desire to do those things, and I believe I'm fairly organized. And being open and accessible is a given."

Koivisto was a fine choice for leadership of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, said Wayne H. Wood, president of Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The selection of Don Koivisto as ag director is good because he brings a lot of expertise in promoting agriculture with him, along with his ability to recognize the issues that challenge our industry," Wood said. "One of the things the position requires is that the director be an advocate for agriculture and recognizes the high level of importance agriculture has for this state's economy," he said. "Mr. Koivisto knows these things and has accomplished many things already as a legislator. The fact that his hand prints are on the Right-to-Farm law is very important, and we look forward to a continued partnership with the MDA and its director."

Perfect petunias

Courier readers have been commenting on the outstanding condition of this season's petunias. Rayder band boosters have been weeding the petunias for weeks. The successful growing season can also be attributed to carefully selected soil and the beds being cleared prior to planting this year. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, which celebrated its 25th anniversary this year, is in charge of purchasing, planting and watering the petunias. The group will host a fund-raiser, Bids for Blooms, on Sept. 15 at the Belvedere Casino to support the project.

From Donor Advised Funds — $341,656 to a host of nonprofit organizations and charitable initiatives, in accordance with the wishes of those who established a donor advised fund and help direct their own grant making.

A charitable organization dedicated to improving and enriching life in the area, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation accepts gifts from individuals, families, businesses and organizations and manages them as permanent endowments. Every year, a portion of the endowment's investment income is used to support programs in education, the environment, the arts, human services, health and wellness, youth activities, community development and various civic projects.

Through careful investment, the principle of the endowment continues to grow, providing perpetual charitable capital to benefit Charlevoix County residents and local nonprofit organizations.

Since it was founded by a group of local citizens in 1992, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's net assets have grown to almost $21 million.

The community foundation will review grant requests again this fall. The deadline for applications is Oct. 1. For more information about grant opportunities, or the community foundation, call (231) 536-2440, or visit www.c3f.org.

Local law enforcement patrols land and water

Sheriff highlights common complaints on Charlevoix County waterways

Through public education and enforcement, Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater wants to ensure that boating and swimming activities continue to grow in safety and popularity.

The Sheriff's Office Marine Division patrols over 30 inland lakes and rivers in addition to Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. Since water resources encompass 70 percent of Charlevoix County, the marine division handles myriad complaints.

Trespassing complaints are received by the sheriff's office every summer. Normally, these complaints deal with either shoreline or sandbar trespass issues and are complicated by riparian rights. Boaters should respect the property rights of shoreline owners.

The illegal operation of personal watercraft (jet skis) by persons not authorized to do so by state law. Individuals born after Dec. 31, 1978 must possess a boater's safety certificate. This includes adults up to 29.

Personal watercraft must be off the water one hour prior to official sunset and may not operate before 8 a.m.

Vessels may not be operated in restricted zones such as swim areas.

Vessel registrations expire March 31 of the year and are not valid after that date.

Vessels must be properly anchored in a legal mooring area. It is important that the anchor being used is the proper size to secure the vessel.

Slow no-wake speed is the slowest speed (commonly less than 3 mph) to maintain steering without creating a wake. Boaters are responsible for any damages created by their wake.

Swimmers should use designated swim areas and stay within the marked zones to ensure their safety. Swimming with a friend and adult supervision for a child is recommended.

The operation of any watercraft while under the influence of alcohol will result in an arrest. The Sheriff's Office Marine Division enforces a zero tolerance for minors in possession of alcohol.

For more information about marine laws, call lieutenant David Beyer or sergeant Don Richards at (231) 547-4461.

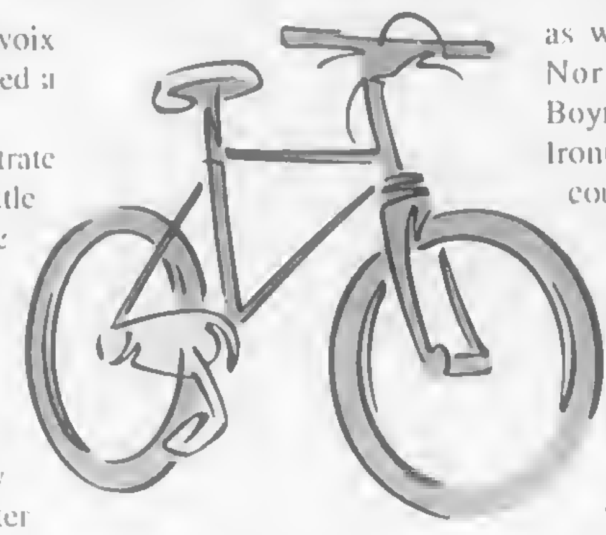
County sheriff's office establishes bike patrol

This month, the Charlevoix Sheriff's Office established a bicycle patrol.

The patrol will concentrate on the portion of the Little Traverse Wheelway bike path that extends from Charlevoix Township to the Emmet County line.

The patrol was established due to concerns by Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater for bicyclists using the path in isolated areas near Lake Michigan.



Bike patrol will include subdivisions like North Point and Pine Point as well as villages such as Norwood, Walloon Lake, Boyne Falls, Bay Shore and Ironton. It will also include county, state and township parks and events.

Undersheriff Don Schneider promoted this concept and two police bicycles were purchased by Charlevoix resident Bill Schuiling.

10 trouble spots on the water

1. It's a long day: A full day in the sun will increase alcohol's effects on the body, so it's better to wait until you're safely back at the dock or home before breaking out the libations. Also bring lots of water, a VHF radio and check the weather reports to avoid storms.

2. It's a long day, for the boat, too: Running electronics all day such as sound systems, fans, or other appliances and failing to monitor battery usage could leave your boat dead in the water when it's time to go home.

3. Running the engine to charge the batteries: Raft-ups, or groups of boats tied together in a protected anchorage, is a great way to spend the holiday with fellow boating friends. But you should never run an engine with swimmers in the water or near exhaust ports. Even though the boat's transmission may not be in gear, propellers can still rotate, and odorless, colorless carbon monoxide can quickly overcome swimmers.

4. Trailer problems: The Boat U.S. Trailering Club reports that flat tires and burnt bearings are the two biggest causes for boat trailer breakdowns. What shape are yours in?

5. Don't overload your boat: Capsizing and falls overboard account for over half of all boating fatalities. Heavily loaded small boats, and those with little freeboard such as bass boats, are more susceptible to swamping from weather or wake action associated with heavy boating traffic.

6. Wear life jackets: 70 percent of all fatal boating accident victims drowned, and of those, 87 percent weren't wearing life jackets.

7. Follow the rules of the road: If a boat is approaching your vessel from your starboard (right) side, do you know what to do? What happens when a light on another vessel "changes" from red to green?

8. Patience: The lines at boat launch ramps, in the parking lot or the water, can resemble a southern California freeway at rush hour. Be patient, ready to go when it's your turn, and follow good boating etiquette.

9. Take your time to get home: At evening events, the most reported type of boating accident is a collision with another vessel so it's a good idea to keep your speed down, post an extra lookout, and ensure all your navigation lights work. A spotlight is a must, and ensure all safety gear is readily available. Be extra vigilant about not running over anchor lines in crowded fireworks viewing areas, and don't take shortcuts in the dark.

10. Celebrate: Hey, you're on the water. Be safe, be prepared and have fun.

Beaver Island school board to host teacher recognition dinner

The Beaver Island Community School Board of Education is planning to host a recognition dinner on Sept. 15 to honor the commitment and accomplishments of four teachers and two board members.

Teacher Joe Moore retired after giving over 30 years of dedicated service to the school. Teachers Jim Stambaugh and Donna Stambaugh, although officially retired two years ago, will each be recognized for their 20 years of outstanding service to the district. Also being recognized at the event will be long-time teacher Jacque LaFreniere who resigned from the school district three years ago after teaching for over 20 years. School board members John Fiegen and Linda McDonough will also be recognized for their contributions to the school.

The school board will host the dinner at the Beaver Island Lodge in a manner similar to the 'citizen of the year' event. The event will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 15. Family members, former students, parents of students and friends are invited to join in the celebration. Anyone with anecdotes, or important information or messages they think should be shared at the event should contact Kitty McNamara at kittym@beaverisland.k12.mi.us.

Please contact the school office by Sept. 7 if you plan to attend this event. The cost will depend on what you order from the regular menu.

What? The Beaver Island Community School Board of Education is planning to host a recognition dinner to honor the commitment and accomplishments of three teachers and two board members.

When? 6 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 15.

Northern Community Mediation launches first donor campaign

Community support needed to offset state funding cuts

Dr. Jane Millar

Northern Community Mediation (NCM) is no different than most non-profit organizations. It is facing state-funding cutbacks. In order to maintain affordable mediation services for all community members, Northern Community Mediation is spearheading its first donor campaign.

Fortunately, there is an anonymous donor who will match whatever Northern Community Mediation raises through its campaign. Whatever the amount of the donation made by individuals, that money will double in value.

According to Dr. Jane Millar, executive director, "NCM provides a means of people coming together to resolve their conflicts with their own solutions rather than having to go through the court system. Although we handle all types of conflicts, the best way to describe our services is through an example."

It had been two years since Walter and Martha, the paternal grandparents of Sally, 5 and Rick, 7, had seen their grandchildren. Sally and Rick's parents were divorced. Their father had been an excessively abusive parent and was allowed only supervised visits with his children. Their mother Mary had full custody of the children, and would not allow Walter and Martha visitation of any kind.

As grandparents, Walter and Martha had no legal rights. Without Mary's consent, they may never have seen their grandchildren. In desperation, Martha called Northern Community Mediation (NCM) to see if we could help. Reluctantly, Mary agreed to come to mediation. During the mediation process, Mary expressed her fears that if Walter and Martha were granted visitation they would allow their son to be present. Walter and Martha shared their heartbreak at not being able to be a part of their grandchildren's lives. By understanding the concerns of one another, they were able to come to an agreement that allowed Walter and Martha supervised visitations with the understanding that if all went well, ultimately no supervision would be required.

That mediation took place a year ago. Today, Walter and Martha regularly see their grandchildren. Mary has found friendship and support from Walter and Martha. Most importantly, Sally and Rick have the joy of a healthy relationship with their grandparents.

Board president Jill Ryan said, "This donor campaign will provide a means to supplement current funding sources in order to maintain high quality mediation services in our community without creating a burden on those who are in need of service."

Anyone interested in learning more about Northern Community Mediation or donating to the campaign should contact Dr. Jane Millar at (231) 487-1771.

What is Northern Community Mediation? Northern Community Mediation is a nonprofit organization that provides nonadverserail dispute resolution services to the citizens of Charlevoix and Emmet counties regardless of status.

How is the program funded? Revenue for Northern Community Mediation comes primarily from the state of Michigan and is also generated by fees for services and donations.

What is the current funding issue? Northern Community Mediation (NCM) is no different than most non-profit organizations. It is facing state-funding cutbacks.

Waking up on the water

While many area residents and visitors were still snug in bed or preparing for church on Sunday morning, Aug. 19 dozens of water loving people shared with Courier editor Julie Witthoeft what it's like to wake up on the water. These pictures were taken in East Park and the Charlevoix Municipal Marina.

County veterans received $3,382,000 in 2006

Ed Holm

During the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, 2006, veterans and their families in Charlevoix County received $3,382,000 from the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Benefits in the form of disability compensation, pension, education, insurance and indemnities were paid directly to many of the veterans of Charlevoix County.

Linda Walker, director of the Veteran's Affairs Regional Office in Detroit, the office that administers benefit payments for Michigan said, "This influx of money into the Charlevoix County economy was a significant portion of the more than $1 billion dollars VA expended to serve the 820,485 veterans living throughout the State of Michigan."

"Over half of all VA expenditures, more than $500 million, are paid directly to veterans and their families each year," Walker added. "The rest is used to support VA medical services provided at Michigan's five VA medical centers, two outpatient clinics and the numerous community based outpatient clinics located throughout the state."

Any Charlevoix County veteran who believes their service connected condition has gotten worse or those with questions about benefits should contact Charlevoix County Veteran's Affairs director, Ed Holm by calling (231) 547-7220.

Who? Veterans and their families in Charlevoix County
What? During the fiscal year that ended Sept 30, 2006 they received $3,382,000 from the Department of Veterans Affairs.
Benefits information? Contact Charlevoix County Veteran's Affairs director, Ed Holm by calling (231) 547-7220

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

For years, brothers Tim and Dennis Maxwell drove to Gaylord or Traverse City for motorcycle repairs and to buy bike parts.

But now, the brothers have their motorcycles serviced locally in Charlevoix at their own shop, Maxwell Bros. Cycle Shop.

"We do all service on Harley and most metric bikes from tire and oil changes to engine work. We will even build custom bikes," Tim said.

Located at 103 Harbor Dr., the brothers not only provide service but parts and accessories. Tim said the shop can order any and all parts for customers seeking to do their own mechanical work.

In addition, they carry some apparel such as Easy Rider road wear and helmets.

Aside from being one of the few motorcycle shops in the area, what makes their shop different, Tim said, is the fact that their mechanic, Pat Hayes, specializes in both Harley and metric models from old to new.

With 25 plus years of experience, Hayes is a certified mechanic with a background working with the Harley Davidson company.

"We've always liked bikes," Tim said. "I've ridden since I was 9 years old. (Dennis) even built a bike of his own in the past and it's always been his hobby and lifestyle."

Tim added that when not in the shop, both he and Dennis still work as contractors — he as a paving stone contractor with Maxwell Paving Stone and Dennis a tile contractor for Maxwell Tile.

Despite being busy as contractors, though, Tim said they saw the need for a local bike shop when they opened in June.

"We always had to go to Gaylord for bike parts. We're just filling a need for the area, especially for V-twins," he said.

Looking to the future, the brothers plan to offer winter bike storage. Within their shop, they can store up to 15 bikes and potentially more off-site. While in storage, all bikes will be covered and hooked up to a battery tender.

To contact Maxwell Bros. Cycle Shop, call (231) 237-9761. Business hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday or by appointment.

Louise Nelle can be contacted at (231) 439-9339, or lnelle@petoskeynews.com.

Courtesy photo

Local potter, Bonnie Staffel will host a Trash Can and Smoke Firing Workshop on Sept. 15 in Charlevoix.

Pit firing is the practice of subjecting low-fired bisque pots to a vigorous bonfire. During an upcoming hands-on workshop, participants will fire their own bisque pieces in a ventilated metal can with copper, salt, organic matter, sawdust and hardwood kindling.

Local potter, Bonnie Staffel will host this Trash Can and Smoke Firing Workshop from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15 in Charlevoix. Come learn a new technique to simulate pit firing in a controlled manner. Beginning to advanced potters are welcome.

The cost is $65 and attendees are asked to bring a sack lunch and several soft bisque fired pots (Cone 010) no larger than the size of a melon.

To see Staffel's work, visit http://vasefinder.com/bstaffelgallery1.html.

For more information or to register for the class, call (231) 547-2333 or (231) 547-7319.

Family-friendly tours at Castle Farms

Castle Farms is offering family-friendly tours.

Self-guided tours at the Castle are $6 each and the children's tour is set up like a scavenger/treasure hunt which earns them a treasure at the end.

While there you can feed the fish in the reflection pond, play a game of giant chess or checkers, find your way through the hedge maze or, enjoy strolling through the magnificent gardens. The self-guided tour includes a short video and a numbered map. Many improvements have been made to the Castle since last summer.

Tours are available from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays. For more information, visit www.castlefarms.com.

New local school gets students truckin'

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Eddie Kendricks sang the song, "Keep On Truckin'," but what about those who don't know how?

Not to fret, Northern Driving Institute, located at 15890 Bells Bay Rd. in Charlevoix, can have you up and running a big rig like the pros.

"Truck drivers are needed across the country, there is a real shortage," said 13-year veteran driver, 11-year veteran instructor and operations manager of Northern Driving Institute, Wayne Bergmann. "There are quite a few displaced workers out there right now and I would say (trucking) companies out there are starting at $35,000 a year, easy, of course that depends on how hard a guy wants to work."

He added, "The general consensus is 72 hours without truck drivers and America stops, so there is job security."

Bergmann started the trucking school, which will officially open Sept. 10, after years of having to retrain students fresh out of driving school.

REQUIREMENTS TO ENROLL IN THE SCHOOL

You must be 21 or older.

You must pass a Department of Transportation physical and drug screening.

COST TO ENROLL

In area — $3,350

Out of area — $4,500

Tuition includes meals, room and board and transportation to the school from anywhere in the country.

WHO IS THIS FOR?

"I have trained everybody from stockbrokers to people who retired and want a second career to 21 year olds getting started, so it's a real wide scope of people that drive trucks," Bergmann said. "It's a good steady job and a lot of guys get out on the road and find that it beats factory work or anything else."

He added, "You are basically running a business out of the cab of a truck and you have freedom. As long as you do your job, there's nobody looking over your shoulder. You get to see the country and get paid for it and there is such a pride there — you are literally keeping the country running."

WHAT TO EXPECT?

"The class is 160 hours, that includes classroom time and lab time or basic operations of the truck and how to drive up and down the road safely," Bergmann said. "You can finish it in three weeks if the student is putting his time in like he should."

"Safety is key," Bergmann said. "I had a North Carolina state trooper tell one of my trainees the best example I've ever heard of a truck. 'A truck is a 75-foot-long, 80,000-pound ballistic missile and you have to know how to handle it safely.'"

JOB PLACEMENT?

"We have a whole list of companies that we work with who are willing to take our drivers," Bergmann said. "They would go on to the company and be trained on their policies and that training is paid."

He added, "Although it is a pretty large initial investment, it pays for itself."

There's a maximum of 15 students per class and there are openings available. Visit www.northerndrivinginstitute.com or call (888) 870-6289 for more information or to enroll.

Chamber hosts 9th Annual Golf Outing

What? The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce 9th Annual Chamber Golf Outing

When? Tuesday, Aug 28.

Where? The Belvedere Golf Club

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce recently announced the revived 9th Annual Chamber Golf Outing will take place on Tuesday, Aug. 28 at the Belvedere Golf Club.

It will be a four-person scramble event with a shotgun start at 1 p.m.

Members and non-members are welcome at a cost of $360 per team or $100 per person. This will include a buffet dinner and award ceremony immediately following the event at the Belvedere Club Casino located on Belvedere Avenue.

The entry fee also includes one chance to become the "2007 Chamber Putting Champion." This putting contest includes a chance to win a $5,000 first prize.

Registration will begin at noon. "Mulligans" and 50/50 raffle tickets may be purchased on the day of the outing.

Guests of the golfers are invited to join the group for dinner at a cost of $20.

Proceeds for this event will benefit the continuation of chamber events and services. To register, or for information about sponsoring a team, a hole or a cart, call Tom Conlan at (231) 547-2512, Ron Agnello at (231) 547-9767 or the chamber at (231) 547-2101.

Rayder summer baseball takes McBain tournament

The Charlevoix Rayders summer baseball team won the McBain Homecoming Tournament the weekend of July 21, defeating Shelby, 7-6 and McBain, 10-5.

Sam Balasz led the Rayder hitters against Shelby, going three for three. Robby Jensen had two hits, two runs scored and an RBI.

Danny Waldron and Bill Ivan both had RBI doubles. Jon Putman had an RBI single. Clayton Mitchell and Brandon Darrah also had hits.

Ty Telgenhof was the winning pitcher, giving up one run in two innings. Jensen struck out three in one-and-one-third innings in relief to get the save.

The game's key defensive play was J.T. Lawrence running down a Shelby hit into the gap with a runner on first and preventing the runner from scoring.

Against the host Ramblers, Charlevoix jumped out to a 7-1 lead and coasted to the win.

Mitchell had two hits and scored three runs. Putman had two hits and scored two runs.

Balasz again came up big for Charlevoix, driving in three runs on a walk, single and ground out. Telgenhof doubled.

Ivan and Darrah both drove in runs. Chase Moore walked, stole two bases and scored a run.

On the mound, Waldron struck out two in one shutout inning of relief. Telgenhof gave up one run on one hit in two innings.

Itch fastest overall leading into final race of season

Charlevoix Yacht Club boaters raced the seventh race of the summer series on Aug. 15 in light and variable winds.

The course was shortened to three legs as a result of the dying breezes. Itch was the fastest boat overall and only eight seconds separated the first two boats in the P-26 fleet. The results of one more race will determine the final results for the summer series, and four boats are currently in close contention for first in the Spinnaker A fleet.

Jib and Main fleet: 1 – Sonnett (Lepmann); 2 – Exitus (Pung).

P-26 fleet: 1 – Lost Vermonter (Tinney); 2 – Original Sin (Miller); 3 – Cygnus (Stewart); 4 – Tireless (Carland); DNF – Apothecary (Ochs).

Spinnaker A fleet: 1 - Hoi Polloi (Attee); 2 – Gotcha! (Dow/Mueller); 3 – Paleface Lite (Grove); 4 – M3 (Carey); 5 – Suzie Q (Kelly); 6 – Fairret (Seymour); DNF – Booma (Gosling/Tyra) and Sail La Vie (Williamson).

Spinnaker B fleet: 1 – Itch (Thomas); 2 – Northern Light (Orlow); 3 – Moxie (Jensen); 4 – Windrunner (Pirie).

Summer series results after seven races with two drops:

Jib and Main fleet: 1 – Sonnett (5); 2 – Exitus (9); 3 – Opus (17).

P-26 fleet: 1 – Tireless (7); 2 – Original Sin (9); 3 – Lost Vermonter (11); 4 – Cygnus (12); 5 – Apothecary (24).

Spinnaker A fleet: 1 – Tie: Hoi Polloi and Paleface Lite (10); 3 – Gotcha! (11); 4 – Suzie Q (12); 5 – Booma (19); 6 – Fairret (26.5); 7 – Sail La Vie (30.5); 8 – M3 (31); 9 – Incognito (41).

Spinnaker B fleet: 1 – Northern Light (8); 2 – Moxie (10); 3 – Affinity (12); 4 – Itch (15); 5 – Windrunner (20); 6 – Padawan 3 (29).

Racing profile

Boat name: Booma

Design: 27-foot 1972 C&C Mark I

Year with the Charlevoix Yacht Club: Fifteenth

History: Booma is older than the yacht club, but has still won a lot of races since 1992 when the boat first began to race with the Charlevoix Yacht Club. The majority of Booma's crew resides in Grayling.

Crew: Ron DeCosse (foredeck), "Chip" Coale (starboard grinder), Joe Wollam (port grinder), John Tyra (co-skipper and helmsman), Barbie Apley (main), Chuck Gosling (skipper)

Word from the skipper: "Sailing is a wonderful diversion from the stresses and strains of daily life, pursued in a beautiful environment. That's why there are far more songs written about sailing than about golfing."

Charlevoix Community Skatepark moves into fall operating hours

The Charlevoix Community Skatepark, located at 401 West Carpenter St. will move into fall operating hours on Sept. 4.

This fall, the park will be open from 4 to 8 p.m. on Thursdays, from 4 to 9 p.m. on Fridays, from noon to 9 p.m. on Saturdays and from noon to 6 p.m. Sundays. The park is closed during inclement weather or during storm watches.

The city owned and operated park opened on April 29 for a five-month season and in the first two months of operation has had over 1,300 users.

Helmets are required. The park is supervised.

The daily user fee is $3. A seven-day punch card is $15 and a season pass is $90.

For more information, call the City of Charlevoix Recreation Department at 547-3253.

Last castle of summer

Ciara Cameron, 2, and her brother, Drew Cameron, 3, built one of the last sand castles of summer on Aug. 19 at Lake Michigan Beach. Local students are scrambling to the beach to enjoy the last few days of summer. Charlevoix Public Schools resume classes on Sept. 5.

Char-Em United Way meets membership criteria

Char-Em United Way has successfully completed all of the 2007 United Way of America membership requirements satisfactorily and on time announced Joanne Curtis, United Way hoard president.

The requirements include membership requirements certification, membership investment and the Survey of Total Resources Generated. The survey captures the full extent of a community's resource development efforts during the year.

"As we will soon begin our fall fundraising campaign, it is important for us to assure our donors that we maintain a high standard of accountability. This is part of the process to document that our operations are transparent and meet or exceed United Way membership criteria requirements," Curtis said.

The certification mandates completion of 13 requirements for United Way of America membership along with verification of the status of 44 indicators that demonstrate a United Way embodies the intent of the membership requirements.

"It is critically important that all United Ways meet the highest standards and verify on paper that they have conformed to the requirements of membership in the United Way system," said Brian Gallagher, president and CEO, United Way of America. "We applaud and congratulate Char-Em United Way for demonstrating its commitment by completing the certification process."

An integral part of the community for nearly 50 years, Char-Em United Way conducts work site and other fundraising campaigns to raise funds to support many local health and human service agencies. It also serves on the two-county Human Services Coordinating Body and its Homeless Continuum of Care work group. United Way coordinates the Emergency Food and Shelter program which funds local shelters and food pantries and is a sponsor of the annual Day of Caring.

Char-Em United Way is part of a system of 1,300 United Ways. Each local United Way must complete United Way of America's requirements annually in order to retain its United Way of America membership.

For more information, to volunteer or contribute to United Way, contact Char-Em United Way at (231) 487-1006 or visit charemuw@sbcglohal.net.

Historical society awards Scout Troop 11 for community service

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Boy Scouts of America Troop 11 of Charlevoix recently received an award for recognition of their service to the Charlevoix Historical Society and the Charlevoix Area Garden Club.

"Troop 11, for the last three years, has done part of their community service with the historical society and garden club," said past historical society president, Jack MacKenzie.

MacKenzie presented the plaque to the troop in a ceremony on the Beaver Islander ship on Aug. 7.

Scout parent Vince Currier said that helping the historical society and garden club are not mandated functions and it was the boys that volunteered to perform them.

"They're the ones that wanted to do it," he said.

For three years, members of Troop 11 spent time helping the historical society's annual cruise and on the grounds of the historical society's Harsha House Museum on behalf of the garden club.

During the historical society cruise, they've helped board passengers and load equipment onto the Beaver Islander, served popcorn, policed the event and cleaned up afterwards.

Their work for the garden club was done at the historical society's Harsha House Museum, where they replaced the garden, painted the fence and placed mulch on the grounds.

Zebra mussels, lake levels to blame for slime

If you've visited Lake Michigan, you may have noticed extensive stretches of shoreline where large amounts of green algae have accumulated in near-shore areas.

Over the past few years there has been an increase in Lake Michigan riparian owners concerned over algae on their shorelines. This year is no exception.

Factors of algae increase

Vital components of all aquatic ecosystems, algae are the base of the food chain and contribute dissolved oxygen to the water during photosynthesis. While algae blooms occur naturally, they can spoil a day at the beach when they reach nuisance level. There are a number of factors that are likely responsible for the surge in algae, such as the proliferation of zebra and quagga mussels in Lake Michigan and Lake Huron, and possibly lower lake levels, warmer temperatures and nutrient pollution.

TYPES OF ALGAE

Periphyton

Many species of algae anchor themselves to rocks or other hard surfaces in near shore areas. This bottom-dwelling algae is known as periphyton. Periphyton is a naturally occurring type of algae in all northern Michigan lakes and streams. As the periphyton ages and grows, it breaks off naturally. In addition, periphyton can slough off the hard surfaces and from the lake bottom during periods of high energy wave action. This periphyton sometimes looks like pea soup or green gunk and usually remains suspended in the water for many days due to its buoyancy. The periphyton are then transported with the prevailing winds, often gathering in embayments and sheltered areas. Conversely, if the wind direction changes, these accumulations can quickly be blown out and dissipated into open water. Sometimes the periphyton mixes with marl (calcium carbonate present in our soils that precipitates out of the water column and covers rocks and plants) resulting in a goopy mixture.

It is normal to have small localized areas with some periphyton growth in Lake Michigan, but the unfortunate introduction of exotic zebra and quagga mussels and increase in storm water runoff appear to have altered nutrient cycles, along with changing climate and water levels, disrupting the natural balance causing the proliferation of algae.

While the algae itself poses no known threat to public health, the stagnant areas that are collecting algae may also be collecting other bacteria that could make animals sick if ingested.

Microcystis

Besides the increase in periphyton growth, there is another potential consequence of the zebra mussel infestation that may impact inland lakes as well as the Great Lakes. As zebra mussels feed, they filter and digest large quantities of free-floating unicellular algae, but appear to "spit out" a common blue-green algae, known as microcystis. As a result, microcystis is becoming more and more concentrated in many inland lakes populated with zebra mussels. This consequence is problematic because microcystis has the distinction of being able to produce natural toxins, called microcystins, which can be harmful to wildlife and humans. In fact, the toxin can cause liver damage and even kill wildlife if a sufficient quantity is ingested. The effects on humans, although not entirely known, include gastrointestinal distress. The risk is greatest when algae blooms are thickest, and for those who are most likely to ingest lake water (i.e. children and pets). Microcystis, under normal circumstances, does not pose a health risk. Only when concentrations of the algae are unusually high does the potential exist for enough toxins to be produced to cause a problem.

The characteristic appearance of microcystis is described as a green scum floating on the water surface, becoming very noticeable during bloom events. From a distance, the algae looks like spilled grass green paint on the lake's surface. To report a microcystis lake bloom, contact Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council.

WHAT CAN YOU DO ABOUT THE ALGAE?

For the time being, there is no environmentally safe recourse other than raking up and disposing of the accumulated algae that collects along the shoreline. Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council coordinates a Volunteer Algae Monitoring program with volunteers monitoring the Lake Michigan shoreline from Elk Rapids to Cross Village.

If you've visited Lake Michigan, you may have noticed extensive stretches of shoreline where large amounts of green algae have accumulated in near-shore areas. Lake Michigan Beach (shown above) has some algae on its shore area but isn't afflicted as strongly as other beaches shouldering the waters of Lake Michigan.

Volunteers monitor factors including weather and waves, water clarity, algae color, cover and width and water depth on a weekly basis throughout the summer. This information is entered into a database for analysis and will be used to build a history of algae growth in northern Michigan.

For more information or to volunteer, contact Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council at (231) 347-1181 ext. 100 or info@watershedcouncil.org.

SEPT. 15
RECOGNITION DINNER

The Beaver Island Community School Board of Education is planning to host a recognition dinner on Sept. 15 to honor the commitment and accomplishments of four teachers and two board members.

Teacher Joe Moore retired after giving over 30 years of dedicated service to the school. Teachers Jim Stambaugh and Donna Stambaugh, although officially retired two years ago, will each be recognized for their 20 years of outstanding service to the district. Also being recognized at the event will be long-time teacher Jacque LaFreniere who resigned from the school district three years ago after teaching for over 20 years. School board members John Fiegen and Linda McDonough will also be recognized for their contributions to the school.

The school board will host the dinner at the Beaver Island Lodge in a manner similar to the 'citizen of the year' event. The event will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 15. Family members, former students, parents of students and friends are invited to join in the celebration. Anyone with anecdotes, or important information or messages they think should be shared at the event should contact Kitty McNamara at kittym@beaverisland.k12.mi.us.

Please contact the school office by Sept. 7 if you plan to attend this event. The cost will depend on what you order from the regular menu.

SEPT. 15

Local landmark

The history of Big Rock Point in Hayes Township was commemorated by local historians and government leaders on Saturday, Aug. 25 when new historical markers were unveiled highlighting the significance of the site. The plant was shut down on Aug. 29, 1997. At the time it was the longest running and oldest operating nuclear plant in the country. After providing electricity to Consumers Energy customers for 35 years, the site was returned to green field status in August 2006. City planner retires under pressure

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Gerry Harsch

On Aug. 16, Gerry Harsch, the longtime planner for the City of Charlevoix, announced his retirement in the face of reported pressure from city council members.

Harsch, who has been the city's part-time planner for 23 years said if he hadn't felt his job was in jeopardy he would have likely held off retirement until early this winter.

"It was my best option," the 68-year-old planner said. "It (retirement) wasn't too far away anyway, but I wouldn't have done it at this point in time."

Harsch first announced his decision in an e-mail to city treasurer and acting city manager, Rick Brandi.

In the e-mail he states, "Following our discussion yesterday, I have decided after having worked for the city for 23 years, to retire from the position of city planner."

Harsch said he had straightforward discussions with "the powers that be," Brandi and mayor Norman Carlson Jr. In those talks, Harsch learned there was a movement afoot to unseat him.

Brandi said he has no issue with Harsch's performance. But Carlson said over the past few months he was approached by unnamed council members

Residents of East Hurlbut Avenue in the City of Charlevoix have petitioned city council to change the name of their street to Bluff Avenue.

East Hurlbut to become Bluff Avenue?

Residents petition city council to change their street name

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Nineteen residents of the City of Charlevoix have signed a petition to change the name of their street from East Hurlbut Avenue to Belvedere Bluff Avenue.

The petition, which calls for a change in address numbers as well as address names, was drafted and circulated by East Hurlbut Avenue resident, Robert Heath.

"My concern is that there have been numerous delivery problems," Heath said. "The current situation on East Hurlbut is unique to the City of Charlevoix, numbers are identical on both the north and south side of East Hurlbut Avenue. To add to the confusion, there is West Hurlbut, which has the same numbers."

Heath also said that safety issues regarding emergency calls are a concern.

When Heath presented the

HARSCH

who expressed concern with how the planning department was operating.

"Council members were displeased with the ways things were going and they expressed interest in having him removed," Carlson said.

Concerns included cutbacks on hours which according to Carlson had dwindled to one-and-a-half days a week and perceived holes in reports. According to Harsch, his position with the City of Charlevoix stipulated two to two-and-a-half days of work each week for which he was compensated $33,742 a year.

To try and be "fair" Carlson said before firing Harsch he would let him know the direction the situation was headed in and give him a choice.

He ultimately chose retirement effective Aug. 31.

"It's just a matter of time. Over time there are differences of opinion that occur about issues like zoning. People get into positions of power that have differences of opinion," Harsch said.

"After 23 years I'm sad this is the way to go. We are right on the cusp of getting the historic district wrapped up, we're just about to wrap up with the consultant for the downtown development plan and are in the middle of an area-wide smart growth initiative. There are a lot of things hanging out there that someone will have to pick up and carry. I'm a little disappointed I didn't have the opportunity to finish up those things," he added.

Harsch will continue as Garfield Township planner where he is employed full-time.

Harsch's retirement follows the firing of former city manager Mike Wiesner who was dismissed by city council in January. Wiesner's replacement, Robert Straebel of Taos Ski Valley, N.M. will take over on Sept. 4.

Straebel will be in charge of selecting Harsch's replacement.

"I'm not going to try to do that (choose a replacement). It's up to the new city manager to form his own team. It's important for him to have that choice. I don't think waiting two weeks is a big deal," Brandi said.

Third ward council member Shirley Gibson agreed.

"I think his timely resignation is a positive move for the community which will enable the new city manager to hire a planner who will hopefully take the approach that we need to carefully base planning decisions and development plans on retaining the integrity of Charlevoix's small-town character," she said.

> "Council members were displeased with the way things were going and they expressed interest in having him (Harsch) removed."

> MAYOR OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

Who? City of Charlevoix planner Gerry Harsch.

What? On Aug. 16 Harsch announced his retirement in the face of reported pressure from some city council members after 23 years with the city.

Effective when? Aug. 31.

How much did he make? $33,742 a year for between two and two-and-a-half days of work each week.

What's next? Robert Straebel of Taos Ski Valley, N.M. who will take over as city manager on Sept. 4 will be in charge of selecting Harsch's replacement.

Name change aims to clear confusion

HURLBUT

petition to Charlevoix City Council on Aug. 20, First Ward councilman Lyle Gennett said he was concerned that the name change would create more of a problem.

Gennett, a retired shift commander for the City of Charlevoix Fire Department, said that there is currently a Belvedere Avenue and a Belvedere Terrace in the city.

"My concern would be getting terrace and bluff mixed up," Gennett said. "When someone comes into your town, they don't know, when they see a street and an accident happens, and they call and say 'I'm on Belvedere,' there's going to be confusion. I'm concerned this wouldn't fix the problem, that it would create more of a problem."

Heath states in the petition that 11 of the 15 residents on Belvedere Avenue approve the renaming of the adjacent East Hurlhut Avenue to Belvedere Bluff Avenue.

However, to address concerns about confusion Heath has amended the proposal to name East Hurlhut Avenue, Bluff Avenue.

The city council has not taken action on Heath's petition, pending the public hearing on the issue scheduled for 7 p.m. on Oct. 1 at Charlevoix City Hall.

> "The current situation on East Hurlbut is unique to the City of Charlevoix, numbers are identical on both the north and south side of East Hurlbut Avenue. To add to the confusion, there is West Hurlbut, which has the same numbers."

Stolen car chase ends in charges

Anthony Jacobs

Just hefore noon on Monday, Aug. 20, a Charlevoix County deputy assigned to the Straits Area Narcotics Team spotted a stolen 2005 Honda CRV taken from Emmet County earlier that morning.

A City of Charlevoix patrolman responded along with a Charlevoix County deputy in their marked patrol units. As the city officer approached the vehicle near Kmart, the driver, Anthony Jacohs, 22, of Cheboygan, fled the scene. The Charlevoix County deputy chased Jacohs south on M-66 to Loeb and on to Clark Road. At that point, Jacobs drove across a lawn and sped back toward M-66 again. He then turned down the private driveway of the Pine Lake Club. That driveway is a dead end road. Jacobs drove through a picket fence and onto the lawn of the condominium and came to rest on the beach. He then fled on foot with the officers in pursuit. After a short foot chase, Jacohs was taken into custody by the Charlevoix city officer.

He is being charged with two counts of flee and eluding, possession of cocaine and marijuana, malicious destruction of property, malicious destruction of trees and shrubs, driving while license suspended and resisting and obstructing a police officer.

He faces preliminary examination on Sept. 18.

CORRECTION

Due to misinformation provided to the Courier, the woman dancing with Boulder Park employees in a Polka Party picture that appeared on page 26 of the Aug. 15 edition of the Courier was misidentified. The Boulder Park resident is Ilse Perry.

In the July 11 edition of the Charlevoix Courier, it was reported by Stefanie Carano that Nynke Bierma, Unne Kallmeyer and Pertti Salmela were Charlevoix's first foreign exchange students. Charlevoix's first foreign exchange student was Ruby Saunders from Northern Ireland in 1959, who was sponsored by the Michigan Council of Churches.

Can women have it all?

That's the question Oprah posed to working moms and homemakers two weeks ago.

I watched the episode with interest just days before my maternity leave expired and my Aug. 20 return to full-time status at the office. I usually lean toward the light-hearted Ellen DeGeneres Show but my thought was I might find a nugget of knowledge on balancing work and home.

Of course the guests were the extremes. One was a stay-at-home mom with eight children who relished her "home school" experience and felt off kilter because her oldest was 3 and she wasn't pregnant or nursing. The other was captain corporate America who woke up to stock market numbers and got home from work just in time to kiss the kids goodnight.

It was the audience members that intrigued me. These were the average folks — some had stayed home with their children while others worked. Reading between the lines in the verbal attack that ensued I found both camps feel inadequate in some way.

The women at home said their children are their lives and their lives are full but maybe there's something they're capable of achieving that they're not pursuing. While working moms expressed remorse that they missed their children's first moments or slighted them in some way by pursuing a career.

Missing from the discussion was how stay-at-home dads, family-friendly work environments, extended family and breast pumps can open up the door for women to have a successful career and peaceful home life.

This is the avenue my family travels. After four weeks of maternity leave I was able to return to the office to fulfill essential day-to-day tasks and design the paper with my napping newborn in tow. And now that 12 weeks have passed and snuggle time is over, my husband, who is a self-employed part-time contractor and electrician who moonlights as super sexy frontman for the local blues band Charlie's Root Fusion holds down the homefront. When our jobs conflict my mother-in-law (a saint in a Hawaiian grandma disguise) comes over and watches the girls.

While money is tight with one full-time income and another part-time, care of our children is at the top of our priority list. So we make sure home base remains a constant for the kids.

Sure, there are nights I'm up late scrubbing potties or doing laundry — the dual role isn't all roses — but the Oprah discussion was very "all or nothing" when the reality is each of us needs to define for ourselves what having it all is. The most important step is ranking your priorities. Then you can begin the daunting task of time management.

Once you merge your priorities with your time you can start to draft your dream team of players and see how you can meet your professional goals while maintaining the home life that suits the needs of your family. Oh, and a super sacred calendar is the glue to it all.

The bottom line, there is no secret solution to "having it all." You have to look closely at your life goals, establish priorities and then reap the benefits of pursuing a rewarding family life.

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

In the ancient history of mankind, the search for portents and omens has an important place.

Seeking to know the future from the arrangement of knuckle bones thrown on the ground or tea leaves in the bottom of a cup or even the arrangement of the innards of an eviscerated chicken, has always been something of a cottage industry for shamans and priests of various kinds and religions. We are still likely to hope we can tell what the future might hold by looking at something in the present. What the non-human creatures around us do has long been a source of inspiration.

Autumn is filled with possibilities for predicting the nature of the winter to come, and most of them involve what animals are doing. During the past two weeks I have been watching. I've seen a wedge of Canada geese flying south and Monarch butterflies two miles out over Lake Michigan fluttering southwest. The salmon are just now beginning to jump out of the water near St. Marys Cement and the annual squirrel suicide swim has begun.

What do all these things mean? I am tempted to suggest that both the geese and the butterflies seem to be heading south earlier than in other years, but I really don't have any confirmation for that. As to why the salmon jump, I can get 12 different explanations from 12 different people. And those same 12 people will have 12 reasons for the local squirrels trying, unsuccessfully, to swim across Round Lake and down the Pine River Channel.

The only thing I am sure of is that geese, butterflies, salmon and squirrels are no better at predicting the future than I am. In fact, I would suggest that I should be a better predictor of the future than any of those creatures. I don't know what sort of winter approaches us, the Farmer's Almanac doesn't know, and I am certain that geese, butterflies, salmon, squirrels and woolly bear caterpillars don't know.

If watching human behavior could be more reliable, maybe the creatures we should watch most closely are people. Are some piling up a larger supply of split oak for their wood stoves? Are people planning to migrate to Florida or Arizona earlier than other years than they did in 2004? If those signs don't work, it is hard for me to imagine that we should put any credence in the activities of geese or caterpillars.

The long-term future remains as much a mystery as it was 20,000 years ago. That applies not only to ordinary creatures, but apparently also to mortgage bankers, economists, real estate developers and even lawyers. We, the geese, the squirrels, appear to be in the same boat.

The most enduring mystery of autumn to me is the swimming squirrels. I see dozens of them each fall, and they appear to be suicidal. I am open to any rational explanation.

BEN CRACKS ME UP

Editor:

Benjamin Gohs cracks me up. I'm so impressed with his brilliant ability to get a point across with his "to die for" knack at sarcasm. I think Jeremy McBain (former Charlevoix Courier editor) aspired to achieve his talent but never quite got there. He came off a little too much like a jerk and you had to sort of put up with his arrogance to get to the laugh. You hit it right on the head (in the column entitled "Time for truce between motorists and pedestrians" that appeared on A4 of the Aug. 22 edition of the Petoskey News-Review). Keep it up and I'll keep subscribing to PNR. Please take a drive in the tunnel of trees from Harbor Springs to Cross Village. I'm sure you would have lots to say about cars, trucks, campers and mobile homes vs. bike tours, pedestrians, gawkers, baby strollers, deer, turkeys, etc.

I once saw an old resorter-type Caddie that was headed from Petoskey to Harbor Springs. He was buzzing along at about 25 mph with a bumper sticker that said, "If you're in a hurry you don't belong in Harbor Springs." I believe he was the same man that I saw in a restaurant that night and he was yelling about the slow service.

COMMON SENSE NEEDED NOT LAW

Editor:

Wouldn't it be nice if everyone was considerate of others when it comes to excess noise? If we were, we would have no need for more laws?

Since that is not the case, let's not just point fingers at construction, music, motorcycles and snowmobiles. How about planes, jets and helicopters? I hear more of those in the summer than anything else. How about jet exhaust? Honestly, I don't mind watching the jets and helicopters take off and land during the day, but when they land and leave them running for a length of time at night, it becomes noise pollution. If we must address noise, let's not just cover a few groups, or one intersection, let's address all excess noise.

THANKS FOR SHARING

Editor:

My family has been coming to Charlevoix for 34 summers. We always look forward to the fireworks display Venetian weekend. We would like to thank the Venetian Festival planning committee for the most spectacular and gorgeous fireworks ever. At the end we were speechless with the beauty we had just been privileged to enjoy.

The new marina is beautiful. The state-of-the-art library is a joy in every way. And the high school is quite impressive.

We thank the citizens of Charlevoix and your leaders for constantly choosing the best for this very special place and for sharing it so graciously with those of us who come in the summer.

GRATEFUL BOOSTERS

Editor:

The Beaver Island Sports Boosters would like to thank the patrons of their hot dog sale at the recent Bud McDonough Memorial Softball tournament on the Island.

The two-day sale earned approximately $2,000 for the sports boosters who annually help offset the high cost of transporting athletes to league sporting contests on the mainland. A special thanks goes to one of the visiting softball teams, Mark White Painting K& D, for a donation of their golf outing winnings. A special thanks too for a generous donation collected by Tom Rankle at his own food vending station and to the businesses that supported the event. The student-athletes of Beaver Island are lucky to have such generous supporters.

REAL UNSUNG HEROES

Editor:

I know that over the past few weeks there have been articles, ads and letters about Charlevoix's unsung heroes in the Charlevoix Courier. I think it's great to point out people in our community that give back to the community but I would like to take it a little further.

I think the real unsung heroes are some of our children. Not only within the Charlevoix city limits but within Charlevoix County and Emmet County. Over the past couple of days I have attended the Emmet-Charlevoix County Fair market livestock judging contests and market livestock auction and I just wish everyone could see how these 4-H kids take the time to raise, show and sell their steers, hogs, lamb and veal. This teaches the kids a great responsibility in life. They raise these animals from shortly after the time they are born and take them to the fair to show them off to all who attend and they take great pride in it. I wish you could all see the huge smiles on their faces when they are in the show ring, not only selling but auctioning off these animals that they have raised from shortly after birth. I did it when I was young and wish I could still be out there.

I would just like to say, "Thank you" to all of the parents, families, sponsors, 4-H leaders, Charlevoix and Emmet Cooperative Extension Services, auctioneers and buyers. You are the true unsung heroes for these children to be able to participate in a truly wonderful organization. An organization that our current governor wanted to take away from these kids a few years back. I would like to see people start supporting these hard working kids each August at the fair and let them know how much we truly appreciate them. They are our future.

'THANKS' VOTERS

'THANKS' RELAY SUPPORTERS

Editor:

On Aug. 11 and 12, more than 200 participants gathered at Castle Farms in Charlevoix to combat the number one health issue facing Americans — cancer. Area residents showed their support by forming teams, raising funds and walking for 24 hours for the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life of Charlevoix County. It was truly an inspiring event.

This year, Relay for Life of Charlevoix County raised over a generous $26,000, which will support the life-saving mission of the American Cancer Society through research, education, advocacy and service.

The American Cancer Society would like to extend its sincere appreciation to the Relay committee, volunteers, individuals, teams and companies who participated and made Relay for Life a tremendous success. We also thank our many corporate sponsors. The leadership of these employees and their families is heartfelt. Furthermore, the overwhelming support put forth by everyone who took part in the festivities certainly showcases the determination of the community to help fight cancer.

We will never forget the shining faces of our cancer survivors, the glow of the luminaria and the dedicated walkers who graced the track for 24 hours. We hope to see you all again at next year's Relay for Life because there is no finish line until we find a cure.

THANKS FOR THE GRANT

Editor:

Charlevoix County Parks and Recreation has received a $5,000 grant from the Great Lakes Energy Peoples Fund.

The grant has been used to help make parking lot improvements at Thumb Lake Park. The new parking area keeps vehicles from being driven on the beach, solving erosion and water run-off problems.

The new parking lot has been landscaped to fit into the natural beauty of the surrounding area and helped create one of the most beautiful day use parks anywhere. Members of Great Lake Energy support the People Fund by voluntarily rounding up their bills to the next highest dollar. The rounded up amount is distributed to non-profit organizations and charitable activities that benefit people in communities served by the cooperative.

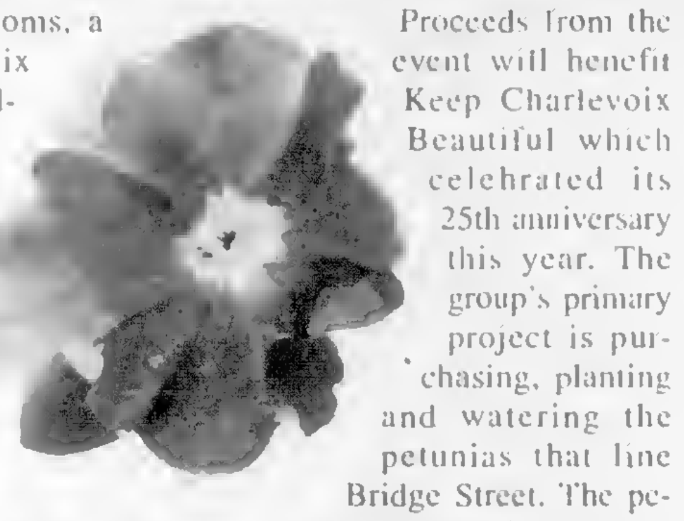
Tickets on sale for Sept. 15 Bids for Blooms event



Bids for Blooms, a Keep Charlevoix Beautiful fundraising event, will take place from 6 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, Sept. 15 at the Belvedere Casino.

At the event, guests will enjoy a wide array of complimentary hors d'oeuvres and desserts donated by local merchants, live music provided by Yankee Station and a cash bar.

Highlighting the evening will be the silent auction.

Proceeds from the event will benefit Keep Charlevoix Beautiful which celebrated its 25th anniversary this year. The group's primary project is purchasing, planting and watering the petunias that line Bridge Street. The petunia planting effort, called Operation Petunia, takes place the Thursday before Memorial Day. The operation has grown to include 1,130 flats of flowers planted in one hour by approximately 1,000 volunteers under the supervision of 25 block captains. The group also donates 62 hanging baskets of petunias which hang from lampposts throughout the central business district. All of this is made possible by fundraising efforts like Bids for Blooms.

Free cancer screenings Aug. 30 and Sept. 26 at health department

Two free women's cancer screening opportunities will be offered at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan's Charlevoix office.

The screenings are from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Aug. 30 and Sept. 26. They will be conducted by a licensed nurse practitioner and include a clinical breast exam, pelvic exam with Pap test and free mammogram. The services are available to Charlevoix County women between the ages of 40 and 64 who are uninsured.

Two community groups, Alden High Tea for Breast Cancer and Sue DeYoung/Judy Edger Memorial Breast Cancer Walk donated proceeds from their events to support clinics in their local communities. The donations cover expenses for 50 new screening appointments.

Teresa Sington who coordinates the Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program in a seven-county region that consists of Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Grand Traverse, Emmet, Leelanau and Otsego counties, said the screenings are important to identify cancers in the early stages, when they are easier and much less expensive to treat.

"About a quarter of the women we see are referred to specialists for further diagnostic tests," she said. "We refer to a network of physicians who graciously accept reduced payment for women screened through the program."

Screenings are by appointment only. Call (800) 432-4121 or 547-0295 to register.

Library board to host Open Meetings Act program

Lance Werner, a library law specialist with the Library of Michigan will present the program explaining what the act is, why people should care about it and why government bodies should stay compliant.

The program will take place from 4 to 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 12 at Charlevoix Public Library, located at 220 West Clinton St. Attendees are asked to call (231) 237-7360.

This program is free and open to the public.

OBITUARIES

Charles Duley: Sept. 7, 1921 - Aug. 18, 2007

Charles Duley

Charles Pete Duley, 85, of Charlevoix, formerly of Boyne City and East Jordan, died Saturday, Aug. 18 at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Rite of Christian burial took place on Thursday, Aug. 23, at Saint Mary Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Rev. Jerry Hunko officiated and burial followed at Saint Mary Cemetery.

Charles was born on Sept. 7, 1921 in Harvard, the son of Emmett and Elida (Peaine) Duley. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II in the invasion at Normandy. Charles married Mary Shenanaqut in 1965, and she preceded him in death on April 29, 1976. He then married Edna Washageshik on July 11, 1998, and she preceded him in death on Sept. 12, 2001. Charles was a lifelong resident of Charlevoix County, and worked for Hal Forbrig as a carpenter in construction. He was a member of the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians, and was the maternal grandson of Chief Peaine of Beaver Island. Also preceding Charles in death were his brothers, Clarence and Jim, and sister, Ellen. Charles is survived by many nieces and nephews.

The Beaudoin family wishes to announce the sudden death of beloved wife, mother, and grandmother Sandra Irene Beaudoin, 65. Sandra passed away on Aug. 19 while vacationing with her immediate family on Beaver Island.

A memorial service took place on Friday, Aug. 24 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. A final viewing preceded the service. Rev. Stephen Davidson officiated.

Sandra (Sandy) was born July 29, 1942 in Charlevoix, the daughter of Orva and Beatrice (Struthers) Richardson. She grew up in Charlevoix, graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1960, and attended Davenport University in Grand Rapids. Shortly after, Sandra moved back to Charlevoix and married Joseph Burt Beaudoin on Dec. 27, 1962 — a union that flourished for 45 years. Sandra and Joseph then moved to San Diego, Calif. where Sandra worked for Woodward-Clyde-Sherrard & Associates Geological Survey Company and Joseph attended San Diego State University pursuant to receiving a bachelor of science degree in business administration. After seven years, Sandra and Joseph returned home to Charlevoix and raised their family.

Sandra's life was marked by unbounded love and family commitment. She was known locally as a selfless caregiver, spending countless hours visiting relatives and friends in hospitals and nursing homes. Sandra enjoyed literature, art and collecting antiques. She loved local history and was active in the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Sandra is survived by husband, Joseph Burt Beaudoin; son, Mark Lyle Burt Beaudoin (Laura) of Northville; and daughter, Marcie Rey Grace Sladics (Brian) of Charlevoix; four grandchildren, Haden, Joseph and Marisa Ann Beaudoin, Reylin Grace and Laina Sandra Sladics; sister-in-law, Susan Ann Loehner of Charlevoix; brother-in-law, David Lyle Beaudoin of Spring Lake; nephew, Bruce Daniel Beaudoin (Katie) of Charlevoix, their children Jacob, Daniel and Abigail Kate Beaudoin; niece Amy Lynn Beaudoin of Petoskey. Sandra was preceded in death by her parents, her brother Donald Richardson and her sister, Phyllis Richardson.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to either the Charlevoix Historical Society or the Lisa Dixon Scholarship Fund (c/o First Congregational Church).

Frank A. Schuch, 84, of Charlevoix, died Friday, Aug. 24 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Rite of Christian burial took place on Tuesday, Aug. 28, at St. Mary Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Rev. Jerry Hunko officiated and burial followed in St. Mary Cemetery.

Frank was born June 14, 1923, in Unionville, the son of Frank and Elizabeth (Franc) Schuch. He graduated from Unionville High School in 1940, and on May 25, 1946, he married the former Gladys Marie Roblin in Unionville. They made their home there until 1968, when they moved to Charlevoix. Frank was a machinist for the Medusa Portland Cement Company, retiring in 1986. He had also been a farmer, and had worked for the War Defense Plant in Saginaw, and was owner of Schuch Brothers Machine Company in Unionville, and Delta Equipment Company in Auburn. Frank was a member of St. Mary Church in Charlevoix, Knights of Columbus, Pierre de Charlevoix Council 7172, was past president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, and a committee member of Boy Scouts Troop 11 in Charlevoix. He had also been a city council and school board member in Unionville.

He is survived by his wife, Gladys M. of Charlevoix; children, Robert (Cathy) Schuch of Rio Rancho, N.M., Mary (Robert) Wilson of Canton, Janice Malison of Charlevoix, Peggy (Jim) Wever of Grandville, Steven (Georgia) Schuch of Montgomery, Texas; many grandchildren and step-grandchildren; great-grandchildren and step-great-grandchildren; sister, Edith (James) Ewald of Unionville.

Frank's brothers Adam, Peter, John and Joseph preceded him in death.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Mary Church Building Fund.

LETTERS to the editor

THE TRUTH BEHIND THE SLIME

Editor:

Several recent articles about the green slime (algae blooms) being widely seen on our lake shores have been carried in the Petoskey News-Review and Charlevoix Courier. One News-Review headline declares "Algae's Nasty, But Natural."

It may be natural but, according to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, the problem has been made worse because of a "Rise in nutrient levels caused by human activity." In other words, we feed the algae when we fertilize our lawns.

Tip of the Mitt states that "Storm water runoff appears to have altered nutrient levels."

I would point out in plainer terms that it's mainly and widely the phosphorus in lawn fertilizer that's now being identified as chief culprit.

So where can one buy phosphorus-free fertilizer? Both Ace Hardware and Marvin's Gardens in Charlevoix sell it. One such product, branded Lake Safe, is 20-0-10 (middle number tells amount of phosphorous). Most area landscapers are well aware of the problem and use a phosphorus-free product for lawns. Ask your landscaper, if you use one, to make sure.

Is this warning for waterfront property owners only? No. If you have a storm drain in the gutter in front of your home, you should use Lake Safe (or similar brand) on your lawn.

Let's 'disappear' the slime from our beaches.

NEW WORLD ORDER

Editor:

There are those amongst us that believe that the threat of a one world order is nothing more than another conspiracy theory to be looked at, set aside and forgotten.

If you were to look at the one world order as though it were a jigsaw puzzle and each piece of that puzzle was something that limits our freedoms and eats away at our Constitution, maybe we would become aware of what's going on around us and do what is necessary to protect our nation as the founding fathers intended.

One such piece of that puzzle is the North American Free Trade Agreement Superhighway. Non-elected internationalist bureaucrats in our own government are planning a massive superhighway that begins at a port on the west coast of Mexico, crosses the southern border of the United States at Laredo, Texas, and continues on into Canada through Port Huron. This superhighway will be international territory with the first customs stop in Kansas and will be under control of the Mexican government. This is the first step in creating the North American Union, another piece in the puzzle, and the end of our sovereign nation, our Constitution and our Bill of Rights.

Non-elected State Department bureaucrats are secretly negotiating with Mexico and Canada to merge our nation into the North American Union and our new 110th Congress will decide the fate of our United States of America.

Contact your representatives in Congress and tell them to stop any legislation that threatens our Constitution and our freedoms.

A new look in store for South Pier lighthouse

City Council approves red paint proposal

BY LOUISE NELLE
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Within the next five years, Charlevoix's lighthouse (above) will be repainted red.

Say good-bye to the white and hello to the red.

Within the next five years, Charlevoix's lighthouse will have a fresh new look.

After receiving approval from the Charlevoix City Council on Monday, Aug. 20 the Charlevoix Historical Society is ready to return the lighthouse to its original color and begin renovation.

"Part of the restoration process is to bring the lighthouse back to its period of historical significance, which is 1948 to 1955," said society member Mary Adams. "During that period of time the lighthouse was red."

Adams said the society's efforts to maintain the lighthouse — which has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places — will ensure that it remains a part of Charlevoix.

Beginning spring 2008, Adams said, "Phase one is replacing the windows and making the structure watertight. Phase two would be the paint."

Unfortunately, the process will not be as speedy as desired. Restoration will take about five years because of funding issues.

Adams said the majority of the project will be paid through a lighthouse grant — money received from the sale of lighthouse license plates. For each of the next five years, the society will receive up to $40,000 per year from this grant. But to cover additional costs they must raise $50,000.

Why so expensive?

"The problem is because the structure is governed by the Secretary of Interior who has standards for restoration," Adams explained. "We must use very specific methods of restoration."

As part of the National Historic Lighthouse Preservation Act, the Secretary of the Department of the Interior recommends ownership of historic lighthouses to various organizations including non-profits groups.

The department requires the society to use authentic building materials.

Employing an architect who specializes in historic renovation has also added to the pricey project not to mention the lighthouse's location. Located on the water, while scraping off the old lead-based paint workers must fully contain the lighthouse to prevent paint chips from entering the water.

To donate to the lighthouse restoration project, make checks payable to the Charlevoix Historical Society at P.O. Box 525, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Donors should indicate that funds be directed to the lighthouse renovation project.

SANE seizes 85 pot plants in Charlevoix County

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement Team (SANE) eradicated 227 marijuana plants, from Aug. 13-16. Of those, 85 were found in four areas in Charlevoix County.

"Charlevoix County doesn't have as much public land as other counties so we typically don't find as much there. This year there were more plots than usual in Charlevoix County," detective-lieutenant Kenneth Mills of Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement, said.

He attributes the rise in local growing operations to better tips and the dry season which encouraged people to grow marijuana closer to their home where they can water and care for the plants easier.

SANE is in the process of getting arrest warrants for suspects believed to be involved with three of the four areas where the 85 plants were gathered from.

Penalties for growing marijuana range from four to 15 years in prison depending on the number of plants seized. A charge for 19 plants or less is a four-year felony. A charge for 20 plants or more but less than 200 is a seven-year felony. And a charge for over 200 plants is a 15-year felony.

"Marijuana is one of the most popular drugs out there. As far as illegal drugs go, it's one of first young people experiment with that can be grown naturally in northern Michigan. It's important to have an impact by eradicating it," Mills said.

The total crop of 227 plants were pulled from outdoor and indoor marijuana plots in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Chippewa, Emmet, Mackinac and Otsego counties. SANE also executed three search warrants and seized processed marijuana, seven handguns, seven long guns and grow equipment. SANE was assisted by uniform officers from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, Cheboygan County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police Post in Gaylord.

Those wanting to report narcotics activity are encouraged to call SANE at (800) 621-8651.

German silver collection returns to Charlevoix

A collection of German silver has returned to northern Michigan as the result of a recent gift to the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library by summer resident, Constance R. Wineman who is pictured above with the silver.

A collection of German silver has returned to northern Michigan as the result of a recent gift to the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library by summer resident; Constance R. Wineman.

Part of the wedding trousseau of Mrs. Wineman's grandmother, the silver service resided at the home of Laura Wertheimer Wurzburger and Bernard Wurzburger on Mackinac Island in the early 1900s. The Wurzburgers and their daughter and son-in-law, Ethel and Herbert Robinson, came north from Detroit every summer to escape the symptoms of hay fever. In the 1930s the families decided to try Charlevoix as a more cosmopolitan summer retreat and never left.

Constance Robinson Wineman and James H. Wineman became engaged in Charlevoix in 1938, married in 1939, and spent every summer except for the World War II years in the town, renting many different houses until they bought a home on Michigan Avenue in the 1970s. Their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren still return for vacations.

Mrs. Wineman and her late husband were early benefactors to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful and for many years sponsored the petunia truck and float in the Detroit Thanksgiving Day Parade. Mr. Wineman won the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce president's award in 1992.

A volunteer at the library, Mrs. Wineman decided that the silver she had inherited should return to northern Michigan and be put to good use at the many events now held in the new facility.

City police use Tasers three times in two years

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

It has been two years since the City of Charlevoix's Police Department became equipped with Tasers, replacing the retractable police baton on their belts.

A police Taser is a pistol-like device that sends 50,000 volts of electricity at 0.004 amps into a suspect's body when triggered.

Police chief Gerard Doan said Tasers are a non-lethal force that reduces the threat of violence.

"Tasers are designed to reduce officer injury, suspect injury," he said.

Doan said the Tasers which are used by the city's full-time police officers are the X-26 model. The device can be triggered and can also be used as a stun gun, sending volts into a suspect when holding it directly to their skin.

Doan said since August of 2005 when Tasers were first introduced, city police have used the weapon three times.

The first time was in June of 2006. With an arrest warrant on a suspect, two patrolmen went to a house where the suspect tried to escape through the back door, jumped off the balcony and the officer used his Taser on him in place of a handgun.

This past winter, police used a Taser on a suspect but were unable to penetrate his coat.

This Venetian Saturday, Doan said, three officers tried to subdue a suspect, couldn't get him under control and used a Taser. He said two officers were injured when trying to arrest the suspect, for disorderly conduct. The suspect is facing resisting and obstructing charges.

"We train police officers to respond to force appropriately and where a Taser fits into that," he said. "If a person is resisting police in a forceful manner and no weapon is involved, then a Taser or pepper spray can be used by police."

Hankins said a suspect cannot be killed by a Taser and the device causes minimal physical injury.

He said that it is the amps, not the volts, of electricity that determine whether an electrical shock is deadly and that a Taser uses less amps than a defibrillator — a device used to re-start the heart.

Hankins said police used to carry pepper spray as well as a baton and either could be used during certain situations with a suspect.

"Officers opted to use pepper spray instead of batons in those circumstances," Hankins said.

He said he is aware of the opposition of the use of Tasers held by certain members of the public.

"Anytime a new weapon is employed by law enforcement, a certain amount of the public opposes it," Hankins said.

City of Charlevoix Police Department Taser time line

August 2005: Tasers first introduced at the police deparlment

June 2006: The first time a Taser was used by a city patrolman. With an arrest warrant on a suspect, two patrolmen went to a house where the suspect tried to escape through the back door, jumped off the balcony and the officer used his Taser on him in place of a handgun.

Winter 2007: The second time a Taser was used by a city patrolman. Police used a Taser on a suspect but were unable to penetrate his coat.

July 28, 2007: The third time a Taser was used by a city patrolman. Three officers tried to subdue a suspect, couldn't get him under control and used a Taser. Two officers were reportedly injured when trying to arrest the suspect for disorderly conduct. The suspect is facing resisting and obstructing charges.

County board, planning commission meeting location and date changes

COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners has changed their Sept. 12 regularly scheduled board meeting to 9:30 a.m. on Sept. 14. The meeting will take place in the Commissioners' Room, located at 203 Antrim St. in Charlevoix.

COUNTY PLANNING COMMISSION

The Charlevoix County Planning Commission will be holding a regular monthly meeting at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 13 at the Peaine Township Hall on Beaver Island.

Earlier in the day, the Planning Commission will be touring the island and visiting sites in order to view recent, proposed new and potential future development. Both the tour and the meeting are open to the public.

All local elected and appointed officials and interested citizens are encouraged to join the tour and attend the meeting.

A tour itinerary and meeting agenda will be available in early September.

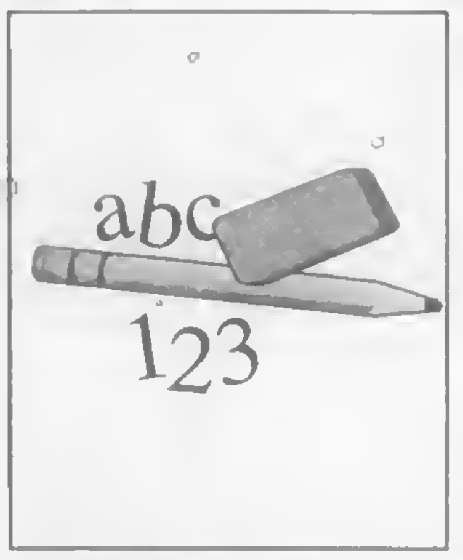
The basics of back to school



BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Pencils, books and teacher's dirty looks notwithstanding, the end of summer means the beginning of school. Students are expected to return to school on Sept. 5.

And, according to Charlevoix Middle School principal Keith Haske, he can't wait to get back to work.

"I'm excited to get going. It's going to be a great year," he said.

SCHOOL SAFETY

While fall is a time for new experiences and learning, Haske said the safety of his students is priority one.

"We try to make a big deal about getting to and from school safely," he said. "We have special bus runs that will take kids back and forth across Bridge Street."

"He added, "Research and data say the safest way to get to school is on the bus."

Safety issues that extend further than how children get to school include student awareness and the ability to surveil the school.

"We're more proactive about drills and I think everybody feels better since we've been through those," Haske said. "There was a lot of apprehension about doing those lock down drills, but once you get through it, people feel better."

He added, "We have security cameras we put in last winter. Pretty much the whole school is being taped, so if anything happens we'll have a record of that now."

Kindergarten through second-grade teacher Phoebe Gohs, with Northwest Academy, said it is a good idea go over safety scenarios with youngsters to help ready them in the event an issue should arise.

"Designate an emergency neighbor contact for kids who get home early and teach your child a secret password if you think you may have anyone other than yourself pick up your child from school," she said. "Role play what your son or daughter should do if they get home and need to go to the neighbor. Involve the neighbor, practice knocking on the door and talking to the neighbor, practice having them (children) ask you what the password is at home or when you are picking them up."

She added, "As with any planned emergency procedure for kids, be sure to practice what you expect them to do in an event."

Haske said another important thing students can do is to pay attention to their fellow students.

"When kids hear something kids may be planning on doing on the Internet or in school, they need to tell somebody," he said. "I encourage our middle school kids to keep their ears open and tell us anything they think might be unsafe or could put somebody at risk."

He added, "I think middle school is a time where you see quite a bit of bullying. Make sure to report it to somebody because I think every kid deserves to be safe at school."

STAFF CHANGES

The following Charlevoix Middle School teachers are not new to Charlevoix Public Schools, but have transferred from other schools in the district:

Dennis VanGuilder will teach eighth-grade social studies. Kelly Wood will teach sixth-grade science. Margie Culver will work in the media center. Dana Frank will teach fifth and sixth-grade computer classes.

The following Charlevoix Public Schools teachers will be transferred to the high school, share time between the schools or called back from layoff:

Pat Miller will teach special education. Curt Harwood will teach calculus. Josh Block will be shared with the middle school, teaching tenth-grade business applied technology. Brian Rockafellow will be shared with the middle school and two sections of cabinet making. David Moyer will split his time with the elementary school and teach one section of body kinetics in the physical education department. Marybeth McGraw from the elementary school will spend part of her day teaching a section of advanced art at Charlevoix High School. Steve Carland was called back to teach special education. Kristine Burmeister was also called back, she will teach science. Doug Drenth joined the math department where he will teach two sections in addition to acting as athletic director. And Roger Gowell, the new assistant principal, will teach two sections of biology.

NEW PROGRAMS

Charlevoix High School will offer comparative politics, third-year level health occupations and academic quiz bowl classes.

Northwest Academy has a new playground consisting of a geodome fixture for climbing, a tire swing, teeter-totter, a dual five climber and fun pods as well as an indoor rock wall for climbing.

BUS SAFETY

School bus safety tips from the National Safety Council:

- Have a safe place to wait for your bus, away from traffic and the street.
- Stay away from the bus until it comes to a complete stop and the driver signals you to enter.
- When being dropped off, exit the bus and walk 10 giant steps away from the bus. Keep a safe distance between you and the bus. Also, remember that the bus driver can see you best when you are back away from the bus.
- Use the handrail to enter and exit the bus.
- Be aware of the street traffic around you. Drivers are required to follow certain rules of the road concerning school buses, however, not all do.

WALKING AND BIKING TO SCHOOL

- Mind all traffic signals and/or the crossing guard — never cross the street against a light, even if you don't see any traffic coming.
- Walk your bike through intersections.
- Walk with a buddy.
- Wear reflective material, it makes you more visible to street traffic.

OPEN HOUSE

Charlevoix Public Schools respective open houses will all take place on Wednesday, Aug. 29. For enrollment information, call (231) 547-3200.

Charlevoix Elementary School: 3 to 6 p.m.

Charlevoix Middle School: 5 to 8 p.m.

Charlevoix High School 4 to 7 p.m.

Northwest Academy's open house and family picnic will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Sept. 12. For enrollment information, call (231) 547-9000.

Welcome
Rich Hodgson

President & CEO Mike Hinkle welcomes Rich Hodgson as Chairman of Charlevoix State Bank's Board of Direcotors

Charlevoix State Bank is pleased to announce the appointment of Richard (Rich) M Hodgson II as Chairman of Charlevoix State Bank's board of directors. Rich has replaced outgoing Chairman Richard M. Hodgson Sr who recently retired from the position.

Rich came to Charlevoix in 1970. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in the class of 1980. Rich went on to the University of Michigan where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Nuclear Engineering. He spent 20 years as an engineering contractor to the nuclear power industry working in several states, England, and Canada. He also took time out to attend Michigan State's MBA program where he was a Broad Scholar and concentrated in finance.

Rich makes his home in Charlevoix and has been active in local business and community functions. He joined the board of directors of Charlevoix State Bank in 1999. He joined the board of directors of Irish Boat Shop in 2004. For several years he's partnered in business ventures with his brother (Eric) on Beaver Island. He also worked on the Charlevoix Zoning Board of Appeals for two years. Currently, he's a member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club and Charlevoix Tennis Club. For recreation Rich enjoys boating, tennis, skiing, and travel.

President and CEO Mike Hinkle commented: "Charlevoix State Bank is fortunate to have such a knowledgeable individual accept the responsibility of Chairman. In addition to his impressive education and employment credentials, Rich brings an understanding of our community to the position that comes with being a long-time resident. I look forward to working with Rich over the coming years."

Four new teachers join St. Mary School staff

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Keisha Veryser, principal of St. Mary School of Charlevoix, has four new teachers starting out this school year.

"I'm excited," she said. "Enrollment's up and we have a wonderful staff — everything's just falling into place."

GWEN SARYA — MUSIC

Graduate of Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thirteen years of experience

"I was inspired by my college flute teacher," Sarya said. "She said, 'Just wait, I'm going to make a music major out of you yet,' so it kind of stuck with me."

Gwen Sarya

"I hope they (students) get a real joy for music and they'll learn about the fundamentals of music," she said. "I love the interaction with the students."

Sarya said the school plans to unveil a Christmas concert and possibly a spring musical.

RACHEL KANINE — FIRST-GRADE

Graduate of Grand Valley State University

First-year teacher

Rachel Kanlne

"I went to St. Mary (as a child) so I think it will be a lot of fun to be back at school," she said. "I just love being in the classroom and being around the kids."

She added, "I hope we can respect each other and that they are able to learn to work together as a class."

Kanine is certain she will have a great experience.

"I'm excited to work with the staff, and, because of the class size, I think I'll be able to learn a lot from the students I have," she said.

Adam Wood

ADAM WOOD — PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Graduate of Grand Valley State University

Second year working as a teacher, first full-time teaching job

"I've known that this is what I want to do since I was very young. I've always loved kids and this was my eighth summer working at Camp McSauba," Wood said. "The most important thing for me is to really educate them (students) on learning health and different aspects of physical education they'll carry throughout their lives."

Laura Kelly

He added, "I'm going through a variety of ideas for different activities. Some ideas are Jump Rope for Life, Hoops for Hearts and maybe one Saturday a month we can have families come in to do some different activities."

LAURA KELLY — PRE-KINDERGARTEN FOR 3 YEAR OLDS

Graduate of Appalachian State in North Carolina

Teaching off and on since 1998

"I'm from a family of educators and that was probably the start of it," she said. "I just love working with kids (on) socialization, introduction to school and learning the basics."

She added, "I think the environment is going to be great being in a Catholic school."

Kelly, whose children attend St. Mary School, has been involved with the school in the past and knows parents who enroll their children at the school will be pleased.

Programs

St. Mary School offers a new pre-kindergarten program for 3-year-old children from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday. Parents may choose two, three or five day-a-week classes for their children. Call (231) 547-9441 to enroll.

Learn to identify fungi in the field

Mushrooms are the focus of an upcoming community education course, Fall Fungi, offered by SEE-North, northern Michigan's regional center for science and environmental education.

Marilynn Smith, mycologist and teacher, will conduct three evening classes and three field trips for those interested in learning how to identify fungi in the field. Evening classes will meet from 7-9 p.m. on Sept. 5, 12 and 19 at the SEE-North Exploration Center in downtown Petoskey. Field trips will take place on Sept. 9, 15, and 23 at locations to be announced during class.

"There are more than 10,000 species of mushrooms in North America.

Courtesy photo

Knowing whether a mushroom found in the wild like this morel can be tasty or tragic is the focus of an upcoming workshop "Fall Fungi" offered by SEE-North.

Not all of them occur in northern Michigan of course, but many kinds of mushrooms grow in our region, including some choice edibles," Smith said.

Smith said the impact of the summer's drought on the fruiting of mushrooms is difficult to predict.

"Abundance is tied to several factors, including temperature, humidity and day length," said Smith. "I've yet to be skunked on a field trip."

The cost for the course is $30 per person for SEE-North members and $40 per person for others. Proceeds support SEE-North's work in science and environmental education in schools and communities in its five-county service area.

Registration is required and space is limited. To register or inquire about a membership, call SEE-North at (231) 348-9700.

Officials: 'State laws aren't enough to protect lakes'

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Local officials say a recent decision to protect Michigan waters from invasive species isn't enough.

The laws passed to help protect Michigan's waters from invasive species were upheld in the Aug. 15 decision by U.S. District Judge John Feikens when he dismissed a case brought against several State of Michigan officials by at least nine plaintiffs including shipping companies from Canada, Michigan and Barbados and several nonprofit associations from Washington, D.C. and Michigan.

Michigan's 2005 ballast water laws, which among other things prohibit oceangoing ships from dumping their ballast water into the Great Lakes, took effect in 2007.

But, according to Steve West, executive director of the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce, the law has no proverbial teeth.

"I hate invasive species like everybody else, but declaring a law at the state level is not going to be much help," he said. "We need to deal with it at the federal level."

He added, "If you have the choice of spending hundreds or thousands of dollars to clean or unload your ballast water in Muskegon or go to Burns Harbor, Ind. and do it for free, where are you going to go?"

West isn't the only one hoping federal legislation will be passed to prevent all the Great Lakes states, three of which have passed similar legislation, and Canada from dumping potentially contaminated ballast water in the Great Lakes.

U.S. Congressman Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) is a co-sponsor of H.R. 1350 also known as the Great Lakes Collaboration Implementation Act which would, among other things prohibit the practice of dumping potentially damaging ballast water.

"Invasive species like zebra mussels, the round goby and the spiny water flea are transported into our Great Lakes through ballast water. Invasive species like these are a serious threat to our lakes," Stupak said. "The Great Lakes are vital to our way of life in northern Michigan and an important economic engine for Michigan. The Great Lakes' commercial and sport fishing industries alone are valued at $4 billion annually. So it's vital we protect this resource from the threat of invasive species."

He added, "I believe that, given the threat to our Great Lakes, Michigan is well within its rights to verify that ships are not bringing invasive species into Michigan waters, (but) ultimately, this problem requires a federal solution, and that is why I have co-sponsored legislation to establish a federal standard for ballast water so that all of our Great Lakes are protected."

Recreational boaters can have an impact on preventing invasive species according to the Michigan guidelines for Clean Boats, Clean Waters Campaign.

"Inspect and remove any visible mud, plants, fish or animals before transporting equipment. Drain water from your equipment: Boat, motor, trailer, live wells before transporting. Dispose of unwanted bait in the trash, not in the water. Spray, rinse or dry equipment to remove or kill invasive species," the guide advises.

According to Clean Boats, Clean Waters, invasive species cost the United States $148 billion a year.

"The Great Lakes sport and commercial fishing industry, valued at almost $4.5 billion annually, is at risk due to the growing numbers of invaders such as the zebra mussel, spiny water flea, sea lamprey, ruffe, and round goby that prey on invertebrates of all sizes, top predator fish, as well as fish eggs and small fish," the guide stated. "Large water users in the Great Lakes, including municipalities and industries, spent about $120 million from 1989 to 1994 to combat the spread of zebra mussels."

H.R. 1350 currently awaits action in conference committee.

Clearer water in the Great Lakes is due to Zebra mussels like these seen here. This invasive species decimates the plankton which keeps native species of fish alive. Since the mussels tend to congregate on most nonporous surfaces, they can damage docks, boats, underwater cable lines and water pipes as well.

Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...

DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.

Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding you life.

A Seminar with Experts

DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life.

During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support group that meets on Thursday evenings, from 7-9p.m. starting September 13th thru December 13th (join anytime) at the "Servants Quarters." 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.)

231-675-1925

After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

Is your Polly Pocket a potential hazard?

Recalled toys were stocked on local shelves

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix is not immune to the voluntary recalls driven by fears lead paint and choking hazards could result from some Mattel toys.

People in possession of certain Polly Pocket, Batman or Cars toys purchased from Kmart or Dollar General stores should take them from their children immediately.

"Customers can return the recalled toys to their neighborhood Kmart for a full refund," said Kimberly Freely, manager of corporate public relations with Sears Holdings Corporation.

Tawn Earnest, Dollar General's spokesperson said there was a small number of affected toys sold throughout their stores and precautions have been taken to prevent the sale of any more toys.

"Those affected items were removed from store shelves and we have programmed a transaction lock on our registers so if a customer tries to recall the recalled item by mistake the transaction will be halted," she said. "Customers can return items to Dollar General stores for a full refund."

Both Earnest and Freely said a receipt is not necessary to receive a refund as long as the toy is on the recall list.

The products thought to contain lead paint include: Some Fisher-Price toys; The "CARS" Sarge character. Products thought to have faulty magnets which could constitute a choking hazard include: Polly Pocket™ Play Sets; Batman™ Magna Play Sets; Barbie® and Tanner™ Accessory; Doggie Daycare™ Play Sets; and Shonen Jump's One Piece™.

According to a press release from Mattel, the recall of these toys is merely a glitch in an otherwise good system of safety.

"Regarding our manufacturing processes, we immediately strengthened them with a three-point check system. First, we're requiring that only paint from certified suppliers be used, and we're requiring that every single batch of paint at every single vendor be tested. If it doesn't pass, it doesn't get used. Second, we are tightening controls throughout the production process at vendor facilities and increasing unannounced random inspections. Third, we're testing every production run of finished toys to ensure compliance before they reach our customer," Mattel stated.

According to the Consumer Protection Safety Commission, Mattel received nearly 600 reports of magnets coming loose with at least three reports of serious injury to children who swallowed more than one magnet.

Aside from aspirating the magnets, there is potential for a child who swallowed two or more of the one-eighth inch magnets in the feet and hands of some dolls to suffer intestinal perforation due to the possibility of two magnets sticking to one another with intestine in between them.

The Polly Pocket play sets in question were sold from May 2003 to November 2006.

According to the National Safety Council there are more than 400,000 children under age 6 with too much lead in their blood.

"Young children under the age of six are especially vulnerable to lead's harmful health effects, because their brains and central nervous system are still being formed. For them, even very low levels of exposure can result in reduced IQ, learning disabilities, attention deficit disorders, behavioral problems, stunted growth, impaired hearing, and kidney damage," the council states. "At high levels of exposure, a child may become mentally retarded, fall into a coma, and even die from lead poisoning. Within the last 10 years, children have died from lead poisoning in New Hampshire and in Alabama. Lead poisoning has also been associated with juvenile delinquency and criminal behavior."

- CARS Sarge character diecast vehicle recall hotline: 1-800-916-4997
- Fisher-Price toys lead paint recall hotline: 1-800-916-4498
- Magnet hazard recall hotline: 1-888-597-6597

Motto: "Everything to Build With"

About Us: Frank Orin Barden was born on February 3, 1876 in a log cabin on his parents farm in Crockery Township, Michigan. F.O. learned a good hard work ethic helping with the family farm, but then, took off at an early age to work as a lumberjack at lumber camps around Michigan. F. O. received business training at Davenport Institute in Grand Rapids. He worked for the Michigan Trust Company and was commissioned, in 1916, to reorganize the Boyne City Railroad and Boyne Lumber Company and in 1922 opened F.O. Barden & Son. In 1936 the youngest son Al came on board and worked with his father until 1951 when F.O. passed away. Al ran the company until he semi-retired in 1975. F.O. Barden & Sons have survived two fires, one in 1969 that destroyed only part of the building but the one in 1979 was a total loss. Now, in 2007 F.O.'s grandson Ed Barden and his son Paul are at the helm and still providing the same helpful, courteous service.

Charlevoix County atlas and plat book released

BY FRED GRAY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

The new Charlevoix County Land Atlas and Plat Book, with four-color maps of the county's 15 townships, has been published by the Charlevoix Conservation District.

The maps display private land parcels, as well as state and federal lands, city and village limits and lakes and rivers.

The 8th edition plat book is in a larger format size (11 by 12 inches), updates the 2003 edition and includes an index of property owners and roads, and recycling information, such as household hazardous waste disposal and recycling drop-off site locations.

Maps of the county, and the cities of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan, are included, as is a listing of township officials.

Kelly Martin, coordinator of the Charlevoix Conservation District, said she worked closely with county GIS coordinator Brian Kelly and equalization director Tom Wolf in producing the latest edition.

Martin said the plat book is a must for hunters trying to locate state land. Realtors, property-hunters from down state and people who simply want to know who their neighbors are.

It's also handy for people out in the field who want more details of the countryside they are passing through than traditional maps can offer.

The conservation district is a local unit of state government dedicated to providing landowners assistance in managing the county's natural resources. Plat book sales have proven to be a major source of revenue for the district.

The book costs $25 and is available at numerous locations, including the county treasurer's office, the conservation district office in Boyne City, and local bookstores.

For more information, contact the conservation district at (231) 582-6193 or visit www.charlevoix-county.org/cd.asp.

Charlevoix Evening Garden Club hosts 7th Annual Labor Day weekend plant sale

The Charlevoix Evening Garden Club will host its 7th Annual Labor Day Plant Sale from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Sept. 1 at Ferry Beach in Charlevoix located near the corner of Ferry Avenue and Stover Road.

Shoppers will find a variety of shade and sun tolerant perennials, houseplants, bird feeders, blue bird houses and miscellaneous garden gift items with many donated by area nurseries and businesses. Club vice-president, Margie Kessler, invites the community to support the Evening Garden Club, consult with master gardeners and purchase beautiful plants.

The Charlevoix Evening Garden Club, a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan Inc., maintains the gardens at the "Welcome to Charlevoix the Beautiful" entrance signs at M-66 and U.S. 31. Members are active in the Junior Master Gardening Program and assist the Charlevoix Area Garden Club with the Heritage Depot Garden.

The club meets from 7-9 p.m. the second Tuesday of each month to share gardening tips, attend informative lectures and tour area nurseries and gardens.

For more information, contact club vice-president and plant sale chair, Margie Kessler at (231) 237-4272.

Espresso Hut to open this fall in Glen's Plaza

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

This fall, a new place to get coffee in Charlevoix will be at a small shop in the parking lot of the Captain's Corner Plaza near the intersection of M-66 and U.S. 31.

Todd Wyett, owner of the plaza that includes Glen's Supermarket, Rite Aid drugstore, Dollar Tree and other retail shops, is seeking permission from the Charlevoix City Council to put in an Espresso Hut, a drive-through coffee shop with a current location in Petoskey.

"We've got all different kinds of coffee and espresso drinks, we're always looking for the finest products we can bring out," said Burt Ulrich, owner of the Espresso Hut.

In addition to coffee, the Espresso Hut can produce smoothies, slushes and frozen blended coffee drinks for thirsty drivers.

"Our best selling cold drink is definitely the Mocha smoothie, it's sort of a sweet alternative to the more bitter drink we serve," said Jeb Bailey, manager of the Petoskey location. "Our best selling hot drink is a regular latte, nothing fancy but they sell real well."

Ulrich said the Charlevoix shop will be structured with expansion in mind.

"We're hoping it will work so we can bring in frozen custard, first we'll start it up and see how it goes," Ulrich said.

Wyett intends to extend free rent to Ulrich when he opens his shop in his plaza.

"In this economy, people aren't anxious to try new things," Wyett said. "There's only one coffee place in Charlevoix and so many people drive past 66 and 31 on their way to work, it brings more business into the plaza."

Ulrich is hoping his business can help bring jobs to the area.

"I'm thinking there's a lot of people in Charlevoix that need this kind of job," Ulrich said.

Wyett said the tentative opening date for the Espresso Hut is October.

Set sail with the Red Regatta Fox Sept. 1 and 2

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Sailboats will once again race from Charlevoix to Boyne City at the Charlevoix Yacht Club's annual Red Fox Regatta on Labor Day weekend, Sept. 1 and 2. At 4 p.m. on Sept. 1 a party will take place at the Boyne City marina sponsored by Mount Gay Rum. Non-racers are welcome.

Sailboats will once again race from Charlevoix to Boyne City at the Charlevoix Yacht Club's annual Red Fox Regatta on Labor Day weekend, Sept. 1 and 2.

In addition to the actual race, a number of parties are associated with the event, beginning the night before at 8 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 31, with a Triangle Party at the Yacht Club, at 209 Ferry Ave.

"The Regatta has been a tradition since the 1970s and it's just a fun way to get together, go out and enjoy the water," said club commodore Lynn Smolenyak.

The race begins at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 1 in Lake Charlevoix. Early risers can enjoy coffee and donuts starting at 8 a.m. that morning at the yacht club.

Then participants will harness the power of wind to sail down Lake Charlevoix into the Boyne City marina.

After docking in Boyne City, a party will take place at the Boyne City marina sponsored by Mount Gay Rum. non-racers are welcome. Advanced tickets are $18 a person for dinner and drinks, $12 for drinks alone. Any remaining dinner and drink combination tickets will be available at the marina by 4 p.m. on Saturday for $20.

At 10:30 a.m. on Sept. 2, racers will return to Charlevoix. Upon returning, an award ceremony will be held at the club, at approximately 4 p.m. Red Fox trophies and flags provided by the International Sailing Federation will be presented. Snacks and a cash bar will be available. Race entry categories include jib and main (jamboat), Melges 24 and multiple spinnaker fleets.

"The best places to watch are Depot Beach, Ferry Beach, anywhere around Lake Charlevoix," said club member Leah Olson.

Proceeds from the Red Fox Regatta support the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

"The yacht club is a non profit organization, we try to keep membership fees low and this is one of our main fund-raising events," Smolenyak said.

This year the regatta is held in conjunction with "Sail the World," an event started by the International Sailing Federation to celebrate 100 years of organized sailing.

For more information on the Red Fox Regatta, go to www.charlevoixyachtclub.org.

Fall hours begin at Skatepark

The Charlevoix Community Skatepark, located at 401 West Carpenter St. will move into fall operating hours on Sept. 4.

This fall, the park will be open from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, from 4 to 9 p.m. on Fridays, from noon to 9 p.m. on Saturdays and from noon to 6 p.m. Sundays. The park is closed during inclement weather, storm watches and home football games.

The city owned and operated park opened on April 29 for a five-month season and in the first two months of operation has had over 1,300 users.

Helmets are required. The park is supervised.

The daily user fee is $3. A seven-day punch card is $15 and a season pass is $90.

For more information, call the City of Charlevoix Recreation Department at 547-3253.

Former Rayder brings hoops skills to Concordia

Betsey Dennis

The Concordia Cardinals woman's basketball program added some experience to this year's recruiting class with the addition of Betsey Dennis of Kalamazoo Valley Community College.

Dennis, a 5 foot 9 inch guard, played the last two years for coach Ron Welch at national power Kalamazoo Valley Community College after a standout prep career at Charlevoix High School.

Dennis, before suffering an injury late in her sophomore season at Kalamazoo Valley Community College, averaged 6.9 points per game while shooting 39 percent from the field (including 38 percent from behind the three-point line).

"Betsey is going to make our offense much more explosive," said Concordia head coach Joshua Steffen. "She is an unbelievable outside shooter and a threat whenever she is on the floor. Coach Welch has not only a strong history of winning, but also sending his players to teams where they contribute and help the program. I want to thank him and the Dennis family for sending Betsey to Concordia."

Rayder football falls 21-28 in season opener

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

STORY HIGHLIGHT
The Rayders lost their first varsity football game of the season 21-28 at St. Ignace last Friday, Aug 24.
The Charlevoix Rayders meet Benzie Central at 7 p.m. on Friday, Aug 31 on Kipke Field in Charlevoix.

Citing a younger, less experienced team, varsity coach Don Jess said his team has much work to do.

"We have to come in focused and ready to play football right from the start," he said.

Rayder football lost 15 seniors making this one of the youngest teams Jess has coached.

"We don't have big numbers this year, but we have some quality players," he said.

Losing their first game was a less than ideal way to follow a season in which they were 8-1 in the regular season, making it all the way to the playoffs in 2006.

"It's always tough to play up in St. Ignace and they improved from last year," Jess said. "We showed some good things, but we turned the ball over too many times."

He added, "You can't beat a good team if you're going to turn the ball over — we just didn't play very well."

Kyle Jones rushed the ball 21 times for 134 yards. John Putman scored two touchdowns, Cliff Jones scored one touchdown, Jake Rankl had a first-half interception and Nate Golovich recovered a fumble in the second-half.

"We're going to work on consistency and taking care of the football," Jess said. "We just have to keep working on getting better. With guys in new positions, it's going to take a bit of time."

Dustin Arp earns cross country scholarship at Lee University

Courtesy photo

Dustin Arp has signed a scholarship to run cross country for the Lee University Flames. Seated with Arp are his father, Michael and mother, Carla. Standing is Lee cross country coach Don Jayroe.

Dustin Arp, a runner from Charlevoix High School, will bring his skills to Lee University.

Arp follows in his mother and father's footsteps. His father, Michael, is a Lee graduate and now a Church of God minister in Charlevoix. His mother, Carla, met Michael while a student at Lee, located in Cleveland, Tenn.

"This new cross country recruit ran for one of Michigan's best cross country teams and one of the state's top coaches, Ken Plude. Arp's track and cross country team won the region and placed third on two occasions and fourth once over the past three years," he said.

Arp's best time was 17:41 minutes in the 5k. He also ran the mile in 4:54 minutes and the 800 meter in 2:05 minutes.

Also a star in the classroom, Arp was named to the Academic All-Conference list, a regular member of the honor roll and a member of the National Honor Society.

Arp has been training hard for weeks. He's up by 7:30 a.m. and averages running 70 miles a week.

"That's as good as a coach can hope for," Jayroe said. "I'm glad to see he is taking his preparation for the upcoming season seriously. Our runners must understand they must report to college ready and in top condition to run."

"I hope to contribute to the team's success this year," Arp, who is an incoming freshman, said. "Hopefully, I will help the Lee cross country team win some regional championships. I decided on Lee for three reasons — family, good Christian environment and the cross country program."

The Lee University Flames opened the 2007 season on Saturday, Aug. 25, hosting Lincoln Memorial University, Tennessee Wesleyan College, Young Harris and Hiwassee College in a five-way meet at Fletcher Park in Cleveland, Tenn.

Results from the meet were not available by press time.

Pool closed through Friday for repairs

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will be closed from Monday, Aug. 27 through Friday, Aug. 31 for annual repairs and cleaning.

Fall brochures, schedules and program information will be available in the lobby from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday during the closing.

Junior Golf program champs announced

The Charlevoix County Junior Golf program concluded its 13th summer of providing golf lessons and competition for northern Michigan youth with awards and picture day.

Junior Golf executive director, Dean Davenport, was pleased with the program this year.

"Our mentor program had over 25 adults that committed to attending each session and that allowed for a safe teaching and playing environment," he said.

Davenport also recognized the teaching professionals who donate their time.

"The secret to our success is simple — caring adult mentors, devoted teaching professionals and local courses willing to set aside prime time for youngsters, all have combined for an outstanding program Charlevoix can be proud," he said.

This year, 140 youth registered for Junior Golf with the majority from Charlevoix. Golfers played at four local clubs, the Charlevoix Country Club, the Belvedere Golf Club, the Charlevoix Golf Club and Antrim Dells.

The program Champions Tournament took place at the Charlevoix Country Club where Thomas Rich won the boys' age 14-17 flight, while Molly Cahill won in the girls' division. Nolan Ager won the boys' age 12-13 flight, while Alexandra Trecha captured the girls' crown. In the 11-year-old boys' flight Jackson Buday was the winner while Kelly Parker captured the girls' championship. Noah Jeakle won in the 10-year-old flight. Jason Sherman Brown won in the age 8-9 flight.

In the Venetian Carey Cup tournament at the Charlevoix Golf Club, the winners were Jerry Christian in the 14 and over boys' flight, with Jordan VanMeter winning the girls' title. In the age 12-13 flight, the winner was Nolan Ager for the boys while Alexandra Trecha captured the girls' championship. In the age 10-11 flight the winner was Jackson Buday, with Kelley Parker capturing the girls' title. In the age 8-9 flight Walker Drost was the champion.

Players were also recognized for their individual skills. Chipping winners are Walker Drost, Katelyn Wheaton, Kelly Parker, Jacob Doskoch, Andrew Plude and Billy Smith.

Pitching champions include Walker Drost, Jason Sherman Brown, Noah Jeakle, Fletcher Ekern, Jacob Doskoch, Alex Gooch, Andrew Plude and Jerry Christian.

Putting champions include McKenzie O'Leary, Walker Drost, Austin Putman, Sam Lee, Hudson Elowski, Noah Jeakle, Fletcher Erken, John Witherspoon, JJ Bottomley, Curtin Russell, Drew Seymour, Jacob Doskoch, Alex Gooch, David Cross, William Hasseld and Ty Jones.

Bunker shot champions are Brett Siegwart, Austin Edger, Nick Rosser, Zach Merrill and Kyle Parker.

Scholarship winners that attended the Ferris State University week-long golf camp are Ryan Halloran, Thomas Rich, William Hasseld and Alex Gooch. Wyatt Drost was awarded a scholarship to attend the Boyne Golf Academy.

Golfers who did not pick up their free framed pictures at the award day can pick them up at the Aartvark Studio and Gallery on Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

Art entries due Sept. 1 for C.S. Lewis Festival

'A Grief Observed' by C.S. Lewis

The 5th Annual C. S. Lewis Festival is putting out a call for entries for their first juried fine art exhibition this fall.

The award winning C. S. Lewis Festival is inviting artists to base their work on the theme of "The Question of God - A Grief Observed," written by Lewis after his wife Joy died in 1960.

The Lewis Festival Juried Fine Art Exhibition will feature an opening night reception to honor the winning artists. Entrants are encouraged to read Lewis' small (76 pages) but honest reflection on the fundamental issues of life and death and faith in the midst of loss, entitled "A Grief Observed."

They are then asked to create a work of art that is inspired by some thought or idea from the book, personal to each artist, or, they may choose from the quotes listed below from Lewis' book.

"You never know how much you really believe in anything until its truth or falsehood becomes a matter of life and death to you."

"Blessed are they that mourn and accept it. I've got nothing that I hadn't bargained for."

"In which sense may it be a house of cards? Because the things that I am believing are only a dream, or because I only dream that I believe in them?"

"Grief is like a long valley, a winding valley where any bend may reveal a totally new landscape."

Cash awards will be given as follows: first place $500; second place $250; third place $100; and two honorable mentions at $50 each.

The 2007 C. S. Lewis Festival Juried Fine Art Exhibition is open to all U.S. residents over the age of 18. All media will be accepted. Work must be submitted by Sept. 1. Visit .www.c.s.lewis.org for complete submission details.

Entries should be mailed to: C.S. Lewis Festival, P.O. Box 2026, Petoskey, MI 49770. A non-refundable fee of $20 per artist is required for entry. All artists are responsible for delivery and pick-up of their work. Any work to be returned by mail must include packaging and shipping costs.

Artist Doug Melvin will serve as juror of the exhibit. Melvin was an art instructor at North Central Michigan College from 1973 to 2005, and continues to paint regularly. Honored by the community as the recipient of the first annual eddi visual artist award from the Crooked Tree Arts Center, Melvin continues to be a tireless advocate of the arts.

For more information on the C.S. Lewis Festival, call (231) 347-5550 or (231) 675-2126.

Island teachers to be recognized Sept. 15

The Beaver Island Community School Board of Education is planning to host a recognition dinner on Sept. 15 to honor the commitment and accomplishments of four teachers and two board members.

Teacher Joe Moore retired after giving over 30 years of dedicated service to the school. Teachers Jim Stambaugh and Donna Stambaugh, although officially retired two years ago, will each be recognized for their 20 years of outstanding service to the district. Also being recognized at the event will be long-time teacher Jacque LaFreniere who resigned from the school district three years ago after teaching for over 20 years. School board members John Fiegen and Linda McDonough will also be recognized for their contributions to the school.

The school board will host the dinner at the Beaver Island Lodge in a manner similar to the 'citizen of the year' event. The event will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 15. Family members, former students, parents of students and friends are invited to join in the celebration. Anyone with anecdotes, or important information or messages they think should be shared at the event should contact Kitty McNamara at kittym@beaverisland.k12.mi.us.

Please contact the school office by Sept. 7 if you plan to attend this event. The cost will depend on what you order from the regular menu.

MICHIGAN DRIVER ALERT!
Insure Against the Uninsured
Many Michigan drivers believe that their "No Fault" auto policy will cover everything—no matter who is at fault. This is not entirely true.
Some losses are intended to be covered by the at-fault driver. But, what if their policy coverage limits are too low, or they drive with no insurance at all?
Not all companies offer protection in these situations, but Auto-Owners does. Let us show you how to protect yourself and your family with Uninsured and Underinsured Motorist Coverages from Auto-Owners Insurance.

Reformed church offers Wednesday night instructional discussion series

On Wednesday nights this fall, the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix will step out of the traditional box to answer the question: What are some needs in our community that we can reach?

A week series entitled "Show me the Way... Wednesdays" has been developed to appeal to a wide range of interests. Below is a list of topics and discussion dates.

"Show me the wisdom" debating hot topics will take place on Sept. 12, 19, 26, Oct. 31 and Nov. 7. These sessions will deal with topics including global warming, immigration, stem cell research, faith and politics. Guest speakers will include Senator Jason Allen, Representative Kevin Elsenheimer, Congressman Bart Stupak, Rev. David Behling, Dr. John Tanton and others. The views expressed may not necessarily be those of the congregation.

"Show me the money" learning the way to eBay will take place on Oct. 3, 10, 17 and 24. Those attending these sessions will learn how to set up an eBay account and how to successfully sell items. Charlevoix Wireless has donated wireless hook-ups, but individuals will need to have their own wireless laptop, basic computer skills, access to a digital camera and the willingness to open an eBay account. Observers and group participants are welcome. Sign up for this class will take place during the first two weeks of "Show me the wisdom" or by calling the church at (231) 547-9482.

"Show me the art" exploring the way to creativity will take place on Oct. 3, 10, 17 and 24. These sessions will give participants an opportunity to try their hand at creative ventures like watercolor painting, led by local artist Jan Glass. Other projects will include making greeting cards and bead jewelry, and creative writing. Sign up for these classes will take place during the first two weeks of "Show me the wisdom" or by calling the church at (231) 547-9482.

Participants are welcome to attend an entire series or a particular portion of a series. In addition to the events, dinner will be served each week at 5:45 p.m., with a suggested donation of $5 per person or $15 per family. Events begin at 6:30 p.m. While parents are participating in the special events, there will be a program for children age 4 through fifth-grade, and a junior high youth group for sixth through eighth graders. A nnrsery is provided for younger children.

For more information, call the church at (231) 547-9482.

10-week series entitled "Show me the Way... Wednesdays" schedule:

"Show me the wisdom" debating hot topics will take place on Sept. 12, 19, 26, Oct. 31 and Nov. 7.

"Show me the money" learning the way to eBay will take place on Oct. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

"Show me the art" exploring the way to creativity will take place on Oct. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

SEPT. 15
BIDS FOR BLOOMS

Join Keep Charlevoix Beautiful for an evening of fun at the Belvedere Club Casino, from 6 to midnight on Saturday, Sept. 15. This is a silent auction fundraising event featuring complimentary dinner-like hors d'oeuvres and desserts, and dancing music from the live band, Yankee Station. Cash bar. Tickets are $20 per person and are available at Charlevoix Camera or from a Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Board Member. For more information call Erin Bemis, 547-6498 or visit www.keepcharlevoixbeautiful.org.

SEPT. 15
PIT FIRING

Pit firing is the practice of subjecting low-fired bisque pots to a vigorous bonfire. During an upcoming hands-on workshop, participants will fire their own bisque pieces in a ventilated metal can with copper, salt, organic matter, sawdust and hardwood kindling.

Local potter, Bonnie Staffel will host this Trash Can and Smoke Firing Workshop from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15 in Charlevoix. Come learn a new technique to simulate pit firing in a controlled manner. Beginning to advanced potters are welcome. The cost is $65 and attendees are asked to bring a sack lunch and several soft bisque fired pots (Cone 010) no larger than the size of a melon.

To see Staffel's work, visit http://vasefinder.com/bstaffelgallery1.html.

For more information or to register for the class, call (231) 547-2333 or (231) 547-7319.

SEPT. 15
ISLAND TEACHERS RECOGNIZED

The Beaver Island Community School Board of Education is planning to host a recognition dinner on Sept. 15 to honor the commitment and accomplishments of four teachers and two board members.

Teacher Joe Moore retired after giving over 30 years of dedicated service to the school. Teachers Jim Stambaugh and Donna Stambaugh, although officially retired two years ago, will each be recognized for their 20 years of outstanding service to the district. Also being recognized at the event will be long-time teacher Jacque LaFreniere who resigned from the school district three years ago after teaching for over 20 years. School board members John Fiegen and Linda McDonough will also be recognized for their contributions to the school.

The school board will host the dinner at the Beaver Island Lodge in a manner similar to the 'citizen of the year' event. The event will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 15. Family members, former students, parents of students and friends are invited to join in the celebration. Anyone with anecdotes, or important information or messages they think should be shared at the event should contact Kitty McNamara at kittym@beaverisland.k12.mi.us.

Please contact the school office by Sept. 7 if you plan to attend this event. The cost will depend on what you order from the regular menu.

Ford named eddi Award winner as she battles for her life

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Though fighting breast cancer which has spread to the bone, 67-year-old Connie Ford may still coach the Charlevoix High School performing arts program she started in 1969.

Ford, who officially tendered her resignation from Charlevoix High School and hopes to selectively coach some students as her illness will allow, has been named a 2007 recipient of the eddi award and will be honored for her decades of service by having a scholarship set up in her name.

"She was a surrogate mom for a lot of kids. Hundreds of students have gone through her program," said former student and volunteer to Charlevoix's performing arts program, Steve Kantola. "Connie has had an impact on an enormous number of people who have stayed in the community and some who have left."

$380,000 East Park fountain considered

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority is one step closer to affording an interactive water fountain in East Park.

"We've done a very good job nailing down the cost," said East Park architect Mark Buday.

$380,000 is now the estimated cost for the project.

In response to the new figures, the DDA motioned to request $279,000 from the city council as reimbursement for the city storm sewer infrastructure project they funded.

On Aug. 27, East Park architect Mark Buday and designer

Investigation continues into crash that ended in local man's death

The Antrim County Sheriff's Office continues to investigate a traffic accident that claimed the life of 31-year-old Charlevoix man.

The accident, which occurred at around 12:22 a.m. on Aug. 18, resulted in the death of Eric Dane Perrine.

A pickup truck driven by Russell Steven Mitchell, 19, of Bellaire was traveling on West Eddy School Rd. Mitchell stopped at the stop sign where West Eddy School Road intersects with South Derenzy Road and proceeded into the intersection and was struck by Perrine who was traveling north on South Derenzy Road on a motorcycle.

Alcohol is a factor in the accident. The accident remains under investigation by the Antrim County Sheriff's Office.

Scholarship to be established in Ford's name

FORD

Ford will be awarded her eddi for arts in education on Friday, Sept. 14 at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

The scholarship, which will be doled to deserving performing arts students potentially in increments of $250 or $500, will be kicked off with a drive in the way of a dinner theater in February 2008.

"The goal is to set up a scholarship fund to honor Connie's many years of service," said Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Chet Janik.

Another former student of Ford's is Charlevoix Mayor Norman Carlson Jr.

"She taught me how to speak in public. I learned debate and she taught me not to be afraid to express myself," Carlson said.

> "She (Connie Ford) is a pure educator, a pure teacher. That's rare."
>
> Steve Kantola
> FORD'S FORMER STUDENT AND CURRENT PERFORMING ARTS ASSISTANT

"That helped me out a lot when I went to college in speeches and meeting people and in classes. I can't tell you how many classes where instructors I had knew who she was. She is so well known and well respected in the state of Michigan."

He added, "She was not only a teacher but a friend to everybody. She was always there for advice or to help. She is a very giving person and she gave her whole life to the performing arts program. So, I think it's a great thing to have a scholarship in her name."

Kantola agreed that nearly 40 years of service to Charlevoix High School deserves some sort of recognition.

"She has been an integral part of education. The kids in her classes have garnered just about every award you can imagine in competitive speech, forensics, debate," he said. "She has flown under the radar and not ever garnered the type of accolades she is deserving, but there are so many people still in our community and those who have graduated and moved on to other things who say they would not be doing what they're doing today if not for the performing arts program: doctors, lawyers, professional speakers and our mayor."

"She taught me how to speak, how to listen to all sides in a debate and to be able to improvise," he said. "I can't tell you how many times I got to a place and they said 'Oh, by the way, you are speaking on behalf of the city.'"

He added, "Learning how to give impromptu speeches prepared me for what I do on both sides in business I communicate with customers and as mayor trying to represent the city well."

According to Kantola, Ford's program has prepared students to compete with AA schools in cities from Ann Arbor to Detroit.

"We should honor these kids who do well and represent this community in a positive way," Kantola said. "They deserve some recognition as they move on to college and their professional lives."

Ford is among eight other educators to receive an eddi Award this year. Other recipients include June and David Otis of East Jordan for visual arts; Christopher Koury of Petoskey for performing arts; Northern Michigan Chorale for arts and cultural organization; Fran and Jim Kochensparger of Harbor Springs for arts and cultural leadership; Dale Hull of Petoskey for individual patron; Jennifer Eis and Don Ward; and Meredith Richter of Petoskey for lifetime achievement.

To donate to the scholarship call Kantola at (231) 675-0587 or Maureen Themm at (231) 622-3238.

STORY HIGHLIGHT

Connie Ford, 67, who started the Charlevoix High School performing arts program in 1969 is fighting breast cancer which has spread to the bone. She officially tendered her resignation last week.

. Ford will be honored for her contributions to the local fine arts community with an eddi Award on Sept. 14 at the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

A scholarship is being established in her name. Proceeds from a dinner theater event in February 2008 will be directed to the scholarship.

To donate: Call Steve Kantola at (231) 675-0587 or Maureen Themm at (231) 622-3238

Public input sought on fountain

FOUNTAIN

Richard Hitz presented their design plan for the fountain and new cost estimates. Buday said two companies responded to their design package, Cloward H20 and Georgia Fountain Company. Cloward H20's price ranged from $320,000 to $360,000 for completed construction. The Georgia Fountain Company's price for mechanical equipment and engineering fees was $188,000 and Buday and Hitz estimated that this cost, plus the cost of installation, would total about $380,000 for construction.

In addition to this figure, the DDA is facing an estimated $100,000 in additional costs (for a fire hydrant and the trout stream) to complete East Park. Add the estimated $380,000 for the fountain and the DDA will be spending approximately $480,000 to complete the park and, according to the Marina Project Financial Summary, only has $275,000 to put toward the park this year.

City Treasurer and Acting City Manager Richard Brandi said DDA funding for the fountain project would mean not having funds for smaller projects that are part of the Cool Cities blueprint for at least two years.

"The bigger concern is the ability to do small projects with the Cool Cities thing," Brandi said.

These projects include replacing the Christmas lights in the trees downtown with LED lights and reinstating an ice rink in East Park.

Brandi also said that he is not as concerned with the short-term costs to build the fountain as he is for the long-term cost to operate the fountain.

When asked about maintenance on the fountain, Buday said it would have a swimming pool-standard filtration system but the costs will be less than that of a pool because the device uses less water.

"Chemical costs won't be as much," Buday said.

In response, Brandi said he was concerned about the costs.

"The cost to operate pools is not cheap," Brandi said. "Long-term, there's maintenance issues."

DDA member Fred DiMartino and Jeannine Wallace said an interactive water fountain in East Park would help put Charlevoix on the map.

"It would make us stand out," DiMartino said.

Wallace said she is opting for the fountain over other DDA projects.

"I'd rather do one big 'tada' than a bunch of tidily things," Wallace said

At the regular city council meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 4, the DDA will make its request to council.

Council member Greg Stevens, who attended the DDA meeting on funding the fountain, said he supports the DDA's decision.

Results from the Sept. 4 meeting were not available by press time.

A public hearing to discuss the costs of the fountain will take place at 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 17 at 210 State St., Charlevoix City Hall.

STORY HIGHLIGHT

At the Sept. 4 city council meeting, the Downtown Development Authority will request $279,000 from city council to reimburse the authority for funds spent on a storm water sewer in East Park. This money would be used to offset the costs of the proposed $380,000 fountain.

Costs to complete East Park with a water feature: $654,291

Funds the DDA has to spend: $275,000.

Gohs and psychic investigate theft

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

My psychic told me not to bother with the matter, but I'm making one last appeal: Could whoever has my pig return it? No questions will be asked.

The legal department says I cannot claim my brown piggy bank was stolen, after all, there was a mighty electrical storm the night it, $40 in change and two old coins went missing, so it is feasible "Hog," as the Gohs family affectionately referred to it, came to life a la Night of the Living Dead, leapt from my car and now roams the streets squealing in agony as only a freshly animated plastic Dollar Store farm beast can.

In my rage, I wrote a short note detailing my disgust over the incident and taped it to the window of the crime scene — my '67 Riv.'

I spoke to a local policeman, but chose not to file a report because I figured they have more important things to do than sleuth after a plastic pig.

My thirst for vengeance yet slaked, I placed a newspaper ad calling for Hog's whereabouts with no questions asked. I'll admit I intended to bop the noggin of whoever returned it, but no one has come forward with my roaming Hog.

After a couple weeks without so much as a phone call, I decided to call Magic Pammy, my advisor on all things clairvoyant.

Pammy told me the pig was abducted by a mentally handicapped elderly man — a mental image I found almost worth the loss of property.

Though I will likely never see the bank again, she said I might offer a small reward, say $5, and ask the man fitting the description if he could help me.

I am a mouthy but ineffectual vigilante and I just can't see myself doing Popeye Doyle-style shakedowns on the elderly in Hoopskirt Alley until someone finally breaks, "Man, word on the street is the Hog is on a one-way trip to Mexico. You dig?"

The 12-year-old in me yearns for Face, B.A., Hannibal and Murdock to roll into town and, after a series of explosions, overturned cars and hokie disguises, I am reunited with my sienna swine.

The reality is this is the third time I've had something stolen from an automobile: In 1994, my infant son's car seat was heisted from our toast brown Chevette. The second object to mysteriously disappear was a CD player during Venetian week 2002.

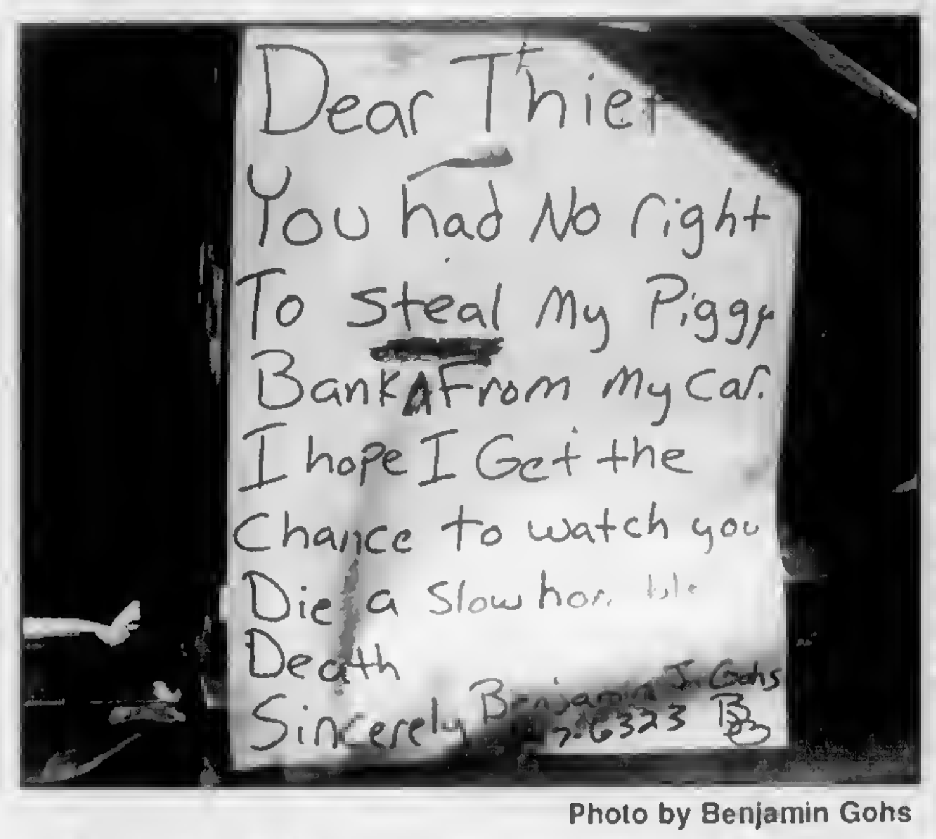
As galled and appalled as I have been at these trivial trespasses, Karma may be dishing exactly what I deserve.

You see, when I was about 16 years old, some close friends of mine came into possession of the light bar from a squad car, the intentions were to pull people over and bust up teen parties for our own amusement.

We strapped the lights, haphazardly, to the top of my best friend's 1979 Grand Prix and installed an old siren given to us by an uncle and former motorcycle cop. It didn't sound like your modern police cruiser, but when you see those flashing lights, the last thing you're concerned with is the tone of the horn.

Perfectionists all, we decided the prank wasn't complete without a genuine police uniform, borrowed and returned, from a friend with a parent on the force.

We laughed 'til our spleens ached as teen after teen, stopped after leaving a party, tried to sob their way out of going to jail.



Dear Thief
You had No right
To steal My Piggy
Bank From My car.
I hope I Get the Chance to watch you

Death

Staff writer Benjamin Gohs was so angry after finding his plastic piggy bank "Hog" missing from the back seat of his '67 Riviera that he wrote this note of scorn to the persons responsible for the pig's disappearance. To this date, no one has heard from or seen Hog. There is a $5 reward for information leading to the safe return of Hog.

We chuckled to near asphyxiation as juvenile delinquents bolted for cornfields and treelines, their beer cans and wine bottles hurled with haste.

Fun's finale came when, patrolling the back roads one night, we neared a crossroads where sat a real police car. After what seemed an eternity at the stop sign, the phantom fuzz drove off to which my friend whipped a U-turn and sped away, sending our endless joy crashing to the ground.

All these years I was convinced we performed a service. If just one teenager was scared straight by our amateur antics, it was all worth it.

But now I am out $10 for the call, $40 in change, who knows how much the old coins were worth and all I have are 550 Psychic Source bonus points and potential self-incrimination for a stupid stunt I was involved in nearly 20 years ago.

On second thought, maybe you just keep Hog and we'll forget any of this ever happened, lights, siren and all.

Communication is the key to health relationships

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Are you really listening or just looking at my mascara as it cakes on my thin and fading lashes. Maybe you are walking into another room and still talking to me or looking past me at the next person coming towards you.

Communicating is hard and when I tell my husband I can't remember something he told me, I have to admit it's not always due to my age. My mind is already thinking about what I need to be doing in the next five minutes, or later in the day. While women multitask very well, we don't always listen very well while tasking.

I find it funny that when our dog Austin looks at me with those endearing eyes, it's my husband who is quick to say, "What does he want?" I took home economics and typing in high school, neither of which prepared me for communicating with animals.

When I spend time counseling couples who are preparing for marriage I find myself discussing communication as a key component in a relationship. Listening is a topic which could use some revisiting. When someone is really listening they look at you, unless of course they are driving, cooking or on the computer, and they respond with a statement or comment that relates to what you just said. It's amazing how many things break down at work, in relationships, disciplining our children, and something as minor as purchasing an item. How we communicate makes all the difference.

Sometimes I need to repeat myself because something I said doesn't make sense to the person on the listening end. I may skip a few pertinent words like today, tomorrow or parts that create a complete a sentence. Another important aspect of communication is to finish your sentence and if you're a real talker remember to say less and listen more.

Women are good at giving hints about things we want and need. The problem is the only people capable of picking up hints are other women. Men need to be told specifics not generalities and hints. As clear as we think we are when getting our message across, men relate to the concept of who, what, where, when and how.

A woman talks about her problems to be heard and listened to. She doesn't necessarily want you to solve the problem. Listening is a form of nurturing that women seem to thrive upon. Men, more so than women, need to feel appreciated. Appreciating a man nurtures him and makes him feel good even if what he's done isn't up to your standards.

A woman loves to communicate and have someone listen to her even if what she's saying doesn't sound very important to the listener. The lesson here is to appreciate what someone does for us no matter what the task, take the time to listen to what someone is telling you and repeat some of it back to not only reinforce your memory but to show you've listened well.

We all like to be heard and we all like to feel appreciated. What a nice way to nurture one another and a good way to keep things running a little smoother on the home front and in the workplace. Communication isn't so difficult after all. This brings to mind Carl Buechner's quote, "They may forget what you said, but they'll never forget how you made them feel."

LETTERS to the editor

SIMPLISTIC IDEOLOGY

Editor:

Yesterday I saw a small group gathered on a main street protesting in Petoskey, then Charlevoix.

I was incensed by their simplistic ideology, "End the war now!"

Which war? The Iraq war? Or mankind's continuing war for control and dominance. I presume they meant end our participation in the Iraq war, which will end neither war. For war to end, combatants must agree or one must succumb in some manner, one to the other be they two nations or combined.

On Sept. 11, 2001 because of simplistic ideology, a small group part of a much larger religious fanatical group, cowardly attacked us in New York. They brought a war to us. Not a war to be fought in a particular place, but an ideological war that must be fought globally. If not Iraq, where? Or, do we succumb?

That enemy had vowed our death or submission and proves that by sacrificing their own lives. I ask the protesters, which part of that vow do you desire?

I said to those gathered in Charlevoix, "You should be over there, helping our soldiers win the war." One responded, "Why aren't you?" I responded, "I don't have to because I support them here."

After "Nine-Eleven" we collectively, by and through our steadfast president (kudos Mr. President, you are the only president beset by such a task as international terrorism) and wavering Congress stated and implemented our commitment. We would avenge the deaths of "Nine-Eleven." We would track down, capture or kill the terrorists wherever they hid, so they could not kill more of us. People and nations would be with us or against us. People and nations, have you forgotten your commitment? The terrorist, though diminished, continue. They have not forgotten their vow or agreed to end it. Therefore, we must continue our commitment for said reasons, and as importantly, to preserve our word, honor, integrity and probity so that terrorist and others cannot use its lack against us. We are becoming, or have become a divided nation. Just consider how politically divided we are. The terrorists do not have to win. They just need to succeed at having us destroy ourselves.

In conclusion, I do not necessarily believe the protesters were acting ignominiously. I do believe, however, they were though maybe unconsciously, figuratively spitting in the faces of our soldiers. Young men and women who voluntarily fight and sacrifice their blood, bodies and lives defending their country and use though there. They, like so many soldiers before them, including three of my brothers, one killed in World War II, have defended and protected not only us, but also our nation and its constitutional traditions. Such as, the right to gather, speak and protest. Protesters, please forgive my harsh words if your actions were only about ending wars in general and saving lives. If they were about ending the war in Iraq, I ask you to reconsider. Let not the enemy divide us further even if they are amongst protesters.

I ask all people to join me and others to support our president and soldiers to defeat our enemies, and to preserve our word, honor, integrity and probity.

Al Wojan

DON'T MAKE THE MESS SOMEONE ELSE'S PROBLEM

Editor:

The recent publicity about the leakage of heavy metals into Little Traverse Bay from the former cement plant site, brought to mind a similar problem several years ago in our Great Lakes system.

My concern is related to being a longtime fisherman. Along the way I earned a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan and a professional engineer's license. I am a Michigander, though I have lived in Ohio and Wisconsin for several years.

While living in Ohio, we fished Lake Erie ardently. Problems for the lake had been building for several years and in the early 1970s, there was a bad spill. There was a plating plant in Windsor, Ontario on the Detroit River. According to press reports, there was a large discharge of plating salts into the river, which flows into Lake Erie. The discharge contained compounds of mercury.

Fortunately, Ohio had a courageous Secretary of State. He banned commercial fishing of walleye and pike and set catch and size limits for sport fishing. The walleye fishing had already gone to pot, since one catch a day was reason to celebrate. He also required commercial fishermen to put their perch catch on hold (ice) until a sample could be sent to Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, Ohio to be checked for mercury level content. He also issued the usual consumption warnings to the public.

At the same time, due to the algae formation in the lake, he banned phosphates in laundry soaps, following the lead of Michigan. While all of this was going on, the Cuyahoga River in downtown Cleveland caught fire due to fuel and oil contamination.

The printed and electronic press jumped on the mercury and other contamination in Lake Erie, which had a very real backlash. Vacationing at the lake shore plummeted, mom and pop fish cleaning shops, live bait shops, fishing tackle shops and motels went out of business.

Fortunately, Lake Erie began to recover within a few years due to the rapid water change for this very shallow Great Lake.

It should be obvious, that contaminates leaching from the former cement plant property would be carried south by currents from the Bear River and the former limestone quarry, through the existing fishery from Bay Harbor to Charlevoix.

The problem of disposal of contaminants should be done on site and not trucked off to become someone else's problem. If some type of industrial facility is required for proper disposal, then build it on site. These are potentially dangerous health-hazard heavy metals and we should not exceed established safety standards in their disposal.

DONORS MAKE WRESTLING CAMP POSSIBLE

Editor:

The Charlevoix High School and middle school Rayder wrestling teams would like to thank the Charlevoix Community Foundation and the Ronald Haggard Memorial Fund for helping fund our wrestling camps this year.

With their help we were able to send wrestlers from both schools to Rogers City's Technique Camp and the Hesperian High Intensity Camp.

This is the sixth year wrestlers have gone to the Rogers City camp. This is the first year we were able to send wrestlers to the Hesperian camp.

The Hesperian week-long camp worked the wrestlers from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. stopping only for lunch and dinner breaks. Wrestlers camped out in the gym on the wrestling mats.

I would like to thank the Charlevoix Community Foundation and the Ronald Haggard Memorial Fund for their help in sponsoring the kids. These camps get the wrestlers on the mat out of season. It's a great opportunity for them to bring new moves back to our wrestling mat.

Sue Keiser named Adult Day Services Coordinator

Sue Keiser

Registered nurse, Sue Keiser was recently named the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging Adult Day Services Coordinator.

"I am thrilled to be with COA," Keiser said.

Keiser is from Boyne City, married, has two children, Matt and Megan who are in college. Tickets on sale now for 15th Annual Holly Daze Gala

The 15th Annual Holly Daze Gala Celebration "Sparkle" to benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital will take place on Nov. 29 at Castle Farms in Charlevoix.

The committee is busily planning a spectacular evening to kick off the 2007 holiday season. Guests will once again be treated to free valet parking as they arrive, entering to the sounds of Tom Kaufman and will be encouraged to participate in the silent auction during cocktails. Guests will receive a special full color photograph to commemorate the evening.

The live auction will have items that include once in a lifetime experiences and other special and sparkling items for the holiday season. Participants will also have a chance to purchase special items, called "gifts of love," for patients of the hospital.

This year's event is raising money to purchase a digital mammography machine for the hospital. The cost of this technology is $400,000.

Like all aspects and application in the world of diagnostic and therapeutic imaging today, mammography is about to take the next step in it's evolution to digital — filmless creation of images of the breast for diagnosis of breast cancer.

In digital mammography, x-ray film is replaced by solid-state detectors that convert x-ray images into electronic signals (similar to the detectors found in digital cameras). The signals are used to produce images of breast tissue that can be viewed on a computer screen at the same location where the image was taken or at remote locations like a physician's office.

Although there is no evidence that this form of mammography results in better diagnosis of the disease, it does result in efficiencies for the provider and for the patient. Some patients claim quicker imaging and less discomfort during the examination.

At Charlevoix Area Hospital, the goal is to have digital mammography up and running by the end of 2008.

Holly Daze tickets are $100 per person ($60 of which is fully tax-deductible) and include cocktails and dinner. The festivities start at 5:30 p.m. on Nov. 29. Tickets are now available by calling (231) 547-8685.

Hospice offers Day at Camp Daggett for bereaved children

The Children's Program of Hospice of Little Traverse Bay is offering a half-day camp for grieving children between the ages of 5 and 18 from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 16 at Camp Daggett.

The day will provide an opportunity for children to spend time with others who have experienced the loss of an important person in their lives and will include fun activities in a group setting and a closing memorial activity. Activities will include arts and crafts, fishing and hiking. An adult grief support session will also be available to those interested.

According to hospice representatives, grieving is often experienced in isolation and this day will allow children to know that they are not alone and that there are many others who have experienced the loss of a loved one. There is no charge for this event. Funding is provided by the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Community Foundation and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Registration for "Day at Camp Daggett" is required by Sept. 5. To register or for more information, contact Hospice of Little Traverse Bay at (231) 487-4825.

Join the Adopt a Beach cleanup crew on Sept. 15

Volunteers will gather at 9 a.m. on Sept. 15 under the picnic pavilion at Lake Michigan Beach to clean up the shoreline.

Tired of finding cigarette butts, food wrappers or deflated balloons littering the Lake Michigan shoreline?

Be part of the solution and join volunteers in cleaning up the shoreline during the Alliance for the Great Lakes' annual Adopt-a-Beach Cleanup on Saturday, Sept. 15.

New and returning volunteers are needed to help clear the shorelines from 9 a.m. to noon at Lake Michigan Beach. Volunteers will meet under the picnic pavilion.

Adopt-a-Beach participants do more than pick up litter. By entering their findings into a growing database that is central to the Alliance's clean beaches education campaign, volunteers help tackle the problem of beach litter at its source.

"We can stage cleanups around the Great Lakes every year, but the problem of beach litter won't go away until people understand the implications of leaving that cup behind after a day at the beach," said Jamie Cross, Michigan Adopt-a-Beach coordinator.

Beach litter is more than unsightly, it's dangerous. Small children play with cigarette butts, fish become entangled in balloons and birds get their beaks trapped in discarded food packaging.

Frustrated with the large number of cigarette butts littering Great Lakes beaches, for instance, Adopt-a-Beach volunteers are promoting major policy changes in Chicago, Ill. as well as in several Michigan communities. Changes range from smoking bans at public beaches to no-smoking sections to proposed statewide legislation in Michigan to make all beaches cigarette-free.

The 2006 regional cleanup resulted in 2,000 volunteers hauling away 7,000 pounds of trash at over 100 locations in Michigan.

The Michigan cleanup is supported by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality Coastal Management Program, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the Frederick S. Upton Foundation in Berrien County and the Ocean Conservancy.

For more information, visit www.greatlakes.org. For more information call local Adopt-a-Beach coordinator, Dr. Daniel Mann at (231) 237-0360.

ENGAGEMENT

Scharenbroch — Fisher

John and Elaine Scharenbroch are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Scharenbroch of Petoskey to Travis Fisher, of Albion, son of Randy and Rose Mary Fisher.

The wedding is planned for Nov. 3 at St. Mary Catholic Church in Charlevoix with the reception to be held at Castle Farms.

The bride-to-be graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1999, received a bachelor's degree in dietetics from Michigan State University in 2004. She is currently employed as a registered dietitian at Northern Michigan Hospital.

The groom-to-be is currently seeking a degree as a registered nurse and will transfer to North Central Michigan College this winter.

Hospice five-week grief support series starts Sept. 18

Loss of any kind is the focus of a series designed to help people cope.

A series of five weekly sessions for those coping with a loss will take place from 4:30 to 6 p.m. on consecutive Tuesdays from Sept. 18 through Oct. 16 at the Community of Christ Church in Boyne City. The Grief Support program is sponsored by Hospice of Northwest Michigan, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, Charlevoix Area Hospital and North Country Community Mental Health. The program is designed to help those grow through grief and learn the five tasks of grief work.

The facilitators for this program are Rev. Nancy Rohde, hospice spiritual advisor and Margaret Lasater, hospice bereavement coordinator. Anyone is invited who has suffered a loss or who is helping a loved one deal with a loss and who would benefit from the support of others.

We would appreciate anyone interested in attending these classes to pre-register by calling the hospice office at (231) 582-8800. There is no charge for this program.

For more information, call (231) 582-8800.

Expect delays: City and state road repairs started Sept. 4

BY STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER AND
STEFANIE CARANO
CHARLEVOIX COURIER STAFF WRITER

The Michigan Department of Transportation and the City of Charlevoix will have road closures beginning on Sept. 4.

City officials in Charlevoix will detour traffic on the city's main north-south route for about four days next week to make street repairs.

The detour, which will take effect at 7 a.m. Tuesday, will affect Bridge Street from Garfield to the bridge, Charlevoix Fire Chief Paul Ivan said.

While the detour is in effect, northbound traffic, beginning at about Hurlbut Street, will be shifted to the southbound side of the road through the downtown area. Southbound traffic will be re-routed west on Park Street for one block and then south on State Street to Garfield where traffic may then return to U.S. 31/Bridge Street.

Ivan noted that while the detour is in effect the two-way stop on State Street at Antrim Street which normally gives traffic on Antrim Street the right-of-way, will be temporarily switched to give traffic on State Street the right of way.

Officials also noted that parking along Bridge Street will be limited while the detour is in place. The work is expected to be completed by Friday, Sept. 7.

Charlevoix City Street Superintendent Pat Elliot said the detour will allow crews repair a roughly 100-foot section of Bridge Street between Mason and Clinton streets that was damaged earlier this year during the marina construction project. He said crews will also be installing a fire hydrant to serve the marina as part of the project.

Cornelia Dhaseleer, owner of the Woolly Bugger coffee shop on Bridge Street, said she wasn't aware of the upcoming detour when contacted by the News-Review as she arrived to work, Thursday, Aug. 31. Dhaseleer said she expected the detour wouldn't deter local customers who know where to park and walk to her location, but expected to lose some sales to passers-by who only stop if convenient parking is available.

Eric Wlodarezak, manager at Scovies Gourmet, also on Bridge Street said he wasn't aware of the detour either, but wasn't concerned about the impact it would have on business.

"I don't expect it will have any more impact than the construction we've had all summer," Wlodarezak said. "I appreciate the fact that they waited until after Labor Day. But most of our lunch traffic is by foot anyway."

Repairs to U.S. 31 and M-66 will coincide with the work being done on Bridge Street.

Starting Sept. 4, U.S. 31 will be closed from Barnard Road to Lewis Road in Charlevoix Township. Road crews will work on one lane at a time, leaving one lane open for traffic.

Also starting Sept. 4, shoulder and guardrails upgrades will take place on M-66 from Wickersham Road to U.S. 31.

According to Elliot, the Michigan Department of Transportation will extend through Sept. 24.

Great Lakes guardians turn in lead for lasers?

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Courtesy photo

Multiple Integrated Laser Engagement System (MILES) technology sensors on the engine bar of the U.S. Coast Guard 25-foot response boat. These sensors activate a detection strobe when they receive a laser signal. This strobe allows the gunner to know they struck the target. The U.S. Coast Guard is considering this system in place of live fire for exercise training on the Great Lakes. Live fire training was highly criticized due to the potential for lead contamination of the Great Lakes.

The guardians of the Great Lakes have not turned in their lead for lasers, but they are studying the idea.

Less than a year after the United States Coast Guard announced and then canceled a plan to put 34 live fire training zones on the Great Lakes, it is searching out new options including MILES, the Multiple Integrated Laser Engagement System presently utilized by portions of the U.S. military.

"We have a gun on board one vessel. It has an apparatus that sends a signal to another vessel and it has a receiver," said chief petty officer Robert Lanier, spokesperson for the Ninth Coast Guard District in Cleveland, Ohio. "And basically there is a computer readout that tells us the number of signals received and marks whether it was a hit or whether it was a miss."

Lanier hesitated to liken the technology to high-tech laser tag, but said the basic idea was similar.

"There are no projectile rounds, so no ammunition goes in the water," he said. "The main thing is it's environmentally safe. We can do it basically anywhere."

Coast Guard officials conducted a laser training demonstration on Thursday, Aug. 23 approximately four miles off the coast of Cleveland, Ohio on Lake Erie.

The exercise was one of several scheduled in order to evaluate the efficacy of laser training.

"We're going to take feedback and make an analysis from there and see if it is adequate to train our Coast Guard men and women," Lanier said. "We're looking for the best solution that will work for the needs of civilians and the men and women in uniform."

He added, "We haven't looked in to this long enough to see the advantages/disadvantages, but environmental concerns brought up last year were some of the reasons behind us looking into this."

More than 900 people commented on the Coast Guard's original proposal to fire live ammunition and the potential result of nearly 7,000 pounds of lead and other heavy metals which would have ended up in the bottomlands of the Great Lakes — an area which constitutes nearly one-quarter of the world's fresh water supply.

Charlevoix County resident, Ellis Boal said he has doubts regardless of how the Coast Guard trains its people.

"I still have the opinion that a bad precedent is set by militarizing the Great Lakes," he said. "This needs to be reviewed at great depth."

Lanier was unable to say how much the laser system would cost taxpayers, but said the security and health of the Great Lakes was of the utmost importance.

"We're looking to see if these (MILES) are fiscally responsible," he said. "MILES has been used by other Department of Defense units and we're trying to learn about it."

He added, "We try our best to satisfy everyone, but we realistically know we will never satisfy everyone. We try to be good public servants and work with people in the Great Lakes (region) to do what they expect us to do."

Food programs offered through local Head Start preschools

The Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency is sponsoring child and adult care food program's through Charlevoix Head Start and Ironton Head Start preschools.

This program is designed to provide meals to children in child care centers, outside school hours programs and family day care homes. Meals are available at no separate charge to all children enrolled in the institution's child care program ages 12 and under, migrant children ages 15 and under, older disabled children, and children enrolled in an At-Risk After school program who will be 18 years old or under at the start of the school year.

For a one-person family free meals are available if the yearly income level falls below $13,273 and reduced price meals for those whose yearly income level falls below $18,889.

For a two-person family free meals are available if the yearly income level falls below $17,797 and reduced price meals for those whose yearly income level falls below $25,327.

For a three-person family free meals are available if the yearly income level falls below $22,321 and reduced price meals for those whose yearly income level falls below $31,765.

For a four-person family free meals are available if the yearly income level falls below $26,845 and reduced price meals for those whose yearly income level falls below $38,203.

For each additional family member, add $4,524 for the free meal income factor and $6,438 for the reduced price.

Community divided on direction war should take

IRAQ WAR WRONG WAY
Bring 'em home

Nina Silbergleit of East Lansing seen here said the best way to support American soldiers was to bring them home from Iraq immediately. Silbergleit was one of nearly three dozen people who attended the Tuesday, Aug. 28 candlelight vigil in conjunction with the national Stand Up In September event which commemorated fallen U.S. troops by vigil attendees who read the names of all soldiers killed in action since January of this year.

The candlelight vigil attendees in Charlevoix's Bridge Park were met with support of some passing motorists who honked their horns and waived while a few passersby opined their scorn for the rally. The war protestors' main goal was to urge the United States Congress and President George W. Bush to end the war this September when war funding runs dry and Congress will be asked once again to renew America's financial commitment to the ongoing military action.

Opponents of the war in Iraq held a candlelight vigil in Bridge Park on Tuesday, Aug. 28 hoping Congress would get the message to end the war.

More than three dozen protesters showed up for the national event "Stand Up in September," many of whom carried signs which read, "Support our troops, bring them home," and held candles while taking turns reading the names of service persons killed in action since January.

"I remember doing that during the Vietnam War while living in Chicago and attending a similar type of vigil that went all day and all night because so many thousands of people died," said vigil attendee, Ellis Boal, of Horton Bay. "I'm hoping to convince the president and Congress to bring them (troops) home now, which has been our demand all along."

The local rally, part of national Take A Stand Day, was specifically intended to urge U.S. Congressman Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) to vote to bring the troops home in September.

The protesters stood in Bridge Park for a couple hours, during which time they received the support of motorists honking their horns as well as some people voicing dissent.

"There were a couple hecklers, but more people were friendly than were unfriendly," Boal said.

One of the so-called hecklers was Charlevoix resident Al Wojan who found irony in the vigil.

"I saw, in Petoskey and Charlevoix, people protesting the war's end, exercising their constitutionally protected right to peaceably assemble to protest people who are protecting those constitutionally protected rights," Wojan said. "The people over there are sacrificing, they are not compelled to do so, they volunteered for the service to fight for our liberties and bring order to that area and we want them there until we have won that war."

While traffic was stopped at the bridge, Wojan took the opportunity to voice his opinion to the protesters who in turn responded.

"I believe the best course of action for all of us U.S. citizens is to join together as one and be responsible for our commitment, pursue our objective and end the war by winning and giving those people (Iraqis) what we have: life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness given to us by our founders."

He added, "There is nothing wrong with having others share in such a wonderful blessing."

However, Boal does not see it that way.

"Bring them home now," he said. "Of course there's going to be tragedy if (the troops) come home, but there's going to be killings and tragedy if they stay, and there has been."

What bothers Boal most, he said, is the growing number of politicians who feign protest of the war.

"I feel terrible. All of them (certain representatives) are still saying they are against this war, yet they voted to continue it," he said. "Their rationale, as I understand it, was they don't have political support, but the polls are just the opposite. Everyone wants to end the war, but they (representatives) were afraid of being seen as cowards or traitors."

He added, "Congressman Murtha (Jack, D-Pennsylvania) was a military guy who came out against the war a year or two ago. What he said is still true:

U.S. presence there (Iraq) aggravates the situation."

Wojan said there are many excuses why America should pull out of Iraq and he entertains none of them.

"If tyrants, religious or otherwise, were given the opportunity, how would they control us?" Wojan said. "There are those who say we cannot impose ourselves on them. We're not. We are giving them the opportunity to have what we have."

Boal said many people supported the war at first because they were told Iraq possessed weapons of mass destruction.

"I wondered (at the war's onset) and considered that there was no proof of that (weapons of mass destruction) and suppose it turns out there were weapons of mass destruction, I would still have been against the war," he said. "I understand, from reading news reports, the military situation seems to be improving to some degree. In Iraq there is a little more security yet there is political chaos."

He added, "To support the troops, we need to bring them home now."

Wojan said America must fight for freedom or face a future where liberty and justice are merely ideals.

"It (democracy) would become one of those things that does not really exist, it would be in theory," he said. "Would a tyrant give us life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?"

Those interested in supporting the troops can visit www.americasupportsyou.com, a Department of Defense Web site which aims to up troop morale by communicating citizen support to soldiers via cards, letters and supply drives.

Those interested in opposing the war can visit www.antiwar.com for information on military actions around the world, anti-war protests and more.

State launches bridge safety Web site

File photo

The Michigan Department of Transportation has posted information about the safety of 4,402 state highway bridges at www.michigan.gov/highwaybridgereport. In a recent interview, Michigan Department of Transportation communications director Bill Shreck said Charlevoix's Memorial Bridge (above) is in good condition.

Last week, Michigan Transportation Director Kirk T. Steudle announced the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has posted information about the safety of 4,402 state highway bridges at www.michigan.gov/highwaybridgereport.

Steudle said the information has been made available to emphasize the safety of travel on state highway bridges and to assure the public that the Department of Transportation is actively inspecting and maintaining bridges in Michigan.

"It's important for people to understand the federal rating system and to be able to quickly find information about state-owned bridges in their communities. This online information is a snapshot of the ongoing bridge maintenance and inspection work we do every day to ensure the safest possible travel experience for Michigan motorists," said Steudle.

Bridge ratings, which can be downloaded by route number and/or county, are current as of Aug. 15 and will be updated regularly. Only highway bridges greater than 20 feet in length are included. Ratings for pedestrian and locally-owned bridges are not included.

In a recent interview, Michigan Department of Transportation communications director Bill Shreck said Charlevoix's Memorial Bridge is in good condition.

Shreck said bridges in Michigan, including Memorial Bridge, are inspected every two years per National Bridge Inspection Standards. Memorial Bridge's last inspection was in October of last year. Its superstructure received rating of 8 and substructure received a rating of 6. A rating of 0-4 would require that it be inspected more often.

Steudle noted that the state has significantly increased funding to rehabilitate and/or replace bridge structures over the past 10 years, and that an average of $190 million will be invested in state bridges each year over the next five years. The Michigan Department of Transportation also has increased the number of bridge inspectors in recent years, Steudle said. In 1996, there were six highly qualified bridge inspectors. Currently, there are more than 20 who have specialized training and work in teams of two.

National Bridge Inspection Standards require the Michigan Department of Transportation to inspect bridges every two years. The Mackinac, International and Blue Water bridges are inspected annually, exceeding federal requirements. These bridges are managed by bridge authorities, and their ratings are not included in the list that's been posted to the Web. The rating for the Ambassador Bridge, which is privately owned, also is not included.

Tickets on sale for Bids for Blooms

Bids for Blooms, a Keep Charlevoix Beautiful fundraising event, will take place from 6 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, Sept. 15 at the Belvedere Casino.

At the event, guests will enjoy a wide array of complimentary hors d'oeuvres and desserts donated by local merchants, live music provided by Yankee Station and a cash bar.

Highlighting the evening will be the silent auction.

Proceeds from the event will benefit Keep Charlevoix Beautiful which celebrated its 25th anniversary this year. The group's primary project is purchasing, planting and watering the petunias that line Bridge Street. The petunia planting effort, called Operation Petunia, takes place the Thursday before Memorial Day. The operation has grown to include 1,130 flats of flowers planted in one hour by approximately 1,000 volunteers under the supervision of 25 block captains. The group also donates 62 hanging baskets of petunias which hang from lampposts throughout the central business district. All of this is made possible by fundraising efforts like Bids for Blooms.

PUBLIC NOTICE

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. It is government's responsibility to publish and deliver public notice information as it becomes available. So take notice. Your right to know is being served... right here in your newspaper.

Marina brings more boats, less business

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

The opening of the new municipal marina in downtown Charlevoix has increased boat traffic in the city but according to some merchants hasn't brought more business to town.

"Business has been OK, it wasn't a fantastic summer," said Bob Borths, manager of Oleson's Farm Fresh Market at Antrim and Bridge Street. "It'll be better next year, once the (East) park is open."

Kay Seelye, owner of Kilwin's of Charlevoix, said numbers are down this year and construction currently underway in East Park is partly to blame, as well as the state economy and increased competition.

"The park attracts more people when it's there," Seelye said. "When you get a cone, where do you go to eat it?"

Both Borths and Seelye said they are looking forward to next year when the renovated park is open. According to city street superintendent Pat Elliott the $10 million marina and park renovation projects are expected to be complete in May 2008.

Though the park is still under construction, the adjacent marina has seen a lot of traffic in its docks from boaters visiting Charlevoix.

Harbormaster for the City of Charlevoix, Hal Evans, said there have been as many as 102 boats docked at one time.

"Venetian night we tied up 102 boats," Evans said. "We've managed to keep it as full as possible."

Evans said the software to register boaters was not always working properly, forcing the his employees to rely on hand records.

"We used to average about 50 boats a night, now we average about 70 boats a night," he said.

Department of Natural Resources Activity Recap Reports show a significant increase in marina activity over last year. Reports show that 718 boats docked in the marina for July of 2007, compared to 431 boats in July of 2006 and 785 boats were docked in August of 2007, up from 548 boats in August of 2006.

STORY HIGHLIGHT

Charlevoix Municipal Marina opened July 2. Reduced rates are offered to users due to a lack of services like showers and water. Electricity is available.

In spite of the lack of services, Department of Natural Resources Activity Recap Reports show a significant increase in marina activity over last year.

The Charlevoix Municipal Marina (above) has been packed since it opened on July 2. While the number of boaters accommodated at the marina has increased since 2006, but business owners in downtown Charlevoix said their revenues haven't realized the same boost.

DIVORCE Care®
• Free
• Non-Denominational
• Open to everyone
Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...
DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.
Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding you life.

A Seminar with Experts
DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life.
During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus
Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support group that meets on Thursday evenings, from 7-9p.m. starting September 13th thru December 13th (join anytime) at the "Servants Quarters." 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.)
231-675-1925
After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

Bad Parents!

PROBLEM: Bullying

Ward Cleaver I'm not: I let my kids drink pop with dinner, which generally contains too many starches and not enough green leafy vegetables, I yell too much and I don't believe in turning the other cheek, which brings us to this week's topic: Bullies.

As a mild-mannered mamma's boy, I was tormented for the first decade or so of school.

In first-grade I was taunted and beat daily by a classmate. One morning he hit my back so hard with a rock he left a softball-sized bruise.

The tyranny ended the day before Christmas break when, after a few shoves, I snapped. Spinning 'round with the empty baking sheet earlier containing mom's Christmas cookies, I caught him square, sending him into a snow bank and a gracious helping of blood from his nose.

Despite that small triumph, it took me 'til the tenth-grade to realize I needed to be proactive and preemptive when it came to aggressors, so when my son came home from school complaining of similar circumstances, I told him what I wish my parents would have taught me — don't choose to be a victim.

He knows better than to arbitrarily engage in entanglements, but he also knows his right to defend his mind and body from danger.

According to Federal Education Resources Information Center (ERIC) statistics, 160,000 kids skip school daily to avoid bullying.

And, while suicide rates have continued to drop in the U.S., the rate for people under 20 has risen 18 percent.

In her 2002 piece, "How To Handle School Yard Bullying," Jan Andersen gives several examples of what she calls bullycide.

"In Canada ... a 14-year-old student leapt to his death from a bridge. He left a seven-page suicide note saying he was killing himself because his classmates tormented him by calling him 'gay' or 'faggot.' A 14-year-old girl hanged herself in her bedroom with a dog leash. She left a note that read, 'If I try to get help, it will get worse,'" Andersen wrote. "More recently, the mother of a 13-year-old schoolgirl found her hanging from a strip of cloth in her bedroom. Before her death, she had complained about being bullied at school."

I would rather my kids pop a bully in the nose than kill themselves or live in constant terror, but whatever method you choose to deal with bullies and their victims, this is a serious matter which warrants immediate attention.

Help is available for kids experiencing bullying or any other crisis by calling the Covenant House Youth Crisis hotline at (800) 999-9999.

'Must reads' from library director Valerie Meyerson

'We All Went on Safari,' by Laurie Krebs

The following is a list of age specific books selected by Charlevoix Public Library director Valerie Meyerson for September reading.

Leslie Helakoski, "Big Chickens"

Pre-k to second-grade

This 2007 Michigan Reads to Children winner, written by a Michigan author, has a wonderful, quirky turn on the typical cumulative tale. When a fox frightens the hens out of the hen house, they end up in a series of "scaredy cat" misadventures. All is well, however, when these harried hens realize they can be brave after all. Good for reading aloud.

'My Big Science Book,' by Simon Mugford

Laurie Krebs, "We All Went on Safari"

Pre-k to third-grade

Simple, brightly colored illustrations show a safari in Tanzania counting grazing giraffes, yawning lions and splashing hippos. The story is extended for older readers with information in the back on Tanzania, the animals and counting in Swahili.

Simon Mugford, "My Big Science Book"

Elementary

Big, colorful photos illustrate step-by-step instructions leading students in the creation of their own science activities. Sound, music, light, optical illusions, giant bubbles and the ever-popular vinegar volcano are a few of the fun projects children can do to amaze their friends and family. A nice and simple introduction to science and science fair projects.

'Slow and Steady Get me Ready,' by June Oberlander

Parenting

Weekly developmental activities are shared in this book for parents of children birth to five. Crafts, using household items explore the sense of touch, hand-eye coordination and naming activities. Each one-page activity is simple and are designed to exercise and extend baby and toddler's awareness, muscle coordination and language skills.

Obstetrical & Gynecological Care
Mary Ivey, MD
James Jeakle, MD
William Mosher III, MD

Babies and beyond.

Having a baby? You can count on our team for just about everything you need. Exclusive pre- and post-delivery fitness programs. Helpful childbirth prep classes. Exceptional prenatal care. And delivery at Charlevoix Area Hospital's new Birthing Center, with its private lakeview rooms, family-centered philosophy, attentive nurses, and ongoing lactation support.

There... now all you need are the diapers.

Schools use survey data to combat bullying

It seems that school bullies have been around almost as long as schools themselves. Who among us isn't familiar with the child (or group of children) who terrorizes other students with taunts, teasing and, all too often, physical violence?

To suggest, however, that the national problem of bullying is nothing more than "kids being kids" or a child's rite of passage ignores statistics that the phenomena of bullying is increasing in our schools and occurring in earlier grades.

According to Bill Foster, president of School Perceptions LLC — a firm that specializes in gathering the opinions of students, staff and parents — bullying is widespread, with over 47 percent of recently surveyed middle and high school students agreeing that bullying is a problem at their school. Foster adds that if anyone thinks bullying is a problem reserved for older kids, it's not: 42 percent of elementary students reported bullying as a problem. A recent study funded by the U.S. National Institutes of Health that found elementary school bullying to be widespread further demonstrates the problem.

Across all age categories, many students expressed a fear of going to and being in school. In actuality, more than 43 percent of survey respondents reported fearing harassment in the school bathroom and nearly 10 percent of urban high school juniors and seniors reported that they have missed at least one day of school each month out of fear of physical abuse.

The results of bullying are dire. Fearing reprisal, most bullied students don't notify teachers or parents and, as a result, become silent victims. When facing an ongoing abusive situation, some students turn to suicide. In other cases, students seek alternative means to ensure their own safety. According to a National School Boards Association report, more than 135,000 guns are brought to school each day by students, and the most common reason students give for bringing weapons to schools is for personal protection. In the most extreme of cases, school shootings are scenes where the bullied have become the bully.

Bullying and harassment at school is not a rite of passage, it's a public health crisis. But just as harassment and bullying is sheer terror for children, it is also frustrating for parents and educators. How can parents and educators ensure the safety and well being of their children when most abuse goes unreported? What strategies should be put in place to ensure student safety? How safe do students feel in their schools? The best answers to these questions come from a source closest to the problem: The students themselves.

The first step that should be taken by schools, districts and their communities to stop bullying and harassment is to get an honest assessment from students, in addition to parents and school staff, about whether they feel problems exist, and if they do, then when, where and how often. A well-crafted and anonymous survey that provides immediate results allows students — even those who are bullied — to respond freely, allowing educators and parents to target problems, identify solutions and come to a common consensus.

In most cases, it is the students themselves who offer the best solutions to bullying. The key is to identify ways to listen to them.

Joe Donovan, vice-president of School Perceptions LLC, is a guest columnist for the Charlevoix Courier. He can be contacted by calling (262) 644-4300 or by e-mail at jdonovan@schoolperceptions.com. School Perceptions LLC is a Wisconsin based education research and consulting firm specializing in gathering, analyzing and acting on data to help schools and districts improve.

Official Notice

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
REGARDING THE ADOPTION OF A PROPOSED ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE DEVELOPMENT AND TAX INCREMENT FINANCING PLAN OF THE CHARLEVOIX DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

PLEASE TAKE NOTE that the Charlevoix City Council will hold a public hearing on a proposed ordinance to amend the Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority on Monday, September 17, 2007 at 7:00 p.m. in the Charlevoix City Hall Council Chambers located at 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan.

The purpose of the public hearing is to consider an ordinance which adds Section 1.305 of Chapter 7, Title I of the Charlevoix City Code to amend the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority's Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan. The proposed amendment does not result in the relocation of any families or individuals from the Development Area.

The public hearing will consider the proposed Sixth Amendment of the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan which will add the following item to the DDA's Development Plan:

> Interactive Water Fountain – The Interactive Water Fountain will be located in the Harbormaster Plaza. Jets of water will leap out of the plaza and disappear back into the plaza surface. Children of all ages will be able to splash and play in the fountains while others can view the water display from the roof of the gardens of the Harbormaster building and in the Harbormaster Plaza. The Fountain will be an attraction to a wide range of audiences and located at the north end of the park. The Fountain will not interfere with performances taking place at the Pavilion.

A copy of the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority with maps and copies of the proposed amendment to the plan are available for public inspection, Monday through Friday, at the office of the Charlevoix City Clerk, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan during regular business hours. All aspects of the proposed amendment to the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan, as well as the entire Plan of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will be open for discussion at the public hearing.

The public is invited to attend the public hearings and present its comments on the proposed ordinances. The public may also submit its written comments on the proposed amendments at the public hearings or by sending them to the Charlevoix City Clerk at the above address prior to the public hearings.

Bridge anyone?

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild's bridge league is accepting new players. Current players (above, from left) Joyce Herbert, John Danly, Barbara Danly and Bruce Herbert, throw a hand in the hospital solarium on Aug. 30. The games are scheduled from Sept. 15 through June 1 at the homes of league players. A ladies league meets in the mornings and evenings and the couples league plays in the evenings. Neither have a defined schedule. To join, contact Louise Hilligan at (231) 547-2851.

Preparations underway for Day of Caring on Sept. 18

Harbor Industries and Char-Em United Way are leading the 4th annual community-wide Day of Caring, scheduled for Sept. 18.

This event promotes teamwork and gives people a taste of volunteering, while making a difference in the community.

The Day of Caring matches teams of volunteers from businesses, schools, faith communities and community groups with non-profit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties who are in need of hands-on help. Other members of the core Day of Caring/Get Involved team are Bay Winds Federal Credit Union, Huntington National Bank, Way Transportation, Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix Manufacturing and Charlevoix High School.

"We're very excited about Day of Caring 2007," Jennifer Archambault of Harbor Industries said. "In our first year we had 70 volunteers working on seven projects, and last year that grew to 550 helping out on 35 projects throughout the two-county area. Volunteers did tasks ranging from washing senior citizens' cars, to building shelves for the Red Cross, to washing windows at the Safe Home. This year, we anticipate engaging even more volunteers and helping more agencies."

For more information, contact the Day of Caring Committee at (231) 237-6242 or e-mail getinvolved@harborind.com.

Hospital offers program on non-Hodgkin lymphoma

The Leukemia and Lymphoma Society will host a program on non-Hodgkin lymphoma entitled, "The Changing Landscape" for patients, family members, friends and health professionals on Sept. 20 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The meeting will present basic information on terminology, risk factors, diagnosis, staging and classification. New insights, treatments and future directions for non-Hodgkin lymphoma will also be discussed. In addition, issues regarding coping with a non-Hodgkin lymphoma diagnosis will be addressed.

Speakers include Rohi Thomas, of the University of Detroit Mercy Hospital and Jean McDonough, a registered nurse at Charlevoix Area Hospital

The meeting takes place from 6 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 20 in Classroom B at Charlevoix Area Hospital, located at 14700 Lake Shore Dr.

Pre-registration for this free program is required. To register, contact Carleen Hubbell, community outreach manager at the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society at (231) 929-2951.

A complimentary light dinner will be served.

Blood drive to take place Sept. 13

An American Red Cross blood drive will take place from noon to 5:45 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 13 at the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church, located at the intersection of U.S. 31 and Meech Street.

Starting on Saturday, Sept. 1 and continuing through Saturday, Sept. 15, all presenting donors at drives across the state will have the opportunity to enter a drawing for a chance to win a tailgate package.

To make an appointment, call (800) 448-3543. Walk-ins are welcome. Donors are asked to bring a Red Cross donor card or government photo identification. A nursery will be provided from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

New OB/Gyn joins local practice

Charlevoix Women's Health Care recently welcomed Mary Ivey MD, a new specialist to the growing obstetrics and gynecology group.

Charlevoix Women's Health Care recently welcomed a new specialist to the growing obstetrics and gynecology group.

Mary Ivey MD, has joined doctors James Jeakle and William Mosher III, and will begin seeing patients in September.

Dr. Ivey, who practiced in Petoskey two years ago, comes to the Charlevoix group from Manistee. She earned a bachelor of science degree in biochemistry from Auburn University and her medical degree from the University of North Dakota School of Medicine, where she was named Medical Student of the Year in 1999. Following that, she served her obstetrics and gynecology residency at Spectrum Health Blodgett and St. Mary's Hospitals in Grand Rapids.

"I'm delighted to be back in this area and equally happy to be part of the Women's Health Care group," Ivey said.

Eager to become part of the community, she will see patients in Charlevoix and at the Boyne Area Medical Center, and plans to speak to women's groups about a variety of health issues.

"There's so much new in the way of treatment for common female problems like endometriosis," she explains. "Today, many women can enjoy a greatly improved quality of life through easy, minimally invasive procedures."

In addition to offering new gynecological surgeries and ongoing women's care, Ivey will provide pre and postnatal care and deliver babies at Charlevoix Area Hospital's Birthing Center. Her practice will include women of all ages.

"As a woman, I think I can bring a special sensitivity and understanding of the concerns women face," Ivey said. "The reproductive system is wonderfully designed, but it's pretty complex. I try to treat each patient as a friend or a sister. That way I know I'm giving my best."

Charlevoix Women's Health Care is an affiliate of Charlevoix Area Hospital. For more information or to make an appointment, call (231) 547-4477.

Royal Farms open corn maze

Royal Farms kicked off the fall season, and the opening of their corn maze on Saturday, Sept. 1 with a ribbon cutting and a corn maze race.

Royal Farms is located 10 miles south of Charlevoix on U.S. 31 in Atwood. It was started in 1996 by owners Patrick and Sara McGuire, Patrick runs the farm and Sara runs the market, where they feature all homegrown, local produce and fruit, along with homemade bakery items, flowers, gifts and novelty items.

"The corn maze is a joint venture" Sara said. "I do the design and Pat makes it happen. We have a great time together with our two children staking the stations and testing the paths."

Royal Farms is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday and from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The maze entry fee is $5 for adults and $3 for kids 12 and under.

Island to host Celtic Games

Scottish and Irish strongmen from across Michigan will be showing their skills Sept. 15 at the Beaver Island Celtic Games.

Spectators will be amazed while watching Celtic strongmen compete against each other in traditional strength competitions.

"Once again, Celtic strongmen will be out in force on Beaver Island. The audience will be amazed at the skills my fellow athletes possess and entertained by our antics on the field," said athlete, Jeremy McBain, of Charlevoix.

During last year's event, the athletes not only lifted extremely heavy objects, but also entertained the audience with stories, jokes, banter and slapstick comedy.

Competitors will be tossing the stone, throwing 28 and 56-pound weights for distance and height, throwing the hammer, tossing the shef and flipping the famed caber (a 20-foot long, 120-pound pole that competitors must flip end over end).

The athletes will explain the history, technique and skill involved in each of the events during the festival.

This is the third year for this event, now hosted by the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce.

Many of the competitors from last year's game will be returning for this year's event.

The athletes, ages 18 to 58, hail from all areas of Michigan and represent various skill levels in the Celtic strength athletics. Adhering to the rules of Scottish strength athletics, the athletes will all be wearing their family kilts during competition.

Joining them on the island once again will be Celtic dancers and bagpipers to entertain the crowd with their artistic and musical skills.

Also, a ceilidh ("KAY-lee" or party) will be on Sept. 14 at Donegal Danny's and on Sept. 15 at the Shamrock.

The Celtic strength competitions date back to at least the 1300s, when Scottish kings and chiefs would hold contests within the kingdom and individual clans to determine who their strongest men were.

During the times of English occupation of Scotland, the games also served as a way for Scottish soldiers to train for combat, without alerting the English.

The games begin at 10 a.m. and continue until about 5 p.m. at the Bud McDonough Memorial Ball Park.

Varsity football suffers 19-27 loss to Benzie

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix faces its second loss in varsity football 19-27 Sept. 1 against Benzie Central.

Now 0-2 in non-conference play, the Rayders had led Benzie 19-13 in the first half, but fell behind when Benzie made a fourth-quarter drive and two touchdowns.

"I thought our kids played better than they did in week one," said Rayder varsity football coach Don Jess. "We're getting better. And if the kids continue to work hard and improve, then the wins will come.

Kyle Jones led the Rayder offense in rushing, carrying the ball 15 times for 108 yards with a 20-yard touchdown. Justin Klooster had three catches for 78 yards and one 17-yard touchdown reception. Cliff Jones also had a two-yard touchdown run and kicked one extra point.

On defense Kyle Jones tallied 13 tackles, while Jake Rankl had nine, Corey Gotshall had eight and Drew Largent had seven. Rankl also had one interception.

The Charlevoix Rayder junior varsity football team improved to 2-0 on Aug. 30 following a hard-fought 14-13 victory over the Benzie Central Huskies.

The Rayders meet Traverse City Saint Francis at 7 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 7 on Kipke Field in Charlevoix for their first regular conference game. The junior varsity game is at 6 p.m. on Sept. 6 at Traverse City Saint Francis.

"Traverse City Saint Francis has not lost a conference game in five years," Jess said. "Our kids will be ready to play on Friday. Hopefully we have a lot of fans there to make it a good environment for our players."

He added, "We respect Saint Francis, but we're not intimidated by them."

What's next? The Rayders meet Traverse City Saint Francis at 7 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 7 on Kipke Field in Charlevoix. The junior varsity game is at 6 p.m on Sept. 6 at Traverse City Saint Francis

Rotary Porker Classic Sept. 6 at the Charlevoix Golf Club

The Rotary Club of Charlevoix will host its annual "Porker" golf tournament Thursday, Sept. 6 at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course.

Billed as "the affordable golf tournament," the entry fee remains $40 per person.

"Thanks to the generosity of local businesses, every participant in the tournament goes home with a prize," said tournament director Tim Petrosky. "An exciting new addition this year is the chance to win a three-year lease of a new automobile from Fox Motors of Charlevoix."

The event is a four-person scramble. The entry fee includes golf, a dinner buffet at Giuseppe's, and the traditional tournament trademark — prizes galore. Prizes will be awarded based on skill, luck and random draw, and to teams that finish first, last and right in the middle.

"It is due to the generosity of area businesses and residents, who donate prizes for the event, that makes the tournament so much fun for everyone," said Petrosky.

Registration forms are available at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course pro shop. The event is limited to the first 20 teams that register. An optional skins game and "mulligans" will also be available to teams. The shotgun start is at 4:30 p.m. Dinner follows at 6:30 p.m.

Rotary uses proceeds from the event to benefit the community with an emphasis on area youth.

For more information, call Tim Petrosky at (231) 547-0183.

This year's Dressage by the Bay horse show event took place Aug. 2–5 and drew masses of horse enthusiasts, riders and their equine companions to the Traverse City area.

To give the show a fresh look and feel in 2007, a new facility was constructed in Acme Township. The picturesque grounds featured four sand/limestone rings, each with its own large warm-up area, graded tent pads and underground electric and water. Horse Shows by the Bay is a three-week festival which includes Dressage by the Bay and contributes more than $4 million dollars to the Traverse City economy. This year marked the fourth year of the event.

Charlevoix resident Suzannah Simon was among five riders from Bay Harbor Equestrian Club taking part in the show. Others were Elisa Freed, Emily Love, Kayla Discher and Alicia Byberg-Landman, the head trainer at the club who is also from Charlevoix.

Alicia Byberg-Landman won Grand Champion Adult Open 4th Level, Suzannah K. Simon won Grand Champion Jr. Young Rider Level 1, Elise Freed won Reserve Champion Jr. Young Rider Level 1, Emily Love took Grand Champion Jr. Young Rider at Training Level and Kayla Disher won Grand Champion Jr. Young Rider 4th Level.

When asked about the experience at this year's event Alicia Byberg-Landman said, "Dressage by the Bay was a great experience for Bay Harbor this year. The scores and placing were proof of their (students') hard work and dedication to the sport. I am very fortunate to have such great students. They all get along so well and support each other at competitions. We look forward to Regional Championships which will be held in Chicago this year at the end of September."

Bay Harbor Equestrian Club is open to the public year-round. To learn more about the facilities, training programs and activities available, call (231) 439-7100.

Braun plays 100 holes to benefit Junior Golf

Steve Braun, Belvedere Golf Club professional, had played 100 holes in a single day for 10 straight summers so planning to repeat his fundraising feat that benefits Charlevoix's Junior Golf program didn't cause a big stir.

The date was scheduled, Aug. 20, publicity was sent, cart drivers were secured, and a bright sunny day ordered for the event. However, when dawn came it was a dark, misty, and very windy morning. His 6:30 a.m. tee off time was delayed. When he did start the wind stayed steady but the mist lifted.

The ordeal is a thrilling sporting event. 100 holes pitting a fine golfer against fatigue, distraction and boredom, but most importantly, Braun plays against the course and himself. He has played the first 18 holes before many people have finished their breakfast and scored a respectable 77. After a change of the cart driver, he sets out for the second 18 coming in with an 80 as the wind continued to build. His third and fourth rounds are 79 and 77. Eating on the run, he cards an 80 and then for the final 10 holes is just over par. Steve holed out a 200 yard shot for an eagle on hole 18 and his dad insists it was Steve's greatest shot ever.

"Once he turned 14, I could no longer beat him and I was a low handicapped golfer. That passion and love for kids enables him to battle through the challenges of this day," Phil Braun said.

Jim Grand, speaking for fellow volunteer cart drivers Rosemary Corradi, Kim Shanahan, Mark Smith, Jim McAllister and Stuart Goldblatt, said, "It always is an amazing feat, watching Steve play such high level golf during the entire day. It is a special treat to be a part of it."

Dean Davenport, who directs the Charlevoix Area Junior Golf program, expressed his gratitude for Braun's efforts.

"His love for golf and for getting youngsters involved in the sport runs deep. He has been an inspiration to our program and besides volunteering his teaching expertise, raises the extra money that enables our program to be unique and among the top such programs in the nation," Davenport said.

Funds raised by Steve go directly into the scholarship program and have provided scholarships to over 80 youngsters to the Ferris State University and Boyne Mountain golf camps, primarily due to pledges made by Belvedere Club members and other local supporters of Junior Golf.

So, for a year, an event that has captivated golf enthusiasts in Charlevoix has resulted in a real golf victory, one that positively affects the many youngsters that participate in the Charlevoix Area Junior Golf program.

Contributions can still be sent for the program and should be addressed to the Belvedere Club, Belvedere Avenue, Charlevoix, MI, 49720, Attention: Steve Braun.

Pittman, Courier parent company VP of publishing, authors book

BY MADOLIN EDWARDS
DAILY AMERICAN
STAFF WRITER

Longtime football fans may remember the name Charles Pittman. He was an All-American running back for Penn State University in 1969 — the first black running back for head coach Joe Paterno to receive the honor.

Now he is the senior vice-president of publishing at Schurz Communications Inc., a communications media holding company and publishers of many newspapers, including the Daily American in Somerset, Pa., the Charlevoix Courier, Petoskey News-Review and Gaylord Herald Times.

Now look back at 1994-95 when another Pittman, this time Charles' son Tony, is on the Penn State undefeated team playing at the Rose Bowl. Tony also was named a Penn State Academic All-American. He has worked his way up the executive ladders at PriceWaterhouseCooper, IBM and EDS.

The father and son have teamed up to write a book about their experiences playing for Joe Paterno in "Playing for Paterno," released Aug. 23 in book stores and on Amazon.com.

"For years Tony and I were asked 'What is it like to play for Joe Paterno?'" Charles said during a recent visit to the Daily American office. "We've been asked so much that we thought, 'Why not write a book?'"

Pittman said he felt the father and son are qualified to do that. They are the first father and son team to play for Paterno. They were on three of five teams that had undefeated seasons. Neither Tony nor Charles lost a game they started at Penn State. They both wore the number 24 and they both were Academic All-Americans.

"I was in Joe Paterno's first recruitment class. Tony was in his 27th," he said.

"This book is not just a sports book, it's a business book. It's a leadership book." Pittman said. "It shows the discipline, the lessons we learned in Penn State football that can be applied in business and in regular life. It talks about the importance of playing on a team, winning as a team, managing a team, and having a successful team in sports and in business."

He said one of the lessons they learned from Paterno, "Make the little things go right and the big things will work out," shows the progression of getting better at everything one does.

He said when he started playing at Penn State, Paterno was launching his "grand experiment," to prove that big time college football can have a winning season with successful college educated students.

"Joe Paterno's favorite writer was Robert Browning, who said 'A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's heaven for?' I know the job I have now was highly improbable considering where I came from," he said. "We were underprivileged, lacking in material things. We had parents who wanted us to succeed.

"When my son was looking at college, he was looking at Harvard, Yale, Princeton," he said. "The father had one life, the son had a different life. But we played for the same coach and got the same meaningful life lessons."

Some of those life lessons include planning ahead and making oneself mentally tough, the value of being on time and having respect for other people's time. And staying focused.

"It talks about the ability and the sacrifices you make to be a team member. You don't put yourself ahead of the team. We learned those lessons from Joe," he said. "We learned to raise the bar and increase our expectations. How appropriate is that for business?"

He said when he started playing at Penn State, he asked for the number 24. That was Lenny Moore's number and he idolized Moore.

"How you choose your own number in life," he said, "is you dream big, think big and go for it.

"The book also talks about rebounding from failure. I was fired from my first job in banking and I had to rebound from that," he added.

Pittman said his book also encourages the reader to have the ability to focus on strength rather than weakness, how to encourage people to reach for higher goals and the value of truth telling.

"It reaffirms for people who know Tony and me, the values that we like to bring and it introduces those to people who don't know us," he said.

He said writing the book with his son was a great experience as well.

"Tony is an amazing son — extremely bright, articulate and good at what he does," he said.

Creating serene surroundings at Charlevoix Middle School

Gabrielle Waterman, a fifth-grader at Charlevoix Middle School just happened to come to school last Friday to decorate her locker at the same time her best friend, Hero Parker-Drost was doing the same. Waterman expresses her love of horses by filling her locker with pictures of them.

This fountain was added to the Charlevoix Middle School Butterfly Garden this summer by the Middle School Garden Committee of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club, chaired by Mary Kengle.

Tai Chi classes begin at Charlevoix Public Library

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging sponsored Tai Chi Classes will began on Tuesday, Sept. 4

WHEN?

The beginner class is from 10 to 11 a.m. The intermediate and/or continuing class is from 11 a.m. to noon. The instructor for both classes is Meg McClorey

HOW MUCH?

Cost for the six-week session is $12 for those 60 years old and over. The fee is $40 for participants under 60

WHERE?

WHAT IS TAI CHI?

Tai Chi is an ancient form of moving meditation and relaxation. It is a Chinese exercise with a history dating back thousands of years. The movements and postures of Tai Chi are performed in a slow, relaxed and fluid manner. When combined with deep, relaxed breathing, they have a healing and rejuvenating effect on the mind and body. Tai Chi calms the mind, centers the energy and helps relieve built-up tension and stress. It increases circulation, develops mind and body coordination, helps relieve pain and stiffness and improves concentration, posture, awareness and biomechanics.

To register, call the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging at (231) 237-0103.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default having been made in the terms and conditions of a certain mortgage made by Alvin A. Merrill and Linda K. Merrill, his wife, Mortgagor, to Ameriquest Mortgage Company, Mortgagee, dated the 20th day of August, 2004 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Charlevoix and State of Michigan, on the 31st day of August, 2004 in Liber 634 of Charlevoix County Records, page 183, said Mortgage having been assigned to Wells Fargo Bank, NA as Trustee on which mortgage there is claimed to be due, at the date of this notice, the sum of Ninety Four Thousand Five Hundred Sixty Seven & 73/100 ($94,567.73), and no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof. Now, therefore, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to statute of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that on the 28th day of September, 2007 at 11:00 o'clock am Local Time, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the main lobby of the Charlevoix County Courthouse, Chalrevoix, MI MI (that being the building where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix is held), of the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount due, as aforesaid on said mortgage, with interest thereon at 7.990% per annum and all legal costs, charges, and expenses, including the attorney fees allowed by law, and also any sum or sums which may be paid by the undersigned, necessary to protect its interest in the premises. Which said premises are described as follows: All that certain piece or parcel of land, including any and all structures, and homes, manufactured or otherwise, located thereon, situated in the City of East Jordan, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, and described as follows, to wit:

Lots 1 and 2, Block 2, Nettleton's Addition to the Village of South area, now part of the City of East Jordan, Michigan, according to the recorded plat thereof, Charlevoix County Records. During the six (6) months immediately following the sale, the property may be redeemed, except that in the event that the property is determined to be abandoned pursuant to MCLA 600.3241a, the property may be redeemed during 30 days immediately following the sale.

Charles Merriman faces homicide charge

MURDER

began this case and he interviewed probably 50 people," said Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney, John Jarema. "I'm confident we have the right person charged and I am confident William Merriman is deceased."

Police were tipped off to this case when an old friend of William's contacted them with talk of suspicious activity.

Though the body has yet to be found, investigators believe a knife or ax was used to murder William whose last known whereabouts is linked to a financial transaction that occurred around 8:02 p.m. on June 15, 2006 at Glen's Market in Charlevoix.

On Oct. 16, 2006, cadaver dogs searched Merriman's parents' 20-acre Phelps Road property in East Jordan where they found human blood.

"The Michigan State Police Crime lab (was) able to identify human blood stains and patterns inside the house, on a sliding glass door sill, the floor in the room containing the sliding glass door, the baseboard and door trim and door also in that room, on the cutting edge of an ax and in the hallway," Wheat stated in his affidavit.

"I'm confident we have the right person charged and I am confident William Merriman is deceased."

John Jarema
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

The blood samples matched William's DNA.

"Charles/Chuck told (me) that there were two puddles of blood on the floor by the sliding glass door that was William's blood and that William cut his hand while trying to remove the carpet and after William cut his hand, he went into the bathroom," Wheat further stated. "Charles/Chuck then told (me) that the sliding glass door was actually open in an attempt to explain how the blood was found outside the door on the cement. Charles/Chuck then told (me) that William Merriman then held his hand outside the open sliding door while kneeling down and there was a pool/puddle of blood approximately 16 inches long by 6 inches wide on the cement and that Charles/Chuck hosed the blood off the cement.

On Nov. 8 and 9, the Whitefeather Landfill in Pinconning was searched and a blood-soaked cushion from the Phelps home was found.

"Charles/Chuck Merriman maintained that the blood on the cushion came from the cut on his brother's hand. The cushion appeared to (me) to have a rather large blood spot on it with enough blood that the blood trailed off to the sides of the cushion," Wheat stated.

William had traveled from his home in Hudsonville to Charlevoix County to make funeral arrangements for his mother and planned to move to this area in order to care for his elderly father.

A trooper from the Michigan State Police post in Grand Haven was told by Charles that William had spoken with his ex-wife who said she needed help in Indiana. Charles said William then jumped into a black SUV with a guy named Ed.

"According to Colleen Merriman (William's sister-in-law), this would be out of character for William ... because (he) and his ex-wife, Melissa, have been divorced for a number of years and it was a messy divorce," Wheat wrote. "The phone company did not verify or identify any person named Ed from the incoming or outgoing calls on record."

On Oct. 9, 2006, Wheat contacted William's ex-wife to discover she neither lives in Indiana nor had any contact with William since 1982 and never requested his help.

Wheat traveled to Hudsonville in September of last year to speak with William's landlord of 10 years who told the detective William always paid his rent on time, but had been behind two months from his disappearance.

William's apartment contained all his belongings.

Jarema said sheriff's personnel have searched several of the lakes and small ponds in the area for William's body.

Police received a phone call from Charles in mid-September 2006 to ask how the investigation was going and tell detectives they have permission to check out the Phelps Road residence.

"The interior of the home was emptied of most of the furniture, carpeting and other belongings. The bulk of the carpeting was removed from the bedroom, living room and a dining-type room," Wheat stated. "The carpeting had been removed from the center of some of the rooms and was cut around some pieces of furniture in others i.e. around the china cabinet/hutch. (There was) strong aroma of some type of cleaning supplies in the air of the home."

Jarema believes the motive was financial since Charles wished to be in charge of his parent's finances, but was denied by his father.

"Charles/Chuck also told (me) that during the time that William was staying at the house with (him) there was a lot of friction and anger between William and (him) regarding Charles/Chuck's financial situation and Charles/Chuck's inability to hold up his end of the family finances," Wheat stated.

Charles is currently in the Charlevoix County Jail without bond with a court date of Sept. 13 for a preliminary examination.

If found guilty of homicide/open murder, Charles could receive a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Downtown Development Authority

Item: Old business: Charlevoix Public Library rain garden

In brief: The Charlevoix Public Library wrote to the Downtown Development Authority requesting funding for the completion of the rain garden project they are working on with the Tipp of the Mitt Watershed Council. The library is asking for $6,500 to construct a four foot wide, circular pathway that would encompass the garden and signs explaining the rain garden, located by the sidewalk.

Development authority action: Approved

Item: Old business: Amendment to Downtown Development Authority plan to include interactive water feature

In brief: The Downtown Development Authority discussed ways to fund the interactive water fountain they would like to be placed in the new East Park at an estimated cost range of $380,000 to 420,000. East Park architect Mark Buday and designer Richard Hitz presented two companies who responded to their design plan, offering to construct the fountain. City treasurer and acting city manager Richard Brandi presented the Downtown Development Authority with options for funding the fountain.

Development authority action: A unanimously approved motion was made by Downtown Development Authority member Dan Barron, seconded by member Jeannine Wallace, to request Charlevoix City Council reimburse the authority $279,000 for the expenses paid by the Downtown Development Authority for East Park's storm sewer infrastructure project under Mason Street. The request was made at city council's general meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 4. Results from this meeting were not available by press time.

Barbara Sitner of Charlevoix took this shot of her grandchildren who spent the afternoon building an irrigation system out of rocks at her home. She was amazed at the project they tackled and the fun they had without toys. Pictured above are Alex Sitner, Mari Sitner, J.J. Wachler, Erin Wachler, Emma Wachler and Alexis Farbman. The weekend project ended with construction of a rock city at the top of the bluff.

Seniors to guide young Rayder football team

BY STEFANIE CARANO

Don Jess

"The strength of this year's Charlevoix Rayders is in senior leadership, whose dedication serves as an example to the rest of the team," said head coach Don Jess.

Varsity football captains Trevor Cole, Cliff Jones and Corey Gotshall have shown their commitment to the sport by spending significant time during their summer vacation conditioning in the school weight room.

"They're very dedicated," he said.

Key players include Kyle Jones, Nate Golovich, Skippy Skippergosh, Jon Putman, Justin Klooster, Brock Yenglin, Hunter Boss, Jake Rankl, Drew Largent and Bill Ivan.

Jess said the goal for this year's Rayders is to make the playoffs. This was accomplished last year, though the season ended in a loss to Kingsley, 8-2.

So far, the first game of the Rayder season began with a disappointing loss to St. Ignace on Aug. 24.

"I wasn't happy with the way things turned out," Jess said.

One challenge for the team this year, he said, is lack of depth.

"We don't have a lot of guys with varsity experience coming back," he said.

Jess is working on overcoming this challenge by trying to get everybody acclimated. He said that is going to take time.

Teams that play against the Rayders in the Class C conference include Boyne City, Traverse City St. Francis, East Jordan, Elk Rapids, Kalkaska, Grayling and Harbor Springs.

CROSS COUNTRY

Cross country teams gear up for Sept. 8 Mud Run

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

For Charlevoix's 2007-08 girls' cross country, experienced runners will serve as role models, while the boys' cross country find strength in a smaller team.

"Last year we had about 15 to 17 runners, now we're at nine, maybe 10," said boys' coach Ken Plude.

The boys' team is reduced, but Ken said there are very few new participants.

And despite the smaller size, he said the boys' team has three very good runners — returning participants Alex Buday and Nick Wimmer, and freshman Eric Buday.

Though new to the team, Ken said Eric set four school records on his middle school cross country team.

Ken said he has a very dedicated boys' team.

"Nobody's missed a practice," he said.

In contrast to the boys' team of returning participants, the girls' team, consisting of 14 runners, has many new people.

"Over half my team is brand new," said girls' cross country coach Mary Plude. "Only four girls have done cross country before."

Mary said this year is a real development year for the girls' team but said she has complete confidence in senior runner, Alina Dhaseleer.

"Alina's right on track but team wise, it's hard to tell," she said. "It will take at least a month to develop the team."

Besides Dhaseleer, returning runners include Shelby Goss, Elizabeth Kur, Breanna Londgren and Ellise Smolenyak.

Both the girls' and the boys' team ended last season in fourth place in the Class C regional meet, just short of qualifying for state championship.

The cross country team will host an invitational on Sept. 8 at Charlevoix High School.

The invitational, called the Charlevoix Classic Mud Run, uses obstructions such as muddy terrain and bay barrels to test the agility of Charlevoix's team and others.

Ken said it is cross country "the old-fashioned way."

Legislation impacts tennis team turnout

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix High School's co-ed tennis team is down 28 players from last year and Coach Erik Lundteigen attributes the dramatic drop to his sport being moved to the fall season.

A recent law that was passed to address discriminatory practices in girls' sports scheduling now requires that girls' basketball be moved from fall to winter and girls volleyball from winter to fall at all Michigan public schools. This move forced sports teams such as golf, tennis and soccer, consisting of boys and girls alike, to alter their schedules, thus moving the Charlevoix tennis team out of spring sports.

The team has gone from 44 players in the 2006-07 season to 16 players in the 2007-08 season.

"We've had a smaller team than we've had ever number wise," said Lundteigen. "We have a lot of inexperienced players but they will hopefully improve as the season goes on."

Even with a smaller team, Lundteigen said he is optimistic because he sees a lot of hard workers in both the new and experienced players.

"I am happy with who we have. They're working hard," he said.

Last year, he said, the team just missed going to the state finals, finishing fourth in the regionals.

"My goal is to have them playing well," he said. "When you practice well, it will pay off."

He said the entire high school tennis season comes down to two days in October when the conference meet and the regionals take place.

The team's first meet this year was against Petoskey, with Petoskey winning 5 to 4.

"We won most of the doubles, I saw some very encouraging things," Lundteigen said of the meet.

In addition to Lundteigen's guidance, this year's team is getting help from assistant coach Neil Turner.

"Neil is a volunteer coach," he said. "I'm very thankful for the time he donates to our cause."

This is Lundteigen's 21st year coaching tennis.

Soccer team brings on 10 new players

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

This year's Charlevoix High School soccer team will focus on getting used to each other, with half of the team consisting of new players.

Coach Josh Block said the team has the largest group of freshmen they've ever had, making up 10 of their 20 members.

"We haven't had that kind of fresh blood in our system in quite awhile," Block said.

The team's immediate goal, he said, is to try to blend returning players with the new players and get the team used to each other.

"Guys are getting to know each other and how to play well together," Block said.

Last year's season ended in six wins and 13 losses for the team.

Featured soccer players this year include captains Weston Bryan and Ben Myers and the team's three goalies, Colin McDonough, Nick Brandi and Shawn Couture.

"I have three goalies this year, which I've never had," Block said.

He said this year will be a time of trial and error for the team.

"We have some pretty tough games early on in the year," Block said, "and we're going to try to have a lot of progress and hope that by the end we're playing good soccer."

He said he will be doing a lot of substituting to find out which players play well together.

The team began the season with two games on Saturday, Aug. 25.

"We won the first against Reed City 2 to 1, we lost the second against Manistee, 2 to 0," Block said.

The Saturday split was followed by a 9-1 victory over Grayling, on Monday, Aug. 27.

Coaching this year's soccer team along with Block is assistant coach Tom Myers.

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball team aims to win league title

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

Coach Liz Grunch anticipates a successful season of growth on the Charlevoix High School varsity volleyball team.

"My goals for the season is to be competitive in all situations and to perfect consistency of fundamental skills," Grunch said.

Her team ended last year in both victory and heartbreak, with a conference win 14-0 and a loss in the district finals game to Rogers City.

Their 2006-07 conference league win was for the second year in a row and Grunch wants to continue that streak.

"Winning league is pretty big in our conference," Grunch said. "We've won a couple of years in a row. I'm hoping it's the same result this year."

Grunch takes pride in her senior players, who she said have demonstrated leadership and encourage team cooperation.

"Our seniors have a lot of experience under their belt and work very well together," Grunch said. "Underclassmen have adapted well to the increased intensity and speed of the game."

"There is an incredible amount of desire in passing and powerful hitters," she said. "Also returning is an excellent setter which will give us a very powerful, adaptable offense."

She said this year's challenges for the team are being consistent and having proper positioning on defense.

"We need to work hard and kind of develop our weaknesses into strengths, try to minimize our errors," Grunch said.

The team's first game took place in Pellston on Saturday, Aug. 25, finishing second

"It was a really good start to the season," Grunch said.

City cops use decibel reader to determine noise violations

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

This fall, tickets for excessive vehicle noise in the City of Charlevoix will be based on scientific readings rather than citizen complaints.

On Sept. 4, city council approved the purchase of a decibel reader for approximately $2,100 to be used by the city's police department in enforcing the state noise law.

A decibel reader is a handheld device that detects the amount of sound coming from a vehicle and whether that sound exceeds permissible noise levels defined in the Michigan Vehicle Noise Control Act.

Rather than creating a noise control ordinance, the city decided to enforce the state's current noise control act to crack down on excessive, disturbing sound coming from motorcycles, cars, mopeds and trucks.

"The State of Michigan vehicle code sets the standard and we would be able to enforce these numbers," said city police chief Gerard Doan.

Under this law, any driver of a vehicle creating noise above state-assigned decibels will face a civil infraction, the cost of which will be determined at a later time.

The law states, for instance, that new motorcycles and mopeds may not exceed a noise of 83 decibels at any speed. However, until Police Chief Gerard Doan conducts his noise tests, neither the city council, nor the police department, knows what noise levels above 83 decibels sounds like.

Currently, noise complaints about vehicles are based on calls to police, who come and investigate the complaints-talking to witnesses and those making the noise. With a decibel reader, if a police officer detects excessive noise the driver of the vehicle can be cited immediately.

Both Boyne City and East Jordan have local noise ordinances in place. East Jordan City police chief Daniel Reece and Boyne City police chief Randall Howard said the ordinance is enforced based on citizen complaints. Neither use decibel readers.

The City of Charlevoix Police Department now has a decibel reader (above) which will be used to enforce the state noise law. A new local ordinance which was proposed, was not adopted.

City Council approves $279,000 for fountain

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

The Downtown Development Authority might be providing an interactive water fountain for East Park if they can find a way to fund it.

After the Aug. 27 authority meeting that included discussions on ways to finance the fountain, city treasurer and then acting city manager Rick Brandi said the authority had approximately $275,000 to spend on East Park renovations, whereas estimated costs for the fountain totaled $380,000. The conclusion of those discussions was a motion to request a reimbursement of $279,000 from city council for spending on a storm sewer infrastructure project.

And on Sept. 4, the city council approved giving $279,000 to the authority for its funding of the city's storm sewer project under Mason Street.

"The storm sewer serves the whole city infrastructure. I felt that it could be looked at for funding," Brandi said.

Skaters give back

Thomas Louiselle, a frequent skateboarder and user of the Charlevoix Community Skate Park, presents Rosemary Horton from the Charlevoix Food Pantry with $200 raised by donations to a "popsicle fund." Staff purchased popsicles for the kids and in turn, if they wanted one they had to make a donation to the popsicle fund. Donations ranged from a penny up to $5. When parents of the users learned about it they made miscellaneous donations as well. A portion of concessions sales was also donated.

Charlevoix City Council

The following issues were discussed during the Monday, Sept. 4 meeting of the Charlevoix City Council

Item: Request from Colorado Challenge (Lawrence Bergmann) for support on grant

In brief: The Colorado Challenge, a week-long camping experience at Quaker Ridge Camp in Woodland Park, Colo. for teens ages 14-19 to renew their sense of well-being, maturity and faith. The camp is funded exclusively by donations and registration fees. The costs to attend camp are in excess of $600. The Colorado Challenge has asked the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians to apply 2 percent funding to their project. The Grand Traverse Band has asked the city for their support in applying these funds to the camp.

Council action: approved, unanimous

Item: Downtown Development Authority marina project financing

In brief: The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority requested reimbursement of approximately $279,000 for the storm sewer that serves the entire valley area of the city. The additional funding would also enable the authority to fund the proposed interactive water fountain. A public hearing to add the fountain to the authority's plan for renovation in the new East Park will take place at 7 p.m. Sept. 17 at 210 State St., City Hall.

Council action: Unanimously approved to reimburse $279,000 to the Downtown Development Authority for the storm sewer infrastructure project.

Item: Fostering Smart Growth land use policies

In brief: Outgoing City planner Gerry Harsch stated that some time ago the City Council authorized making an application to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation for matching funds to the Partnerships for Change project through the Land Information Access Association. The association is now ready to undertake the project which aims to preserve shoreline, address lighting issues and preserve farmland and open space and is proposing that the city council pass a resolution to participate and provide a maximum of $1,500 in local match. This will allow the project to go forward if only three of the townships agree to participate and provide $500 each in local match. Should all five townships participate, the city's match will only be $500.

Council action: Approved, unanimous

Item: Ferry Launch Ramp addendum to the agreement

In brief: An addendum was added to the Waterways Commission grant agreement for Ferry Launch Ramp improvements that was originally approved in March of this year. Additions to the agreement include insuring that all premises, buildings and equipment-related procedures comply with all applicable state and federal regulations. It also includes a word change of constructing facility improvements and providing funds, services and materials necessary, as opposed constructing facilities and providing funds, services and materials necessary.

These terms have been added to the original agreement that includes appropriating $109,608 to match a $59,999 state grant, maintaining satisfactory financial accounts, appointing the city police to regulate the use of the facilities and also, enforcing all state statutes and local ordinances pertaining to marine safety and statutes pertaining to the licensing of watercraft.

The agreement was drafted due to problems on the ramp caused by low water levels.

Council action: Approved, unanimous

Item: Noise Ordinance status report

In brief: Charlevoix police chief Gerard Doan and city attorney Jim Young have conferred on various aspects of the draft noise ordinance that would address permitted sound volumes in the city by their decibel level. Currently, the State of Michigan has adopted a decibel level to control excessive noise from motorcycles, cars and trucks. Young stated that Doan has serious concerns that the proposed ordinance with its decibel limits that go beyond motor vehicles could be used to involve the police department in neighbor disputes and significantly interfere with the discretion of his police officers to enforce the law in a reasonable manner. With the decibel meter, Young and Doan said the police department will have the tools to enforce the excessive noise limits in the state's motor vehicle code and see if this can address the concerns of the council.

Council action: Unanimously approved for the purchase of a decibel reader for approximately $2,100.

Item: Purchase of snow gun

In brief: Nub's Nob in Harbor Springs has agreed to sell its 2007 Nub's Nob Snow Gun to the City of Charlevoix in the amount of $12,500 for use at the Mount McSauba ski hill.

Council action: Approved, unanimous

Item: Federal Aviation Administration grant agreement — land acquisition and update airport master plan study

In brief: On Aug. 27, mayor Norman Carlson Jr. and city attorney Jim Young ratified a grant agreement to purchase land to update the master plan for the airport. The land is located at 06982 Old Norwood Rd. and 06964 Old Norwood Rd. in Charlevoix Township. The Federal Aviation Administration would pay 95 percent of the property cost in the amount of $905,000. The State of Michigan would pay the city's portion of the property cost in the amount of $23,816. Negotiations are still underway concerning some additional costs that will not affect this year's grant allocation.

Council action: approved, unanimous

Development authority looks to fund remaining $100,000 for fountain

Shirley Gibson asked the authority if they would be asking for the reimbursement if they weren't trying to pay for the fountain.

"Maybe not," said Mayor Norman Carlson Jr., who is a member of the Downtown Development Authority and appoints its members.

Charlevoix resident John Winn said he thought the Downtown Development Authority should get the money back.

"Storm sewers are not part of the DDA mission," Winn said.

In addition to the costs it would take to construct the fountain, the Downtown Development Authority is facing over $100,000 to construct a trout stream and add a fire hydrant to the park.

Plans for the fountain and whether the $279,000 from city council will go towards funding its construction will not be finalized until the Downtown Development Authority adds the item to their tax increment financing plan and development plan. In order for this to happen, the Downtown Development Authority must go through a series of processes, including presenting their plan to city council and setting a public hearing to discuss adding the fountain costs to the plan.

A public hearing will take place at 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 17 at City Hall, 210 State St.

STORY HIGHLIGHT

City Council agreed to reimburse the Downtown Development Authority $279,000 the authority paid for a new storm sewer in East Park. The authority plans to use this money to offset the $380,000 cost of the interactive fountain in the park. The source of the balance of the funds has yet to be determined. For the fountain project to proceed city council must approve amendments to the authority's tax increment financing and development plans. These amendments will be discussed at a public hearing at 7 p.m. on Sept. 17 at city hall.

Change of heart on fountain proposal

JUST A THOUGHT

Julie Witthoeft

Let's squash rumors right now that I'm cruising the Great Lakes in a brand new Four Winns boat.

I'm sure the word on the street is John Winn paid me off now that I've flip flopped my very vocal opposition to the proposed $380,000 interactive fountain in East Park he first proposed to the Downtown Development Authority.

Well, I don't take bribes but I do accept reason. After sitting down with Winn, city treasurer Rick Brandi and street superintendent Pat Elliott last week I see the potential benefits that come with this fountain.

My initial concerns were concrete covering potential green space, installation and maintenance costs, necessity and utility.

Here is what I now understand.

USE OF OPEN SPACE

The area where the fountain will be located is outside the harbormaster's building in the plaza at the foot of Clinton Street. This area has always been designed using pavers (no lost green space) and was initially supposed to house the trout stream. Design changes have shifted the stream south. PETA fans will be thrilled with this new stream which mimics the trout's natural habitat and will save our tan trout months of discomfort they experienced in the cesspool they used to live in.

COST

Concern number two, the fountain's $380,000 price tag is still a sore spot. My first proposal was a money saving option — pay me $30,000 a year to stand in the park with a garden hose and squirt kids as they walk by. Some argue in the grand scheme of an $11 million project it's a drop in the bucket, but proposals for the Downtown Development Authority to fund the project by borrowing from the city coffers when state revenue sharing is tenuous at best and the realities of deregulation of the city's electric system are unknown isn't prudent. City council has agreed to pay the DDA $279,000 for work they funded on the storm sewer in East Park. This money would go toward fountain costs.

Since this isn't a project the authority had planned Brandi said it stifles their ability to tackle Cool Cities initiatives. I hope in the next year to see the authority pursue those Cool Cities recommendations that don't cost big bucks. Make a decision on parking meters (pull or keep), call the Michigan Department of Transportation and see what it will take for restaurants to serve cocktails on the sidewalk and have Keith Carey develop a marketing plan to get the word out that Charlevoix has an amazing new library, city hall, high school, park and marina. We've sunk an incredible amount of cash into these facilities and now is the time to start talking about them.

UTILITY

The only reasonable argument that justifies the cost is the potential income this could generate for downtown businesses. My rebuttal was how much more will it help when its primary use will be during the summer, a time when business is booming, fountain or not. Well, uplighting included in the plan allow it to be a visual attraction in the fall and spring and calls have been made to artificial ice rink providers who are willing to rent the city a surface and skates to try out during Charlevoix's longest season — winter.

NECESSITY

My third argument, "Why do we need to shoot water from the ground when we have the best public beaches in northern Michigan?" The hope is the fountain will draw a crowd to cool off, sit back and watch, shop and dine downtown.

REMAINING CONCERN

My one remaining concern is maintenance. This fountain has been likened to a small pool. And every pool I've come across small, medium or large, requires a lot of maintenance. The fountain project requires the DDA to alter its tax increment financing plan (talks about funding) and development plan (specific projects). Changes to those plans require a public hearing which will take place at 7 p.m. on Sept. 17 at the city council meeting at city hall. I urge the community and city council to demand an estimate of annual maintenance costs before approving changes to the plans.

The science behind Charlevoix's suicidal squirrels

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

I believe I can answer the swimming squirrel conundrum.

As any scientist must, I have studied the published literature on animal behavior. I have interviewed knowledgeable people. I have collected information and I have come to a tentative conclusion. Those who do science know that their efforts, no matter how comprehensive, never provide a permanent, absolute answer. Science marches on, and there will always be better or more complete answers down the road.

Students of animal behavior have often noticed a serious tendency for young males of many different species to leave home and search for a new place to live. Female animals also leave, but they leave less often, and they travel much shorter distances before settling down. This is true in organisms as different as lions, swallows, muskrats, meadow voles, Belding ground squirrels (from California) and naked mole rats from North Africa.

Moving out of your home and a familiar home territory is dangerous. The mover is exposed to predators, potential food shortages and enormous energy expenditure compared to his live-at-home relatives. There must then be substantial benefits from such migration or dispersal. What are they? The genetic advantages of hybridization is one. The male moves to an area where it has no close relatives, and its potential offspring are likely to have the advantages of hybrid vigor. Hybrids, you may recall, are usually superior to non-hybrid animals.

Close examination of the dispersing males in many cases has revealed that they are genetically different than their stay-at-home relatives. They have what might be called an "adventurous gene" that causes the dispersal behavior. Interestingly, a gene on chromosome 11 of human beings is associated with what is called "novelty-seeking personality." We share 90 percent of our genes with most other mammals, and it is not beyond possibility that the novelty-seeking gene in humans is the same as the adventurous gene in other mammals. The same gene in humans that causes some of us to helicopter to the top of a mountain and ski down nearly vertical slopes of virgin powder or to take up sky-diving may be producing our local squirrel behavior.

The best local evidence I have against any suicide hypothesis is a communication from a carefully observing resident of the Ironton Narrows. She tells me that she has seen squirrels swim all the way across the narrows, climb up the sloping opposite shore, shake themselves like a

COUNCIL SHOULD RECONSIDER LAUNCH FEES AND LIGHTHOUSE COLOR

Editor:

I was reading the Charlevoix City Council section of the Aug. 29 edition of your paper and the item regarding waiving the launch fee for a tournament group caught my eye. The City of Charlevoix waives the launch fee for city residents which is understandable, they pay taxes. I however live three miles from town and pay a $30 per year fee to use the launch (or $5 per day), again understandable.

I am displeased to know that the city council values boaters from outside our community more than they do those who live, work and raise families here. I can appreciate the desire to bring business to the community. However, I assure you that I contribute more to the economy of this area than any of those who will be participating in this tournament, much more.

Why does the city council see a need to provide a benefit to this group from outside our community while not giving the same to the people who live here? Do you really think that this little expense will keep them from coming? I seriously doubt that. So this group will be taking over the launch and parking lot, as I have experienced in the past, and in the process interfering with those of us who hold a launch pass and our use of the launch.

In the past I have been forced to wait a considerable amount of time to launch and park about a block-and-a-half away because of the number of these tournament fishermen using the launch, for free then also I might add. It is likely, as I have chosen to do in the past based upon my experience launching during this event, I will not be fishing on those days. That means that I will not be buying fuel, food, tackle or anything else associated with fishing in this town. How many others might do the same? Are you really doing the community a service or just catering to the tourists as usual?

And while I am at it, sometimes things are changed for a reason and how it was in the past is not always better. My personal opinion, and that of others I have spoken to, is that a red lighthouse will detract from the beauty of Charlevoix. It will more likely be a giant flaming eyesore on what is now a beautiful scenery.

RETHINK PARK, STREET NAMES

Editor:

I am a third Neff generation born and raised in the City of Charlevoix. Neff Brothers 1950s gifted Round Lake docks to the City of Charlevoix. We have been continuous active Charlevoixans.

This letter is to request your vote to maintain the name East Park for the new East Park under construction.

Should you vote on newcomer initiated proposed "Bluff Avenue" instead of East Hurlbut, a more suitable name could be made.

The term "Bluff Avenue" appears to be designed towards improving social and property values. With the residences on what we call the terrace having Belvedere Avenue addresses, the term Bluff Avenue for the south side residences on East Hurlbut is not correct.

In closing, many of us old Charlevoixans who appreciated Charlevoix just the way it was have been overpowered in the community and at City Council by "newcomers" with political connections and/or big checkbooks who have nothing to do but work to impose and change what used to be unique in Charlevoix.

dog just out of the water, and scamper into the trees. That is not the image of a despondent, suicide-prone animal.

Are our local squirrel-swimmers male? I have examined a number of them that have washed up on the Lake Michigan beach north of the channel, and they were all male. Further observation would help establish our potential explanation. Close examination of their teeth (I have not done this) would help establish whether they were young or not.

It would appear that our local swimming squirrels are from the adventurous branch of their families, and are leaving home as males of all sorts commonly do. That we see them swimming means only that they have struck out for new territory, and around here that almost always means that they encounter water. We are unlikely to see the ones that disperse over the sand dunes and through the woods, but believe me they are there. They are doing what squirrels must do to maintain appropriate genetic diversity. They are not thinking about it, of course, they are only doing what their genes program them to do.

I don't know whether I am more envious of the stay-at-home squirrels with their little safe lives or the adventurous ones who risk everything for a chance at some unrelated females. I apparently do not have the gene for novelty-seeking personality. All my potentially dangerous novelty seeking was done before I was 25.

Is the human novelty-seeking gene more common among political liberals or political conservatives? Now that would be an interesting piece of research.

Volunteers prepare for 4th Annual Day of Caring

Harbor Industries and Char-Em United Way are leading the 4th annual community-wide Day of Caring, scheduled for Sept. 18.

This event promotes teamwork and gives people a taste of volunteering, while making a difference in the community.

The Day of Caring matches teams of volunteers from businesses, schools, faith communities and community groups with non-profit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties who are in need of hands-on help. Other members of the core Day of Caring/Get Involved team are Bay Winds Federal Credit Union, Huntington National Bank, Way Transportation, Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix Manufacturing and Charlevoix High School.

"We're very excited about Day of Caring 2007," Jennifer Arebambault of Harbor Industries said. "In our first year we had 70 volunteers working on seven projects, and last year that grew to 550 helping out on 35 projects throughout the two-county area. Volunteers did tasks ranging from washing senior citizens' cars, to building shelves for the Red Cross, to washing windows at the Safe Home. This year, we anticipate engaging even more volunteers and helping more agencies."

For more information, contact the Day of Caring Committee at (231) 237-6242 or e-mail getinvolved@harborind.com.

OBITUARY

Elaine Roth: June 30, 1944 - Aug. 30, 2007

Elaine L. Roth, 63, of Charlevoix, died Thursday, Aug. 30 at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

A memorial service took place on Monday, Sept. 10, at the Weathervane Restaurant, next to the bridge in Charlevoix. She was born June 30, 1944, in Saginaw to Howard F.M. and Esther E. (Lange) Gremel. Elaine graduated from Arthur Hill High School in Saginaw in 1962, earned a bachelor of science degree from Central Michigan University in 1967, and in 1972, a master of arts in special education. She spent two years teaching elementary school in Grand Blanc, and 27 years teaching special education at Arthur Hill High School in Saginaw, retiring in 1996. Most recently, she has been employed at the Bullfrog Light Company in Charlevoix.

Elaine loved to sail the North Channel with friends, Bill and Betsy Stewart. She enjoyed her three cats, Trilly, Tansy and Poppy. Most of all, she enjoyed her special education students. On Aug. 12, 1967, she married Larry L. Roth in Saginaw. Upon retiring, they made their home in Charlevoix, where Larry resides.

Elaine is also survived by her mother Esther E. Gremel; sisters, Annette (John) Boyer, Carolyn (Marvin) Turner all of Saginaw, Loretta (Harry) Meersma of Lansing; brother, Randall H. (Annmarie) Gremel of Antioch, Tenn.; special aunt, Lorna Ziegler of Saginaw.

Elaine's father Howard preceded her in death in 1982.

Memorial contributions made in memory of Elaine may be directed to the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, 1421 E. 12 Mile Rd., Madison Heights, MI 48071, or to the Charlevoix County Humane Society, 614 Beardsley St, Boyne City, MI 49712. Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling the arrangements.

Sept. 17 Walk to Remember recognizes infant deaths

When? 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 17.
Where? At the Petoskey Bayfront Park.

The Safe Crossings Pregnancy and Infant Loss Support program of Hospice of Little Traverse Bay is co-hosting with the Compassionate Friends a "Walk to Remember" on Monday, Sept. 17. This waterfront walk begins at 6:30 p.m. at the Petoskey Bayfront Park.

The walk was organized to honor all children who have left this world too soon. Fellowship and refreshments will follow the walk.

The Pregnancy and Infant Loss Support Program mission is to assist families who are suffering the loss of an infant as a result of miscarriage, premature birth or stillbirth.

The Compassionate Friends is a nonprofit, self-help support organization that assists families toward the positive resolution of grief following the death of a child of any age and to provide information to help others be supportive. It offers friendship, understanding and hope to bereaved parents, grandparents and siblings.

For more information, contact Hospice of Little Traverse Bay at (231) 487-4825 or visit hospiceltb.org.

Betty Henne retires from Charlevoix Public Schools

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

STORY HIGHLIGHT
Betty Henne, longtime English teacher and librarian with Charlevoix Public Schools who began teaching 36 years ago, recently tendered her resignation in order to travel, write and read among other things.

Following more than three decades as a teacher and librarian in Charlevoix, Betty Henne is signing out.

Henne, who began teaching 36 years ago at Clarkston Middle School, recently tendered her resignation in order to travel, write and read among other things.

She is looking forward to spending time with her son who is teaching in Zurich, Switzerland and who will be married in May in Europe and with her mother.

"Those were paramount in my decision making," she said.

Aside from writing poetry and possibly authoring children's books, Henne may edit a novel or two.

"I've had some authors that have contacted me with some interest and I would like to explore that a little bit," she said. "I do a fair amount of writing and I think maybe it gives me a better understanding of myself and people. It helps you learn a little more about yourself and just what's happening around you."

Henne, who grew up in Essexville, received her bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University with majors in English and History. She also earned a master's degree, did a summer abroad in Dublin, Ireland and attended the international reading conference in addition to raising three children, two of whom have earned a Ph.D. and one who is an orthopedic surgeon.

"Being a parent has been an important part of my life," Henne said. "And just as important, I think, has been being involved in the lives of students and encouraging them to read, because I know how important it is to their future success.

Henne, who has read hundreds and hundreds of books in her lifetime, said she became interested in the idea of teaching while in high school.

"I had just a fantastic English and American literature teacher who told me that I should go into teaching," she said. "I taught English here in Charlevoix for 20 years and then I went back and earned my master's in library science K-12 and I think it was probably a love of reading that caused me to do that."

"I've done a lot of reading. I probably read over a 100 books every summer," she said. "I liked Jane Eyre and still like it, 'The Book Thief' I loved, but there are so many."

Aside from her years teaching English, Henne is particularly proud of her involvement in the Charlevoix High School media center.

"My heart is in the media center. I designed it and I guess that makes it difficult to leave the high school," she said. "I taught classes of students how to use the Internet in various databases, I correlated the curriculum with teachers, I taught them technology skills and I had a number of student assistants in the media center who, for the first time, received grades for being assistants."

She added, "They encouraged other students to read and helped assist students in databases."

Henne even stayed late most days so students could have more time to finish projects or research.

"One thing I really enjoyed was the poetry contest and publishing student poetry and encouraging students to read their poetry at the celebration," she said.

Henne, who plans to stay active and informed, said the only thing she will likely miss is getting up early in the morning.

"I think it's a great joy to teach literature and information skills," she said. "Absolutely, there is a correlation between reading and success and all of the research is showing that certified media specialists in public libraries and high school libraries increase student achievement."

Henne added, "I think very soon there will be a requirement in No Child Left Behind to have certified media specialists at all levels and I sincerely hope that will be the future of Charlevoix schools."

First Congregational Church names new pastor

STORY HIGHLIGHT
Pastor Neil Wilson has been named the new leader of the First Congregational Church of Christ in Charlevoix. He replaces Mary Willis who left the church this summer after four years. Wilson will take over on Nov 4.

Pastor Neil Wilson and his wife Donna, currently of Cherryfield, Maine, was appointed by the congregation at First Congregational United Church of Christ on Aug. 26. He will officially take his new position on Nov. 4.

After the departure of Pastor Mary Willis this summer, the First Congregational United Church of Christ in Charlevoix has chosen a new leader, Pastor Neil Wilson.

Wilson, currently of Cherryfield, Maine, was selected as a pastoral candidate by the church's search committee before being appointed by the congregation on Aug. 26. The committee was formed in December of 2006 and consists of church members with experience in hiring people in their chosen professions.

Until starting his position in Charlevoix Nov. 4, Wilson, 52, will continue serving as both director of the Maine Seacoast Mission and as part-time pastor.

"The Maine Seacoast Mission provides for the spiritual, emotional and physical needs of people in down east Maine," Wilson said.

Wilson will be replacing Stephen Davidson, who has served as interim pastor in the time between Willis and Wilson.

"I'm sure he will serve this congregation well. He seems eminently qualified," Davidson said.

Wilson is originally from Lovell, Maine though he has spent a considerable amount of time in both Maine and Indiana as a spiritual leader. His desire to return to the Midwest was due to grandchildren currently living in Indiana and an appreciation for northwest Michigan.

"There is some resemblance to Maine," Wilson said.

He said the opportunity to lead the First Congregational Church on Aug. 26 gave him a good impression of its members.

"I was looking for a church that is very community-minded," Wilson said. "When I spoke there, I got a strong sense of a church that is gaining a clear sense of purpose and can see themselves moving into the future."

At 28 years old, Wilson was working with his brother in the logging and Christmas tree business when he felt the calling to become a full-time pastor.

"It was a very clear call to church-based ministry," he said.

Already married and active in the church as a deacon, he decided to quit the logging industry and return to school to get his bachelor's and master's degree to be ordained as pastor.

As someone with a family, he and his wife Donna have approached his calling as a couple.

"We often do it together, as a team," Wilson said. "We're not both ordained but we see ourselves as spiritual leaders."

His calling introduced him to the Midwest, and eventually to picking Michigan as his new home. Wilson performed his master's studies at the Earlham School of Religion in Indiana. However, academics did not come easily with a family to raise. Wilson said it took him nine years to complete his bachelor's degree, six years to complete his master's.

"In the meantime, I was a licensed minister," Wilson said.

Wilson describes himself as a hands-on spiritual leader.

"Because of my background working outdoors, I'm comfortable meeting people where they are," Wilson said.

He said he likes to visit people regularly in their homes

Between now and November, Pastor Davidson will be preparing the church for Wilson's arrival.

Search committee member and parishioner Barb Clagett said, "He's (Wilson) so solid and so well grounded, really a man of faith, not into himself. I love the church very much and just wanted to find someone who fits the church's needs and the person's needs."

In honor of the First Congregational Church's 125-year presence in the community, Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. declared Sept. 16 First Congregational Church of Christ Day. The church will be holding a celebration in honor of the anniversary.

Greensky Harvest Dinner is Sept. 22

Greensky Hill United Methodist Indian Mission Church will host a harvest dinner.

The event will take place from 4 to 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 22 at the church, located off Old U.S. 31 North.

The cost is $9 per adult and $4 per child under 10 years old.

The menu will include turkey, ham, mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, squash, corn, green beans, creamed cabbage, fresh tomatoes, beets, cranberry sauce, bread and butter pickles, rolls and pie.

The members of First Congregational United Church of Christ in Charlevoix will celebrate their 125th birthday on Sunday, Sept. 16.

The celebration to recognize this milestone and celebrate the founders' many contributions will begin with the morning worship service at 11 a.m. A highlight of the service will be the recognition of those people who have been members for 50 and 75 years. State Representative, Jason Allen and State Senator Kevin Elsenheimer will be on hand to present proclamations commemorating the day. A proclamation declaring Sept. 16 First Congregational Church UCC of Charlevoix Day by Charlevoix mayor Norman Carlson Jr. will also be read.

Following the service a brunch will be served in Ransom Hall at the church. There is no charge. Free-will donations will be accepted.

The afternoon activities will include a dramatic presentation depicting historical milestones and interesting tidbits of the first 100 years of the church followed by a slide presentation of the significant events of the last 25 years. An additional attraction will be a display of the church's artifacts combined with items on loan from the Charlevoix Historical Society's Harsha House Museum.

The community is invited to join in this celebration. Those interested in attending are asked to call the church at (231) 547-9122, to reserve a place at the brunch.

Anglers search for big bass this week

BY STEFANIE CARANO
STAFF WRITER

This weekend, people from all over Michigan will be coming to Charlevoix to compete in the sport of bass fishing at the 2007 Johnson Outdoors Northern Championship Bass Tournament.

Sponsored by the Competitive Anglers Tournament Trail, based in Kalamazoo, the event will take place from Wednesday, Sept. 12 to Saturday, Sept. 15. The tournament will be based at the city boat launch at Ferry Beach on Lake Charlevoix.

"We're an amateur, semi-professional trail," said Jerry Bastian, president of the tournament. "Bass fishing is the second-largest growing sport next to NASCAR."

Practice days for the tournament are Sept. 12 and 13. Registered anglers fishing from now until the official practice day will be automatically disqualified from the event.

The actual competition spans over two days, Sept. 14 and 15. Bastian said approximately 150 participants in 75 boats will be fishing Lake Charlevoix's waters for the highest weighing bass. Lake Michigan will be closed to the competition in order to ensure fairness. Those with the highest total weight for two days receive the grand prize of a $25,000 Nitro/Mercury boat package.

The package and other awards will be presented at the city ramp on Saturday.

Chamber of Commerce President Jacqueline Merta, who invited the tournament to Charlevoix, is anticipating additional revenue for area businesses from tournament participants.

"I think it will be a revenue-generator for Charlevoix's business community," Merta said. "The tournament will be headquartered at Charlevoix Inn & Suites and participants will also be staying at other accommodations throughout the city."

She said this additional revenue will improve the shoulder season. The shoulder season is a time of year when the local economy is slower than during the peak tourist season but not as slow as the off-season. She said this is usually during the months of September,' October, May and June.

Bastian said the tournament will be "catch and release."

All boats have live wells pumped full of water and contain a chemical called Rejuvenade. Rejuvenade, he said, preserves the life of the bass and the protective antibiotic layer of their skin.

The fish are weighed and released into the water.

"We take care of the fish better than anyone else out there," he said.

Tickets on sale for Sept. 15 Bids for Blooms event

Bids for Blooms, a Keep Charlevoix Beautiful fundraising event, will take place from 6 p.m. to midnight on Saturday, Sept. 15 at the Belvedere Casino.

At the event, guests will enjoy a wide array of complimentary hors d'oeuvres and desserts donated by local merchants, live music provided by Yankee Station and a cash bar.

Highlighting the evening will be the silent auction.

Proceeds from the event will benefit Keep Charlevoix Beautiful which celebrated its 25th anniversary this year. The group's primary project is purchasing, planting and watering the petunias that line Bridge Street. The petunia planting effort, called Operation Petunia, takes place the Thursday before Memorial Day. The operation has grown to include 1,130 flats of flowers planted in one hour by approximately 1,000 volunteers under the supervision of 25 block captains. The group also donates 62 hanging baskets of petunias which hang from lampposts throughout the central business district. All of this is made possible by fundraising efforts like Bids for Blooms.

Official Notice

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
CHARLEVOIX CITY COUNCIL
PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Monday, September 17, 2007, 7:00 p.m.
Council Chambers, City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI

REGARDING THE ADOPTION OF A PROPOSED ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE DEVELOPMENT AND TAX INCREMENT FINANCING PLAN OF THE CHARLEVOIX DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

PLEASE TAKE NOTE that the Charlevoix City Council will hold a public hearing on a proposed ordinance to amend the Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority on Monday, September 17, 2007 at 7:00 p.m. in the Charlevoix City Hall Council Chambers located at 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan.

The purpose of the public hearing is to consider an ordinance which adds Section 1.305 of Chapter 7, Title I of the Charlevoix City Code to amend the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority's Development Plan and Tax Increment Financing Plan. The proposed amendment does not result in the relocation of any families or individuals from the Development Area.

The public hearing will consider the proposed Sixth Amendment of the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan which will add the following item to the DDA's Development Plan:

> Interactive Water Fountain – The Interactive Water Fountain will be located in the Harbormaster Plaza. Jets of water will leap out of the plaza and disappear back into the plaza surface. Children of all ages will be able to splash and play in the fountains while others can view the water display from the roof of the gardens of the Harbormaster building and in the Harbormaster Plaza. The Fountain will be an attraction to a wide range of audiences and located at the north end of the park. The Fountain will not interfere with performances taking place at the Pavilion.

A copy of the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority with maps and copies of the proposed amendment to the plan are available for public inspection, Monday through Friday, at the office of the Charlevoix City Clerk, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan during regular business hours. All aspects of the proposed amendment to the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan, as well as the entire Plan of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will be open for discussion at the public hearing.

Interested citizens can make comments at the public hearing or written comments may be sent to the City Clerk's Office, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720.

New VFW commander takes over

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Tom Browe

Vietnam veteran Tom Browe is the newly elected commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post 1153 in Charlevoix.

Browe, who took over for former commander Charlie Butcher in July, said he is excited about the opportunity.

"I feel really optimistic. We're going to try a few things to try to get new members," he said.

The VFW's membership has dwindled, in part, Browe said, because the local post isn't active enough.

"Right now we have a meeting once a month and that's it," he said. "In today's society you need to offer something, you need to give people a reason to come out and be a member."

Former post commander Charlie Butcher said it is good to see some Vietnam veterans back in the post.

"I wanted Tom, absolutely. I have been trying for several years, even while we were rebuilding the post, to get the Vietnam veterans back into the post," he said. "They deserve to be there, and, the rest of us are World War II veterans and we're getting old and the post needs to survive."

He added, "With the new post building and all, I think it is only appropriate that we eventually have new management."

Butcher, who recently turned 80, said he looks forward to more free time.

"I'm glad to be laying down the responsibilities," he said. "I think we're going along in great shape."

The duties of Browe's one-year term include running meetings, reporting to the state and ensuring smooth operation of the post.

"I'm looking to grab a whole bunch of new, young members," he said. "We need younger members, we need new ideas and we need to know what they want."

He added, "And, we need to make it more family oriented."

Any veteran of a foreign war may contact Browe at (231) 675-2193.

Everything must go

(Above, from left) Bergmann Center attendees Patricia S., Julia F. and Jamie S. sort items for the center's annual rummage sale. This year a pre-sale snoop for buyers who just cannot wait for the regular sale date will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 18. The three-day sale will then take place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the 20, 21 and 22. On the 27 and 28, everything must go during the dollar-a-bag sale. The Bergmann Center, located at 08855 Martin Rd., is still accepting furniture and miscellaneous household items for the sale. Funds raised during the sale are used for trips for those who attend the center. Call 547-2979 for more information on how to donate.

THERE ARE GOOD REASONS WHY
PUBLIC NOTICE
APPEARS IN YOUR NEWSPAPER.

Currently, and historically, it is the responsibility of state and local government to publish public and legal notices here in Michigan's newspapers. This paper you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. And its pages hold your right to know what the government is doing in your community. In fact, it's law.

In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. That is why you have, and read, your newspaper, where public notices are published with accountable circulation and presented to you on these pages in clear black and white.

Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...

DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.

Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding you life.

A Seminar with Experts

DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life.

During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support group that meets on Thursday evenings, from 7-9p.m. starting September 13th thru December 13th (join anytime) at the "Servants Quarters." 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.)

231-675-1925

After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

Road work continues through the end of the month

Drivers were confused by last week's detour that moved southbound traffic off of Bridge Street and onto State Street. Here, at the intersection of Antrim and State streets drivers were confused by the lack of stop sign for State Street traffic. Many stopped anyway. No accidents were reported and construction was completed on Friday, Sept. 7. Curbing was added at the intersection of Bridge and Mason streets and a fire hydrant was installed. More confusion can be expected through the end of the month as the Michigan Department of Transportation continues its project.

The Michigan Department of Transportation is expected to continue construction on U.S. 31 and M-66 through Sept. 28.

Road work is being done on U.S. 31 from Barnard Road to Lewis Street in the City of Charlevoix and on M-66 from Wickersham Road to U.S. 31.

Work includes milling, resurfacing, joint repairs, pavement markings and shoulder repairs on stretches of road totaling 4.6 miles.

No work will be permitted on Sundays.

Traffic will be maintained through the use of daytime lane closures controlled by flaggers.

No overweight loads will be allowed in the construction areas.

For more information, call Judy Browning at the Michigan Department of Transportation's Traverse City Transportation Service Center, (231) 941-1986.

on the JOB with Scott Hankins

Courier editor Julie Witthoeft tries her hand at law enforcement ...

Name: Scott Hankins

Age: 42

Occupation: City of Charlevoix police officer

Title: Deputy Chief of Police

Work history: Started at 18 as a policeman in the U.S. Army. Spent six months with the Kalkaska Sheriff's Department and one year with the City of East Jordan Police Department before joining the City of Charlevoix on June 11, 1990.

Job description: Patrol work, assisting other officers and administrative duties including major case investigations, managing the evidence room and developing weekly schedules for the department's six patrolmen.

Why did you choose police work? "I feel called to do this job."

Majority of issues dealt with: Financial crimes, traffic enforcement, alcohol related offenses and domestic violence.

"There's no crime that occurs in Detroit that doesn't happen in Charlevoix. They just don't occur as often."

Unique aspect of the job? "In this job you see people at their absolute worst. Most of the time when the police show up something bad is going on."

Have you ever felt your life was in jeopardy? "There have been two times in my 18 years as a police officer that I've felt in grave danger. One of those times was the night I got hit (while directing traffic at the intersection of Park Avenue and Bridge Street on Venetian Saturday, July 28). When I looked and saw the headlights coming, I knew I was going to get hit. I went up onto the hood, down the driver's side and smashed my leg on the mirror."

Hankins estimated the driver was traveling 25 mph at the time of the incident. He was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital where multiple x-rays were taken of his hand, shoulders and leg. These showed no broken bones. He returned to work on Aug. 1.

"The second time I felt my life was in danger was at 1:29 a.m. on Nov. 3, 1991. I walked in on an armed robbery at the Weathervane Hotel. I got a call that a truck was driving around without its headlights on in the vicinity of the hotel. When I walked in, I saw the suspect tying the clerk up on the floor. He pointed his 20 gauge shotgun at me. I shot and missed. Two officers I was with took the guy into custody and sent him to prison."

What's the hardest part of your job? "Death cases involving kids and notifying spouses that their husband or wife has died. Those are hard things to do. You have to detach yourself emotionally."

What is the one thing you could not do your job without? "Without a sense of purpose. Without knowing I'm doing something worthwhile."

Reporter's experience: After signing a waiver saying the city wasn't liable for my life, Scott and I cruised the south side of Charlevoix during a driving rain storm. Experiencing the police beat from the front seat of the squad car was interesting. Many passersby watched the car closely and waved while others hit their brakes and avoided eye contact. Handling his gun and Taser was a no, no but Hankins was nice enough to let me try on his hat signed by the members of Trick Pony who performed in Charlevoix during Venetian Festival 2006.

Charlevoix Courier editor Julie Witthoeft tries new occupations and writes about her findings in "On the job" which features Charlevoix residents working in Charlevoix. This feature appears the second Wednesday of the month in the Charlevoix Courier.

Northern Michigan Review has launched Search Northern Michigan, a new search engine which can be accessed through the Courier site at www.charlevoixcourier.com or directly at www.northernmichigansearch.com.

Everything you need to know about northern Michigan is now just a mouse click away on the Charlevoix Courier's Web site.

Northern Michigan Review, the company that owns the Courier, the Petoskey News-Review, the Gaylord Herald Times and PhoneGuide, has launched Search Northern Michigan, a new search engine.

"You can get all the information you need by starting at our site," Peter Comings, online media manager for Northern Michigan Review, said. "Before we were the place to go for news and to some degree entertainment, never as a search. If it wasn't in print it wasn't going online. This is an online search that goes beyond our company's properties to be all-inclusive and give people a broad idea as to what there is to do up here."

The search engine which can be accessed through the Courier site at www.charlevoixcourier.com or directly at www.northernmichigansearch.com, covers the northern Lower Peninsula and eastern Upper Peninsula from Traverse City to Alpena and West Branch to Newberry.

It will search by keyword in a number of categories including news, business directory, classifieds and events and gives users the option of searching all categories at once. So if golf is the keyword the search will produce listings for golf supplies and courses as well as the latest news golf related news and events.

"The reason it's defined that way is it's designed for people who live or visit up here. We want to give them the benefit of being able to search local resources. If you are coming from southern Michigan to visit here you don't care what's available in southern Michigan. Go to this site to get an idea of what there is out there to answer to your desires," Comings said.

Dance studio opens at South Side Gym

"I'll provide dance instruction and technique that allows students to develop skills in a friendly, disciplined environment," Pemble said. "I feel dance provides a medium for self expression and allows young people to experience joy with movement. Dance is a discipline that students of all ages and interests can participate in. It is very gratifying to teach students. When they conquer a series of steps and realize what they have accomplished it makes all the hard work worthwhile."

Pemble, who has taught competitive dance students, received a minor in dance while obtaining a master's degree in physical therapy from Oakland University. She has choreographed award-winning pieces at state and national levels in jazz, tap and ballet. Recently, she was co-owner of Center Stage School of Dance, a dance studio in Petoskey for five years.

Classes will be taught in six-week sessions and include Kinderdance (ages 3-5); jazz, tap and ballet (ages 6-8, 9-12); and teen tap and jazz (ages 13 and up).

Kinderdance and Teen Jazz classes meet on Tuesdays beginning Sept. 18, and all other classes will be held on Wednesdays beginning Sept. 19.

Registration will take place from 5 to 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 13 at South Side Gym, located at 6907 Marion Center Rd. in Charlevoix. There is a $5 registration fee per student. The fee for the six-week session for classes that meet for 45 minutes is $60 and $48 for classes that meet for 30 minutes. Payment is due at registration.

For more information, call (231) 547-0246.

Rayders kickoff season with a loss to Gladiators

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix Rayders experienced their third loss of the year as they went head to head with Traverse City St. Francis last Friday.

The Gladiators rolled over Charlevoix with a score of 28-15 leaving the Rayders with a regular season record of 0-1.

"Our kids played hard tonight (Friday, Sept. 7) against a very good St. Francis team," said varsity coach Don Jess. "They showed a lot of heart and I was proud of them."

He added, "We'll keep working hard in practice and be ready to play at East Jordan on Friday."

Charlevoix quarterback Cliff Jones was 17-24 for 143 yards with two touchdowns.

Brock Yenglin also had a touchdown reception.

Rayder defense was once again led by linebackers Kyle Jones and Jake Rankl. Rankl had 15 tackles and Kyle Jones had 13. Nate Golovich recovered a fumble and Justin Klooster forced a fumble.

Charlevoix meets the Red Devils at 7 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 14 in East Jordan.

Rayder football lost 28-15 to Traverse City St. Francis on Sept. 7. (Above) Kyle Jones makes a big gain in the first half. (Left) Charlevoix's defense knocks St. Francis running back Dan Brick off his feet after a short gain in the first half. Unfortunately explosive plays like these weren't enough to pull out the win.

Charlevoix boys take third at Mud Run

Blaise Henning was the individual winner as Petoskey's boys' teams — divided into 9-10th and 11-12th-grade — won the Mud Run in Charlevoix on Saturday, Sept. 8 with a combined time of 1 hour, 29 minutes, 2 seconds.

Ellsworth's boys' team was second in 1:34:33; Charlevoix third, 1:34:47; Harbor Springs fourth, 1:35:08; Inland Lakes 13th, 2:27:02; and East Jordan 16th, 3:05:17, in the 17-team field.

Gaylord won the girls' race in 1:46:15, with Petoskey third, 1:52:07; Harbor Springs sixth, 1:55:26; Charlevoix ninth, 2:03:34; Ellsworth 13th, 2:07:27; East Jordan 15th, 2:23:56; and Inland Lakes 16th, 2:28:55, out of the 19 teams running.

Ellsworth's Ashton Fisher was second overall in 17:17, and was joined in the top 10 of the 11-12 race by teammate Ruben Oviedo, eighth in 18:05. Also for the Lancers, Justin Weis was 12th, Aaron Miller 20th and Burton Jones 38th.

Charlevoix had two top 10 finishers in the 11-12 race. Nick Wimmer was fifth in 17:36, and Alex Buday, seventh, 17:58. The Rayders' Eric Buday won the 9-10 race in 18:50, while teammate Neil Salisbury was sixth, 20:10; and Doug Reynolds was eighth, 20:13.

The Charlevoix Stingrays are a year-round swim team. Stingray swimmers range in age from 6-18. A Stingrays parent information night will take place at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 12 at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool.

The Blue Group (for those 6 years old and older) will meet from 4:15 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays from Sept. 25 through Oct. 30 and from Nov. 6 through Dec. 18. Blue Group members must be able to swim the length of the pool. The focus is on stroke development and introduction to competitive swimming. Home swim meet participation is encouraged. The cost for this group is $40 per person in district and $43 for those living outside the district.

The Gold Group (for those ages 8-13) will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on two of three available weekdays, Monday, Wednesday and Friday from Sept. 24 through Nov. 1 and from Nov. 5 through Dec. 19. This group is for swimmers who know all four competitive strokes. Swimmers will continue work on stroke technique while beginning some endurance and competitive training. Home swim meet participation is encouraged. The cost for this group is $55 per person per session in district and $58 per session for those living outside the district.

The Silver Group (for those age 10 and older) meets three days a week from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from Sept. 24 through Nov. 1 and from Nov. 5 through Dec. 19. This group is designed for swimmers with competitive experience. Swim meet participation is encouraged. The cost for this group is $70 per person per session in district and $73 per session for those living outside the district.

The Senior Group, is a new addition (for those age 10 and up). It meets from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday from Sept. 24 through Nov. 1 and from Nov. 5 through Dec. 19. This group is designed for swimmers with competitive experience. Swimmers will continue work with endurance and competitive swimming. Swimmers will also track yardage, participate in dry land training and nutrition education. Swim meet participation is essential to take full advantage of this program. The cost for this group is $90 per person per session in district and $95 per session for those living outside the district or $300 per person per season (Sept. 24 through March 24, 2008) in district and $330 per session for those living outside the district.

On Saturday, Charlevoix beat Cheboygan and Northport in pool play to make the quarterfinals. In the quarterfinals they beat Frankfort 25-20 and 25-20 to make the semi-finals. In semi-final action the Rayders overcame a tough Traverse City Central Team 25-21 and 15-3 to go on to the finals where they beat Suttons Bay 25-22 and 17-15 for the title.

Leading the Rayders was Murphy Gillespie with 38 kills, 21 digs and three aces. Other key players include Desi Faust who had 37 kills, nine aces and 35 digs. Aubrey Way had 95 assists, 11 kills, 18 digs and four aces.

Tanya Wynkoop, Marnie Greene and Alyssa McCormack were all 100 percent from the service line.

"It was a really productive day for us — not just because of the win but we came together as a team and never gave up. We just keep improving our mental game. I am really proud of my players on how hard they played and battled until the end, head coach, Liz Grunch said.

The tournament win followed the team's Sept. 6 victory over league rival Traverse City St. Francis.

Gillespie had 13 kills, six digs and had a perfect serve receive percentage in the Rayder volleyball team's 25-22, 25-22, 25-14 victory over Traverse City St. Francis.

"The team played very well together and they keep improving with every team they face. I was really proud of my girls tonight because they came out with a lot of drive and kept it up until the last ball hit the floor," Grunch said.

Way ended the Thursday game with 27 assists and five digs. Tammy Potter had six kills, Faust had five and Shauna Spencley added four. Michelle Burke ended with a game high nine digs and two aces. Taylor Storm and Faust had six digs each.

Charlevoix lost the JV match, 18-25, 9-25, 12-15.

Their next game will take place at 6 p.m. on Sept. 13 at Charlevoix High School when they face Kalkaska.

The wins bring the team to 15–3– 2 overall and 1-0 in their league.

The Rayder tennis team fell to Petoskey 5-4 on Aug. 23 and beat Boyne City 6-1 on Sept. 6.

Coach Erik Lundteigen said, "We're every young, we've a got lot of inexperienced players. There's lot of progress to make. But it doesn't matter how we start the year, we just have to keep improving for that one day event (conference meet) at the end of the year."

Individual results were:

- First, singles: Alex McKenzie lost to Petoskey 8-1.
- Second, singles: Alex McKenzie won against Boyne City 8-0.
- First, singles: Mike Pelon won against Boyne City 8-4.
- Second, singles: Mike Pelon lost to Petoskey 8-2.
- Third, singles: John Hart lost to Petoskey 8-5.
- Third, singles: John Hart won against Boyne City 8-1.
- Fourth, singles: William Larson lost to Petoskey 8-6.
- Fourth, singles: Zack Smith won against Boyne City 8-2.
- First, doubles: Scotty Silberhorn and Kevin Greyerbiehl won against Petoskey 8-1.
- First, doubles: Scotty Silberhorn and Kevin Greyerbiehl lost against Boyne City 8-6.
- Second, doubles: Michael Heckendorn and John Drenth won against Boyne City 8-5.
- Second, doubles: Robbie Rundblad and Zack Smith lost against Petoskey 8-2.
- Third, doubles: Amy Pelon and Christina Miller won against Petoskey 8-0.
- Third, doubles: Amy Pelon and Christina Miller won against Boyne City 8-0.
- Fourth, doubles: Michael Heckendorn and John Drenth won against Petoskey 8-0.
- Fourth, doubles: Matt Murray and Robbie Rundblad won against Boyne City 8-2.
- Fifth doubles: John Saur and David Left won against Petoskey 8-3.
- Fifth doubles: John Saur and David Left lost against Boyne City 6-4.

The tennis team plays Elk Rapids on Wednesday and at the Boyne Invitational Friday. Lundteigen said tight practice leading into the two will help them be successful.

HIT YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE

Newspapers deliver an involved, dedicated audience. An electronic media buy often contains a lot of waste — people who are just too far away to be your prime prospects — while newspapers deliver the people most likely to do business with you, right where they live and work.

Swift winds bring home Red Fox sailors in record time

On Sept. 1 and 2, 82 sailboats from all over Michigan raced from Charlevoix to Boyne City at the Charlevoix Yacht Club's 38th Annual Red Fox Regatta.

The boats ranged in size from 22 to 80 feet and included catamarans and monohulls.

The course is 21 miles. On Sept. 1, sailors raced from Charlevoix to Boyne City and returned to Charlevoix the next day. High winds reaching over 30 knots on Sunday, Sept. 2, sped things up with boats completing the course by 2:15 p.m. The first starts that day were at 11:05 a.m.

Results are as follows:

Division 1, JAM 1: First place, Rampant; second place, Exitus; third place, Fury.

Division 2, JAM 2: First place, Mystify; second place, Sonnet; third place, First Light.

Division 3, PHRF: First place, Lost Vermonter; second place, Original Sin; third place, Cygnus.

Division 4, PHRF: First place, Paleface Lite; second place, Thunderstruck; third place, Suzy Q.

Exitus crew take second in JAM 2

BOAT PROFILE

Boat name: Exitus

Design: 1990 Catalina 28

Year with the Charlevoix Yacht Club: Fifth

History: Exitus is the result of a multi-year "perfect boat" search by Bob and Gay Pung. Looking for a smaller, racier boat took them around the state looking at boat after boat until Exitus was found. It was love at first sight. Most of the crew has been together for over two years and is really starting to gel.

Courtesy photo

Exitus

Crew: Matt Uehlein (foredeck and part-time helmsman), Beth McPhail (headsail trimmer), Jennifer Richardson (mainsail trimmer and part-time helmsman), Derek Chowen (co-skipper) and Bob Pung (skipper).

Word from the skipper: "Racing is a great sport that teaches skills that apply on and off the water. Try to get involved even a little bit and you will be amazed at the fun you will have and the life-long friends you will make."

The Downtown Development Authority's fountain proposal was met with overwhelming support from city council and the community on Monday night, Sept. 17.

"If we don't do this now, we are all going to feel the shoulda, coulda, woulda. This will enhance what we are all trying to achieve," said Gina Whitney, a former Downtown Development Authority member and owner of Whitneys of Charlevoix.

First Ward Charlevoix City Councilman Lyle Gennett agreed and said with the po-

Each year Chinook salmon swim furiously upstream to reach their final resting place, the Medusa Creek weir. The weir was set up on Sept. 6. Then, one week later, on Thursday, Sept. 13 the local Department of Natural Resources Great Lakes Fisheries Research Station partnered with a West Coast company called American Canadian for the first harvest of salmon meat and eggs for processing at a plant in Bear Lake.

According to Jeff Stevens, a trades helper with the Fisheries Research Station in Charlevoix, this first harvest was a low one yielding 475

Earth, Wind, Rain and Fire is the theme for this year's Charlevoix High School Homecoming celebration.

The festivities, which kick off Sunday, Sept. 23 with the float-building frenzy, will culminate with the homecoming dance on Saturday, Sept. 29.

Two of the following high school students will be crowned homecoming king and queen at half-time of the Sept. 28 football game when the Rayders face Elk Rapids.

Caution, road work

The Michigan Department of Transportation started road work on Thursday, Sept. 12. Paine and Dolon milled and filled the highway from Lewis Street out to Barnard Road. Thursday they completed the section from Lewis up to Burger King. Then on Friday they did the other side of the road in the same section. They then continued to work south from there. While the crews are working in the downtown area there will be no parking available on Bridge Street. The Michigan Department of Transportation is expected to continue construction on U.S. 31 and M-66 through Sept. 28. Road work is being done on U.S. 31 from Barnard Road to Lewis Street in the City of Charlevoix and on M-66 from Wickersham Road to U.S. 31. Work includes milling, resurfacing, joint repairs, pavement markings and shoulder repairs on stretches of road totaling 4.6 miles. To voice complaints or inquire further, call Steve Secor of Paine and Dolon at (906) 280-6150.

Council approves DDA fountain plan

tential economic impact of this project this is an opportunity Charlevoix can't pass up.

"I can't think of one thing you could possibly put in a park that would have this kind of draw," he said.

The public hearing to amend the authority's tax increment financing and development plans to include the East Park fountain project was packed. City Council ultimately approved the amendments with Second Ward councilman Gene Beer delivering the lone nay vote.

"It's (the fountain project) just ridiculous. There's other projects that can be done to drive more business into the city," Beer said.

While Beer didn't support the fountain project, the majority of those in attendance did. Reservations as to its maintenance costs and financing were addressed by mayor Norman Carlson Jr.

According to Carlson, the fountain's estimated cost is between $280,000 and $380,000. The area where the fountain will be located is a 30 foot by 34 foot oval outside the harbormaster's building in the plaza at the foot of Clinton Street. This area was initially supposed to house the trout pond. Design changes have shifted what is now a trout stream, south. Discussions of kid friendly materials being used in construction and the inclusion of a water heating element to extend its use into spring and fall took place and will be decided during the final design process.

Carlson explained the four sources of funding with the authority shelling out $200,000, $100,000 coming from grants and private donations and $80,000 being drawn from the marina fund. Fund-raising efforts will have to be done quickly as Carlson announced the fountain will open with the park by Memorial Day 2008.

"Not $1 of general taxpayer dollars is being used for this," he said.

Maintenance costs were estimated at $362 per week during the 15 to 23 weeks it's operational. This covers electricity, water, chemical agents and labor. A cost of $400 per year to pay for replacement filters and gaskets was also estimated. An additional $1,500 will be spent every 10 years to replace and maintain skid components.

While this project was met with public approval and an all around "Let's do it for the kids" attitude, there was also sentiment expressed that the authority begin to shift its focus.

"It's time someone started looking for new jobs. Look at ways to bring people to town and keep them here," owner of Charlevoix Cinema III, Bill Supernaw, said. "Thank you for the job you've done in the DDA district. Now let's move on to the rest of the town."

Top fountain concerns and responses:

Funding The four sources are Downtown Development Authority (DDA) with $200,000; $100,000 from grants and private donations; and $80,000 from the marina fund.

Maintenance costs were estimated at $362 per week during the 15 to 23 weeks it's operational; $400 per year to pay for replacement filters and gaskets; $1,500 every 10 years to replace and maintain skid components. All to be paid by the DDA.

Noise Mayor Carlson polled boaters, the majority of who support the project and said noise is a moot point.

Insurance No increase required.

Wind/spray A computer will monitor the wind and adjust the fountain's height and strength accordingly.

Visibility Mayor Carlson said the center spray reaches 15 feet in height and the fountain will be visible from the lower two tiers of the park "at least."

It's time for Operation Dine-n-Dash

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

At risk of being labeled un-American or, worse yet, a hippy, I've decided to opine on the war, and while I've been known to hear a voice or two, God did not tell me to do it. So brew up a fresh pot of Kool-Aid, comb your beard and line your birdcage with the latest edition of the Petraeus report, it's towel time.

I'm far too vengeful to call for all out peace, but attacking a country without the means or plans to do us harm is far from responsible use of the military.

Traditionally, if you disagree with war, no matter how arbitrary and unjust, as Nazi Herman Goering pointed out, you are less of a citizen.

"Of course the people don't want war. But after all, it's the leaders of the country who determine the policy, and it's always a simple matter to drag the people along whether it's a democracy, a fascist dictatorship, or a parliament, or a communist dictatorship," Goering said. "All you have to do is tell them they are being attacked, and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism, and exposing the country to greater danger."

Flip on the TV or radio and you'll see tyrannical tricksters change little over the years as melodramatic spots, one featuring the mother of a slain soldier, tell us America doesn't need another 9/11 and we must win the war in Iraq to remain free.

Better yet is, what I am sure was unintentional irony, when George W. Bush said, "Free nations don't attack each other. Free nations don't develop weapons of mass destruction," nearly 10 months after the second largest producer of WMD, us, attacked Iraq without provocation.

Resisting the urge to bludgeon myself with a statuette of Darwin until I was stupid enough to understand this madness, I wrote to W. and told him if he wants to play wartime president so badly, he can borrow my PS2 and war games, it's the closest you can come to armchair soldiering without getting bloody.

Don't get me wrong, I don't want another 9/11, and that's why we should focus bombs and billions on our attack dog gone bad, Osama Bin Laden.

I can see our leaders' refusal to end the war, after all, how can Rummy, Condi and W. go to the parents of thousands of perished soldiers and say, "Oops."

The hapless hawks screech about the dangers of dissent, yet distaste of the government has nothing to do with a love of capitalism or the constitution.

If you feel the need to abuse our troops by sending them on fool's errands in the name of protecting our freedoms and then admonish those who engage in those freedoms, perhaps you should lay off the paint chips and try snacking on some freedom fries instead.

Patriotism is love of country, not blind devotion to bean counters and policy writers.

Another argument of those eager to spill every last drop of someone else's blood is that we cannot set a withdrawal date lest the enemy wait us out. That pretty much leaves us with two options: eternal occupation or abruptly leaving by night. We could be over the Straight of Hormuz before morning prayer — they'd never know what didn't hit them — and with Operation Dine-n-Dash we could stop dumping billions to rebuild stuff we just flattened.

Don't get me wrong, some among us hate the USA and its military, but doesn't it stand to reason that they, not opponents of unprovoked aggression, are more apt to support operations where soldiers of an America, mired in militarism, will die unnecessarily in the Mideast?

What U.S. liberty was had by deposing Saddam? Which American freedoms were defended in Fallujah? Where is the bravery in bombing Baghdad?

The world will never resemble a utopian model, a fact which makes a strong military necessary. For our own self-interest we should keep our troops from suicide missions masterminded by cocksure charlatans obsessed with a niche in history and save them for more tangible threats.

Wall treatments can make bold statements

DR. DÉCOR

Barbara Kopitz

There are many ways to adorn the walls in our homes. Typically, we paint them and then hang artwork, family photographs, mirrors, clocks, etc.

Another interesting way to decorate our walls is with wallpaper. Though its use dates back to 18th century when royalty and the upper classes surrounded themselves with wonderfully designed handmade wallpapers, its appeal has gone in and out of fashion over the years.

The wallpaper industry has regularly predicted its rise again and again, but during the 1990s the use of decorative painted wall finishes became so popular that the use of wallpapers had its most serious decline. However, I think the industry's prediction will come true this time. People are looking for richer backgrounds beyond the painted finishes they found with ragging, sponging and marbleizing.

Wallpapers today offer a huge variety of choices ranging from simple background papers to complex textures, from small and large patterns to murals.

All types of wallpaper can stand alone as a wall treatment, but large patterns and murals, in particular, negate the need for any other adornment. On the other hand, many small patterned wallpapers make excellent backgrounds for our artwork and collections.

I personally love finding wallpapers that can be used as a background for wall art or wall accessories. Naturally, any plain or textured paper can provide a background for these hangings, but I love using small patterned wallpaper as a background for art too. .

For our new home in Charlevoix I've used a variety of wall treatments, including a stripe, a pattern and a border with a vine print for the laundry room. All of these will easily hold artwork. Above a wide doorway in the living room I've used lettering on the wall from an online company called Wall Words (www.wallwords.com).

I love my Wall Words phrase. The vinyl lettering looks like it's hand painted. They are four inches high and hung over French doors leading into a sun room. I chose raspberry colored letters to apply over our blue walls. It says, "Sit Long. Talk Much, Laugh Often."

Wall Words are pre-pasted and pre-spaced transfer letters. You peel the words off a strip of paper directly onto the wall. They say it's easy to hang, but I had Carol Couture of The Treasure Chest do mine. She can be contacted by calling (231) 547-4851.

Choose your letter size, color, font and decorative end details. They're priced at $29.95 for 10 words or less. You can order their free 46 page catalog by calling (888) 422-6685. It's filled with quotations and phrases or you can make your own words.

Of course, wallpapers are not only decorative, they have practical uses too. Washable wallpapers are a great idea for back halls, mud rooms, laundry rooms, stairwells going up or down and any place where finger marks are a problem. Perhaps next year I will paper our walls going up the stairs. They always seem to be marked with fingerprints.

Wallpaper pricing can span from $30 for a single roll to over $300 a single roll for custom handcrafted wall covering. Be aware that most wallpapers are priced per single rolls but sold in double and sometimes triple rolls.

Just when you think your home is done, it's just the time to add some interest with wallpaper. However, base it on your own style and your own taste and not what's in or out of style.

LETTERS to the editor

SIMPLISTIC INDEED

Editor:

A letter by Al Wojan published in the Sept. 5 edition of the Courier (entitled "Simplistic ideology") berated those who protest the war in Iraq, or who fail to support the policies of the president.

I find it ironic that he speaks of the sacrifices of those who have defended "our nation and its constitutional traditions," yet finds fault with those who exercise those traditions. It's also ironic that he has pledged his allegiance to a president whose administration has worked tirelessly to dismantle the constitutional checks and balances that have served our country well for centuries.

Remember Osama bin Laden? The one who orchestrated the attack on us? It's been six years since 9/11, and we still haven't found him. He's still sending out videos, and we're stretched thin in Iraq trying to keep Sunnis and Shiites from killing each other. Mr. Wojan speaks of our commitment to track down the terrorists and avenge the deaths of our citizens. Well, we knew damn well they weren't in Iraq. Someone has certainly forgotten the commitment, but it wasn't those of us who don't support the war.

Mr. Wojan points out, correctly, that we are in an ideological war. But such wars can't be won with bombs and guns, no matter how brave and dedicated the troops. In a war of ideas, the only weapon that works is a better idea, and a commitment to support that idea. It's a long and difficult process, with many setbacks, but it's the only way to win. If we have the tenacity and the courage, we can withstand the terrorists without sacrificing all that makes America great.

Remember Afghanistan? We went in to root out the terrorists that were hiding there, with the support of the entire world. If we had stayed and rebuilt the country, we'd have at least one Muslim nation that thought well of the U.S. That would be a powerful weapon in keeping the terrorists off balance and making it harder for them gather recruits. Instead, we marched off to Iraq, leaving a few troops in Afghanistan. Now we're mired in Iraq, the Taliban is resurgent in Afghanistan, and the entire Middle East is on fire with anti-American sentiment. That's nothing new, but our doctrine of "pre-emptive war" has made it much easier for the radicals to whip that sentiment into a frenzy.

Mr. Wojan also points out that the terrorists win if we destroy ourselves. Since that is true, why stick with simple-minded ideas like "with us or against us?" If we live our lives without questions, always insisting that the president is right and any dissent is virtually treason, then the terrorists have won indeed. Those protesters he holds in such contempt are the personification of the very freedom he thinks he's protecting. You don't have to like them or agree with them, but to declare that their protest divides us and weakens us is the most un-American idea possible.

And for those who read this and would chastise me for failing to support our troops, I served eight years active duty in the Navy. I'd suggest you have at least that many years of active duty before criticizing my patriotism.

INSTALL FISH POND, FIX CEMETERY ENTRANCE

Editor:

I need to make further comment to my recently published letter to the Charlevoix Courier.

Instead of taking the bait on the proposed fountain for East Park, please consider installing another fish pond which was in place for over 60 years. Not a trout stream, a fish pond.

With the money savings of a fish pond vs. fountain, the City of Charlevoix should hold good on its earlier City Council promise to me in open session to complete the M-66 Brookside Cemetery entry to be the same as the other gates.

Somewhere along the way since City Council promised, then street superintendent John Martin was allowed to build two pillars on M-66 with what appears to be left over Lake Michigan beach project, artificial stone. The pillars are connected to nothing, and they are unsightly. In 2006 one of the pillars was visibly leaning to the right all summer.

On asking, I was told this is the way it is due to the money. The newer dead buried in Brookside deserve the same gates and respect as those buried beyond the chapel. All that is missing is a neon sign.

I'm surprised Charlevoixans haven't noticed, complained.

C. Marilyn Neff Gibbons
Charlevoix

Editor's note: This letter was addressed to the Charlevoix city manager and Charlevoix City Council.

DON'T RENAME PARK

Editor:

The purpose of this letter is not to ask that East Park as we now refer to it be changed to Robert Bridge Park. Calling it East Park is fine. However, changing the name to any other person's name would be a terrible injustice to the man that is truly responsible for the existence of this park, namely Robert Bridge. It is all a matter of public record. City ordinances passed by then mayor Bridge and his council forbade the re-building of any buildings along the harbor should they burn down or be torn down. And the city set about buying buildings that existed along the east side of the street. It has taken many years to see his dream come true.

I subscribe to the Courier and over the years I have read of many controversies concerning the park. And rightfully so. After all it belongs to the citizens of Charlevoix and of course, there are many ideas and suggestions.

Once again the park is undergoing a major up-grade and again many suggestions are forthcoming. One I noted was a thank you plaque for Mr. (John) Winn's efforts. As I understand it, Mr. Winn had much to do with the success of the new marina and he should be awarded a thank you plaque.

Perhaps a similar thank you plaque could be set to honor the man responsible for the park's existence in the first place, then mayor Robert Bridge. Bob Bridge was, and probably still is, the longest serving mayor Charlevoix has ever had. You will find his name on the entrance plaque on the city hall.

It is no one's fault that Bob Bridge's name is not known nowadays. He's been gone since 1965. Oh, there are a few kids my age (80 give a year or so) that knew him personally, but it was these kids' parents that knew of Bob's effort to create that waterfront and they are of course of little help to me now.

All I am asking is that careful consideration be given in selecting names of persons to name your park after, so that they are not selecting a person that had nothing to do with the advent of this park.

Hospital honors former CEO

A newly renovated cardiac rehabilitation facility at Charlevoix Area Hospital will bear the name of Richard Krueger, the executive who successfully led the institution for 27 years.

Krueger, who served as Charlevoix Area Hospital president from 1971 through 1998, will be honored at a dedication and reception on Tuesday, Sept. 25.

"This is a completely unexpected, but greatly appreciated, honor," Krueger said. "The hospital is still a big part of my life and I get back often to see friends and former co-workers, so I'm pleased to be remembered in this way."

During his long tenure, Krueger oversaw several major additions, including a new surgical unit, coronary intensive care unit, and the obstetrics expansion.

"It seemed we were always improving the facility and reinventing the place — but the result today is that we have a beautiful, up-to-date hospital," he said.

Krueger himself has used the cardiac rehab facility twice following surgery, and gives the newly designed department a great review. Located off the hospital's renovated lobby, the rehab area is bright and cheery, with ample windows and space for lots of equipment.

Tuesday's reception will also recognize supporters and hospital volunteers. As part of the ceremony, a new donor wall containing names of special benefactors will be unveiled.

The public is invited to attend the dedication event, which begins at 5:30 p.m. in the lobby. Refreshments and a reception will follow in the hospital solarium. For more information, contact the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation, (231) 547-8502.

Chenille Sisters to perform Oct. 5 and 6 on Beaver Island

The Chenille Sisters, a popular trio from Ann Arbor, will perform on Friday, Oct. 5 and Saturday, Oct. 6 on Beaver Island.

The group is well-known for their close harmony arrangements in a variety of musical styles including jazz, blues, country-folk and old favorites. The group includes singer Grace Morand, guitarist and songwriter Connie Huber and singer/songwriter Cheryl Dawdy.

They have produced over a dozen albums including several for children, the latest entitled, "Teaching Hippopotami to Fly."

The Chenille Sisters will meet with students of the Beaver Island Community School on Friday afternoon, and perform a family-friendly program at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 6 in the auditorium of the Central Michigan University Biological Station.

The Saturday performance is open to the public. All ages are welcome. Tickets will be available at the door, beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets are $10 for adults and free for children. Free van transportation will be available for those without cars, leaving at 6:15 p.m. from the Holy Cross Parish Hall.

The event is sponsored by the Beaver Island Cultural Arts Association and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Free cancer screenings offered on Sept. 26

A free women's cancer screening opportunity will be offered at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan's Charlevoix office.

The screenings are from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Sept. 26. They will be conducted by a licensed nurse practitioner and include a clinical breast exam, pelvic exam with Pap test and free mammogram. The services are available to Charlevoix County women between the ages of 40 and 64 who are uninsured.

Two community groups, Alden High Tea for Breast Cancer and Sue DeYoung/Judy Edger Memorial Breast Cancer Walk donated proceeds from their events to support clinics in their local communities. The donations cover expenses for 50 new screening appointments.

Teresa Sington who coordinates the Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program said the screenings are important to identify cancers in the early stages, when they are easier and much less expensive to treat.

"About a quarter of the women we see are referred to specialists for further diagnostic tests," she said. "We refer to a network of physicians who graciously accept reduced payment for women screened through the program."

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan's Charlevoix office is located at 220 West Garfield St.

Screenings are by appointment only. Call (800) 432-4121 or 547-0295 to register.

Helen's smiling

The 7th Annual Helen Open which took place on Aug. 19 and included 90 golfers playing at the Charlevoix Golf Club, raised $15,000 for Hospice of Northwest Michigan. The event honors the late Helen Weislik. The Weislik family has owned the Townhouse Bar in Charlevoix for over 40 years, and this tournament was established as a lasting tribute to Helen, who dispensed spirited advice as freely as she dispensed spirits. In its seven-year history the open has raised $78,000 for hospice. The money is used for bereavement programs like Handling the Holidays and follow-up materials. The auction item that brought in the most money this year was a baseball autographed by Tigers baseball manager Jim Leyland. It was purchased by Charlevoix resident Tom Rankl for $500. Pictured above behind the bar at the Townhouse are Helen Open committee members Cheri Hoffman and Ron Weislik presenting the $15,000 donation to hospice director Pat Johnson and bereavement coordinator Margaret Lasater.

Hospice volunteers sought

Hospice of Little Traverse Bay and Hospice of Northwest Michigan, which serve Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties, are looking for volunteers.

The hospice volunteer training program began on Monday, Sept. 17. The sessions will run for four weeks, meeting from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays in the Community Health Education Center located at 360 Connable Ave. in Petoskey (across the parking lot from the main entrance to Northern Michigan Regional Hospital).

Training sessions will include an orientation to hospice and discussion of the role of volunteers. Each class will deal with a different aspect of training – grief and bereavement, death and dying, communication skills, understanding the family, spiritual care of the family, care and comfort measures, ethical issues and personal stress management. Volunteers who complete this training will be able to volunteer for either or both hospices.

Hospice volunteers provide a variety of services, including respite care to the terminally ill and their family. Volunteers provide help, whether it is with patients, in the office, or helping with fund-raising.

For more information, call Hospice of Little Traverse Bay at (231) 487-4825.

Complete Muffler wants your clunker

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Mechanics and auto part stores are teaming up all over northern Michigan to give victims of domestic abuse a second chance.

According to the organizing body, 1-800-Charity Cars, owning a reliable car may not be the American dream, but for mothers attempting to escape abusive relationships, a car can be a new lease on life.

"For a family living in a rural area, a vehicle is crucial in order to get a job since there is next to no public transportation," said domestic abuse and sexual assault program director Chris Krajewski of the Women's Resource Center. "Having a reliable car can mean the difference between getting out of an abusive relationship or not."

Charlevoix residents may donate a used car no more than eight years old, less than 150,000 miles and in relatively good shape. The car will then have any necessary parts replaced by Rodney Kippe's Complete Muffler in Charlevoix, one of 105 participating auto shops in Michigan, before the cars are awarded to needy area recipients during a ceremony on Oct. 13 in Lansing.

"We could probably do a couple cars, but we have yet to find one," Kippe said. "You can bring it (your used car) down and we'll get a hold of Charity Cars and someone from their organization will come out and inspect it to see if it is acceptable."

Those wishing to donate a used car may also contact 1-800-Charity Cars directly by calling 1-800-242-7489 or visiting them on the Web at www.800charitycars.org where they may fill out a donation application.

Kippe said the latest he could receive cars, free from large defects such as engine or transmission problems, and have them ready for the give-away is the end of September.

While nicer used vehicles are desired, Charity Cars will accept older vehicles which may be sold at auction with all the proceeds used to attain reliable cars.

Charity Cars began in 1996 as a nonprofit with the mission of providing reliable transportation to military families, victims of natural disasters and the working poor in addition to victims of domestic violence.

According to Krajewski, the need for these cars is a real one.

"The Women's Resource Center in northern Michigan serves five counties and in our last fiscal year we opened over 570 (domestic abuse) cases," she said. "I'd like to see every survivor of domestic abuse who does not have a car to get one."

STORY HIGHLIGHT

Charlevoix residents may donate a used car no more than eight years old, less than 150,000 miles and in relatively good shape. The car will then have any necessary parts replaced by Rodney Kippe's Complete Muffler in Charlevoix, one of 105 participating auto shops in Michigan, before the cars are awarded to needy area recipients during a ceremony on Oct. 13 in Lansing.

She added, "It's one last barrier they have to overcome."

Charity Cars also furnishes the first six months of insurance and first time license plate and title fees.

"Accountability plays an important role in the program via the Charity Cars contract. Vehicles are registered and titled in the recipient's name, however, Charity Cars retains a lien on each vehicle for a period of one year so the vehicle cannot be sold," it states on the Charity Cars Web site. "At times recipients are mandated to be employed within 30 days upon the receipt of a vehicle and must remain employed throughout the lien period. Additionally, contractual obligations require recipients to maintain car insurance and to participate in follow up case studies."

The Charity Cars group hopes recipients of the cars will use the car to find gainful employment and become self-sufficient.

Randy Lucyk, owner of Midas Muffler and Brake Shop in Kalkaska and regional coordinator of the auto shops involved in the event said they are down 40 percent of the number of cars they would like to have.

"We are hoping to get 12 cars in northern Michigan. We would encourage people to look into their hearts and driveways and see if they have a vehicle that would benefit people in their community," he said. "If we get donations from Charlevoix, we're going to do our best to get those back in Charlevoix."

Vehicle donations qualify for a tax deduction if the value exceeds $500.

While Charity Cars is not taking applications for vehicles until 2009, people eligible for cars include domestic violence victims and natural disasters, the poor and military families.

Those wishing to apply in two years can send their letters to 1-800CharityCars, 750 Miami Spring Drive, Longwood, FL 32779.

Anyone in an abusive relationship can get help by calling the Women's Resource Center's 24-hour hotline at (231) 347-0082.

Coast Guard needs help to haunt

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Ready for a good scare?

When the Coast Guard cutter Acacia was decommissioned last year, so too ended the long-standing tradition of the Haunted Ship.

However, the servicemen at Coast Guard Station Charlevoix are hoping to revive the tradition of a spook house with a little help from Charlevoix.

"A lot of people in town have been asking if we were going to do anything at the station," said officer in charge of the Charlevoix station, Scott Boop. "I look forward to Halloween, especially because I have a 3-year-old and a one-year-old and watching them learn more and more about Halloween and them getting excited about it is fun."

"Because it's the first year, we're going to need between $800 and $1,000," Boop said. "We're given a morale fund of $500 to be used for things the guys do like outside activities, but we agreed to use $300 of that for the haunted house."

He added, "Everybody is pretty excited about it."

Proceeds from the haunted boathouse, which will cost $1 to attend, will be donated to help offset costs of the new East Park water fountain project.

The haunted boathouse has been scheduled from 8 to 10 p.m. on Oct. 29 and 30.

Refreshments will be available for a minimal fee.

Seaman SN James Mitard of Coast Guard Station Charlevoix is seen here in front of the boat house which will soon house a haunted house. The haunted boathouse has been scheduled from 8 to 10 p.m. on Oct. 29 and 30. All proceeds from the $1 admission will be donated to help offset costs of the new East Park water fountain project. To donate, call (231) 547-2565.

What? The servicemen at Coast Guard Station Charlevoix are seeking donations to revive the tradition of a spook house. The Coast Guard's famed Ghost Ship was last offered in October 2005. The Acacia, which was used as the haunted venue, was decommissioned in June 2006.

When? The haunted boathouse has been scheduled from 8 to 10 p.m. on Oct. 29 and 30.

Where? 101 Coast Guard Dr. in Charlevoix.

Cost? $1

What will the money be used for? Proceeds from the haunted boathouse will be donated to help offset costs of the new East Park water fountain project.

Greensky Harvest Dinner is Sept. 22

Greensky Hill United Methodist Indian Mission Church will host a harvest dinner.

The event will take place from 4 to 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 22 at the church, located off Old U.S. 31 North.

The cost is $9 per adult and $4 per child under 10 years old.

The menu will include turkey, ham, mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, squash, corn, green beans, creamed cabbage, fresh tomatoes, beets, cranberry sauce, bread and butter pickles, rolls and pie.

For more information, call (231) 582-9262.

Public Notice?

Without it in your newspaper, you're left guessing what the government's doing in your community.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. What you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. Public notices have been posted here since the days of colonial America. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? That is why you have, and read, your newspaper... where your right to know is already being served.

MICHIGAN DRIVER ALERT!

Insure Against the Uninsured

Many Michigan drivers believe that their "No Fault" auto policy will cover everything—no matter who is at fault. This is not entirely true.

Some losses are intended to be covered by the at-fault driver. But, what if their policy coverage limits are too low, or they drive with no insurance at all?

Not all companies offer protection in these situations, but Auto-Owners does. Let us show you how to protect yourself and your family with Uninsured and Underinsured Motorist Coverages from Auto-Owners Insurance.

St. Mary School preps for Northern Lights

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

St. Mary School of Charlevoix will host the 12th annual Northern Lights Celebration Dinner Dance Auction from 6 p.m. to midnight on Sept. 29.

Event tickets are $100. The event sold out in 2006. Event officials said nearly $70,000 was raised last year with a goal of raising $90,000 this year.

Dinner will be catered by Grey Gables with music by Class Action Productions.

Raffles and the auctioning of hundreds of items, including works of art and gift baskets, will be woven through the evening.

Proceeds go to help St. Mary School.

For more information or to purchase tickets to the event, call (231) 547-9441.

Mayes goes 'Above and Beyond'

Gerry Mayes, a probation officer with the Charlevoix County 33rd Circuit Family Division, received the first "Above and Beyond" award presented by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club.

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club is dedicated to assisting children and youth and initiated the "Above and Beyond" award to recognize volunteers and professionals who have shown their commitment to assisting young people.

Mayes has given freely of his time beyond his position as a probation officer. He started and maintained programs which assist his clients in becoming better people and citizens in their communities.

One of these programs is the "Great Lake Challenge" which is a sailing cruise where seamanship and sea going responsibilities are presented. He also has engaged the youth in a running and fitness program. Mayes has prepared an audio-visual for local and regional presentation demonstrating the programs and benefits gained by the youth participating in them.

Through the use of the audio-video presentations, Mayes recruits volunteers to give positive images and direction to young adults who might otherwise not meet them.

Heading south? Take the Courier's e-edition with you

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The Courier staff is making strides to deliver local news to readers in new ways.

When you visit www.charlevoixcourier.com today you'll find pages designed to deliver the Courier's signature strong news reporting and the ability to connect with other readers.

Trends in the newspaper industry as reported by the Newspaper Association of America and Pew Research Center for the People and the Press News show that now more than ever newspaper readers are getting their news from nontraditional sources, like Web sites.

Readership at online news sites continues to steadily climb while that of the print edition declines. One way the Courier staff is reacting is by offering an e-edition.

Peter Comings, online media manager for Northern Michigan Review Inc. under which the Courier operates, said the e-edition breaks traditional barriers the print edition faces.

"Portability is a benefit. It's not dependent on physical transportation. If you are in Florida, you don't have to wait two weeks and get four papers at once," Comings said.

He added that with the e-edition as northern Michigan's seasonal residents or "snow birds" move south they can still have their news on the day it's published.

"It's available at any point," he said.

While the news of the week is at your virtual fingertips right away, the e-dition also helps readers access yesterday's news.

"You can go back into the archive without going to a physical office to go through the bound volume," Comings said.

Once you click on the e-edition option at the Courier's Web site you have a choice to preview the paper allowing you to quickly cruise headlines or look at the complete edition where you can zoom in on stories, do an archive search and search the ads.

This is a service that was introduced in May as a limited time free service. Beginning Oct. 1 the Courier will charge for the e-edition. Subscribers will be able to access their subscription at www.charlevoixcourier.com. A complete electronic edition of the paper will be posted on-line each Wednesday.

For more information call the Courier at (231) 547-6558 or e-mail news@charlevoixcourier.

What is an e-edition? An electronic representation of what appeared in print.

Rotary Club reaches out to local stars

Endowment fund started with $20,000 donation

The Rotary Club of Charlevoix has continued its commitment to making the Charlevoix Fine Arts Center at Charlevoix High School the best in northern Michigan by kicking off a $20,000 endowment fund.

Almost 10 years ago the Rotary Club of Charlevoix raised more than $100,000 during its "Reach for the Stars" fundraising drive. These funds helped equip the facility with state-of-the-art sound and lighting equipment that has helped attract professional programs to the community. The Reach for the Stars initiative remains the largest fund-raising effort in the history of the local Rotary Club.

The support continued with the Rotary Club of Charlevoix underwriting approximately $25,000 in concerts, which began with the facility's grand opening performance on Oct. 5, 2002, when "Three Men and a Tenor" performed to a capacity audience.

Most recently, the Rotary Club of Charlevoix contributed more than $18,000 to purchase a professional-grade projection system and performance risers for the fine arts center.

Now, the Rotary Club is announcing an endowment fund to sustain support of the Charlevoix Fine Arts Center.

"With the recent monetary concerns the Charlevoix Public Schools continue to experience, their financial ability to sustain the Center into the future could be in jeopardy," said Rotarian and Reach for the Stars chair Dennis Halverson. "Our Rotary Club is committed to ensuring the continued maintenance and improvements to this center. We are demonstrating this commitment by initiating $20,000 endowment fund with the Charlevoix County Community Foundation."

"The creation of this endowment will also allow other members of the community who are interested in ensuring the long-term presence of a performing arts center in Charlevoix to assist us in making that a long-term reality," Halverson said.

To contribute to the endowment fund, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at (231) 536-2440.

Portage woman wins Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce car raffle

Anne Stephens of Portage won the 2008 Ford Mustang raffled by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

The car, valued at $25,700, was one of three prizes given away at the chamber fund-raiser on Sept. 13 at the Belvedere Club Casino. Violet Bristow from Royal Oak and Joyce Walter of Suttons Bay both won $250 and Jeff Pridgen of Holt won $500.

Over 700 tickets were sold.

The Original Laptop

Newspapers and laptop computers actually have a lot in common ...

Wireless, Lightweight, Recyclable, User-Friendly, Inexpensive, Convenient, and Hundreds of Other Uses

The Charlevoix Courier has been relaying information to the Charlevoix Community for over 123 years.

Pen and ink, ink and paper.

Oh yes, we're well aware of the information technology zipping along the superhighway. In fact, the newspaper industry is one of its heaviest users.

Charlevoix's own jack of all trades

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

From breaking his back three times while bull riding to building choppers and hot rods from the ground up, Fred Olds Sr. of Charlevoix has done just about everything.

And while the former auto body specialist still builds a performance engine here and there, his true love is painting.

"I'm a jack of all trades and master of none as they say," Olds said. "I just started doing art when I was a kid. The first drawing I ever did was of my first dog, a cocker spaniel. A year after she died, I started drawing her at school just by memory."

He added, "I still have that picture today — that was in 1948 or '49."

Olds now makes and sells clocks from interesting looking stumps, nature paintings on saw blades from 12 inches up to nearly 5-feet across and hand carved replica aircraft from all eras using an airbrush and automotive paint.

"I haven't found anything I don't like yet, wood-wise," he said. "I don't really specialize in anything, I do a little bit of everything. If somebody says it can't be done, I'll step up to the plate."

He added, "When I used to build cars, people would say, 'You can't stick that engine in there.' The hell you can't, you haven't tried."

Olds, now in his 70s, has created professional works of art for more than 50 years.

"You gotta love your work to get along and really do it and I do love my work, it's never boring," he said. "There is always something new and it's always a challenge."

Olds also carves and paints spear fishing lures.

"If mother nature makes enough ice, cut a hole in the ice, put a shanty over the hole then try to lure them in," he said. "A lot of fisherman want to make it look like a real fish, but I always found out you want something that's flashy and real sparkly so as you make it fly in the water it attracts the fish."

The handcrafted lures also make nice mantle fixtures, Olds said.

For those interested in commissioning Olds to reproduce a military aircraft, he has schematics which go back to 1916.

"I never tried to make anything like the (Wright Flyer, flown at) Kitty Hawk, but it's worth a try," he said. "I've made between 30 and 40 planes, took one first-place and two thirds in shows. As long as you can get me a three-dimensional pattern, I can make it."

Olds' largest plane to date was a B-17 with an eight-foot wingspan.

Olds currently has an old five-foot sawmill blade and an old-time crosscut saw upon which he will paint just about anything someone wants.

"Landscape, scenery, animals, whatever you want," he said.

But, Olds said, he does not paint portraits of humans.

"The man upstairs gave me a talent, but not that much," he said.

Olds' works, some of which can be viewed at Consign Design in Charlevoix, range from $45 to more than $300.

A model of the Memphis Belle, a World War II B-17 bomber is on display at Consign Design at 211 Bridge St. Suite B in Charlevoix.

"I have a full-size cradle rocker that took me four years to build, that took four first-places at the Mason County Fair," he said. "You won't find another one like it in the world. It's a one-of-a-kind made of all spalding maple."

He added, "It's an heirloom to be handed down."

Aside from his award winning planes, furniture and lamps, Olds won several awards for his automotive paint jobs.

"I painted a couple of Corvettes that won awards and I painted a Pontiac Firebird that won second place," he said.

When asked if he still builds engines and works on hotrods, Olds responded, "Is there something else?"

For more information or to discuss a project, call Fred Olds at (231) 237-9072.

Rayder volleyball win back to back tournaments

Charlevoix's first place finish at the Sept. 15 Petoskey Invitational followed a Sept. 13 win over Kalkaska.

On Saturday, Charlevoix finished second in pool play to face Petoskey in the semifinals. The Rayders' 29-27, 25-21 victory over the Northmen landed them in the finals where they faced the Boyne City Ramblers. The well matched teams played hard and Charlevoix came out with the 26-24, 25-22 win.

"It was a very exciting day for us as a team. We started out slow in the beginning of the day but still managed to win some games early in pool play. We were without our starting middle, Tammy Potter but she came back at the end of pool play and brought some great play especially in the bracket play matches," coach Liz Grunch said."

"We are playing some great volleyball and it's very exciting to see the hard work pay off. The girls definitely deserve this tournament victory," she added.

Murphy Gillespie was named Petoskey Tournament most valuable player. She had 49 kills, 32 digs, five blocks and four aces.

Desi Faust had 39 kills, 14 assists, 37 digs and five aces. Tammy Potter had 13 kills. Shauna Spencley had 10 kills, 13 digs and 10 aces. Aubrey Way had 103 assists, seven kills, 30 digs, 15 aces. Taylor Storm had 22 digs and three aces. Michelle Burke had 35 digs and four aces.

"Lauren Mielke came off the bench and played solid. She did an exceptional job filling in for Tammy Potter who was taking ACT's in the morning," Grunch said.

The tournament win followed the team's Sept. 13 victory over Kalkaska.

Leading Charlevoix in the Rayder volleyball team's 25-11, 25-19, 17-25, 25-21 victory over Kalkaska was Desi Faust with 20 kills, 29 digs, 20 of 21 serve receive and perfect from the serving line.

"That was a really good win for us. It was our first home contest and the girls played with a lot of heart and emotion as the girls dedicated the game to one of Charlevoix's finest and giving men, Bob Pung. The girls have been very appreciative for all the support he and his wife have given to the Charlevoix Rayder teams throughout the years. The girls love having them around," Grunch said.

Murphy Gillespie had 17 kills, 25 digs and was perfect from the serving line with one ace. Tammy Potter had 10 kills, two blocks, and Shauna Spencley six kills, 13 digs, 13 for 13 from the serving line. Setter Aubrey Way had 41 assists, 13 digs, 9 for 9 from the serving line. Michelle Burke added 14 digs, 14 for 14 from the serving line and Taylor Storm had 11 digs and was also perfect from the line with one ace.

Their next game will take place at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 20 at Charlevoix High School when they face Elk Rapids.

The wins bring the team to 19-3-5 overall and 2-0 in their league.

Rayder football trounce East Jordan Red Devils 35-20

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

STORY HIGHLIGHT
The Charlevoix Rayders varsity football team broke their three-game losing streak beating East Jordan 35-20 on Friday, Sept. 14.

What's next? The Rayders prepare to meet the Ramblers of Boyne City at 7 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 21 in Boyne City.

The Charlevoix Rayders varsity football team broke their three-game losing streak by pummeling East Jordan 35-20 on Friday, Sept. 14.

The Rayders are now 1-1 in their conference and 1-3 in the regular season.

"I thought our team responded well to adversity," said varsity coach, Don Jess. "We had a couple of key injuries and Corey Loucks and Tanner Fisher did a nice job filling in."

Charlevoix was led by Kyle Jones with 10 carries for 108 yards.

Kyle had a 71-yard touchdown run and his brother Cliff Jones ran for two touchdowns and threw two touchdowns.

Nate Golovich had two touchdown receptions, one covering nine yards and the other for 19 yards.

Charlevoix's defense was led by Corey Gotshall with 13 tackles and Corey Loucks with an interception and a forced fumble.

The Rayders prepare to meet the Ramblers of Boyne City at 7 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 21 in Boyne City.

"They have one of the best players in (the) league in Robby Jensen, who we'll have to try and contain," Jess said. "And, their defense has been playing very well. Hopefully we have a lot fan support this Friday."

He added, "Boyne is always a tough place to play."

Have no fear, prevent a fall

Sue Bergmann

For seniors the fear of falling is a constant threat.

According to Lifeline, Healthy Aging Systems, "Fall Prevention: Breaking the Cycle," they recommend converting your fear into preventive action.

Falls can be a serious problem causing serious injury — hip, wrist or vertebra fracture — or sometimes death. Falls can rob older adults of their independence, often resulting in a move to a nursing home or other supervised living situation.

The fear of falling can increase the risk of falls. Taking a "safe at any cost" approach and cutting back on physical activity leads to loss of strength, reduced muscle tone, balance problems, decline in overall health and often depression — all of which makes it more likely you will fall again. For example, you have a fall, so you then become less physically active, which reduces your energy, muscle tone and alertness, and can increases the risk of falling again.

Help is readily available and most falls are preventable. Step one is to overcome fear, and transform it into steps to avoid falls. Talk to your health care provider about your concerns, and learn the practical measures that can significantly reduce your risk.

RISK FACTORS

Common senior conditions that increase the risk of falls:

Heart disease, stroke, Parkinson's, and low blood pressure can cause dizziness, balance problems and fatigue.

Loss of sensation in the feet from diabetes can mean a reduced "sense of place."

Arthritis results in loss of flexibility, and increased difficulty maintaining balance.

Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and heart failure result in breathing difficulties, weakness and fatigue increasing the risk of falls with even slight exertion.

Age-related vision problems such as glaucoma and cataracts decrease visual function, increasing the risk of falling.

Medications can also be a risk factor, particularly sleeping medications, antidepressant or anti-anxiety drugs, and heart medications.

REDUCE RISK

To reduce your risk, Lifeline recommends the following:

Regular, moderate physical activity increases your muscle strength and balance. Talk to your health care provider about beginning an exercise program that's right for you.

Review with your health care provider all the medications you are taking, both prescription and "over the counter." Your health care provider can assess the benefits and risks of each drug.

Do a home safety inspection. Eliminate hazards such as poor lighting, throw rugs and clutter. Add safety modifications such as grab bars, nonslip mats and night lights.

Take extra care. Take your time, and think ahead, especially in new or unfamiliar places. When you rise from your chair, stand for a few seconds before walking. Drink plenty of fluids if you are at risk for orthostatic hypertension (dizziness related to position changes causing drop in blood pressure).

Tell your health care provider if you have experienced a fall, or if you are having dizziness, balance or vision problems. The more they know, the more they can help you. Balance classes, physical therapy or occupational therapy can be prescribed, to help you walk more safely and to get up correctly, if you do fall.

Follow a sensible, balanced diet. Good nutrition results in higher energy. And remember calcium and Vitamin D for stronger bones. Remember also that drinking alcohol can increase your risk of falling.

Wear the right shoes. Select sturdy, low-healed shoes with rubber soles for grip, and make sure they are fitted properly.

Consider a personal response service. Knowing that prompt help is available at the push of a button gives you the confidence to be as active as possible.

For more information or assistance in locating a personal response system for your home, call the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging at (231) 237-0103.

Sue Bergmann RN, BSN is the director of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. She can be contacted by calling (231) 237-0103.

Hey Jane!

M.J. Cargill

Hey Jane!

I retired at the top of my game so to speak. I was not forced to retire but everybody was always asking me when I was going to and, frankly I felt some peer pressure to step down. I was director of a human resources department for a large corporation and I miss it. I've kept myself busy by writing the newsletter for my community association, I'm learning to play the piano and I am at last exercising and eating right. I think retirement sucks and I think I've made the biggest mistake of my life. What do you say?

Retired and hating it

Dear Retired and hating it: Get a life! I mean it! You need some real life interactions with something living. Whether that life has two legs, four legs, slithers on the floor or has roots you need something that interacts with you. Writing a newsletter or playing the piano does not allow for the loving contact necessary of healthy living. Good grief as a human resource person you helped provide a support system for hundreds of people. Of course you are going to miss this contact. Try volunteering for Crisis Hotline, holding preemie babies, delivering Meals on Wheels, walking/petting animals for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Big Brother/Big Sister, or after school tutoring. The world needs you. Get out there.

Jane

Charlevoix Courier's own senior advice columnist M.J. Cargill polled 10 local people who retired in their prime. Their responses revealed that most had a hard time for a few years. Their families had even a harder time dealing with a depressed family member who grumbled and complained.

Contact: Do you have a personal issue or experience that you could use some advice in dealing with? Jump on board and share yourself so others might benefit, anonymously of course. Contact us at "Hey Jane" P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or e-mail heyjane@heyjaneonline.com.

Salmon run to peak next week

SALMON

smaller fish, between eight and 10 pounds each.

Terry Kupovits, a fisherman from Ellsworth who fishes the Lake Michigan waters near Medusa Creek every year at this time to reel in the Chinook said, action on the lake mirrored that of the weir.

"We usually get about 100 pounds each — this year's a little slow. The water's too warm still," he said.

Anglers are restricted to three fish each per day.

But Stevens said it's still early and a strong overall harvest is anticipated.

In 2006, American Canadian harvested 16,354 fish weighing a total of 180,000 pounds from the Medusa Creek Weir. In 2005, they brought 9,936 salmon out of a total of 80,934 pounds.

The contract American Canadian has with the Department of Natural Resources has them paying one cent per pound, per fish. The state makes about $1,000 and this money goes back into the salmon tagging program.

"They (American Canadian) are responsible for labor and equipment. We couldn't do it by ourselves. It would be a phenomenal amount of money and manpower we don't have," Stevens said in a previous interview.

Stevens said some of the meat is used for animal consumption, while fish in good condition are filleted and sold to grocery stores.

"This weir turns out some of the best fish in the state," he said.

No eggs from the Medusa Creek harvest are used for hatcheries, they are sold for bait. Charlevoix gets its eggs for spring planting from the Little Manistee River in Manistee, the Boardman River in Traverse City or Swan River in Rogers City.

During the peak of the fish run, the last week in September and first week of October, up to 3,000 fish are drawn from the weir per week. There have been times during the run that Medusa Creek, located off Lake Shore Drive, has turned black with fish.

The last harvest is in late October or early November. Fish drawn later in the run are older and larger, ranging in size from 16 to 18 pounds and are 3 to 4 years old. Last year, some 30 pounders were gleaned.

The fish swim up the manmade Medusa Creek, which runs along the east side of the St Mary Cement property, into Lake Michigan. The creek is made entirely from water pumped from the cement company's quarry. They then make their way into a manmade weir, their eggs and meat are harvested by humans and then new fingerlings from hatcheries are planted in the spring.

About 300,000 fish from the Platte River Hatchery in Honor are planted in the weir in early May, where they stay for about three to four weeks before they are released into Lake Michigan. Stevens said this time is critical as the water is imprinted in the fish so they know where they will return at the end of their life cycle to reproduce.

Of those fish that are planted, about 200,000 of them are tagged in their nose so once they return, about three to five years after being planted, they can be examined. About 15 percent of the tagged fish are returned during the harvest and the local fisheries station spends the winter studying them.

"We have the highest return of any weir in the state," Stevens said while holding one of the tagged salmon. He pointed to an area on the salmon's back where its adipose fin was removed marking it as a tagged fish.

Stevens said the reasons man has intervened in a natural process are simple — the carnage of the dead fish on the shores of creeks would be disgusting and there would be a huge cost to the state to tackle the cleanup.

To see the salmon run first hand, travel down Lake Shore Drive, along the shores of Lake Michigan bordering Charlevoix Area Hospital, until it comes to a turnaround. Park and watch Mother Nature in action.

Jeff Stevens, a trades helper with the Fisheries Research Station in Charlevoix, holds one of the salmon being harvested Sept. 13 from the Medusa Creel Weir to reveal a wound inflicted by a sea lamprey. Sea lamprey are aquatic vertebrates native to the Atlantic Ocean. They resemble eel, but unlike eel, they feed on large fish. They can live in both salt and fresh water. Sea lamprey were accidentally introduced into the Great Lakes in the early 20th century through shipping canals. Today, they are found in all the Great Lakes.

About 200,000 of the 300,000 fish the DNR plants annually in Lake Michigan are tagged like this one. About 15 percent of the tagged fish are returned during the harvest and the local fisheries station spends the winter studying them. The tagged fish like this one are missing their adipose fin which should be near the tail but It Is removed to mark them.

Let it rain: New garden protects Round Lake

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Students, volunteers and Mother Nature have joined forces to protect Round Lake.

The Fourth Annual Day of Caring which took place on Sept. 18 included 620 volunteers from 20 groups tackling projects that helped 50 agencies across Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

"It (Day of Caring) gets people involved in the community and realizing what the agencies need. They need financial support and a lot of man power. We find most of the time people come back (year after year for Day of Caring) and bring other people and volunteer throughout the year. So it continues on," said Jennifer Archambault, Day of Caring project coordinator and Harbor Industries human resources coordinator.

Locally, beaches and green spaces were cleaned up and the facilities of organizations like the VFW, Bergmann Center, Sunnybank and Harsha House were spruced up as was Brookside Cemetery.

One of this year's unique

See CARE, page 33

What is the Day of Caring? On Sept. 18, the local manufacturing company Harbor Industries in conjunction with CharEm United Way mobilized the business community and students in Charlevoix and Emmet counties to volunteer for the 4th Annual Community Day of Caring.

Who was involved? Over 620 volunteers from 20 businesses and schools.

How many organizations were helped? 50

How has this effort grown? In the first year (2004) 70 volunteers assisted 20 agencies.

And the winner is... Charlevoix

Out of the five communities that participated in the Michigan Economic Development Corporation's Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns program, Charlevoix was selected as the 2007 Community of the Year.

Out of the five communities that participated in the Michigan Economic Development Corporation's Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns program, Charlevoix was selected as the 2007 Community of the Year.

Last week, Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority director, Keith Carey attended the Michigan Downtowns Conference in Traverse City and accepted the Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns Community of the Year award on behalf of Charlevoix.

"This award recognizes what we are on the cusp of doing. We are geared up to be the community of the future. What we've done thus far indicates to them (Michigan Economic Development Corporation) that our future shows nothing but promise," Carey said of the award. "This is the community's award. The community has demonstrated its commitment to this project from the very beginning. Residents have said, 'We've got a great little town, we like to live here and we can make it even better.'"

Other 2007 Blueprints participants were Petoskey, Muskegon Heights, Oscoda and Tecumseh.

Carey was also selected as one of three Blueprints program presenters to speak on Sept. 18 about the process and where Charlevoix is headed with the market study and action strategy provided through the Blueprints program by consultants with the firm HyettPalma.

We're safe...for now

According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, most upland game birds are either stable or high in number and should yield a good crop this hunting season. Turkey season runs from Oct. 8 through Nov. 14 in designated areas with a bag limit of one bird, male or female, per day. There are nearly 40,000 fall turkey season licenses still available and began selling on Sept. 17. Visit www.michigan.gov/dnr for more information on hunting seasons and how to obtain a permit.

Charlevoix named 2007 Community of the Year

COOL

Blueprint first-year action plan initiatives are listed in the sidebar inset in this story.

While many expressed concern with the authority's ability to pursue these initiatives as the group funds $200,000 of the $380,000 East Park fountain project Carey said his group's hands aren't tied.

The following is a list of Cool Cities projects currently being pursued.

INSTALLATION OF A WAY FINDING SIGN SYSTEM

Carey is working on a three pronged approach to way finding. The first is investigating legislative alternatives to allow signs affixed to the corners of Bridge Street buildings to announce side street businesses. This is currently prohibited by the Highway Advertising Act.

The second is a store directory, community profile and downtown map included in a lure brochure. This marketing piece is expected to debut in spring 2008. The estimated cost is $16,000 for 25,000 brochures.

The third sign element is a monument sign similar to directories found in shopping malls. Placement of these signs and cost estimates have not been determined.

LINK DOWNTOWN WITH THE LITTLE TRAVERSE WHEELWAY

The Downtown Development Authority has proposed a bike path route in its Plan Revision. This route is shown in the graphic included with this article. Carey is also researching placement of a sign similar to the monument sign referenced above that will direct bikers at the Waller Road trail head to downtown.

PLACE BIKE RACKS THROUGHOUT DOWNTOWN

These racks have been purchased and will be installed at locations included in the bike route graphic.

Reintroduce ice rink into East Park plan

Calls have been made to artificial ice rink providers who are willing to rent the city a surface and skates to try out.

LED TREE LIGHTS

HyettPalma recommended extending the time lights are used into summer to create atmosphere. Carey has gathered estimates from vendors on the costs of replacing the existing white street side tree lights on Bridge Street with LED lights to save on energy costs and extend their life. Current incandescent lights have a life of about two years while the LED lights are touted as working for five years at a fraction of the energy cost. Estimates to replace the lights range from $40,000 to $80,000. The state has put a moratorium on grant requests including the Pollution Prevention Grant the city submitted to the Department of Environmental Quality for this project.

COLLABORATION

Carey has met with the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and the Convention and Visitors Bureau to discuss cooperative marketing ventures.

Downtown Development Authority director Keith Carey is pictured here with the 2007 Community of the Year award he accepted last week on behalf of Charlevoix.

Blueprint first-year action plan initiatives:
- Hire a downtown coordinator
- Install way finding sign system
- Link downtown with the Little Traverse Wheelway
- Place bike racks throughout downtown
- Reintroduce ice rink into East Park plan
- Remove parking meters
- Introduce two-hour parking time limit and license tag monitoring system
- Balance transient and shopper's dock slips
- Encourage maximum amount of outdoor seating at food establishments

Linking Little Traverse Wheelway to downtown

The Downtown Development Authority has proposed this bike path route in its Plan Revision to link the Little Traverse Wheelway to downtown Charlevoix. Authority director, Keith Carey, is also researching placement of a sign at the Waller Road trail head that will direct bikers to downtown. This was one of the recommendations made by the consulting firm HyettPalma in their five-year action strategy and marketing plan for Charlevoix.

Look around, Charlevoix is poised to redefine cool

EDITORIAL

Charlevoix's Cool Cities push has focused primarily on what the Downtown Development Authority is doing for businesses but what we've noticed are the cool things business owners are doing for themselves.

In the last year, major improvements have been made to privately owned properties in town that have gussied up the view from Bridge Street and on side streets.

The work Rik and Kathryn Lobenherz have done at Pointes North Inn at 101 Michigan Avenue just north of the bridge in downtown Charlevoix has totally rejuvenated that area. They took a time-worn building and created an inviting retreat.

A couple miles out on U.S. 31 across from the city golf course, Aaron and Rohbin Moffat transformed the tired looking exterior at Giuseppe's Italian Grille, added new siding in neutral tones accented with cheery red flower boxes and new awnings and brought fresh life to their eatery.

On Clinton Street Deb and Bob Jess Sr. built a new Harbor Health and Fitness Center that is attractive inside and out.

The 100 block of Mason Street is also noteworthy. The City of Charlevoix overhauled city hall which was beginning to look like a glorified bomb shelter. This summer Gary and Kay Anderson renovated Rose Cottage adding an inviting garden area. Birdie and Ken Whitley sided, roofed and replaced windows at the beauty shop and the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce made their new home at 109 Mason St. a treat inside and out. The Courier even joined in with our building owner Bruce Bartlett redoing the building's interior and exterior.

Further south, doctors Robert and Kim Molter's new digs for Eye Health of Charlevoix in the former Michigan Officeways location is a site for sore eyes.

These improvements coupled with Charlevoix Public Library which is the nicest in the state as far as we're concerned, the new Charlevoix High School and of course the much anticipated unveiling of East Park and its fountain are setting up for an exciting future. Charlevoix is poised to not only meet the consulting firm HyettPalma's definition of cool, we're out to redefine it.

Congratulations to the community on its 2007 Community of the Year award. Your hard work has paid off.

A community that cares

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

On Sept. 18 the "Day of Caring" spearheaded by Harbor Industries in conjunction with the Charlevoix-Emmet United Way was met with huge success by many individuals.

Giving back to the community can and does make a difference as it influences students and adults to continue to be productive citizens for a strong, caring society. Caring for others is something we are taught as a young child and it's sometimes lost during the struggles of teen years. What was once a negative connotation "community service" has become part of our natural lingo of getting involved out of care and not because it was court ordered.

This summer I was so proud of the parents of the Charlevoix High School Band Boosters headed up by Dr. Kim Molter and supported by student members as they weeded, rain or shine, to keep the petunias beautiful. Yes there was money received but it went back into the band department and not to the individuals who kept laboring even in the nick of time before hot asphalt hit the curb after Labor Day.

Gail Cherry, career preparation coordinator at Charlevoix High School, did a phenomenal job organizing close to 400 students with 23 job sites to take part in making a difference. This is such a great portfolio piece as students follow-up in writing how they helped others and how it affected them personally.

In this installment of "A look at life" Courier columnist Gayle Gennett discusses the recent Day of Caring and Charlevoix residents' efforts yearround to reach out. Here, members of the Charlevoix Middle School Builders Club (from left) Andrew Mitchell, Lexie Barnes and Maddi Carey, hand out dictionaries.

Members of the Charlevoix Middle School Builders Club handed out dictionaries with the assistance from members of the Bergmann Center Aktion Club. The Kiwanis Club under the direction of past president Dave Garland had chosen this project, ensuring a dictionary in the hands of every third-grade student. The Builders Club and Aktion Club are both sponsored by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club. They do wonderful things all year and added this project to go along with the community-wide efforts.

If you're wondering where 'Make a Difference Day' got its start in Charlevoix you need not look any further than two of the many hard working women of Harbor Industries Jennifer Archambault and Dee Vincent. Yet, these two women are quick to thank Martha Lancaster from United Way for her concerted efforts as well. Jennifer and Dee were aware of the community outreach efforts completed by the Grand Haven branch of their facility. After making contact with our local United Way and various organizations, interest grew and others jumped aboard.

When there is negative information in print and on television daily, it's nice to hear something positive for a change. I can remember when Big Rock and individuals involved with the Masonic Lodge would look for activities that would make a difference in young lives. While I worked at Charlevoix Elementary School it was a pleasure to see so many caring people share their day with our "Success to all Readers" program reading one-on-one with a second grader, giving them the courage and interest to read more.

All our local service clubs help in so many ways throughout the year by their generous monetary donations and their gift of time. Giving of your time and help is a virtue that passes from one to the next as one good deed does follow another.

While just this morning I was attempting to put air in my tires and becoming frustrated because I was actually taking more air out of the tires than I was putting in. When I approached a gentleman who was rushing to get to his next job site, he stopped what he was doing and gladly assisted using his own money to keep the air flowing correctly into my tires. When I mentioned I need to repay him, his reply was "Just do something kind for someone today." How refreshing and nice to see the many days of caring continue.

LETTERS to the editor

GAS GOUGING

Editor:

I am writing this letter as a concerned senior citizen. This Labor Day weekend, gasoline prices in Charlevoix were $3.099 per gallon. My brother who lives in Rhode Island told me that gasoline there was $2.599 per gallon. That is 50 cents more.

I believe that this is gouging. Our president told us last month that there was "no gouging" taking place.

When are we as citizens going to have a say with the oil companies who are making record windfall profits? It is time for the oil companies to give back some of those profits in lower gas prices.

RAIN GARDEN HELPERS

Editor:

Thank you to the Charlevoix Public Library staff, Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library, business volunteers, Pat Elliott, and Pete Scholten's ninth-grade seminar class at Charlevoix High School for helping install the library's rain garden as part of the Day of Caring. It was a great day to plant over 1,000 native wildflowers, grasses and shrubs. Your efforts will help to clean storm water and protect water quality within the Lake Charlevoix Watershed.

HELEN'S SMILING

Editor:

On behalf of Hospice of Northwest Michigan, the board of directors and volunteers I want to thank Ron Weislik, Cheri Hoffman, Vivian Mettler and Tim Whippo for chairing the 7th Annual Helen Open. It is held each year in memory of that very special lady, Helen Weislik. This year's event was held on Aug. 19. We are very appreciative of the extremely generous donations provided by community businesses and citizens.

We do not charge for our services — volunteer, bereavement and community outreach — and this money will be put to good use helping those in our communities. I know how much work was put into this activity — those who worked, those who participated and those who donated. I know that Helen is smiling down on all of you, and joins us in saying thank you.

THANKS FOR CARING

Editor:

On behalf of the members and staff of the Charlevoix Senior Center, I would like to thank the volunteers for their support on Sept. 18, during the annual Day of Caring. They were a great help. They power-washed the whole building, cleaned windows inside and out, cleaned walls and doors, even did the bathrooms. They took cardboard to the recycling center and a lot of other things that just seem to never get done. Again, we want to say a big "Thank you" to all who participated and to the organizers of this wonderful event.

PLAYING THE NAZI CARD NOT EFFECTIVE

Editor:

I'm a Ben Gohs fan. His Libertarian views are interesting and much rarer that they should be. However, his Operation Dine-n-Dash column (entitled "It's time for Operation Dine-n-Dash which appeared on page 4 of the Sept. 19 edition of the Courier) goes over the line in much the same way as the infamous MoveOn.Org's "General Betray Us" ad. In both cases the attempt to be persuasive backfired by antagonizing interested readers. Playing the Nazi card angers many, even those who disagree with Bush, for a variety of reasons.

Gohs states, "Traditionally, if you disagree with war, no matter how arbitrary and unjust, as Nazi Herman Goering pointed out, you are less of a citizen." Clearly this is an analogy. It implies that the Bush administration uses the same propaganda techniques as the administration of Adolf Hitler. That is absurd, unfair, foolish and just plain wrong. It reflects badly on a talented writer.

Simplistic poll questions fail to identify tens of millions of Americans who believe the invasion of Iraq was a major strategic error. They want our armed forces out of Iraq. However, they would disagree with any immediate bail out plan as possibly a greater and further destabilizing mistake.

We have a 200 plus year history of electing a president every four years, unlike Germany or in fact all of Europe. Our next president will not be George Bush and at this juncture it appears possible, even likely, she will be from the other party with opposing views. If the current administration is using Herman Goering methods they are clearly failing badly. Gohs and others in opposition are being heard loud and clear.

The Nazi government that Goering was part of is responsible for the slaughter of millions. The errors of the Bush administration are not in the same league.

"Patriotism is love of country, not blind devotion to bean counters and policy writers," Gohs states. Yes indeed, most Americans would agree. However, we should all remember that our globally rare First Amendment rights are best exercised responsibly.

10 things you never knew about Bonnie Staffel Bringing you closer to your neighbors ...

Sculptor, potter, painter, teacher and Charlevoix Courier proofreader Bonnie Staffel has seen a great many changes in her nearly nine decades on the planet. Several galleries currently offer Staffel's works of art including the Crooked Tree Arts Center, Gallery on Main in Bay Harbor and The Cycling Salamander in Norwood which also happens to be the site of the pottery shop she operated for 20 years.

Staffel, who attended the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, has studied art in numerous countries including China and Japan and she taught crafting at an adult education center called a folk school for three winters in Denmark.

1. How did art pique your interest?

"Since I was little I was always furnished with art materials: Coloring books, paint. It was my goal in life to be an artist. In 1948 I took an adult education class at the Toledo Art Museum. When I touched clay I dropped painting except for what I do on my pots."

2. What is something you still hope to accomplish?

"I would like to be able to get back to my (pottery) wheel. (Staffel recently suffered an injury for which she is currently in physical therapy and is unable to get to her basement studio.) Losing your independence is a big deal as you get older."

3. Is there anything else you would liked to have done with your life?

"I love words and editing and my job now with the paper."

4. If you could change one thing about yourself or your world what would it be?

"I would like to be thin."

5. What has been your most important accomplishment?

"Pottery is important. It's a history of life and the things people use. It's the history of past generations."

6. If you could meet anyone, living or dead, for an hour lunch, who would it be?

"Bernard Leach. I had an opportunity to go to England and I went to see the Bernard Leach Studio he is the grandfather of studio pottery (studio pottery being one or two artists as opposed to a factory full of artisans mass-producing works). He was already dead but I met his wife."

7. What is your favorite food to eat or prepare?

"I'm famous for my homemade pizza."

8. What really makes you angry?

"I rarely get angry. I try to look on the optimistic side."

9. What is something people don't know about you?

"Something I never spoke about is I worked in a small factory and I painted the eyelashes on Shmoos figurines in the late 1940s. (The Shmoos are mythical creatures which appeared in the Lil' Abner cartoon strip and are merchandised as toys, glassware and figurines among other items.)

10. What is your favorite piece to create?

"I enjoy making serving trays and I make whole dish sets."

Island kicks off fall Oct. 6 with Boodle and Bite events

The annual Bite of Beaver Island food festival and Island Boodle have grown leaps and bounds in the last six years.

"The process of folks discovering the autumn beauty of Beaver Island is well underway. The unique combination of a 5K run and a food festival just works," said the island's Chamber of Commerce executive director, Steve West.

Both events are on Saturday, Oct. 6. The Island Boodle 5K Run/Walk starts at 10 a.m. It follows a scenic lakefront and trails course around Beaver Island's Paradise Bay. The event benefits the Beaver Island School Sports Boosters.

Medals will be provided for runners in several age groups. Each entrant will receive a T-shirt. Race day registration begins at 8 a.m. at Beaver Island's Shamrock across from the ferry dock. Advanced registration will be accepted until Sept. 28. For more information and an entry form, visit www.beaverisland.org or call the Chamber of Commerce at (231) 448-2505.

Following the 5K the Bite of Beaver Island food festival runs from 1 to 4 p.m. This year the popular "Bite" is spilling out into the street. In addition to the traditional Holy Cross Church Hall location, a main street tent has been added. Vendors offering items other than food will be added this year under the tent.

Both professional and talented amateur chefs will be offering small portions of their specialty items generally priced in the $2 to $5 range. Popular items in the past ranged from succulent lamb chops to pizza. The highly competitive local apple pie contest will also be judged at the church hall.

Some interesting items will be offered at a variety of locations along Main Street. Just a couple of examples include a moped raffle and smoked and grilled wild game by the Beaver Island Wildlife Club.

For more information about both the Bite of Beaver Island and the Island Boodle, visit the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce Web site at www.beaverisland.org or call (231) 448-2505.

OBITUARIES

Stanley Fiedorek: March 11, 1922 - Sept. 18, 2007

Stanley Paul Fiedorek, 85, died on Sept. 18 after many months of fighting a spinal cord abscess.

Stanley was born on March 11, 1922 in Kalamazoo and graduated from Kalamazoo Central High School where he lettered in football, basketball and baseball. Upon graduation he enlisted on Sept. 19, 1942, in the United States Air Force. He was stationed at Hobbs, New Mexico, and served during World War II as flight engineer on B-17's which were known as The Flying Fortress. He was honorably discharged on Feb. 16, 1946.

After the service, Stanley married Jean Katherine DeMink, a Michigan Bell Telephone supervisor, and he worked for Durmatalic, a tool and die company in Kalamazoo. Because of Stanley's passion for sports, he moved his wife and then only three young children to Charlevoix in 1960, where he built and ran Paul Bunyan Lanes, the local bowling alley. Stanley loved to bowl in the winter and golf in the summer. During this time in his life he also enjoyed hunting and fishing.

Stanley retired from his business in 1989 and traveled for three years with Jean to Florida, New Mexico and California. Then Stan and Jean settled into retirement in Charlevoix, where Stan became a regular in a golf group known locally as "The Elders," that played daily at the Charlevoix Golf Club. He also enjoyed cutting trees on his wood lot, caring for his large yard and spending time with his family. Stanley took care of Jean as her health failed until she died in October 2004.

Stanley was blessed to find Kathy Garten to share the last few years of his life. Kathy and Stanley enjoyed bowling in the Young at Hearts League at Paul Bunyan Lanes, weekly family dinners in the homes of Stan's children John Fiedorek (Stacey Gaisor) and Kay (Bruce) Wasilewski, and summer visits with his other two children, Paul Fiedorek (Joy Canning) and Lynn Klug (Robert Peterson).

In addition to Stanley's four children Paul, Lynn, Kay and John, and his companion, Kathy, he is also survived by his two nieces Patricia and Barbara, and four grandchildren, John Paul Fiedorek, Daniel Klug, Rebekah (Nathan) Schuh, and Melissa Welham.

The family hosted a celebration of his life on Saturday, Sept. 22, at the VFW hall on U.S. 31. Donations may be made to the local Junior Golf Program to honor Stanley.

Lester Freidinger: Died Sept. 18, 2007

Lester M. Freidinger died Sept. 18 at age 94 in Clearwater, Fla.

He was born in Linwood and lived many years in Saginaw where he was on the board of directors of United Fund, YMCA, Saginaw General Hospital and Family Federal Savings & Loan. He worked in the brewing industry for over 40 years. He was vice-president and manager of Frankenmuth Brewing Company and in 1965 became regional vice-president of Carling Brewing Company in Cleveland. He became executive vice-president and director of Stroh Brewing Company in 1967. While residing in Bloomfield Hills, he served as director of Amerisure Insurance Company, Detroit Coca Cola and the Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

He retired to Naples, Fla. in 1989 where he lived with his wife, Theodora K. Freidinger until her death in 2000. He is survived by four loving sons, William H. Freidinger (Elaine) of Bloomfield Hills, Reed K. Freidinger, MD (Janet) of Charlevoix, Theodore L. Freidinger (Susan) of Dunedin, Fla., and Robert L. Freidinger of Lisle, Ill. He is survived by seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. A private memorial is planned. Memorial gifts may be made to Hospice of the Suncoast, 5771 Roosevelt Blvd,, Clearwater, Fla. 33760.

Louise Houghton: Aug. 25, 1941 - Sept. 18, 2007

A funeral took place on Friday, Sept. 21, at the Harvest Barn Word of Life Church in East Jordan, Pastor Kimon Criner officiated. Burial took place at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

She was born Aug. 25, 1941, in Petoskey to Hersel and Marguerite (Kaden) Clark. Louise graduated from Charlevoix High School, and on May 14, 1960, she married Robert S. Houghton in Charlevoix. Louise was a farmer and raised cattle as well as numerous other animals. She was also very interested in family genealogy. Louise had a caring heart and was always trying to fix or help situations for all who were in need, whether it was family, friends or her animals.

She is survived by her husband, Robert S. of Charlevoix; son, Larry (Kristi) Houghton of Petoskey; daughters, Jennifer Houghton, and Trish (Bud Roof) Houghton all of East Jordan; grandchildren, Nathan, Summer and Valerie; sisters, Patricia Burke, Betty Myers and Ellen Daniel all of Petoskey, Elaine (Albert) Houghton of Bay Shore; and many nieces and nephews.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Harvest Barn Word of Life Church in East Jordan.

Mary Washegesic: July 19, 1917 - Sept. 21, 2007

Mary Washegesic, 90, of Charlevoix, died Friday, Sept. 21 at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Mary was born in Charlevoix, on July 19, 1917, the daughter of Dan A. and Delia (Aiken) McSawby. She married Alexander Boulton, and they had four children, Richard Boulton, Deanna Belcher, Glenda Cantu and Gerald Boulton, all of who preceded Mary in death. After Alex died, she married Archie James Washegesic, and he preceded her in death in 1967.

Mary is survived by their children, Robert Washegesic of Charlevoix; daughters, Donna Washegesic of Charlevoix, Janice Newstead of Alanson. She was mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, great-great-grandmother, and aunt Mary to many others.

Mary's love of nature and story telling of days gone by will be missed but not forgotten. She was a member of St. Mary Church in Charlevoix, and the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians. Visitation took place on Tuesday, Sept. 25, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix followed by a procession to St. Mary Church where a Rite of Christian Burial was held. Rev. Jerry Hunko officiated. A Sacred Fire burns for Mary at her home, and all are welcome.

Nicholas Sauro: Feb. 18, 1980 - Sept. 22, 2007

Nick Sauro of St. Louis, Mo., formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, Gaylord and East Jordan, passed away on Saturday, Sept. 22 in East Jordan. The son of Mary (Norm) Vogt of East Jordan, and Frank (Adriana) Sauro of St. Louis. Nick was on his way home for a visit with his family and friends.

He was born on Feb. 18, 1980 in Sault Ste. Marie and was a carpenter for Alberici Construction Company in St. Louis.

Nick was an avid hunter, fisherman, golfer, snowboarder and wakeboarder and good friend to all who knew him. He had a smile that could warm your heart.

He is survived by his mother and stepfather; father and stepmother; brothers, Tony Madigan of St. Louis, Austin Vogt of New York City and Tyler Vogt of Boyne City; nieces, Jordan Madigan and Riley Madigan, both of St. Louis; and his best friends, Toby Prevo and Rebecca Murray, both of East Jordan. Also surviving are several aunts, uncles and cousins.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents, Dr. Tony and Wanda Trapasso and Dennie and Lena Sauro.

Visitation will be at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 29 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 207 Nicholas St., East Jordan. Funeral services will be Saturday at noon at the church.

In lieu of flowers, donations are appreciated to the Friends of the Jordan River Watershed, 800 Water St., East Jordan, MI 49727.

Although he is gone from us, he will live forever in our minds and hearts. He will always be young and beautiful.

One year later, library reports leap in use

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix Public Library has realized many successes since opening the doors on Sept. 25, 2006 at its new location, 220 West Clinton St.

Over 18,000 people came into the building in August 2007. Foot traffic in August 2007 was up 113 percent over August 2006.

Answered 2,500 reference questions in August 2007.

The library has 5,300 active cardholders and offers 7,000 more items at its new location than before.

The library's meeting rooms are booked an average of 60 times per month.

Circulation is up about 75 percent since the move.

Technology classes are being offered.

Library programs have been added including everything from jazz musicians to lectures on art history to speaking engagements by famous authors.

Hobby group meetings

More assistance with increased staff

Library hours are Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Nearly a year since the new Charlevoix Public Library's grand opening, library director Val Meyerson sat down with the Charlevoix Courier to reflect on the new facility.

According to Meyerson, not only was foot traffic up 113 percent this August, but the number of library cardholders has increased by 29 percent.

"It has been wonderful. We have been tremendously busy," she said. "People seem to be using the facility — over 18,000 people came into the building in August."

She added, "They love it. People are finding what they came in for and they are coming in for all sorts of different things, some just to visit and look at the building and some to come for an event or a meeting."

The library's meeting rooms are booked an average of 60 times per month.

"Circulation, what we check out, has been up about 75 percent since we've moved in," Meyerson said. "And, there are lots of different things we offer, first and foremost technology, we are providing classes for people to learn basic stuff like computerizing and we are collaborating with the college (North Central Michigan College) where they come in and teach classes to the public."

She added, "The other thing we are able to provide that we were not able to provide before was programming. We've had great response to our adult programs and we've been able to offer about 15 to 20 programs a month."

The library programs have included everything from jazz musicians to lectures on art history to speaking engagements by famous authors.

"Another thing we do that we couldn't do before is the meetings with friends where we have different groups such as French, Spanish, writers, knitting," she said. "We have book discussions and these groups come in every week and discuss French or a book or writing."

She added, "And, in the fall we'll be starting our movie programs Monday movie matinees after school for kids and then afternoon movies where we're showing classics."

Another feature folks have utilized over the past year is an increase in staff.

"We are able to provide more assistance now that we have more staff," Meyerson said. "People are able to come in and they will help you find whatever you're looking for. We answered 2,500 reference questions in August and we're able to help you find whatever concerns you come in with, be it a phone number or help getting on a Web site or what's a good book to read."

She added, "And then there is just the building itself, which is just a wonderful place for people to come and enjoy themselves and enjoy the company of other people, read a magazine, drink a cup of coffee and be in a comfortable, homey atmosphere."

The Charlevoix Library's 5,300 active cardholders should also know the library has 7,000 more items at its new location than before.

While some residents voiced concerns over the expense of operating a larger facility, Meyerson said careful planning was key to avoiding problems.

"We were right on what we anticipated last winter. Are there costs that have occurred, of course when you are quadrupling the size of building the utilities go up," she said. "But, the board and I worked hard to get good numbers and with the way we budgeted, we're not shocked and we're able to accommodate that."

While the summer staff levels at the library are considerably higher than in the off season, Meyerson said she likes to have a minimum of four staff members on hand to operate the building, but that the State of Michigan's financial woes haven't had much effect on her bottom line.

"We are a district library so we are a taxing entity," she said. "The majority of our operating funds come from a local millage the taxpayers do pay but we also get some revenue from the state because a portion of penal fines go to public libraries, so when you pay your traffic ticket (some of) that money is funneled to libraries."

Upcoming events at the library include Michigan Chillers author Jonathan Rand on Oct. 6 and the premier of "Hollywood Librarians" a documentary at 2 p.m. on Sept. 30 and 7 p.m. on Oct. 5.

For more information, call the information desk at (231) 237-7340.

Library hours are Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

As the library prepares to celebrate its first anniversary at its new location at 220 West Clinton St. director Val Meyerson discusses the changes she's seen in its use. She told the Courier people are coming in for all sorts of different things, including children's events like these kids who went to the library on Wednesday, Sept. 19 for Talk Like a Pirate Day. They are Lauren Shepard, Grace Ward and Ondreya Veenstra of Becky's Day Care.

Friends host Sept. 30 screening of 'The Hollywood Librarian'

THE HOLLYWOOD LIBRARIAN
A LOOK AT LIBRARIANS THROUGH FILM

The Charlevoix Public Library is proud to present "The Hollywood Librarian: A Look at Librarians through Film," the first full-length documentary film to focus on the work and lives of librarians.

Screenings will take place at 2 p.m. on Sept. 30 and 7 p.m. on Oct. 5 at the library, located at 220 West Clinton St.

This American film contains hundreds of examples of librarians and libraries on screen. Dozens of interviews of real librarians will be interwoven with movie clips of cinematic librarians and serve as transitions between the themes of censorship, intellectual freedom, children and librarians, pay equity and funding issues, and the value of reading. "The Hollywood Librarian" is a blend of film clips, humor and critical analysis of the popular image of librarians.

One of only two showings in the state of Michigan, Charlevoix Library is excited to bring this first of its kind documentary to the public. The screening will take place in the library's new community meeting room and popcorn will be served.

Friends of the Library will be hosting the screening as a fund-raiser for future projects. Tickets will be sold at the door and are $8 for those 12 and up, $5 for ages 5-12 and seniors, young children and library employees are admitted free.

For more information, call (231) 237-7340.

Boy honored for saving 5-year-old from drowning

BY STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

STORY HIGHLIGHT
On Sept. 18, East Jordan Elementary School fifth grader Johnathan Dixon, 11, was recognized with a lifesaving award by Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater for his role in saving a 5-year-old from drowning on Aug. 3 at an Eveline Township beach.

For Johnathan Dixon, keeping an eye on younger kids is nothing new.

The 11-year-old East Jordan Elementary School fifth-grader has two younger siblings — ages 6 and 7 — who, according to their grandmother, have a knack for finding their way into trouble.

It was with the same watchful eye that he looks out for his siblings that Johnathan noticed another young child in trouble while swimming in Lake Charlevoix in August.

On Aug. 3, Johnathan was swimming with his family at the Eveline Township beach on Washington Street in Ironton. Johnathan, his family and another family were swimming in a shallow area of the lake when a child in the other family, 5-year-old Chasyn Vrondran, stepped into a sink hole and went in the water over his head. Chasyn's mother noticed her son in trouble, but as she ran to his aid, she became stuck in the clay and was unable to get to Chasyn.

Seeing the situation, Johnathan ran to the area where Chasyn was struggling and pulled him to safety.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater said he believes that Chasyn might have drowned were it not for Johnathan's actions.

On Tuesday, Sept. 18 Lasater came to Johnathan's school and, in front of all his classmates, presented Johnathan with a lifesaving award for his efforts on that day.

Both Johnathan's mother, Amber Dixon, and his grandmother, Nancy Dixon, said Johnathan has shrugged off the attention he's received.

"He thinks it's no big deal," his mother said.

Appearing a little overwhelmed by the attention — which included interviews by several television and newspaper reporters — Johnathan said receiving the award was "great" and that his friends gave him "lots of high-fives" when they heard of his feat.

East Jordan Elementary School Principal Cal Prins said students and staff at the school are proud of Johnathan and he held out Johnathan's actions to the students as an example of helping others — a virtue many schools try to emphasize to students.

Human services information summit set for Sept. 28

The Human Services Coordinating Body of Charlevoix and Emmet counties is facilitating the 13th Annual Human Services Information Summit from 8 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 28 at the First Presbyterian Church of Harbor Springs.

The free Information Summit is designed to help locals become more informed of the many services offered by health and human service organizations in the two-county area. Health and human service professionals, paraprofessionals, volunteers, community leaders, community members, governmental officials, and school staff are invited to attend.

Donna Jean, grief counselor, author and public speaker will provide the keynote address, which will focus on her experiences navigating the human services system as she found and used services for her family from a variety of agencies.

For additional information, call Lorraine Manary, Human Services Coordinating Body coordinator, at North Country Community Mental Health Services at (231) 347-6701.

Over 30 agencies will be sharing information about their services and programs through breakout sessions. Concurrently throughout the morning, a resource fair will take place with community groups and organizations hosting tables with information regarding their local services.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. Pre-registration isn't needed.

For more information, call Jan Mancinelli at the Women's Resource Center (231) 347-0067.

Charlevoix Public Schools begin strategic planning

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Chet Janik

Henry Ford said, "Failing to plan is planning to fail" and to avoid doing so Charlevoix Public Schools will soon begin strategic planning.

According to new superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Chet Janik, it won't be enough to simply devise a plan, action must be taken.

"If you look at any school that's successful, they have a strategic plan in place," he said. "Especially now, with the financial situation critical, we need to come up with a plan and go forward."

The strategic planning committee will consist of, ideally, 40 to 50 people, two-thirds of whom will not be employees of Charlevoix Public Schools.

"It is critical we get as many people with different viewpoints as possible," Janik said. "We are currently mailing surveys and invitations to join the committee to every parent and guardian in the district."

Any interested party who does not receive an invitation should contact Janik at 547-3200.

Janik knows from experience how well a plan works if it is implemented correctly.

"We (while he was at Northern Michigan University in the Upper Peninsula) had a bond issue which was passed after a strategic planning committee came up with a good plan and goal," he said. "One of their major issues was to upgrade their facilities, but they needed financing."

He added, "They passed a $34.7 million bond effort in 1999 and were able to build a maritime campus, improve existing facilities and create a university center."

Janik said he and the board could propose goals and plans of action, but it will mean much more to area residents if they are in on the planning.

"One thing I've noticed in talking with people since I've been here is the people would like to have more dialogue and open communication," he said. "Everyone will have an opportunity to be on this committee if they choose and we look forward to their input."

The committee will likely discuss the sharing of employees among local school districts, an idea Janik is already looking into.

"We're going to look at ways maybe we can partner. We're looking at how we can keep our high academic standards, now I can't afford to hire a full-time curriculum director, but maybe we can split that with another district," he said. Some districts are looking into splitting bus maintenance, some are splitting food service, some are looking at (sharing) one business manager."

Janik said peak performing boards of education focus on issues and topics instead of personalities, encourage the open exchange of views and opinions, abide by majority decisions on issues and participate in the community.

"It can't be a plan we sit down and come up with and put on a shelf that's not looked upon for three years," he said. "This has to be an ongoing process."

He added, "Unfortunately, I've seen this where people come up with a plan and nine months or a year later they look at it and say, 'Have we accomplished this?' We have to be proactive here."

The planning committee may also address what Janik sees as a disparity in technological understanding between students and teachers.

"Most teachers are technology immigrants, that is their level is pretty basic, while most students are third or fourth generation technology users," he said. "I bet if I gave an Ipod to all of our teachers, most of them would not know how to download a song. I bet if I gave an Ipod to one of our fifth graders, they would know how to use it, how to download, get online, use Myspace(.com), how to instant message."

He added, "In technology, most of our students are more advanced than our teachers. It's a challenge just to get some teachers to use e-mail."

Janik pointed to some classes, like math or English, which haven't changed much, if at all, over the past few decades, as classes where teachers may not need to be technologically savvy.

But, he said, "Students are very visual because they're so used to (technology). Most of them have Ipods, cell phones, Game Boys, they'd rather be doing online research."

Janik will compile the responses from the surveys mailed and will have the information ready for the first committee meeting, the date of which has yet to be set.

"Whatever the concerns and goals are, there has to be a tangible way to measure our progress," he said. "We can say we have great students, but what does that mean? We need to track our progress whether it is by looking at test scores or graduation rates."

He added, "We can come up with all sorts of feel good things, but we need a game plan to achieve our goals."

> "If you look at any school that's successful, they have a strategic plan in place. Especially now, with the financial situation critical, we need to come up with a plan and go forward."

Oct. 1 safety seminar at Charlevoix High School tackles bullying and terror topics

The Region Seven Homeland Security Planning Board and the Charlevoix Cheboygan and Emmet Counties Office of Emergency Management will offer an afternoon seminar with featured speaker Michael Dorn.

Dorn is an international authority on school safety having authored and co-authored more than 20 books on the topic. The seminar will take place from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 1 in the auditorium at Charlevoix High School, located at 5200 Marion Center Rd.

The seminar's target audience includes educators, counselors, administrators, school staff, and first responder agencies as well as interested citizens.

SESSIONS

School Safety Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow:

This session will provide a brief historical overview of school safety incidents followed by an examination of the most crucial and effective core strategies for school staff to focus on to improve the level of safety and emergency preparedness in the district.

Weak Fish – Bullying Through the Eyes of a Child:

This presentation uses the case study of a child who was chronically bullied in school to illustrate how adults who work with children, parents and students can make a difference in the lives of troubled youth.

Innocent Targets – When Terrorism Comes to School:

Previously presented for the United States Department of Homeland Security and at numerous state anti-terrorism conferences, this session will provide practical steps to help schools and their public safety partners.

For more information, contact the emergency management coordinator at the Charlevoix Cheboygan and Emmet Counties Office of Emergency Management at (231) 439-3333.

Northwest offers home school students music experience

Home school students Eli Schmidt (In the red) and his older brother Aaron warm-up on their instruments in Gary Stutzman's home school music class at Northwest Academy.

For the first time since Northwest Academy opened in 1996, the beginning band will consist of all home school students.

Due to scheduling conflicts within the school, the only students that have the time in their schedule to take band are home school students.

The intermediate band is made up of sixth through eighth-grade students and the advanced band consists of grades eighth through twelfth graders.

Northwest Academy has enjoyed a long and very rewarding relationship with home school students since the school first opened.

"I find that the students that come to us as 'home school' students are more serious about their level of commitment to their instrument," said Northwest Academy director of bands, Gary Stutzman. "Many of the home school students also take other classes that they are not able to get instruction in such as, Spanish, art or technology. Some students also come to us for some of their core classes during the school day."

The Northwest band program is open to any student that has an interest in learning how to play a wind instrument. Many students that want to excel at a rapid pace will study privately with one of the many brass, woodwind, or percussion instructors in the area.

"We have been participating in the band program for the last four years and are currently participating. Our children love music and the band program at Northwest Academy has provided a great way to help our children develop and use their musical talents. Our children have had the chance to travel and compete with the band," said Gayle Kroon, a home school parent and director of Charlevoix Area Home School Group. "It's so nice to have a school system that is willing to work with the home schooling community."

Grassroots action preserves Lake Charlevoix Farm

STORY HIGHLIGHT

On Aug 1, the 75-acre Lake Charlevoix Farm property which includes more than a half mile of scenic Boyne City-Charlevoix Road frontage and a multitude of habitats was purchased for permanent protection as a nature preserve owned and managed by Little Traverse Conservancy

Perseverance, optimism, and mostly just a love of the land have paid off for a group of community grassroots fundraisers who successfully made the protection of the 75-acre Lake Charlevoix Farm permanent.

The property includes more than a half mile of scenic Boyne City-Charlevoix Road frontage and a multitude of habitats. It was the most ambitious fundraising campaign the conservancy has embarked on to date within the Lake Charlevoix Watershed.

THE HISTORY

The history of the property is as rich and colorful as its natural features. The main house, now adjacent to the preserve property, was first built by a civil war veteran. Later, the farm was the main dairy that served the City of Boyne City.

"After World War I, this property was part of a huge farm owned by a couple of professors," said Sara Gay Dammann, a neighbor to the property.

Horses were often kept on the land and legend has it that a glass section was built into the floor of a house located above a barn so that the owner's wife could look down at her prized horses. That barn/house is now owned by Gentry Peeveyhouse, who also once owned the Lake Charlevoix Farm Preserve property. According to the neighbors, Peeveyhouse was part of a long line of landowners who used to allow people to walk the land and enjoy it.

"It was more than we needed just for ourselves," Peeveyhouse said. "All I wanted was for it to be the way it is."

"Most of the previous owners of the property saw the land for what it was and encouraged others to love it for its natural splendor," Dammann said. "And then, all of a sudden, the land became merchandise."

A few years ago, the property landed in the hands of a development group based in Florida. More than 20 homes were planned for the beautiful ridges that offer views of Lake Charlevoix. This alarmed the neighbors who saw the development as a threat to the many ecosystems of the farm. So they started to put their heads together.

Bill Henne, who lives immediately to the east of the property and has protected his own farm with a conservation easement, helped spearhead the effort.

"I just couldn't stand by and see this beautiful farm become a subdivision," Henne said.

Phone calls to neighbors and to the conservancy kicked things into gear. Community meetings were held at Henne's home and some of the group started to attend township meetings regarding the proposed development. Development appeared imminent.

But last fall, a series of events changed everything and the property went back on the market. Other neighbors, Mike and Maureen Whitehead, reinvigorated the community group and together with the conservancy, got back to work.

Ty Ratliff, land protection specialist with the conservancy, noted that he had been meeting with a group along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road corridor for several years, inspired in part by Mike and Rhea Dow's 2004 donation of the Undine Nature Preserve.

"The Lake Charlevoix Farm project really rallied the troops together. We started out thinking the fundraising goal to purchase the property was just too far out of reach, but when we let others know about the opportunity, the response was incredible," Ratliff said.

THE RESULT

On Aug. 1, the Lake Charlevoix Farm property was purchased for permanent protection as a nature preserve owned and managed by Little Traverse Conservancy.

"We could not be happier about the outcome of the Lake Charlevoix Farms project," said Paul Zardus, another member of the community group. "The time, follow-up and overall tenacity that all of the parties put into this project to make it happen was a true testament of the wonderful people who care about the land and how it is used."

News from the desk of the new city manager

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

> "We're here for the long-term. This is definitely not a stepping stone."
>
> Robert Straebel
> CHARLEVOIX CITY MANAGER

Last week, the Courier sat down with Robert Straebel, the new Charlevoix city manager, to give readers a look at his past and what he's doing now.

Straebel was hired in July to fill the vacancy of former city manager Mike Wiesner who council fired in January.

Wiesner has since accepted the directorship of the Boyne City Department of Public Works.

Name? Robert Straebel

Age? 42

Position? Charlevoix city manager effective Sept. 4

Where are you from? Taos Ski Valley, N.M.

Family? Wife, Rose; mother, Sue Straebel of South Torch Lake; sister, Molly Straebel of Traverse City.

Prior experience? Former village administrator for Taos Ski Valley, N.M. for three-and-a-half years. Taos Ski Valley is a small skiing community in the Rocky Mountains with 56 full-time residents. Previously, Straebel was town manager of Hayden, Colo. and started his career as a manager's assistant in Commerce City, Colo.

Education? He received a master of public administration from the University of Colorado at Denver and a bachelor of arts in marketing from Ferris State University.

Salary? $79,000

Office hours? 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday on the second floor of Charlevoix City Hall, located at 210 State St.

Contact information? (231) 547-3270

Courier: What strengths do you think you bring to this job?

Straebel: "My education and over 10 years of experience in public administration have given me the skills to run a large, complex organization such as the City of Charlevoix."

C: What weaknesses will you have to overcome?

S: "Getting to know everyone will take a long time. And there will be statewide deregulation issues with the electric department I'll have to get up to speed on. And I've never worked in a community with a marina before. I'll have to work hand-in-hand with the harbormaster to learn the issues of dealing with a marina."

C: Have you ever been responsible for a project as large as the East Park and marina renovations?

S: "I have been in charge of big capital improvement projects — wastewater treatment plant construction and construction of public safety and public works buildings."

C: How long do you plan to stay here?

S: "We're here for the long-term. I have a three-year contract that will hopefully be renewed. We purchased a home on Klooster Road and are really happy with where we are living. This is definitely not a stepping stone."

C: What have you been focusing on in these first two weeks?

S: "My first responsibility so far is getting the recruiting process for a new planner/zoning administrator underway (planner Gerry Harsch retired effective Aug. 31 and zoning administrator Dianne Manore told Straebel she plans to retire before Jan. 1, 2008). That office isn't always staffed. It has been my interest to staff that office Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. to give better customer service to developers and residents of the community."

C: Has anything surprised you?

S: "Nothing really yet. Certainly the palatial office. I typically have an office half this size. This is a great facility to work in."

C: Do you plan to make any changes?

S: "The only change I've recommended so far with a sense of urgency is moving forward with the planner/zoning administrator's position. Generally, I want to get my feet underneath me."

C: What were your thoughts on the recent interactive fountain proposal for East Park?

S: "I remained neutral. I think the comments made at the meeting (Sept. 17 public hearing) regarding family and the opportunity for families to visit and enjoy such a great feature were very interesting."

Davies and Staffel exhibit together again

The Jordan River Arts Council will exhibit the works of Charlevoix potter Bonnie Staffel and the late John Davies of Flint.

Davies and Staffel exhibited together in 1964-shortly before Davies' death at the Left Bank Gallery in Flint. This retrospective exhibit will feature examples of their lifetime works.

Davies' work began during the Depression with his first one-man show in 1929. During the Depression, Davies taught painting under the auspices of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, a forerunner of the Works Progress Administration. He also taught at the Flint Institute of Art, for the Mott Foundation, and the University of Michigan Extension Service in Flint. He was one of the charter members of the Flint Sculpture Association/Left Bank Gallery Cooperative.

He was a prolific painter and printmaker who developed a unique technique of serigraphs without using the traditional cut screen. He was well-known for landscapes and city scenes, receiving many awards. The exhibit features over 70 works of art many of which will be for sale. Especially notable are the intaglio prints from the 1930s, watercolors, and the series of limited edition portfolio serigraphs.

His work is represented in many museums including the Detroit Institute of Art, Flint Institute of Art, Albion College, Saginaw Museum and the Weisman Art Museum in Minneapolis, Minn. His work can also be found in many private collections. Davies is the grandfather of John Hubbard of Boyne City and Steve Hubbard of Central Lake.

SEE RELATED STORY PAGE 6

Staffel is a well-known potter now living in Charlevoix. She became acquainted with Davies while living in Maumee, Ohio. She has a long list of credits and is represented in many museums and private collections. She, with Bill Staffel, established Staffel Pottery in 1965, now the Cycling Salamander, south of Charlevoix. In 1985, they closed the studio doors and Bonnie ventured to North Carolina to work in the John C. Campbell Folk School and eventually became program director. She has taught in Denmark and Guatemala, Miss. and for Elder Hostel. She has also traveled to the Orient, visiting China, Japan, Thailand and Hong Kong, as well as England, Norway and Germany.

She has produced functional pottery as well as one-of-a-kind stoneware and porcelain sculptures. One signature item are her birds. Her later work includes beautiful large vessels which have been pit fired. Staffel has received many awards, participated in numerous shows and exhibits since 1949. She is a member of Jordan River Arts Council and exhibits at the center frequently.

Staffel was one of the curators of the Masters in Clay exhibit at the council and now, along with Bill Staffel, has curated the Davies' Exhibit. The exhibit opens Oct. 14 and runs through Nov. 11. The Jordan River Arts Center is open daily from 1-4 p.m. at 301 Main St. in East Jordan.

Sheriff supports new memorial

Free cancer screenings offered today at health department

A free women's cancer screening opportunity will be offered at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan's Charlevoix office.

The screenings are from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Sept. 26. They will be conducted by a licensed nurse practitioner and include a clinical breast exam, pelvic exam with Pap test and free mammogram. The services are available to Charlevoix County women between the ages of 40 and 64 who are uninsured.

Two community groups, Alden High Tea for Breast Cancer and Sue DeYoung/Judy Edger Memorial Breast Cancer Walk donated proceeds from their events to support clinics in their local communities. The donations cover expenses for 50 new screening appointments.

Teresa Sington who coordinates the Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program in a seven-county region that consists of Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Grand Traverse, Emmet, Leelanau and Otsego counties, said the screenings are important to identify cancers in the early stages, when they are easier and much less expensive to treat.

"About a quarter of the women we see are referred to specialists for further diagnostic tests," she said. "We refer to a network of physicians who graciously accept reduced payment for women screened through the program."

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan's Charlevoix office is located at 220 West Garfield St.

Screenings are by appointment only. Call (800) 432-4121 or 547-0295 to register.

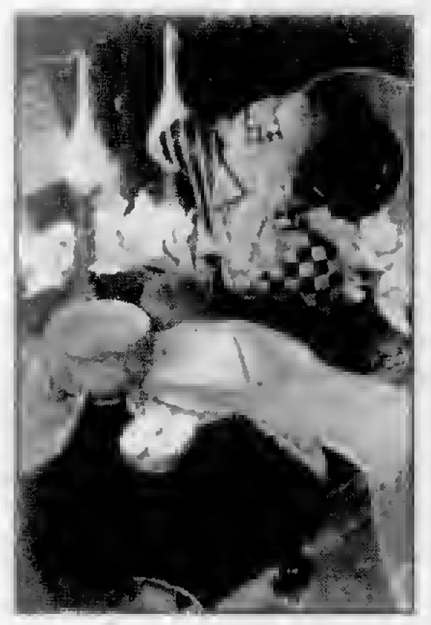
Crooked Tree opens fall still life exhibition



Courtesy photo

(Above) "June's Samurai," a pastel painting by Bill Hosner of Petoskey is one of many still life works from Michigan artists on display at the Crooked Tree Arts Center's fall exhibition entitled "Gatherings: A Still Life Exhibition."

The Crooked Tree Arts Center recently opened the fall exhibition entitled "Gatherings: A Still Life Exhibition."

The exhibition features still life artists from across the state each displaying two to three works.

"Gatherings is not just a definition of subject matter collected and recreated in the still lifes on display in the Edith Gilbert Gallery, but also a "gathering" of artists from across the State of Michigan," said Gail Hosner, visual arts and education director at Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Artists included are: Rick Ford from Harbor Springs, Ken Freed from Kalamazoo, Margie Guyot from Farmington Hills, William Hosner from Petoskey, Honore Lee from Kalamazoo, Denise Lisiecki from Kalamazoo, Catherine Maize from South Haven, Mike McDonnell from Frankfort, Elizabeth Pollie from Harbor Springs, Darcy Scott from West Bloomfield, Donna Vogelheim from Walled Lake, William and Margaret White from Kewadin and Karen Wydra from Clarkston.

The works on display range from oil, pastel, watercolor, graphite, acrylic and mixed media.

Gatherings will be on display through Nov. 24.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located at 461 East Mitchell St. in downtown Petoskey. For more information, call the arts center at (231) 347-4337 or visit www.crookedtree.org.

Big boys, small trucks

Photos by Julie Witthoeft

In 2005, former City of Charlevoix volunteer firefighter Gene Bridge, and his wife Ginny, of Belton, Texas, donated their model fire truck collection to the local fire department. The couple was in town last week to add to the collection which now includes over 40 trucks. (Left) Gene and City of Charlevoix Fire Department shift commander Joe Schwartzfisher place the new trucks in the display case. (Above) Ginny, Gene and Schwartzfisher stand by the display at Charlevoix Public Library. It is available for viewing through fire prevention week, Oct. 7-13. Bridge lived in Charlevoix with his parents from 1929 until 1944. He became a firefighter with the city when he was 14 years old. One of the models, a replica of the fire department's 1940 Chevrolet fire pumper, was new when Bridge became a member of the department. Bridge moved out of Charlevoix when he was 18, and retired as a Captain with the U.S. Merchant Marines.

Great Michigan Read comes to Charlevoix Public Library

In conjunction with Great Michigan Read, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 22, Charlevoix Public Library will present the movie, "Up North with the Hemingways," followed by a community discussion of Ernest Hemingway's "The Nick Adams Stories," moderated by library assistant, Judith Ivan.

The Great Michigan READ promotes literary reading to create an educated and engaged society as readers are introduced or reacquainted with a classic piece of American literature. This year's selection is "The Nick Adams Stories" which chronicles a young man's coming of age in a series of linked short stories, most of which are set in Michigan.

Miss Pumpkin to grace Friske's Harvest Festival

Friske's Orchard will host Friske's Annual Harvest Festival on Saturday, Sept. 29.

Begin the day with a pancake breakfast and then take a walk out to the orchard to pick your own apples or choose that perfect pumpkin. Meet Miss Pumpkin and enjoy the tricks of the trade that Albo the Clown has up his sleeve. After taking a wagon ride through the fields, enjoy some bluegrass/country, gospel music by "One Accord" while having a "harvest theme" lunch in the Orchard Café. After lunch, from 1 to 3 p.m., there will be an old-fashioned kids' carnival with prizes.

Fall harvest items will be available including caramel apple pie, pumpkin and apple donuts, fresh squeezed apple cider, caramel apples, warm apple dumplings and caramel apple cinnamon coffee. Harvest Soup, pork BBQ and apple butter baked beans will highlight the menu.

Friske's Annual Harvest Festival Sept. 29
Schedule of events

Pancake breakfast 8 to 11 a.m.

Meet Miss Pumpkin 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Wagon rides 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Albo the Clown 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Live Music by "One Accord" noon to 3 p.m.

Old-fashioned kid's carnival 1 to 3 p.m.

U-pick apples and pumpkins all day

There is no admission charge. There are charges for food, apple or pumpkin picking and wagon rides. Wagon rides are $2.50 each or $5 per family.

Friske's is located 10 miles south of Charlevoix, on U.S. 31 at Atwood. Business hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Curves is Making Strides Against Breast Cancer

During October, Breast Cancer Awareness month, Curves of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan, will team up with the American Cancer Society's "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer" fund-raiser.

"Curves of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan is committed to helping the women in our community live healthier, stronger lives," said new owner, Liz Kroondyke. "Breast cancer will touch about one in every eight women, but breast cancer death rates are going down. This decline is probably the result of finding the cancer earlier and having access to improved treatment. By encouraging women to get mammograms and rewarding them for doing so, we are helping to fight and even eliminate breast cancer in our lifetime. That's something we take very seriously."

New members who join between Oct. 8 and 20 will pay $25 for the service fee when they bring in a minimum $25 donation to the American Cancer Society or show proof of a current mammogram.

Current members who make a minimum $5 donation to the American Cancer Society will receive a donation certificate that will hang in the club. Each $5 donation also entitles members to put their names in a treasure chest and be eligible for weekly prize drawings throughout October.

Curves founders Diane and Gary Heavin will donate 10 percent of the wholesale sales of all "diane" fragrance products in October to "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer." Members who purchase "diane" fragrance products will also have their name put in the treasure chest.

Curves of Charlevoix is located at 161 M-66.

Boyne City rams Rayders 48-8

Charlevoix falls 48-8 to Ramblers

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix Rayders failed to maintain the momentum of their first win of the season as they were pummeled 48-8 by Boyne City last Friday.

Their only touchdown came from a five-yard pass from Cliff Jones to Corey Gotshall.

"We were able to move the ball on offense, but had too many turnovers," said coach Don Jess. "Boyne's offensive running attack overpowered us. It was very disappointing because we've played well against the run this year."

The defense was led by Nate Golovich and Jake Rankl.

"Now we'll focus on Friday's game against an undefeated Elk Rapids team," Jess said. "It's homecoming, so we'll have to do a good job of staying focused."

The Rayders meet Elk Rapids at 7 p.m. at home on Kipke field this Friday, Sept. 28.

Tennis continues to improve en route to Oct. 2 conference meet

The Rayder tennis team beat Grayling 7-1 on Sept. 18 and lost to Harbor Springs 7-1 on Sept. 19.

Coach Erik Lundteigen said, "The team is improving and working hard gearing up for the conference meet and regional meet in October."

Individual results were:

- First, singles: Alex McKenzie beat Grayling 6-0, 6-0; and lost to Harbor 7-6, 6-1.
- Second, singles: Mike Pelon beat Grayling 6-1, 6-0; and lost to Harbor 6-3, 6-3.
- Third, singles: John Hart beat Grayling 6-1, 6-3; and lost to Harbor 6-1, 6-1.
- Fourth, singles: Zach Smith lost to Grayling 6-4, 6-3 and lost to Harbor 6-2, 7-5.
- First, doubles: Scotty Silberhorn and Kevin Greyerbiehl beat Grayling 6-2, 6-0 and beat Harbor 6-2, 3-2 default.
- Second, doubles: Michael Heckendorn and John Drenth beat Grayling 6-0, 7-6; and lost to Harbor 6-3, 6-0.
- Third, doubles: Amy Pelon and Christina Miller beat Grayling 6-1, 6-1; and lost to Harhor 6-0, 6-1.
- Fifth doubles: Rohbie Rundblad and David Left beat Grayling 6-0, 6-0.
- Fourth, doubles: Matt Murray and Robbie Rundblad lost to Harbor 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

The tennis team plays Glen Lake today, Sept. 26 on the home courts. The conference meet is Oct. 2 and 3 in Petoskey. The regional meet will follow on Oct. 10 and 11.

Thanks to the participants of the 8th Annual Mustang Triathalon Open

September 8, 2007, the annual Mustang Open Women's Triathalon Tournament took place. This year's winners were Shirley Mathers & Nancy Helland. We raised $600 for Charlevoix Humane Society. Twenty-six women participated. The 2-Women Golf Scramble took place at the Mallard Golf Course in East Jordan and was followed by a wonderful buffet lunch served at the Gold Nugget in Ellsworth. After lunch, pool & euchre games were played to finish up the competition. Ray J/DJ provided us with music throughout the afternoon. I would like to thank the area businesses for their support and my friends for helping me make this another successful year.

Tennis anyone?

Jeff Tice and his wife Rebekah enjoyed the last days of sunshine and warm weather last week. The Tices have been vacationing in Charlevoix for the last five years. The warm and sunny weather enjoyed by area residents is expected to come to an end as meteorologists expect isolated thunderstorms and scattered showers to begin today and last through Friday.

Rayder soccer team lock with Rams in conference play

STORY HIGHLIGHT
The Charlevoix Rayders soccer team tied Harbor Springs 1-1 on Sept. 18.

What's next? The Rayders prepare to meet Grayling at 5 p.m. today, Wednesday at Charlevoix High School

Grant Walstrom scored in the second half Tuesday, Sept. 18 as Charlevoix forged a Lake Michigan Conference boys' soccer tie with Harbor Springs.

"We only had one sub, but everyone played hard," Harbor coach Hagen Manker said. "We had chances but couldn't finish, and Charlevoix had chances and couldn't finish, either. It was a defensive game. We'll see what happens next time."

"It's always a tough game in Harbor Springs, regardless of which team has talent and which doesn't, and it was again tonight," Charlevoix coach Josh Block said.

Manker praised his goalie, Sean McCarty.

"He did an excellent job in goal. He made some good saves and got up to take the ball out of the air," Manker said.

"We'll get where we need to be," Block said. "We're playing six freshmen, and they're learning to adjust to very competitive, fast-paced varsity soccer."

Volleyball win streak broken at Charlevoix Invitational

STORY HIGHLIGHT
The Charlevoix Rayders volleyball team took second place at the Charlevoix Invitational on Sept. 22.

What's next? The Rayders prepare to meet Grayling and Harbor Springs at 5 p.m. Sept. 27 at Charlevoix High School.

Suttons Bay defeated Charlevoix, 25-22, 25-22, in the championship match Saturday, Sept. 22 to win the eight-team Charlevoix Volleyball Invitational.

It was the third time this season the Norse and Rayders have met in a tournament championship match, and Suttons Bay has won twice.

Charlevoix opened with a 21-8, 21-4 win over Elk Rapids, then split with Harbor Light Christian, 20-22, 21-17; then beat Kingsley, 21-18, 21-15. In a quarterfinal match, Charlevoix topped Rudyard, 21-10, 21-16, then downed Rogers City, 21-18, 21-17, in a semifinal.

Murphy Gillespie led the Rayders with 43 kills, 55 digs and eight aces; Desi Faust had 30 kills, 43 digs, seven aces; Tammy Potter had 31 kills, six blocks; Shauna Spencley had eight kills; Michelle Burke finished with 44 digs and nine aces; Taylor Storm had 26 digs; and setter Aubrey Way had 99 assists, six kills and 22 digs.

This loss broke a Rayder winning streak that included two big tournament victories in Leland and Petoskey and another triumph over Elk Rapids.

"Thursday's game against Elk Rapids was an exceptional team win. The girls played with heart and every player got to see court time. It was an exceptional day for me to see everyone having fun and enjoying themselves on the court. That's what makes it fun for me as a coach," head coach, Liz Grunch said.

Charlevoix won the Sept. 20 home game against Elk Rapids 25-8, 25-17 and 25-17.

Gillespie had nine kills, five digs; Faust had seven kills, five digs; Potter had seven kills, three blocks; Spencley had seven kills, five digs; Way had 24 assists, eight aces; Marnie Greene had four digs; Tanya Wynkoop had three digs and was four for four serve/receive.

Fall lessons available at Charlevoix Area Community Pool

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will host a number of fall programs including lessons and a swim team.

GROUP LESSONS

American Red Cross Learn to Swim classes for ages 12 months through adult will be offered on Saturdays from 9:15 to 10 a.m., 10 to 10:45 a.m. or 10:45 to 11:30 a.m. (class time is based on level). Sessions run from Nov. 3 through Dec. 15. The cost for these lessons is $42 per person per session in district and $45 per session for those living outside the district.

TODDLER/PRESCHOOL SWIM

A new 60 minute Toddler/Pre-School Swim and Lesson class combines basic swimming skills and games to introduce 1 to 5 year olds to the water. Skills include acclimatization to the water, breath control, rotary breathing, kicking, arm strokes, jumping into the water, pushing off the wall. Teachers will introduce child water safety. Part of the 60 minute time will be used as free time so parents and swimmers can enjoy playing in the water together. A parent must be in the water with the child. Sessions will meet from 10 to 11 a.m. on Fridays from Nov. 2 through Dec. 14. The cost for these lessons is $42 per person per session in district and $45 per session for those living outside the district.

SEMIPRIVATE LESSONS

Semiprivate Learn to Swim Classes with a four swimmer maximum for students ages 3 and up will be offered. Lessons will take place on Thursdays during one of three class times determined based on skill level. Classes will meet from 3:30 to 4 p.m., 4 to 4:30 p.m. or 4:30 to 5 p.m. from Nov. 1 through Dec. 6. The cost for these lessons is $66 per person per session in district and $70 per session for those living outside the district.

To register for these programs or for more information, contact the pool at (231) 547-0982.

Petoskey outpaces Charlevoix cross country teams at Petoskey Invitational

The Northmen took three of the top four spots in winning the 11th-12th grade boys' race, and the Northmen put four runners in the top six in taking the 11th-12th girls event.

Five Harbor Springs runners placed in the top 10 as the Rams won the 9th-10th girls' race, while West Branch Ogemaw Heights won the boys 9th-10th event.

11TH-12TH BOYS

Blaise Henning won the race in 16 minutes, 28 seconds to lead the Northmen. Petoskey's Derek Henning placed third, edging teammate Dan Kerr. Both posted official times of 17:05. Tec Adams of Harbor Springs placed second in 16:51.

Charlevoix, East Jordan and Inland Lakes were among the seven schools that did not field complete teams.

Charlevoix's Alex Buday placed eighth in 17:26 and teammate Nick Wimmer was 10th in 17:30. Harbor Springs' Alan McCarty placed 13th, 18:09; Petoskey's Travis Howard was 14th in 18:12; Harbor's Jake Brubaker was 15th in 18:13; and Petoskey's Robbie Pemberton placed 17th in 18:30 in the 118-runner field.

11TH-12TH GIRLS

Molly Touran of Petoskey won the race in 20:27, holding off course-record-holder Alina Dhaseleer of Charlevoix. Dhaseleer was second in 20:32, while Petoskey's Tia Penfold placed third in 20:55. For Charlevoix, KC McCary was 14th in 22:52, Katie Withrow placed 22nd, Shelby Goss was 47th: and Elizabeth Kur was 49th in the 79-runner race.

The Northmen finished with 40 points, 18 better than runner-up T.C. West. Charlevoix, 134, was third, followed by Cheboygan, 174; Kalkaska, 192; Westland John Glenn, 196; and St. Ignace, 276. Harbor Springs, East Jordan and Inland Lakes were among the six schools that did not have enough runners to field a complete team.

9TH-10TH BOYS

Martin Nelkie placed first in 17:51, leading Ogemaw Heights to the victory. The Falcons finished with 39 points, followed by South Lyon, 67; T.C. West, 79; Petoskey, 148; T.C. Central, 153; South Lyon East, 163; Charlevoix, 178; Alpena, 245; and White Pines (Ont.), 285.

Eric Buday of Charlevoix was the top finisher among area runners as he placed fifth in 18:23. Charlevoix's Neil Salisburg was 21st.

9TH-10TH GIRLS

Charlevoix's top finisher was Krista Pischner, 25th.

7TH-8TH BOYS

Harbor's Ben Kloss won the boys' 7th-8th grade race in 9:24, while Charlevoix's Andrew Plude was second. Other area runners in the top 20: Vincent VonLau, Charlevoix, fourth; Jack Touran, Petoskey, sixth; Kirk Acharya, Charlevoix, 11th; Logan Hensley, Petoskey, 13th; Alex Gooch, Charlevoix, 14th; Luke Robbins, Petoskey, 17th.

7TH-8TH GIRLS

Harbor Springs' Rhi Cullip won the girls' 7th-8th grade race in 11:03. For Charlevoix, Hillary Way placed seventh and Annie Dipert was 18th.

6TH CO-ED

Justin Pearl of Charlevoix won the co-ed 6th grade race in 10:55, and teammate Nick Plude was second. Also for Charlevoix, Amber Way placed fourth, Jackson Buday was sixth, Lexie Barnes was seventh, and Anna Voci was ninth.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Ordinance No. 724 of 2007

AN ORDINANCE TO ADOPT THE SIXTH AMENDMENT TO THE DEVELOPMENT AND TAX INCREMENT FINANCING PLAN OF THE CHARLEVOIX DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY WHICH PROVIDES FOR THE DEVELOPMENT AND CONSTRUCTION OF AN INTERACTIVE WATER FEATURE IN EAST PARK AND WHICH PROVIDES FOR THE FINANCING OF THAT PROJECT AND TO ADD SECTION 1.305 TO TITLE I, CHAPTER 7 OF THE CITY CODE

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

Section 1. Addition of Section 1.305 - Adoption of the Sixth Amendment to the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan.

The Sixth Amendment to the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan is approved, as described below, and Section 1.305 is added to Title I, Chapter 7 of the City Code which shall be entitled "Sixth Amendment to the Development and Tax Increment Financing Plan" and shall read as provided in Exhibit 1 to this ordinance. This approval is intended to allow for the planning for the project described in Exhibit 1.

Section 2. Effective Date.

This Ordinance shall become effective thirty (30) days after its enactment.

ADOPTED, this 17th day of September, 2007.

Ordinance Certification

Ordinance No. 724 of 2007 was hereby adopted on the 17th day of September, 2007 by the Charlevoix City Council as follows:

Motion by: Sherm Chamberlain
Seconded by: Greg Stevens

Absent: None

STATE OF MICHIGAN) )ss
CITY OF CHARLEVOIX)

Exhibit 1
Project List for the Sixth Amendment to the DDA Tax Increment Financing and Development Plan

1. Descriptive Name – Interactive Water Feature.

Location – The Interactive Water Feature will be located in the Harbormaster Plaza near the Trout Stream in Charlevoix's East Park.

Description of Project – Jets of water will leap out of the plaza and disappear back into the plaza surface. Children of all ages will be able to splash and play in the fountains while the less adventurous can view the water display from the roof gardens of the Harbormaster Building, the Trout Stream path and the Harbormaster Plaza. The Fountain will be an attraction to a wide range of audiences and located at the north end of the park. The fountain will not interfere with performances taking place at the Pavilion.

Description of Stages – There is only one stage of the project anticipated. Construction is planned to start in the Fall/Winter of 2007 and be completed in the Spring/Summer of 2008.

Description of Parts of the Development That Are to Be Left as Open Space and the Use Contemplated and Use Contemplated for the Space – The project consists of an interactive water feature. The water feature will be at ground level and will not affect the park's open space.

Project Financing – It is anticipated that the project will be financed in part by tax increment financing and the Marina Fund.

Project Cost Estimate – The estimated cost of the Interactive Water Feature is not to exceed $380,000, of which $280,000 will come from the Marina and DDA Funds, and at least 25% of the final cost to come from private donations or grants.

0710 IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Bernie Holtzman
April 11, 1952 - September 27, 2002

Little did we know that morning that God was going to call your name. In life we loved you dearly, in death we do the same. It broke our hearts to lose you but you did not go alone, for part of us went with you, the day God called you home. You left us peaceful memories. Your love is still our guide and though we cannot see you, you are always at our side. Our family chain is broken and nothing seems the same. But as God calls us one by one the chain will link again forever in our hearts. We loved you and always will.

Rest in peace, Bernie, rest in peace. God bless Bernie's soul.

Love and Hugs,
Brother, Bob Holtzman &
Mother Stella Holtzman Pearl

Heading south? Take the Courier's e-edition with you

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The Courier staff is making strides to deliver local news to readers in new ways.

When you visit www.charlevoixcourier.com today you'll find pages designed to deliver the Courier's signature strong news reporting and the ability to connect with other readers.

Trends in the newspaper industry as reported by the Newspaper Association of America and Pew Research Center for the People and the Press News show that now more than ever newspaper readers are getting their news from nontraditional sources, like Web sites.

Readership at online news sites continues to steadily climb while that of the print edition declines. One way the Courier staff is reacting is by offering an e-edition.

Peter Comings, online media manager for Northern Michigan Review Inc. under which the Courier operates, said the e-edition breaks traditional barriers the print edition faces.

"Portability is a benefit. It's not dependent on physical transportation. If you are in Florida, you don't have to wait two weeks and get four papers at once," Comings said.

He added that with the e-edition as northern Michigan's seasonal residents or "snow birds" move south they can still have their news on the day it's published.

"It's available at any point," he said.

While the news of the week is at your virtual fingertips right away, the e-dition also helps readers access yesterday's news.

"You can go back into the archive without going to a physical office to go through the bound volume," Comings said.

Once you click on the e-edition option at the Courier's Web site you have a choice to preview the paper allowing you to quickly cruise headlines or look at the complete edition where you can zoom in on stories, do an archive search and search the ads.

This is a service that was introduced in May as a limited time free service. Beginning Oct. 1 the Courier will charge $52.80 for one-year, $26.40 for six months and $13.20 for a three-month e-edition subscription. Subscribers will be able to access their subscription at www.charlevoixcourier.com. A complete electronic edition of the paper will be posted on-line each Wednesday.

For more information call the Courier at (231) 547-6558 or e-mail news@charlevoixcourier.com.

What is an e-edition? An electronic representation of what appeared in print.

Who is this ideal for? Readers who love to get their news online, college students who want to stay in touch and seasonal residents who don't want to wait for the Courier to come in the mail.

Allows you to zoom in on stories, do an archive search and search the ads.

Access our e-edition at www.charlevoixcourier.com

Over 600 volunteer at Day of Caring

CARE

projects aims to improve Round Lake water quality, provide an outdoor education opportunity and beautify the grounds at Charlevoix Public Library.

Fifteen freshmen in Charlevoix High School Spanish teacher Pete Scholten's seminar and volunteers with Friends of the Library and Harbor Industries worked under the direction of Jennifer Gelb, a restoration ecologist with Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, to plant a rain garden at the library.

The 3,000 square foot garden located near the recently built city parking lot includes over 1,000 native grasses, plants and shrubs that will filter runoff from nearby parking lots before it and the pollutants that travel with it are discharged into Round Lake.

"As the water moves through the rain garden it infiltrates into the soil and the plants absorb nutrients and filter sediments," Gelb explained. "It's designed around a catch basin. Without the garden, the flow would go directly to the catch basin (and into Round Lake)."

Funding for the project which was done in conjunction with Tip of the Mitt's Treasure Lake Charlevoix initiative was provided by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority. The garden will be maintained by library volunteers.

Phase two of the project will include placement of an educational sign explaining how the garden works.

The benefits don't stop at water quality. Scholten said this is the third year in a row Charlevoix High School students have reaped the benefits of volunteerism.

"They get a real sense of ownership in doing something like this. This is really great," he said.

And according to Jake Lemanski, a Charlevoix High School freshman and Day of Caring rain garden volunteer, that sense of ownership has already taken root.

"Look at how good it looks. I can come back next year and be like, 'Me and my classmates planted that,'" he said.

Charlevoix High School students Jake Lemanski and Michael Berry said they will remember the work they did at the rain garden each time they return to Charlevoix Public Library. They were among over 600 volunteers in Charlevoix and Emmet counties that participated in the 4th Annual Day of Caring on Sept. 18

VIP closes after 32 years

Those of you who dined on Village Inn Pizza fare last week may have been unaware that you partook in the last food to be offered by the local eatery of more than three decades.

Known around town as VIP, the establishment unceremoniously closed its doors as Village Inn Pizza for the last time on Saturday, Sept. 30 with plans by owner Cindy Warner to reopen the building as Village Inn Trattoria an Italian-style sit-down restaurant.

"It will be a wonderful transformation but will take us nearly five months to complete," Warner wrote in e-mailed responses to questions. "We will reopen in the spring."

Warner, who has been in the restaurant business for three-and-a-half years stated a, "Per-

A father's life ends, two begin

Eric Perrine's twin baby girls born prematurely came home Sept. 17 but the 31-year-old father wasn't there to welcome them.

On Aug. 18 while Eric's newborn daughters fought for their lives at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City, he took his last breath.

At around midnight that day Eric, a Charlevoix resident, was killed while riding his motorcycle one mile north of Bellaire, leaving behind twins he never had the privilege to meet.

Just nine days earlier, on Aug. 9, Eric's girlfriend, 24-year-old Kristin Harthorn of Charlevoix, from whom he was estranged, gave birth to twins following 32 weeks of pregnancy. The identical girls, Skylar and Shaye Perrine weighed just over three pounds each. Both struggled with respiratory issues following delivery by scheduled cesarean section.

"After they delivered the babies they showed them to me and quickly took them away. When they wheeled me into the NIC (neonatal intensive care) unit, I lost it. Seeing IVs and tubes coming out of everywhere possible is so hard," Harthorn said.

The girls have since graduated from tube to bottle feedings, were released from incubators, removed from oxygen and brought home. Their beds are decorated with pictures of the father they'll never know.

"He has a big family to tell them stories about him," Harthorn said.

While Harthorn has stood by her daughters, she has struggled with the loss of their father.

She said during the days prior to Eric's death he visited the hospital five times, sitting in the parking lot but never working up the courage to come in.

"He was scared. He was getting ready to (see them). He would have came around," she said.

The morning of Aug. 18, after receiving a call from Eric's cousin, Harthorn learned time

Agencies prep for disaster at Operation Cement Slip Knot

St. Marys Cement Company in conjunction with the Charlevoix-Cheboygan-Emmet Counties (CCE) Office of Emergency Management is conducting a full scale, mass casualty emergency exercise, to include elevated Maritime Security (MARSEC) levels.

The exercise will begin early in the morning on Oct. 10 and will run for approximately four hours.

Many St. Marys employees and family members are scheduled to role play various emergency situations and injuries.

"This is a chance to test our emergency action plans in partnership with our local emergency response teams," Sharon Regan-Brown, safety manager of St. Marys Cement said.

Local emergency first responder agencies will be activated for this exercise in the same manner as a real event. Responding agencies will be paged out by CCE 911 and use their normal radio channels to communicate with one another during the exercise. All communications related to the exercise will be prefaced with "Operation Cement Slip Knot."

Participating organizations/agencies are: the CCE Emergency Operations Center (EOC); Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office Dive Team, Marine Division, and road deputies; Charlevoix City Police Department; Charlevoix Township Fire Department; Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City EMS agencies; Charlevoix Area Hospital; Milwaukee, Grand Haven and Charlevoix U.S. Coast Guard Stations; Northern Lower Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross; Salvation Army; Charlevoix City Ministerial Association; CCE Counties Public Service Communication Organization (HAM radios); Charlevoix Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW); and the Great Lakes Freighter Crews.

"Since St. Marys is dedicated to the safety and security of our employees it made good sense to partner with the area agencies to simulate a mass casualty exercise," commented Shawn Hall, St. Marys Human Resources Manager. "We are happy to host the event at our facility. It is good for both our employees and the community."

Randall Zipp, Local D-480 president agrees with Hall and said, "As a local we are proud to be involved in this venture. We are happy to put our emergency procedures to the test which includes our local emergency response agencies."

What? St. Marys Cement Company in conjunction with the Charlevoix-Cheboygan-Emmet Counties (CCE) Office of Emergency Management is conducting a full scale, mass casualty emergency exercise.

When? The exercise will begin early in the morning on Oct. 10 and will run for approximately four hours.

Charges pending in death of local man

PERRINE

had run out for Eric.

"It (learning of Eric's death) was unreal. It's still unreal. I still expect to see his yellow motorcycle go by," she said.

Harthorn has spent quality time with Eric's parents, Joanie and Bryan Perrine of Charlevoix and continues to draw strength from her father, Wayne Harthorn, also of Charlevoix.

While handling of the infants was initially restricted to Harthorn, two days after Eric's death she asked that Joanie be allowed to hold them.

"They are the joy in my life right now. They are my one constant," Joanie said. "He (Eric) was a very caring young man. He would have been a wonderful father."

Perrine died when his motorcycle was hit by a truck driven by Russell Steven Mitchell, 19, of Bellaire.

"It was hard to go to the crash site and put flowers there. Hopefully it's a reminder to the young boy (Mitchell) to drive by every day. Hopefully, it's a reminder to everyone who drives by," Harthorn said.

According to Antrim County Sheriff's Department undersheriff Daniel Bean, Eric was traveling north on South Derenzy Road at West Eddy School Road, one mile north of Bellaire, when Mitchell who was traveling west on West Eddy School Road, allegedly failed to yield the right of way to Eric's motorcycle.

Mitchell had stopped for a stop sign before attempting to make a turn onto South Derenzy Road, then proceeded into the intersection and into the path of Eric's motorcycle.

Mitchell was not injured. Eric died at the scene. Bean said alcohol is believed to be a factor. Results of blood tests sent to the Michigan State Police lab in Lansing have not been returned. The delay is reportedly related to software changes at the lab resulting in a backlog.

Bean said these results will determine the charges Mitchell will face. He said the charge could range from negligent homicide, a two-year felony, to manslaughter, a felony punishable by up to 15 years in prison.

Joanie said she and Bryan are focused on their twin granddaughters and have put the accident in God's hands.

"God takes care of us all. He will be the ultimate judge. I believe that," she said.

Antrim County prosecutor Charlie Koop has stepped down in the case on Sept. 27 due to his relationship with Russell Mitchell's father, Darell Mitchell, who he described as a long-term acquaintance. Al Schneider, the Grand Traverse County prosecutor, has taken the assignment.

"They're going to prosecute him and I'll be there. But it doesn't bring Eric back," Harthorn said.

Harthorn also has a 6-year-old daughter, Alex Anderson, a first-grader at Charlevoix Elementary School. While she is on leave from her job at Harbor View Cafe, the single mother of three said her number one concern right now isn't money, it's being there for her children.

"It's important for me to be here. They (the twins) know I'm here," she said. "Before I know it they'll be in kindergarten."

While the infants' medical expenses are covered by Medicaid, the costs of supporting the family continue to build. Those interested in assisting the family may direct contributions to 11788 Doctors Rd. Charlevoix, MI 49720 c/o Bryan Perrine.

STORY HIGHLIGHT

The twin daughters of Charlevoix resident Eric Perrine who was killed on Aug. 18 in a motorcycle accident outside of Bellaire were released from Munson Medical Center on Sept. 17.

Who was Eric Perrine?
Eric was the 31-year-old son of Joan and Bryan Perrine of Charlevoix. At the time of his death he worked at the Shell Gas Station in Charlevoix. He was a 1995 graduate of Ellsworth High School who enjoyed fishing, motorcycles and being with family.

ceived need in the market and the synergy with our store, Zaccaro's Market," for the impending change.

Warner would not say how many employees were laid off due to the closing or what renovation would cost, but did indicate the new Trattoria, Italian for a family-owned and operated casual restaurant, will offer pasta, salad, specialty pizza and antipasto.

Doug Kosch, the Traverse City restaurant owner who operated VIP for Warner for nearly a year after she purchased the business from Pat Heinke in April 2006, left the business to focus on his restaurant, the Boathouse, and will have no affiliation with Village Inn Trattoria.

Recently laid off general manager, Kim Jones said, "It's sad because VIP has been around for 32 years. I've worked through every owner, on and off for probably a total of 15 years."

Jones, who has worked in food service most of her life said she has to think about what she will do with her newfound time.

"I love food service, it's never the same thing and I love the different people," she said. "Right now I'll touch up my resume and sign up for unemployment and look around for something else, but I don't really know of anybody that's hiring. If you want to drive to Traverse City or Gaylord, your chances are better, but then you're spending most of what you make in gas."

She added, "I'm not going to starve. My husband has a good job. It's the kids (younger VIP workers) I'm worried about. They (Warner) said employees would be the first called back and that the positions would be the same, so we'll have to just wait and see. Only time will tell."

Jones wished Warner luck in her new venture.

"I've always been a firm believer in that everything happens for a reason and hopefully everything will come out for the best," she said.

Assistant manager Matt Kondrat is one of those younger workers who has a family to feed.

"I plan on taking the layoff for now and see if anything comes up," he said. "Hopefully I can still have a job when they come back."

He added, "It's difficult. I've talked with people who have been looking for a new job and, besides 7-Eleven, you're not going to find anything."

Kondrat said, after managing a restaurant, he cannot bring himself to work part-time as a cashier somewhere.

"Charlevoix is a very seasonal town," he said. "There's nothing out there, especially between seasons."

Village Inn Pizza was located at 227 Bridge St. in downtown Charlevoix.

Look for an update on Village Inn Trattoria in spring 2008.

Tax hikes won't bring prosperity

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

Michigan government didn't come to a bloody, screeching halt last week, and the Democrats just can't stop patting themselves on the back because of it.

"With a government shutdown only hours away, we did what was best for the people of Michigan," said House Speaker Andy Dillon (D-Redford).

A quick glance at Governor Jennifer Granholm's budget, which contains phrases like, "invest in our future" and "Our moment; our choice," might convince some she can avoid a future of fiscal folly, but look closer at her 114 sheets of executive toilet paper you may wonder if by being "blown away" in year five, she meant it in a 1920s, dust bowl sort of way.

Granted, the state is failing in large part due to a withering auto industry thanks to cheap foreign labor and our unquenchable thirst for low-cost goods, a sure sign capitalism is destined to devour itself, but our legislators, who once shifted the fiscal year in lieu of real solutions, exacerbate the problem by refusing to cut wasteful spending.

Granholm pleaded her case that simply cutting $3 billion from this and next year's budgets is, in essence, statutory suicide.

"Would that be responsible?" she asked. "Would we want to live in Michigan, or do business in Michigan, if we had to cut spending by $3 billion?"

You heard right, the person in charge of keeping us in the black wonders if spending less in times of monetary melee is a good idea.

Jen's list-o-scare tactics includes cutting: $1.5 billion from Michigan's universities; $280 million from community colleges; $454 million by releasing 15,000 prisoners; $162 million for day care service; $80 million by laying off 1,000 state police; $390 in Medicaid; $105 million in college scholarships; end food safety inspections to save $7 million; and closing veteran homes which serve 900 to save $22 million.

Perhaps only the stingiest of Michiganders would argue the merit of such cuts, though paying for other people's child care and imprisoning thousands guilty of little more than exercising personal freedom sounds like neither capitalism nor liberty.

Not mentioned in the Guv's insidious inventory is that we currently spend $7.5 billion-a-year on Medicaid, a 20 percent reduction of which would make Michigan flush instantaneously, or that you and I will lose our hard-earned cash via corporate welfare and increased income tax.

Few things grind my gizzards like spending more on medicine for the elderly than on education of our young, and giving $7 million in handouts so gas stations can install biofuel pumps—after all, if we educated our children better, they wouldn't have to rely on welfare when they grow old.

What we can look forward to is paying more to roll our own cigarettes and drink a glass of scotch in addition to a two-cent tax on services including pedicures, golfing, attorneys and consultants.

Her, "common sense cuts and reforms" means eight cents on the dollar we'll be paying for some things. I'm starting to think when Jen said she was moving Michigan to the future she meant expediting our demise.

It is times like this I wish Moe Howard was alive so he could go to Lansing, knock politician heads together and tell these porcupines to spread out.

And what will come of the Great Gran's plans? $230 million will be dumped into the No Worker Left Behind initiative. Let's hope it works out better than the educational mandate of a similar name, and don't forget the $200 million to expand pre-school—We can't afford K-12, but we can pay for glorified childcare?

Last, and certainly not best, the government will spend $30 million on an ad campaign to convince the country we're not really choked with turmoil.

Expect slogans like, "We may be dead last but, wait, what was the question?" or "Michigan: Better than Baghdad," and even, "Did we mention Jeff Daniels used to live here?"

Granholm said "We cannot cut our way to prosperity," which makes me wonder why she is trying to tax us to death.

These career politicians look more like Keystone Cops than guardians of governance when they continually throw good money after bad on bloated social programs and failed attempts to revive the economy via corporate welfare.

The time for doing the easy thing is over. Instead of swabbing the deck on this sinking ship, let's fix the leak before our mitten becomes the fingerless glove on a hobo's frostbitten hand.

Spider population hits its high for the year

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

I am conflicted about spiders. On the one hand they are among the most fascinating of the earth's creatures, with characteristics and behavior that are remarkable. On the other hand, the unexpected appearance of a spider of almost any size is reason for a surge of adrenaline and sudden movement in another direction.

I suspect that many people are similarly conflicted.

Current concern with spiders stems from an episode of scrubbing and washing some of the siding on our home. Every nook and cranny, when washed, flushed out one spider. There are very few exceptions to the solitary spider. All spiders are predators who feed on other living creatures. Such behavior usually means that spiders don't have a lot of close friends or associates. The risk of being a meal means that spiders have few friends that haven't already been a meal. In addition, fall is the season for spiders. All summer, the populations of insects have been increasing. The increase in spider populations lags behind a bit, but by September our north temperate world has a maximum number of spiders.

We don't usually think of spiders and their insect and arthropod relatives as being smart, but it is a general rule in the biological world that predators have to be smarter than their potential food, and spiders fill the bill as, if not the smartest, at least the most complex. There are two general major categories of spiders — those that build webs and wait for smaller creatures to come along and get entangled, and those that hunt for their prey. The web-builders have advanced architectural skills, but do not see well. The hunters have superior eyesight and advanced stalking skills.

Even given my near phobia about spiders, as a teacher I was often called upon to point out their presence and uniqueness to students while trying not to shudder uncontrollably. An annual field trip was the visit to a 200 acre patch of native prairie in Iowa. By the count of other biologists, there were more than 80 different kinds of spiders living there. After I mentioned that amazing biological fact, one of my students closed her eyes and had to be led by others for the duration of our visit.

A usual prairie resident was a close relative of the common large yellow and black garden spider, an outstanding web builder. But where to build a web in the tall, thick grass of the prairie? The spider's solution was to use its strong silk strands to pull the brass blades away from an area about two-feet across, and then build an insect-capturing web in the middle of that open space. It certainly looked like an intelligent solution to the problem, not only a web, but the cleared space for it to function.

The October issue of Natural History magazine has a brief illustrated article about a hunting spider, commonly called a jumping spider. This one used blood-filled mosquitoes as its chosen prey, capturing them when they land on a surface. I was reminded of the small jumping spider that lived on the tiled floor of my college office for a summer, where it ambushed and consumed the few wandering ants. It was like watching a lion stalking a gazelle. Jumping spiders see almost as well as we do, able to distinguish size and color and movement as any predator must.

During their season of abundance, give spiders a second look. Try not to shudder. Thank them for helping to keep the insects under control.

BLOOD DRIVE SUCCESS

Editor:

I want to thank everyone who helped to make the community blood drive on Sept. 13 in Charlevoix a success.

The Charlevoix Water and Electric Department hung the banners. The businesses and churches exhibited posters. Volunteers made reminder phone calls to donors. Some volunteers baked wonderful canteen treats, others worked the shifts at the blood drive.

The Community Reformed Church opened their door once again. The Charlevoix Lions Club members arrived to set up the equipment and returned to work again after the last donor left.

I feel very fortunate to have so many friends of the American Red Cross in Charlevoix who place such importance on giving a newborn, child, mother, father, brother or sister another chance at life. The Red Cross collected 93 pints of blood. That blood could help over 275 patients. Thank you so very much.

The next community blood drive at the Reformed Church is on Nov. 15. I really hope I see you there

BLOOMS BENEFIT

Editor:

Charlevoix, you've made our day. This year's fund-raiser to support the purchase and upkeep of the petunias that line our streets, was a great success.

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful wants to thank all of the donors, including merchants and private citizens who think that it is important to uphold the Charlevoix area's reputation of being a truly attractive and lovely community.

As a relative newcomer to Charlevoix, I am very impressed by how this particular small town supports on a daily basis, through both volunteers and donations, the many valuable projects which make Charlevoix such a beautiful and viable place to live.

If you donated time, food, money or an article for the silent auction at "Bids for Blooms," give yourself a mental pat on the back and say "Well done! Good job!" You are the people who make Charlevoix function. You are the people who make Charlevoix beautiful.

ISLAND PICNIC

Editor:

Thank you! On behalf of Beaver Island Senior Citizens and the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging, I would like to thank the volunteers, individuals and businesses for their generous contributions of support, gifts of door prizes and volunteerism at our 3rd Annual Picnic.

This celebration of our seniors was held on Aug. 20 on Beaver Island. It was a tremendous community effort to put on such a special event and celebrate our Beaver Island senior citizens.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH

Editor:

Without much more than determination and a desire to help, the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan (WRC) was founded in 1977. The first priority was to provide relief for survivors of domestic abuse. By 1978, crisis services were in place and volunteer homes were being used to house survivors. Thanks to the support of the community, Women's Resource Center services have continued to expand throughout the last 30 years. Our Domestic Abuse/Sexual Assault Program remains focused on our goal of ending violence against women.

In addition to celebrating our 30th anniversary, the Women's Resource Center recognizes October as Domestic Violence Awareness month. In honor of survivors of domestic abuse, we would like to take a moment to share our commitment and rally support around our mission to work for equality, justice and opportunity for all women.

The Women's Resource Center is working on many fronts to end abuse and to transform the culture of violence in our community. Our agency works to prevent violence against women through education, awareness and outreach programs. Prevention programs are offered in area high schools to help students explore gender roles and stereotypes. We routinely present training on the dynamics of domestic abuse for law enforcement, school personnel, emergency responders and medical professionals. Our newest venture, "A Call to Men," aims to reach out to the men of our community to help the Women's Resource Center in the work to end violence against women.

The Women's Resource Center provides free and confidential services to domestic abuse survivors in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties. Services include a 24-hour crisis and information hotline, counseling, advocacy, shelter, support groups and referrals to community resources. Call (231) 347-0082 or toll-free at 800-275-1995 for support.

We ask for your continued support and also thank those involved in advancing our message of hope for a community free of violence.

Here's to another 30 years!

KNOW THE NUMBERS

Editor:

Almost all important documents begin with a preamble, or introduction explaining its purpose, as does our Constitution that says, "We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessing of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America."

All public servants who are required to take an oath of office before assuming their office or position, swear to uphold the Constitution of the United States of America. An oath is a formal declaration or promise to fulfill a pledge, often calling upon God as a witness.

The above being said, we expect our elected or employed public servants to do their jobs, be truthful, be accountable and have probity or integrity. Many public servants fall short of that mark as evidenced by the "Official budget of the United States" that is published and reported to "we the people" as true and factual, but the fact is that it is a deception and misstates our national economic condition. The federal government has a separate, unpublished audited federal budget that unlike the official budget, follows the rules of accounting that govern all businesses, nonprofit institutions and state and local governments with over $1 million in annual revenue.

According to the audited federal budget, the true 2005 deficit (the amount by which a sum of money is less than what is expected) was not the $318 billion cited by Congress and the president, but rather $760 billion. Recently the audited budgets since 1979 showed deficits totaling $2.9 trillion, not the $729 billion that has been officially reported. The $559 billion in surpluses during the Clinton administration in truth were a deficit of $484 billion and if corporate executives used the accounting practices that are followed in preparing the official budget, they would go to jail. "We the people" have a right to know the damage being done by Washington's overspending and must call for the immediate adoption of the audited federal budget by contacting your elected representatives.

Michigan Department of State Bureau of Elections

Notice to Voters: New Voter Identification Requirement in Effect

Due to a recent court ruling, every Michigan voter who offers to vote in the polls must comply with the requirement by showing picture identification or signing and affidavit attesting that he or she is not in possession of picture identification.

Voters with picture identification: Voters can satisfy the picture identification requirement by showing a Michigan driver's license or a Michigan personal identification card.

Voters who do not possess either document may show any of the following forms of picture identification as long as they are current:

- Driver's license or personal identification card issued by another state.
- Federal or state government-issued photo identification.
- U.S. passport.
- Military identification card with photo
- Student identification with photo from a high school or an accredited institution of higher education.
- Tribal identification card with photo.

Voters without picture identification: Michigan election law anticipates that not all voters will have picture identification. Voters who do not bring picture identification to the polls or do not possess picture identification can vote like any other voter by signing an affidavit.

For more election related information, visit www.michigan.gov/vote.

Chillers author comes to Charlevoix Public Library

At 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6, Jonathan Rand, author of the Michigan and American Chillers series will be at Charlevoix Public Library.

Fans are encouraged to come early or stay after his presentation for a book signing opportunity. Books will be available for purchase as well.

"He is a little wild, crazy and a bit scary — but that's why we love him," stated youth assistant, Jolene Fowler.

Rand is the popular children's book author who jumped into the writer's world at age seven and has been writing ever since.

He says he loves to write scary books because "We all like to be frightened for the thrill of it, but also, at the same time, we want to know that we're safe. Books allow you to do that."

For more information, contact the youth services desk at (231) 237-7350.

Charlevoix Children's House welcomes new staff

Two new faces are leading the first taste of education for some of Charlevoix's smallest students.

Arnold, 25, is a 2001 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 2006 graduate of Grand Valley State University with a bachelor of arts degree in English language arts and elementary education. She completed her student teaching requirement in a fourth-grade classroom in Comstock Park and her student assisting in a kindergarten classroom in Kenowa Hills.

She said her family which includes her parents, Bob and Betsy Schoonover and siblings Seth and Shay Arnold and Annie and Clyde Schoonover and her love of the outdoors brought her home after college.

Arnold said her experience so far with the Montessori program has been amazing.

"It's hard to leave here and say you had a bad day. There are a million things that make you smile. This is a really good group of kids," she added.

Charlevoix native Molly Arnold and Linda Smietana of Torch Lake are new classroom assistants at the Charlevoix Children's House. They join school director Barb Godwin-Chulick and classroom assistant, Carole Coen. Pictured above are Godwin-Chulick, Arnold, Coen and Smietana.

Smietana, who is filling a part-time teaching assistant's position, agreed and after 29 years working in education, said the Montessori classroom is a breath of fresh air.

"Their independence is the most remarkable thing I've seen. I find it very refreshing," she said.

Smietana is a 1986 graduate of the University of Northern Colorado with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary and early childhood education. She has lived in Torch Lake for nine years and has a son, 8-year-old Tristan Smietana.

School director Barb Godwin-Chulick, took over the director's position six years ago. A third classroom assistant, Carole Coen who has been with the school for two years and like Arnold is a full-time staff member.

Founded in 1978, Charlevoix Children's House serves students ages 2-and-a-half to 6. The one-room classroom located at 08700 Mercer Boulevard in Charlevoix is state licensed to serve 31 students and currently has 17 enrolled.

The school is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays during the school year. For more information or to enroll, visit www.charlevoixchildrenshouse.org or call the school at (231) 547-5599.

Booth signup open for 8th Annual Mom to Mom Sale

Kids and teens grow like weeds and bills for new duds and toys can grow just as quickly.

Moms who are tired of paying full price for children's gear, can find relief at the upcoming 8th Annual Mom to Mom Sale.

This year the sale will take place from 9 a.m. to noon Nov. 17 in the family center at St. Mary School located at 1005 Bridge St.

The event will feature over 40 moms and teens selling oodles of "gently used" infant, children's and teen clothing, toys, books furniture, bikes and more.

Adults who are 18 and over and wish to attend will be charged a $2 entrance fee.

For moms or teens looking to unload some gear, event coordinator Beth Martin still has booth space available. There is a charge of $25 per space.

Proceeds from this year's event will benefit St. Mary School.

Volunteers to help set up and run the event are also still needed.

The opportunity to shop from 8 to 9 a.m., before the doors open to everyone else, is offered as an incentive to vendors and volunteers.

To volunteer or set up a booth space call Martin at (231) 547-1768.

Crop Walk event fights hunger locally and globally

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

STORY HIGHLIGHT
Charlevoix resident Lucy Witthoeft has raised nearly $9,000 in her 10 years of walking to fight hunger.
What? 24th Annual Church World Service Crop Walk
When? 9 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6
Where? The walk begins at the Charlevoix Middle School and ends in Ironton.

With the upcoming 24th Annual Church World Service Crop Walk, one local walker will mark more than a decade of service.

Charlevoix resident Lucy Witthoeft has raised nearly $9,000 in her 10 years of walking to fight hunger from as close as Charlevoix to as far away as Kenya.

"Twenty-five percent of the money raised out of the Crop Walk stays right here and goes to our church food pantry," Witthoeft said. "The same amount goes to Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City... for needy families in the area, and I really like that part. There are a lot of families that use it. If someone has lost their job and they have no income for a period of time, they can get food until they get back on their feet."

In 2006, the Charlevoix Food Pantry was given $1,212 from Crop Walk and served 92 households per month.

She added, "It's a good thing, this Crop Walk. We have so much here that sometimes we take it for granted. So much food gets wasted and there are other countries where people are starving."

While dozens of locals attend the Crop Walk each year, Witthoeft said the event could always use more people.

"We need more walkers. It would be great if all the churches would take part in this," she said. "The money goes to help so many. $150 can buy 100 chick(ens) and two wired chicken coops to provide two families with a reliable source of protein and income and $500 can provide small startup loans that enable women to jump-start businesses such as making school uniforms."

People may register right up until the walk at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6.

OBITUARIES

Simeon Perron: Aug. 28, 1909 - Sept. 26, 2007

Simeon Charles Perron, 98, of Charlevoix, passed away Wednesday, Sept. 26 at Boulder Park Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Born Aug. 28, 1909, on Beaver Island, the son of Charles and Annie (Christian) Perron, he moved to Charlevoix when he was 9 years old. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II from 1943-1945, with the Central Europe Company C Armored Division. Si worked for the Charlevoix County Road Commission for 30 years, and after retirement spent five years helping on the Ironton Ferry. He also had worked for Hotchkiss and Douma in Petoskey.

Always in his prime, Simeon and his wife of 70 years, Hilda May (VanZant), had 10 children; Eva (James) DeJonge of Mancelona; Si Jr. (Linda) of Belding, Leon (Celeste), David (Sandy), Sherri (Wayne) Harthorn, and John all of Charlevoix, and preceding him in death, their beloved Anna Marie, Shirley, Edward and Judy Ann Kujawski.

He is survived by Hilda and his grandchildren, Louie DeJonge, Lynette Heintzelman, Angela Kent, Nichelle Ciesielczyk, Simeon, Renee Plumm, Nichol, Nathan, Noah, and Neahl; great-grandchildren, Louie DeJonge III, Sarah Beth, Harley, Amber, Daniel Lee III, and Josephine.

Visitation was from 6-8 p.m., Friday, Sept. 28 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The funeral was at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 29, at the funeral home. Pastor Michael Arp of the Family of Faith Ministries officiated. Interment took place in Brookside Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Gregory Revoir: March 26, 1957 - Sept. 26, 2007

Gregory Revoir

He was born March 26, 1957, in Pontiac, the son of Melvin H. and Shirley A. (Fitzpatrick) Revoir. Greg's family moved from Flint to Charlevoix in 1967, where he graduated from high school in 1975. He loved the outdoors, boating, hiking and mushrooming, but Greg's love was golf, and he had played courses throughout the U.S. A tool and die machinist, Greg was employed by Michigan Scientific in Charlevoix.

He is survived by his parents, Mel and Shirley of Cedar Springs; sisters, Vicki A. (Doug) Coffield of Swartz Creek, Rhonda S. (Don) Doutre of Punta Gorda, Fla., Gail L. (Tim) Blair of Grand Rapids, Bethany G. Revoir of Boyne City; nieces and nephews, Jonathan Coffield, Sarah (Derek) Lacey, Steven and Karen Doutre, Sydney and Colton Blair; maternal grandmother, Jewel Fitzpatrick of Grand Rapids; all of his special aunts, uncles and cousins.

Visitation took place from 3 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 30, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The funeral took place at 11 a.m. on Monday, Oct. 1 at the funeral home, with Greg's uncle, Rev. Glen Fitzpatrick officiating. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix. Memorial contributions may be made to the Northern Michigan Cancer Crusaders, 5501 U.S. 31 South, Petoskey, MI 49770.

Enrollment in Charlevoix schools dips

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

STORY HIGHLIGHT
Northwest Academy has 73 students as of last week's count day. This is down by 12 from the 2006-2007 school year.
Charlevoix Elementary School has 428 students; Charlevoix Middle School has 363; and Charlevoix High School has 425 students. Down nearly 10 students from the 2006-2007 school year.

The number of students attending Charlevoix Public Schools is down once again and they are joined by Northwest Academy as another of several area schools losing students to other districts.

Charlevoix is down nearly 10 students while Northwest Academy is down by 12 and worse yet, according to school officials, the state has given them no indication what they can expect to receive in the amount of per pupil funding. Furthermore, last week there was talk by Gov. Jennifer Granholm of the potential for a partial governmental shutdown which, if the department of education does not get state aid payments out to schools in time, could force some schools to shutdown.

"We have summer tax collection (revenue), so from a cash flow perspective, we're in OK shape for awhile," said Charlevoix Public Schools business manager, Shawn Biddle. "But, for districts that rely on the state more, there is a real potential that some of these districts may have to close their doors."

While Michigan House Democrats claimed to have staved off the shutdown with a new budget proposal, the plan awaits senate approval.

The administrator and chief financial officer of Northwest Academy, Gary Stutzman, said he felt the school could retain the 85 students they had last year, but only have 73 as of last week's count day.

"We will have to realign things and make some adjustments to maintain," he said. "We were able to carry a fund balance from last year and that is saving us as we speak."

GOVERNMENT SHUTDOWN

The potential shutdown could affect Northwest Academy directly if state aid payments are not made on time.

"That is always something that weighs on your mind. You wonder what ripple effect it may have on other schools and programs, not just ours," Stutzman said. "That payment on the twentieth of every month is what we run the school on. I wish we had a great big pad, but we don't because things are out of balance at the state level."

Thursday, Sept. 27, Gov. Granholm announced an executive directive to instruct some departments to shutdown all nonessential operations this Sunday at midnight if a budget agreement cannot be made.

"The state constitution (Michigan) is clear, without a balanced budget in place, state government cannot write a single check," Granholm said during her speech and added that she is hopeful productive negotiations will yield a solution.

"While I'm doing all that I can to achieve a budget agreement, however, there is one thing that I will not do, I will not accept a budget that makes massive cuts to education, health care and public safety," she said. "Until legislation is passed that protects people and the priorities that are critical to making Michigan competitive, the possibility of a government shutdown remains real."

She added, "If a shutdown occurs, operations that protect the public's health and safety from immediate danger will continue."

While prisons and other vital services including police forces will continue to operate, construction, secretary of state and other nonessential services would have ceased.

Nonetheless, school officials must go forward as long as they can.

STUDENT COUNT

While the student count numbers are yet to be made official, the unofficial counts for Charlevoix Public Schools are as follows:

Charlevoix Elementary School has 428 students; Charlevoix Middle School has 363; and Charlevoix High School has 425 students.

The numbers, Biddle said, are unofficial because some students were out sick or absent for other reasons when the count was performed on Wednesday, Sept. 26.

"If they had been in the building and attending and were simply out of the building, we included them in the count," she said.

"We budgeted for 432 in the elementary, 357 in the middle school and 411 in the high school," Biddle said. "It's a positive thing for us because, even if we don't get an increase in the foundation allowance amount, it means an increase in revenue if we have more students than we budgeted for."

Charlevoix Public Schools are up 16 students from what they projected when they completed their budget last June.

"We had to make a choice by June 30 and we decided to budget for no increase in foundation allowance," Biddle said.

The foundation allowance or per pupil funding is doled in 11 payments from October to August, but schools must budget months ahead of knowing how much funding they will receive, a frustration for administrators and staff, according to Biddle.

Northwest Academy Math teacher Sue Metzger instructs her algebra II class of juniors and seniors. Schools across the state continue to experience decreases in the number of students as citizens flee Michigan in search of better economic conditions.

Biddle said she is unsure what is causing the downturn in student enrollment, but she said, "This district has lost students in the last five to six years and statewide schools are losing students."

She added, "I guess we just wait and see what the legislature does."

Stutzman reaffirmed a sentiment from previous interviews when he said the issue of school funding must be solved at the state level.

"Our youth are the most important thing in our country. If the kids are not educated properly, what's going to happen?" he said. "But, education seems to be one of their (government's) least concerns."

He added, "I think one of the problems is people think, since the schools have been around forever, that everything will just work itself out."

Local growers: 'Plenty of pumpkins to go around'

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

According to local pumpkin growers, in spite of reports last week that the state's pumpkin crop is down about 50 percent, there's no reason to cancel Halloween

"Bolt's has plenty of pumpkins. There's not as many large ones as last year, but we have a lot of pumpkins," Cindy Bolt, co-owner of Bolt Farm, said.

Other local growers and supermarkets also report carrying plenty of pumpkins. These include Charlevoix Glen's, Charlevoix Oleson's, Friske's, Marvin's Gardens and Royal Farms.

Growers said hot weather and drought this summer did have an impact on pumpkin production in northern Michigan but didn't decimate the harvest.

Joe Seidel, Farm Bureau, promotion and education representative for Charlevoix County, recently attended a Farm Bureau meeting and said, "It (pumpkin crop) has a lot to do with the lay of the land and when they planted. I've heard good and bad reports. But overall, the general outlook for the state is rather bad."

Cindy said the result of the dry weather is fewer large pumpkins but areas she and her husband Russ Bolt irrigated are producing plenty of plump pumpkins.

Russ and Cindy are also reaping the benefits of having planted their almost 40 acres of pumpkins late this year, in mid-June.

"That worked to our advantage, they aren't overripe," she said. "We have thousands of pumpkins."

Bolts sell their pumpkins to area grocery stores including Meijers in Traverse City as well as at their farm.

Cindy said due to the reported statewide decline in pumpkin production the price at the stores is up a bit over last year but the prices at the farm are consistent.

Farm market closes for season

Carol Mack, co-owner of Ya Ya's Bakery and Garden, an organic bakery and garden, said the Charlevoix Farm Market was the perfect place to retail her goods this summer and she will return next year. She is pictured above at the final market of the season on Sept. 27. The market will reopen in June.

Fall color is filling out in Charlevoix

At Mackinaw's Wilderness State Park, color development is reported at 25 percent – at Hoeft State Park in Rogers City, mostly red hues predominate at 30 percent color development.

Color watchers in Alpena, Traverse City and Charlevoix report color levels at between 25 and 35 percent. In Gaylord, it's 45 percent with "great colors" reported. Peak is expected in early to mid-October.

29th Annual Apple Fest is Oct. 12 and 13

Next weekend downtown Charlevoix will transform into a harvest farm market and craft fair.

The town will host the 29th Annual Apple Festival from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 12 and 13 and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 14.

East Park construction has moved the festival venue to the 100 block of Mason Street and behind the Bridge Street storefronts between Clinton and Mason streets.

For more information, call (231) 547-2101.

A complete Apple Festival story including a look at this year's apple crop, will be in next week's Courier.

Survey says: Seniors aren't happy with service

BY FRED GRAY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

An independent assessment of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging, based on a survey of 1,570 of the more than 6,000 seniors in the county, finds the agency is seriously understaffed, poorly trained and unresponsive to the people it is intended to serve

Summaries of the report, prepared by Community Services Network of Michigan, were presented to the county board of commissioners at the end of the Sept. 26 meeting. Board Chairman Shirley Roloff told the board that if they had questions about the report they could raise them at a future meeting with the Commission on Aging board.

Connie Saltonstall, the only Commission on Aging board member to attend last Wednesday's meeting, cautioned the county board that they had not received the complete report.

The new report, undertaken at the request of the Commission on Aging board by the Community Services Network of Michigan, finds that the agency is seriously short-staffed in both administrative and direct care areas, and that staff needs more training and better supervision.

In a list of key findings, the report also said there are only seven or eight full-time equivalent direct care workers to serve the county's 6,000 seniors, which comprise 21 percent of the county's population.

"Of the 6,000 seniors, 2,174 are older than 75 and 632 are over the age of 85. The Alzheimer's Association reports that 18 percent of people between 75 and 84, and 50 percent of those over 85, have some type of dementia, which means they and their caregivers need services and assistance," the report states.

It also concludes that the senior population and general public do not know about Commission on Aging services.

"Too few homebound seniors receive services due to short staffing, poor intake process, an inability to meet eligibility requirements and lack of transportation," it states.

It states that although there were "shining stars" of good work done by the Commission on Aging, "For the most part there was knowledge by the board of directors about these areas of concern, in particular, the large fund balance, the strained relationship with one of the senior centers and the idea there might be need for more service."

And, it said, "There was minimal pre-discussion by staff or board about dissatisfaction with the level and quality of services. Therefore, the very poor rating of client satisfaction report was distressing news."

"The Commission on Aging has an opportunity to increase the level of service, implement new programs and services, or realign the way in which services are delivered after considering the voices of the seniors and other service providers who participated in this important project.

"This document will service as a planning tool so the Commission on Aging board of directors will be able to make informed decisions about the program they offer."

In a press release, Commission on Aging director Sue Bergmann briefly restated the findings of the assessment and said short-term and long-term "action plans" to respond to the findings are being developed and will be made public when they are completed.

"The results have yielded significant opportunities for improving the COA's current services and for adding to COA offerings," the release states.

The county voted to establish a senior citizen millage in 2000, which was renewed in 2004 and will be up for renewal in 2008. County equalization director Tom Wolf said county taxpayers will be assessed .3853 mills this winter for the millage, which is expected to raise $765,482.

The Commission on Aging board of directors, which is responsible to the county board of commissioners, has been the fiduciary of senior millage funds since 2000. It is responsible for

New state law changes driver's ed curriculum

Secretary of State Terri Lynn Land recently announced that new driver education curriculum, testing and instructor-training requirements are being implemented to better prepare teens for the road.

The number of 16 and 17-year-old Michigan drivers involved in fatal crashes dropped from 80 in 2004 to 51 in 2006, yet they are disproportionately involved in crashes compared to other age groups. Young drivers are at higher risk primarily due to their failure to appropriately recognize hazards, control the vehicle and manage speed or spacing on the road.

"The most dangerous time for 16 and 17 year olds is the first six months that they drive unsupervised," Land said. "Michigan is the only state in the nation to offer two segments of driver education with a three-tiered graduated licensing system to help teens become more comfortable behind the wheel. Research has shown that Michigan's Graduated Driver Licensing system has had a significant impact on reducing crash rates among young teen drivers.

"We're continuing to build upon those successes with these latest changes, which will ensure that our driver education teachers are prepared with the most up-to-date curriculum and testing strategies available. By placing more emphasis on the development of critical driving skills, we are helping our children become safer, more responsible drivers."

A coalition of driver education stakeholders, under the direction of the Department of State, met in 2005 to review and evaluate Michigan's driver education program. The 94 recommendations that resulted from the Driver Education Advisory Committee's work formed the foundation of the Driver Education Provider and Instructor Act, which took effect Oct. 1, 2006.

The new law stipulates that the state use a model curriculum. The American Driver and Traffic Safety Education Association's nationally recognized curriculum was chosen as Michigan's prescribed curriculum which focuses on developing skills most critical to safe driving in situations where young drivers are at highest risk. AAA Michigan provided the $50,000 needed to purchase the curriculum, which is now ready for distribution to each of the state's driver education providers.

To ensure that driver education courses are taught consistently throughout the state, about 2,000 certified instructors must be trained in how to use the new curriculum. Half-day workshops will be presented around the state beginning this month.

The new law also requires students to pass a knowledge test during Segment 2 of driver education. Currently, a knowledge test is only required in Segment 1. The knowledge tests for both segments will be computer generated to improve the integrity of the testing system.

Michigan has about 420 certified driver education providers that offer driver education for teens under age 18, with public schools comprising about half of them. More than 100,000 students enroll each year in Segments 1 and 2.

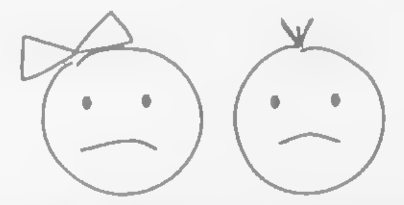
Land stressed that even with the improvements to driver education, the most potent force for safety in a young driver's life remains his or her parents. To assist parents, the department provides a sample driving contract on its Web site at www.Michigan.gov/sos that may be used to define a teen's responsibilities and privileges when driving.



Bad Parents!

PROBLEM: Teen drivers

Being the parent of a teenage driver can be stressful, here are some tips for steering teens in the right direction.

As parents, the last place we want to be is riding shotgun the first time our children are behind the wheel but that might be the best place for us.

A Young Drivers Study released in spring 2006 by the BCAA Traffic Safety Foundation indicates that car crashes involving young drivers can be reduced by up to one-third when parents take an active role in their teenager's driving education.

Lead by example, if parents don't want teens to speed they should back off the accelerator themselves and if drinking and driving is a concern, the beverage cup shouldn't ever hold brew.

Aside from the importance of being a positive role model, parents should also consider setting some guidelines.

A sample driving contract is available at www.Michigan.gov/sos. It may be used to define a teen's responsibilities and privileges when driving.

And if all else fails, there's always the invisible fence. GPS technology like Skyguard is becoming widely available to allow parents to remotely track their driving age children's movements. These services allow parents to get electronic notices via their wireless phones or over e-mail if their teen has driven out of a prescribed area or exceeded the speed limit — and parents can use the technology to automatically disable a vehicle's ignition or unlock doors.

Parenting month library events and book picks

EVENTS

October is parenting month at the Charlevoix Public Library.

The annual parenting series will be held at 6:30 p.m. on three consecutive Tuesdays beginning Oct. 9. The first session will be "Learn how to scrapbook," just in time for the upcoming holiday photos. Erica Stuck, Creative Memories consultant, will demonstrate how to turn loose photos into a beautiful scrapbook.

On Oct. 16, Shannon Smith, Char-Em Intermediate School District, will be teaching the importance of using finger plays and rhymes with your baby at "What happened to Mother Goose?"

On Oct. 23 "Healthy snacks & child nutrition" will be the topic de jour. Diane Rellinger, Michigan State University Extension Office, will teach parents about creating healthy, kid friendly snacks, dealing with fussy eaters, and how tao ensure your children are receiving the proper nutrition.

The library is also providing a venue for car seat safety checks. Safety technicians from AAA will be on hand at the library to check the safety of your car seats and how they are installed as well as the safe securing of your child. The safety clinic will be from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6. To make an appointment, call (231) 237-7350.

All parenting programs are free and will be held in the Youth Activity Center of the Charlevoix Public Library, located at 220 West Clinton St. in downtown Charlevoix.

For more information, call the youth services desk at the library (231) 237-7350.

BOOK PICKS

Elizabeth Pantley, "The No-Cry Discipline Solution"

Parents

The author is a parent of four and knows the challenges, frustrations and joys of child rearing. The discipline strategy presented is based on the idea that parents know their children best. The book gives parents the communication tools they need to stop bad behavior in its tracks and ways to figure out what triggers the child to act out. The focus is on love and nurturing, rather than more punitive discipline strategies.

Candice M. Kelsey, "Generation MySpace: Helping Your Teen Survive Online Adolescence"

If you have a teen at home that spends time online, you may be wondering what they are doing and why it is so important to them. This book explains "social networking" and gives an excellent description of the most popular sites. You'll learn what draws teens to the sites, how they set up profiles, and some of the pros and cons. Parents will get information on how to avoid cyber-bullying and other dangers. But most importantly, the author gives tips on how to talk to teens about their online activity and ways to help them play it safe.

City Council denies street name change

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Charlevoix City Council members unanimously shot down a request from residents to change the name of East Hurlbut Avenue to Belvedere Bluff Avenue.

At a public hearing on Monday, Oct. 1, council heard arguments from East Hurlbut Avenue resident Bob Heath who cited delivery problems and a safety concern related to house numbers on both sides of East Hurlbut being identical.

The majority of the homes on the north side of the street currently have Belvedere Avenue addresses while three have East Hurlbut addresses. All of the homes have driveways on East Hurlbut.

Heath said his proposal to renumber the homes and change the street name would be a compromise to a unique circumstance.

"An anomaly needs a common sense approach. I think it's achievable and I would love the opportunity to do this," Heath told council.

But Heath's argument was trumped by city fire chief Paul Ivan who told council that after meeting for two hours with a safety committee made up of city staff, area emergency responders and representatives from Cheboygan-Charlevoix-Emmet counties Central Dispatch, the situation is better left alone.

Ivan said if the name change was approved it would be a two-block exception to the city's grid numbering system.

"Could we teach first responders to do that? Yeah. But from a public safety standpoint it's not in the best interest of the community," Ivan said. "It's making an anomaly that we know and making it even bigger."

First Ward councilman Lyle Gennett further argued that a decision like this could set a precedent and other city homeowners would likely petition council for a street name change.

"If we do it for one, what about the rest of us," he said. "I'm sorry, I know you've (Heath) gone through a lot of work. But I'm looking at what's best for this community."

Other street residents, including Walt Hufford, Ann Gorney, Jill Picha, Ron Bindi and Leslie Cunningham spoke in opposition to the change.

"I really don't want to have to change my address. It's a big problem and there's no good reason for it," Hufford said.

Council ultimately agreed and while a change to Belvedere Bluff Avenue was quashed, residents of that street may still see an address change.

After council returned from a closed session discussion regarding a property acquisition, Gennett said the right thing to do in this situation is to have property owners on the north side of the street with Belvedere Avenue addresses transferred to East Hurlbut addresses. He requested this be on a future city council agenda.

"It will come back again because we are not dealing with the real issue which is the north side of East Hurlbut," Third Ward council member, Shirley Gibson, said.

Kristen Beach's second-grade class welcomed Ron Svoboda, a retired Department of Natural Resources officer, to dissect a lake trout. Svoboda showed the students much of what they have learned about fish, including many internal organs. The students also got a "mini" DNR lesson about what to look for in Lake Michigan fish to know if they were planted or were born naturally. Students also got to touch and untangle a real gill net.

Input sought to plan regional trail system

The Northwest Michigan Council of Governments is implementing the Northwest Michigan Regional Non-Motorized Transportation Plan and Investment Strategy.

This project is creating a comprehensive, regional non-motorized transportation strategy for Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Lake, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Missaukee, Osceola and Wexford counties. The development of a comprehensive plan and the identification of priority projects within this area will help guide the Michigan Department of Transportation's investment in the region's non-motorized transportation system.

Staff have completed exploratory meetings with local elected and appointed officials from the governmental units in the 13-county area on proposed trails in their counties. Meetings were held regionally with non-profit organizations and many others who manage or have an interest in regional non-motorized transportation and recreation infrastructure to review the proposed trails and make any suggestions.

The public is invited to give their input on the compiled, proposed trails at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 10 at the City of Boyne City Hall meeting room. The county maps with the proposed trails will be available for review.

For more information, call Patty O'Donnell, regional planner with the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments at (231) 929-5039.

Young hunters bag big bucks at youth hunt

Hunters ages 10 to 16 participated in a statewide special youth hunt Sept. 22-23.

A properly licensed youth was allowed to take one deer during this two-day hunt.

This is the eighth year for the youth-only hunt in Michigan. During the first youth hunt in 2000 an estimated 14,000 youths participated. Last year approximately 30,000 youngsters participated in the youth firearm deer season, harvesting over 9,500 deer, which is about two percent of the total 2006 white-tailed deer harvest.

Youth-only hunts have been established across the U.S. in recent years in response to concerns about the declining trend nationally in licensed hunters. Such hunts are an opportunity to provide beginning hunters with training and mentoring, helping them develop interest, skills and firearm safety awareness.

"Mentoring is a vital component of the youth hunting program," said Department of Natural Resources director Rebecca Humphries. "This special weekend hunt provides mentors the opportunity to teach, share experiences, and help them instill in our young people a respect for animals and their habitat."

Hunters age 12 to 16 are required to possess a firearm or combination license and may use a firearm or archery equipment to take a deer. Youths age 12 and 13 are restricted to firearm hunting on private land only. Young hunters, age 10 and 11, are restricted to using archery equipment and must possess a combination license to take a buck in the weekend hunt.

All young hunters participating in this special hunt are required to be accompanied by an adult at least 18 years of age. The accompanying adult does not need a deer hunting license and is prohibited from carrying a firearm or bow during the special youth firearm deer season. Hunters may not use bait during this season.

Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra concert season opens Oct. 6

The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra (GLCO) will open its 2007-2008 season with its October Strings concerts featuring the Symphony #88 in G major, by Franz Joseph Haydn and the Symphony in C, by Georges Bizet.

Paul Sonner is the concert master of the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra. He and 40 other Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra musicians from across northern Michigan will perform at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6 at the First Presbyterian Church of Harbor Springs and again at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 7 in the performing arts center at Boyne City High School.

"This is a happy concert," said maestro Matthew Hazelwood, the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra's newly appointed music director and conductor. "The music is beautiful, spiritual and wonderfully uplifting."

Hazelwood is music director emeritus at the Battle Creek Symphony Orchestra. He currently conducts the Interlochen Arts Academy's Youth Orchestra and serves as a frequent guest conductor with symphony orchestras in Columbia, South America and at Oxford, England.

Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra concert master, Paul Sonner, is also on staff at Interlochen. He serves as the concert master of the Traverse Symphony Orchestra as well.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $8 for students and will be available at the door or in advance at the Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey.

Friends host Oct. 5 screening of 'The Hollywood Librarian'

THE HOLLYWOOD LIBRARIAN
A LOOK AT LIBRARIANS THROUGH FILM

The Charlevoix Public Library is proud to present "The Hollywood Librarian: A Look at Librarians through Film," the first full-length documentary film to focus on the work and lives of librarians.

A screening will take place at 7 p.m. on Oct. 5 at the library, located at 220 West Clinton St.

This American film contains hundreds of examples of librarians and libraries on screen. Dozens of interviews of real librarians will be interwoven with movie clips of cinematic librarians and serve as transitions between the themes of censorship, intellectual freedom, children and librarians, pay equity and funding issues, and the value of reading. "The Hollywood Librarian" is a blend of film clips, humor and critical analysis of the popular image of librarians.

One of only two showings in the state of Michigan, Charlevoix Library is excited to bring this first of its kind documentary to the public. The screening will take place in the library's new community meeting room and popcorn will be served.

Friends of the Library will be hosting the screening as a fund-raiser for future projects. Tickets will be sold at the door and are $8 for those 12 and up, $5 for ages 5-12 and seniors, young children and library employees are admitted free.

For more information, call (231) 237-7340.

What? Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will present a screening of "The Hollywood Librarian: A Look at Librarians through Film."

When? 2 p.m. on Sept. 30 and 7 p.m. on Oct. 5

How much? Tickets will be sold at the door and are $8 for those 12 and up, $5 for ages 5-12 and seniors, young children and library employees are admitted free.

Beaver Island Boodle and Bite events are on Oct. 6

The Beaver Island Boodle 5K starts at 10 a.m. on Oct. 6. An entry form can be obtained from the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce office at (231) 448-2505 or by e-mail request at chamber@esyip.net. For more information, call Boodle organizers Gail and Mike Weede at (231) 448-3195 or (231) 448-2708.

The Bite of Beaver Island will follow at Holy Cross Church Hall. For more information, call Kathy Speck at (231) 448-2711.

Costume fund-raiser to benefit Charlevoix Children's House

Fright Night at the Castle, a fundraiser for adults which will benefit Charlevoix Children's House, the local Montessori preschool and kindergarten, will take place from 6:30 to 11 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 19 at Castle Farms.

The costume party will include a buffet dinner catered by Grey Gables, a cash bar and music provided by A+ Digital DJ. A silent auction will be offered featuring gift certificates, candles, overnight stays and more.

Costumes are encouraged but not required. Best dressed prizes will be awarded.

Tickets are $30 per person or $50 per couple and are available at the Charlevoix Courier, located at 112 Mason St.

For more information or to purchase tickets, call (231) 547-6558.

LexaLite sells to ALP Lighting Components

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

According to William Brown, president and CEO of ALP Lighting Components Inc., the uncertainty felt by LexaLite employees will soon be a thing of the past.

After two changes in ownership in the past 10 years, Brown said the third will stick. On June 18, Brown purchased LexaLite, the Charlevoix-based plastic injection molding manufacturer and its sisters Genesta and Plastics Specialties Inc. (PSI) the three of which fall under the umbrella of Spectrus Inc. from Habasit Holding AG, a privately held Swiss company.

He said the sign that will soon be placed outside the 13-acre LexaLite manufacturing plant off U.S. 31 will say it all, "Room for further expansion."

"We will put that there so people will know we are here to stay. We didn't buy it to bury it we bought it to grow it," Brown said.

He said the only jobs that will be eliminated are those that overlap including some accounting positions. However, he said plant workers are not expected to be let go.

"I only speak for myself with regard to morale: I have unbounded enthusiasm for the new ownership. This is dramatically better for LexaLite than being part of a public company," said Tom Barnes, vice-president and business manager of plastic optical products for Spectrus Inc. "Being part of a public company, you have different priorities. In a public company you respond to the whims of the marketplace."

"We've got people dedicated to lighting and people who are going to make decisions for the long-term interests of their customers and employees," Barnes said. "In a public company, you may do what is in the best interest of shareholders."

LexaLite operates two manufacturing facilities in town, the first is the aforementioned site on the highway, the second is on Taylor Road in the city's industrial park where Genesta's product line was moved to from Guelph, Ontario, Canada in 2006. The move brought 20 new jobs to Charlevoix.

The acquisition brings ALP's total employee roster to 1,300 people.

"With any integration we hope to avoid duplication. We are lucky in this acquisition. Unlike others in the past, we didn't purchase bricks and mortar, we got real value from the human capital Spectrus brought to the picture. We value that very much," Brown said. "There's uncertainty whenever you have a new owner. People feel they've been taken advantage of for the last two years. But we own the property and the buildings, we have a commitment to Charlevoix. We are hoping to rejuvenate the entire operation."

"There's a lot of work to be done. And we have the resources to put the company back on the map."

Aside from the existing human capital, Brown is bringing back Charlevoix resident Josh Barnes, a LexaLite founder who faded out of the picture once Summa Industries purchased the company in 1996.

"Josh Barnes is one of the foremost optical engineers in the country and he had been disengaged. We are bringing him back as a consultant to the company and I'm so thrilled about it," Brown said.

Barnes is thrilled as well and said the purchase by ALP is just what the doctor ordered for Charlevoix.

"I don't think it's any secret I wasn't happy after we were acquired by Summa. They (ALP) are lighting people, they know lighting," Barnes said. "We'll be expanding rather than eliminating."

ALP is a lighting components company that supplies to indoor and outdoor lighting original equipment manufacturers worldwide.

"This (the Spectrus purchase) adds a new dimension to us. We were mostly fluorescent. This gives us HID and compact fluorescent access. Its an interesting marriage," Brown said.

According to an ALP press release aside from increasing the company's product-line, the addition of Spectrus also brings on board engineering and design capabilities as well as manufacturing capacity in injection molding, thermoforming, vacuum forning and other plastics operations.

Spectrus currently operates plants in Charlevoix, Olive Branch, Miss., and Dickson, Tenn.

For more information, visit www.alplighting.com or www.spectrusinc.com.

What does Spectrus do? LexaLite is best known for its precision injection molded refractors and reflectors for indoor and outdoor area and roadway applications, in addition to being a trusted source of high quality proprietary molding The PSI and Genesta product ranges are derived from extrusion and thermoforming operations, consisting of prismatic sheet, profiles, puffs, dishes and squares

What does ALP do? From the industry s most comprehensive line of plastic and metal parabolic louvers, baffles and reflectors, to a broad range of wiring devices, vapor-proof enclosures and unwired fixture bodies, ALP is committed to providing quality and creative lighting products ALP which has its headquarters in Niles Ill has manufacturing plants in the U S and Mexico, and distribution center's strategically located throughout the U S , Europe, Latin America and South America.

LexaLite's ownership history

1959 Original trade name, LexaLite, established by Josh Barnes and Stan Lundsten.

1963 The Oak Park-based company incorporated and later moved to Southfield

1965 Built Charlevoix plant with five owners of St. Clair Plastics, Barnes and Lundsten. Several plant expansions followed.

1996 Summa Industries buys LexaLite. Shortly thereafter, Summa purchased Plastics Specialties Inc. (PSI) and Genesta, two companies also involved in the plastics lighting industry.

2001 LexaLite, PSI and Genesta merge into Spectrus Inc.

2006 Habasit Holding AG, a privately held Swiss company, buys Summa Industries

On June 18, ALP Lighting Components Inc. purchased LexaLite and its sisters Genesta and Plastics Specialties Inc. (PSI) the three of which fall under the umbrella of Spectrus Inc. from Habasit Holding AG. ALP executives have said this purchase will bring an end to ownership shifts that have caused uncertainty among employees. This sign has been placed outside the 13-acre LexaLite manufacturing plant off U.S. 31.

Rayders trounced by Elks at homecoming game

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Despite a strong start on Friday, Sept. 28, the Charlevoix Rayders lost to Elk Rapids 48-15.

Charlevoix made the first touchdown of the game with a five-yard pass from quarterback Cliff Jones to Jon Putman, but the Elks made too many big plays leaving the score at 28-7 at half-time.

"We weren't able to shut down their passing game," said Rayder varsity coach, Don Jess. "I thought our defense improved this week against the run, but their long pass plays hurt us."

Charlevoix's second touchdown came on a four-yard run by Nate Golovich and Jones passed to Putman for the two point conversion.

Jones was 15 for 27 yards passing for 138 yards.

Drew Largent and Golovich led the defense with six tackles each.

The Rayders are now 1-5 overall and 1-3 in the regular season.

"Now we'll focus on Kalkaska," Jess said. "We expect a tough game out of them this Friday."

The Rayders will meet Kalkaska at 7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 5 in Kalkaska.

Rayders take third at Suttons Bay Invitational

Charlevoix took third place at the Suttons Bay Invitational on Sept. 29 following wins against Harbor Springs and Grayling.

Charlevoix came out strong in the Suttons Bay Tournament taking first place in pool play with a 5-1 record. They went into power pool play where they placed third to move on to the quarterfinals where they beat Mesick 21-9, 21-11. They earned a spot in the semi-finals but were unable to pull out the win, finishing third overall.

"The girls played well — our main focus is going to be staying consistent. Right now that is our main struggle. We are not playing our best at key and critical moments. We will get it worked out," head coach, Liz Grunch said.

Tammy Potter earned team MVP and Murphy Gillespie earned tournament MVP. Gillespie had 55 kills, 47 digs, was 90 percent serve receive, with six aces. Potter had 38 kills, six blocks. Desi Faust had 34 kills, nine aces, 38 digs, 91 percent serve receive; Aubrey Way had six kills, 26 digs, six aces, 112 assists; Shauna Spencley had 13 digs, 11 kills; Michelle Burke had 44 digs; and Lauren Mielke had 33 digs.

This third place finish followed a Rayder victory in a tri match-up with Grayling and Harbor Springs.

Charlevoix beat Grayling 25-18, 25-10 and 25-13. The Rayders also beat the Rams with scores of 25-13, 25-15 and 25-22.

Rayder volleyball team's overall record is 32-7-8. Their next game is at 6 p.m. on Oct. 4 against Traverse City St. Francis at Charlevoix High School.

Bill Taylor named to CMU Hall of Fame

Bill Taylor

Charlevoix High School graduate Bill Taylor will be inducted into the Central Michigan University Athletics Hall of Fame at a banquet to take place at 6 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 12 at the Comfort Inn Conference Center in Mount Pleasant.

Six new members will be inducted including Bill Taylor who competed in men's track and field and cross country from 1987-1989. He was an All-American in the 5000 meter and still holds the school record in the event with a time of 13.48.50. Taylor was the MAC cross country individual champion in 1988 and won the MAC 5000 meter title in 1989. He won every cross country meet he competed in during the 1988 season except for the national meet.

Other inductees are Leonard Drake (men's basketball, 1974-77); Brock Gutierrez (football, 1993-95); Angie (Henderson) Montroy (volleyball, 1982-85), Dick Kirchner (wrestling coach, 1957-64); and Betsy Yonkman (women's basketball, 1983-86).

The inductees will also be honored at halftime of the Central Michigan University-Army football game on Saturday, Oct. 13. Kickoff is scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

The banquet cost is $40 per person. Tickets can be purchased at the Central Michigan University Athletics Ticket Office in Rose Arena or by calling 1-888-FIRE-UP2.

Celebrate the fall harvest Oct. 7 at Camp Daggett

Courtesy photo

Camp Daggett's Fall Festival on Oct. 7 will include tons of festive events like pumpkin painting.

What? Camp Daggett Fall Festival will feature hay rides, history tours, color tours on the lake, face painting, pumpkin painting, crafts, caramel apple dipping and more.

When? Noon to 5 p.m. on Oct. 7

Camp Daggett will host a Fall Festival from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 7 in celebration of another successful summer camp and to show appreciation for the support the camp's received over the past 82 years.

Children of all ages will enjoy hay rides, history tours, color tours on the lake, face painting, pumpkin painting, crafts, caramel apple dipping and more.

The camp's climbing walls will also be open for the day. S'mores around the campfire and live entertainment will also be offered.

From the days of tent camping with outhouses and no electricity, Camp Daggett has now come to encompass a lakefront winterized lodge with 12 camper cabins, a nature study building, recreation hall, showers, a commercial kitchen, a state-of-the-art indoor adventure education center and year-round programs.

For more information, call (231) 347-9742 or visit www.campdaggett.com.

Fabulous fall weather

Warm fall weather has made for perfect outdoor recreation opportunities. Here husband and wife cyclists Chris and Joan Carson suit up in the parking lot of Shanahan field for an afternoon ride down the Little Traverse Wheelway which runs from Charlevoix to Petoskey. Tomorrow, Thursday, is expected to be sunny and in the low 70s with rain forecast for the weekend.

Great Michigan Read comes to Charlevoix Public Library

In conjunction with Great Michigan Read, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 22, Charlevoix Public Library will present the movie, "Up North with the Hemingways," followed by a community discussion of Ernest Hemingway's "The Nick Adams Stories," moderated by library assistant, Judith Ivan.

The Great Michigan READ promotes literary reading to create an educated and engaged society as readers are introduced or reacquainted with a classic piece of American literature. This year's selection is "The Nick Adams Stories" which chronicles a young man's coming of age in a series of linked short stories, most of which are set in Michigan.

Seven cousins continued a waterskiing family tradition on Friday, Aug. 31 when they skied together on Lake Charlevoix. They had their own waterskiing show as their families gathered for Labor Day. Water skiing has long been an important sport for this family. A father of one of the children used to ski barefoot for the Star of Charlevoix at age 12. A grandfather skied in state competition as well as instructed skiing as a college student. The cousins are Alexandra Lee 12, Heather Lee 11, Chase Lee 8, Kelsy Schultz 11, Will Schultz 10, Carlee McCardel 10 and Dylan McCardel 6.

PUBLIC NOTICE

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. It is government's responsibility to publish and deliver public notice information as it becomes available. So take notice. Your right to know is being served... right here in your newspaper.

OCT. 6 JONATHAN RAND: CHILLERS AUTHOR

At 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6, Jonathan Rand, author of the Michigan and American Chillers series will be at Charlevoix Public Library.

Fans are encouraged to come early or stay after his presentation for a book signing opportunity. Books will be available for purchase as well.

"He is a little wild, crazy and a bit scary — but that's why we love him," stated youth assistant, Jolene Fowler.

Rand is the popular children's book author who jumped into the writer's world at age seven and has been writing ever since.

He says he loves to write scary books because "We all like to be frightened for the thrill of it, but also, at the same time, we want to know that we're safe. Books allow you to do that."

For more information, contact the youth services desk at (231) 237-7350.

Charlevoix Area Hospital and Charlevoix Area Zonta Club will host The Big Squeeze, a breast health program from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 8 at Charlevoix Public Library.

The theme for this event is "Early detection is the best prevention," which coincides with Breast Cancer Awareness month in October. Educational information in the areas of nutrition, the importance of breast self exams, screening and diagnostic testing, current prevention guidelines and financial options will be presented by area professionals and breast cancer survivors.

This is a free event and healthy snacks will be provided.

For more information, call Charlevoix Area Hospital's Community Health Education Coordinator at (231) 547-8906.
